Other Meetings

December and January are months of stock-taking by agricultural commodity groups and other rural organizations.

Additional dates are: Jersey Breeders' executive Tuesday Dec. 9; Eastern Ontario Hereford breeders Friday, Dec. 12, at 8 p.m.

Saturady afternoon this week, Peterborough Holstein Club is called for 1:30 p.m. and that evening at 8 p.m. Peterborough Milk Producers are holding their annual session.

E. C. J. Allday, of Peterborough, Northamptonshire, England, has probably travelled extensively through agricultural territory in the Central States since completing his assignment as judge of Dual Purpose Shorthorn cattle at the Royal Winter Fair.

And, before sailing for home, his journeying will take him into upstate New York with diversion into New England if the expiry date of his ticket permits.

That was the intimation of Joseph Fox, of St. John, Kansas, himself a milking Shorthorn breeder, who was bent on requiting in full measure the hospitality he had enjoyed at the Allday farm in Northants, eight miles from the city of Peterborough, England.

The itinerary Mr. Fox had outlined for his guest left no blank date for a visit to this Ontario Peterborough. He had been waiting for this unexpected opportunity of fulfilling an unexpected role of host to an Englishman "who in his modest and kindly way just couldn't do enough for me when I happened to call at his place a few years ago."

INVITED BY MAYOR

When Mr. Allday registered at the Royal York Hotel for his engagement at the big Canadian livestock show he received in the mail which had preceded him a letter from Mayor Hugh Waddell inviting him to Peterborough. But, Mr. Fox was there in person with an [illegible]ic schedule of travel south o[illegible] border for Mr. Allday's ap[illegible]val, and with memories of an account in welcome and hospitality which he was going to do his best to repay, and then some, if possible.

At the hotel that Friday morning, a room clerk reported Mr. Allday "checked out" after breakfast. That information appeared to cancel the prospect of an interview with the English farmer. His name was pencilled off the list, but the trail of Mr. Allday was picked up again before noon at the Winter Fair.

JUDGING LAST CLASS

The Examiner met P. J. (Joe) Sullivan, of Maple Inn Farms, Otonabee, along the Dual Shorthorn cattle row at the Fair where he had an exhibit. To a casual question assuming completion of the judging of that breed, he replied that "they're just finishing the last class."

In the ring, then almost deserted, a tall young Englishman, John N. Harris, of London, livestock editor of "Farmer and Stock Breeder," London, pointed out E. C. J. Allday in conversation with Charles W. Thorne, of Galt, president of the Ontario Shorthorn Association.

When the name Allday was mentioned, a third man nearby plainly became interested, and as the conversation with Mr. Harris lapsed, he asked: "Where did you say you were from?"

"Peterborough," was the Examiner's answer. "Our Mayor has invited him to visit him because Mr. Allday is from Peterborough in England."

The third man was Mr. Fox, who incidentally limned the Allday personality with frank admiration.

"I guess I'll have to disappoint you people in Peterborough," he said. "I realy hope you will explain to your Mayor how it is that Mr. Allday can't accept the invitation to visit your town. He's coming with me, and we're leaving here just as soon as he is ready, and that won't be more than an hour, I think."

LIKE SAME BREED

There was nothing voluble or effusive about Mr. Fox of St. John, Kansas, but while waiting for his friend, the judge of the cattle in which they were both interested, he said in a confidential tone: "This man is one in a thousand. I got around to his place because I have a herd of milking Shorthorn, most of them imported."

Mr. Fox said he had made a tour of Britain because its farmers had developed both beef and dairy cattle. "I don't need to mention a lot of other livestock that trace to that country."

"Mr. Allday is not a big operator. You know the kind. We have them in the States, and so have you here. But, he is a progressive sound farmer, and he has a wide reputation in milking Shorthorns. I know one thing about him, he's honest as the sun. And when I find an honest man, and a kindly gentleman like Allday, I want to do something about it.

MEET AGAIN AT ROYAL

"Besides, he is a farmer like myself, and we have a lot of things in common. We talk the same language when we get around to milking Shorthorns. Really, I had a most enjoyable visit at his place, a fine property. It seemed he couldn't do too much to make my stay pleasant. When I was leaving him, you know how you'd feel, I realized the Atlantic was between us. Anyway, I told him that if he ever came to the United States, I wanted him to come down into my country with me. Then, I heard he was booked to judge at your Royal Winter Fair, and here I am."

That was a kind of briefing for the personality of E. C. J. Allday, whom Mayor Waddell would have been delighted to meet and introduce to citizens. Mr. Allday eventually arrived at the centre of the ring, and confirmed his engagement with Joseph Fox.

GRATEFUL TO MAYOR

"Please tell Mayor Waddel the circumstances, and thank him for his invitation. Of course, I shall mention it to the Mayor in Peterborough, England, and the others who have been over here, including our Member of Parliament, Mr. Nicholls."

The Examiner suggested that maybe he might call on his return east, but Mr. Fox said: "No, I have him until I see him off at the boat. I expect we'll have some time at New York, and we'll look around upstate. I hope Mr. Allday will want to stay as long as his ticket allows."

Of the Winter Fair, Mr. Allday said it was "excellent in every respect. Wonderful accommodation. The Dual Purpose Shorthorns were a nice show in themselves. Tops were very good. They compare well with ours. Perhaps our type is a little more mixed. We are due for lunch with directors, and then I am leaving with Mr. Fox. I have had a very pleasant time here at the Fair."

Of the Dual Purpose Shorthorns Mr. Allday used much the same words as Edmund Ruth, of Emily township, last summer: "I have found them good revenue producers in both good times and bad. They produce milk and meat, and are always dependable. They should keep any farmer going no matter what the times are."

EVEN TO OKLAHOMA

As to the visiting in store for Mr. Allday, his host said: "We are going down through Winsconsin, and of course into my own state of Kansas, and I think Mr. Allday will like to see something of Oklahoma. That's quite a bit of country, and then New York."

Off they went with Mr. Thorne, to the directors' luncheon, two mild-mannered farmers, American and English, with a fine respect for each other, and convinced of a practical value of their breed, the Dual Purpose Shorthorn cow.

As to Mr. Fox, he dispersed a herd by auction early in 1931, kept a few, and now is building up another on foundation stock of 30 head at present, "all imported from England, except two."

Price Support Can Give Market Stability

Springville Forum this week met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Melville Johnston, with 21 present, and Rev. A. C. Larke discussion leader. Summary of their discussion follows on the topic of farm prices and the open market.

"As was pointed out by our guest speaker, Ken Best, assistant agricultural representative, and our chairman, Rev. Mr. Larke, many good points can be said in favor of the open market, e.g., 'Supports are only to prevent catastrophe"; 'Controls to be effective must control acreage and crops sold.'" However, the general feeling was that it is essential in the interests of agriculture as an industry that farm prices should be supported as long as support is assured industry and manufactures — but only to the point where stability is reached in farm produce.

As to the consumer benefits: "By support of farm prices, the consumer can be assured of steady supplies at a fair price. The farmer is himself an important consumer as well as producer, and profits accordingly."

As to the factor of efficiency in relation to supports . . . "It was a delicate subject as to who comprised the efficient farmers, but general opinion was that all farmers in certain circumstances do require price supports as a guarantee to both themselves and the consumer . . . . . One of Mr. Best's comments on subject of controls was: "We deplore such controlled economy, but have to have some assurance of living . . . . . Supports are required ni case of dire necessity."

Mrs. George Whitfield was secretary of that Forum.

AT MAPLE ROW

Some of their opinions were: Until such time as farmers are really organized, we cannot leave them to the open market.

"We feel the consumer benefits as well as the producer in a farm price support program. If there hadn't been price supports during the foot-and-mouth crisis, the consumer would have benefitted by lower prices of farm products, but on the other hand, the farmer's buying power would have been curtailed by low income, and thus the consumer's hours of pay would have been shorter.

"Efficient farmers do not require price supports if all farmers were organized and produced their special kind of farm products on an even yearly program, and not over-produce one year when prices were low. We feel prices would be stable if production remained the same each year."

AT CENTRAL SMITH

Fifteen attended Central Smith Forum at the home of Rev. William Leaton. Roland Scott was discussion leader and Ferd Rowland was secretary.

Summary: "Farm prices should not be left to the open market. Prices should be or can be controlled by floor prices, quotas, etc. Food prices or fair prices are necessary to maintain purchasing power in our communities . . . . The consumer does benefit from price support by having a stable price from one season to another, which keeps prices in a much narrower margin . . . . The efficient farmer requires price support if he is to maintain his land and buildings and his purchasing power. No farmer, however efficient, can control outbreaks of disease or drought which affect our prices."

22 AT WESTWOOD

Bruce Graham was leader at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Pulfer. Opinion was divided: Nine in favor of price supports, six opposed. Some of those voting in favor did so, not because they believe in the practice, but at the present time it provides the most security for the greatest number . . . . Price supports benefit the consumer more than the producer, was the Westwood opinion. And . . . . "The most efficient farmers do not need price supports."

AT BEAVER FORUM

Beaver group of 10 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Geisel, Smith Township, affirmed that with no control over production, prices fluctuate, companies stock up at the low price levels and sell out at much higher prices.

It was felt that price support was a guarantee of steady work to consumers. When prices are too low, farmers cannot continue to buy machinery and other needs. Again, under low prices, farmers cannot maintain unprofitable production, and resulting scarcity leads to high prices for the consumer.

COLDSPRINGS FORUM

At the home of Mrs. Jean Tully, Coldsprings Forum agreed that farm prices should not be left to the open market, because it was most desirable for farmers to know what prices to expect. "But, we do not agree with price supports or subsidies. Some other arrangement should be made to guarantee farmers adequate remuneration for work and produce."

Israel President

QUEBEC (CP)—C. E. Israel of Woodstock, Ont., Thursday was elected president of the Canadian Warm Air Heating and Air Conditioning Association, succeeding H. T. Williams of Toronto. F. A. Sheldon, Preston, Ont., was elected vice-president at the association's annual meeting.

In the auction of steers shown in the Queen's Guineas competition for 4-H Club boys and girls at the Royal Winter Fair, John DeNure's Aberdeen-Angus, which placed in the second prize group, sold for 43c a pound. Neal Whitfield of North Monaghan received 42c a pound for his Shorthorn which was one of animals selected for the first prize group. Robert Moloney of Ennismore drew 34c a pound for his Shorthorn. The champion was a Hereford shown by William Dunbar of Guelph. It sold at $2 a pound, and his first prize was $250. Record price since this feature was instituted seven years ago at the Royal, was $10.50 a pound to Kenneth McKinnon of Wellington county in 1947. Mr. De Nure is shown with his Angus entry in this competition, on the road that winds through a hardwood bush on the farm of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. De Nure. It lies immediately west of Kawartha Golf and Country Club, overlooking a wide sweep of suburban Peterborough.

"Lawk A Mercy On Me . . ."

With the approach of Christmas and its spirit of goodwill, it behooves one to make any necessary remonstrance by indirection and the devious approach.

So with some relevance to a recent burlesque, and not an unkindly one, on these weekly notes about rural affairs, one may refer to the effect of the handiwork of a funny fellow of the nursery rhymes. His name was Stout, a pedlar and practical joker.

Incidentally, the nursery rhymes appear to have been reduced in circulation to a museum piece. At least they have been elbowed by commercial improvement upon the verse of folk lore, without which Christmas not so long ago would have been considered incomplete, from the shelves of stores where you would expect still to find them. And the substitutes are dull stuff.

No Victor Herbert will ever compose about them such a charming and tuneful operetta as his "Babes in Toyland" with its tribute to innocence in such principals as Bo-Peep, Little Boy Blue, Jack Horner and various other immortals from that nostalgic cast.

Walking the King's Highway one market day, he came upon an old woman who, tiring in her journey, set down her egg basket and fell asleep beside it.

That was too strong a temptation for Stout, the chapman and comic. He fetched a scissors from his wares and cut the old woman's petticoats all round about at the knees. When she awakened and stooped over to pick up her basket, she suddenly notice a skirt so abbreviated that she couldn't recognize the two strange legs as her very own.

In her confusion and dismay, she finally bethought herself of home and of her dog that knew even her footsteps, and always ran to meet her. Therein would be reassuring test of her identity, legs or no legs. And so, home by the low road and deserted lanes.

He began to bark, and she began to cry;
"Lawk a mercy on me, this is none of I"

Would Limit Drinking

OSHAWA (CP)—Oshawa Presbytery of the United Church of Canada passed a resolution Thursday asking the CBC to keep television program drinking scenes down to a reasonable proportion. The resolution is a substitute for one passed recently calling for a complete ban of drinking scenes on TV.

BUILD UP DRY COWS
for strong calves . . . for heavy milking!
Your dry cow is doing a big, two-fold job . . . : 1. Building a calf . . . 2. Conditioning her body for her next lactation.
Unless you feed her properly when she's dry, she'll rob her own body of hard-to-replace nutrients to build her calf. Actually, she's robbing you of valuable milk later on!
That's why so many dairymen now build up their dry cows with vitamin-rich Ful-O-Pep Fitting Ration. It's a specially built body-conditioning ration . . . enriched with Concentrated Spring Range and a special mineral fortification . . . including all the essential trace minerals dry cows need. And cows find this bulky, nutritious ration very palatable and easy to digest.

Higher Standard Not Numbers University Aim

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Dr. W.A. Mackintosh, principal of Queen's University, Kingston, says chief concern of the university is to maintain a high standard rather than increase the enrolment to "unwieldy size."

Addressing the annual reunion of the Windsor branch of Queen's University Alumni Association, he said Thursday night the university is in "reasonable health" and its few "minor ills right now are not likely to become chronic."

Registration is slightly up over last year at a time when other universities are reporting declines, he said.

WAN TBETTER TYPE

"We are definitely not interested in obtaining an unmanageable number of students. Rather, we are interested in attracting the best type of student. Queen's is not, has never been and never will be a place where one can acquire a comfortable, easy-going education."

In an address Wednesday before a service club at nearby Leamington, he said a bridge must be stretched across the chasm between sterling area countries and the rest of the world if the North Atlantic Pact is to become a reality.

Sees Production Doubling In Dominion

MONTREAL (CP)—A high-ranking federal economist predicts that Canada's national production may more than double in the next 25 years, climbing to $60,000,000,000 by 1977.

Dr. O. J. Firestone, the trade department's economic adviser, also predicted Thursday night that Canada's population, currently about 14,100,000, likely will rise to more than 23,000,000 in the next quarter century.

Dr. Firestone painted a picture of a strong economy, built on expanding consumer purchasing power, bigger exports and increased investments in the Canadian economy. The nature of Canada's growth holds a lesson for Canadian business men, he observed in a speech prepared for the Engineering Institute of Canada.

He noted that in spite of a major world depression in the 1930s, Canada in the last quarter century has expanded her aluminum production by 23 times; her zinc, 4½ times; nickel and copper, four times; asbestos, 3½.

Oil production has jumped from almost nothing to more than 48,000,000 barrels and her iron ore production to more than 4,500,000 tons.

Memorial Arena Board Re-appointed For '53

MILLBROOK (ENS)—The board of Millbrook-Cavan Memorial Arena was re-appointed this week, but a chairman has yet to be named. The two council representatives are appointed for one year, the others for two years.

Council members on the board are Reeve Dr. J. W. Wright, and councillor Weldon Coulter. Henry Raper represents the Canadian Legion, Harry Kennedy the junior farmers, Dick Hutchison the school board, H. McDowell, director of the athletic association, and Percy Hamilton the Lions Club.

Books of the arena show that its bank balance amounts to $1,226.31.

Accounts passed by council amounted to $6,091.71. Major items included $3,568.25 for the 1952 United Counties levy, $1,008.34 for the balance of the Durham county high school grant, $117.44 for hydro, $309 for the library grant, and $113.25 for printing.

Helps Emergency

VANCOUVER (CP)—Prefabricated plywood schoolhouses are being used to meet the increase in school-age population. More than 20 portable structures of one or two rooms have been shipped to scattered districts of B.C. They can be set up by a four-man crew in 24 hours.

Gifts To Korea

TORONTO (CP)—The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire has shipped 1,000 individual Christmas gift parcels to Canadians serving in Korea. The boxes contain such items as playing cards, games, puzzles, cigarets, dried fruits, nuts, candy and biscuits, with some personal items like combs, pens and harmonicas.

Precious Bible

ROULEAU, Sask. (CP)—Calvin Blue some day will inherit an antique Bible now owned by his father, Roscoe Blue, '69. The Bible was purchased by the Blue family in Scotland in 1552 and has been handed down from father to son ever since.

POINTERS FOR THE PONTIFF—Pope Pius XII asks a little visitor about her "service stripes" during an audience granted to a party of U.S. servicemen and their families, stationed at Trieste. The group visited the Pontiff's summer residence at Castelgandolfo, in Italy, not long before Pope Pius returned to the Vatican.

George Horton Leads Marmora Boys' Lodge

MARMORA (ENS).— Marmora Juvenile Boys' Orange Lodge No. 34 held its annual election in the Orange Hall on Wednesday evening, with Guardian W. J. Cottrell presiding. Those elected were:

Installation of the newly elected officers followed. One new member was initiated in course of the evening. Assistant Guardian Frank Cole acted as Marshal.

German Diplomatic Corps Hopes Pasts To Be Forgotten

By JOHN EARLE

BONN (Reuters)—Officials in West Germany's diplomatic corps are hoping that their Nazi pasts will be forgotten now that the whole issue has been aired in Parliament.

But indications are that the controversy over their records will not die so easily.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, who is also foreign minister, has appealed for "an end to the Nazi witch-hunting" which had dogged the ministry since it was formed in March, 1951. He said that continued controversy would harm West Germany's reputation abroad, as well as make it more difficult to attract the right type men to the foreign service.

The service is still being built up. So far, it has 17 embassies, nine legations, three diplomatic missions, 12 consulates general and six consulates.

DEMAND INVESTIGATION

Despite Adenauer's plea, the Social Democratic opposition party has declared that it will call for an impartial investigation into the foreign service by legal experts, and a new law dealing with foreign service officials.

A special parliamentary committee, which had spent a year investigating the officials' past, unanimously answered "yes" to one of the questions it was given to investigate:

"Does or did the foreign service, particularly the foreign office, employ persons whose behavior during the Nazi misrule was such as in the future to endanger confidence at home and abroad in the democratic development of the Federal German Republic?"

Adenauer has admitted that about two-thirds of the senior officials in the foreign service had been members of the Nazi party.

Want Clean-up Of Two Areas

LONDON (CP)—Robert Allan, Conservative member of Parliament, has called for a clean-up of what he calls London's two black spots—Hyde Park and the Paddington area.

In the grassy acres of Hyde Park, Allan told a service club (Rotary) there was behaviour unmatched in "even the most primitive and savage society."

He said it was impossible to take any respectable person through the park without feeling a sense of shame.

"We are all men and women of the world, and I do not suppose any of us believe that prostitution can be entirely stamped out," he added. "There can, however, be no one who does not condemn the way this practice is flaunted today."

OTTAWA (CP)—Thirty-five persons were made homeless Thursday night in a two-alarm fire that swept the interior of a three-storey frame building in lowertown Ottawa. Everyone in the building escaped.

Won't Penalize Corporation Under New Tax Agreement

OTTAWA (CP)—Revenue Minister McCann says steps have been taken to see that Ontario corporations are not penalized as a result of Ontario's entry into a tax-rental agreement with the federal government.

The agreement, signed Oct. 29, was made retroactive to Jan. 1 last.

Prior to the agreement, Ontario corporations paid a tax of 54 per cent on profits. Seven per cent of the tax was imposed by Ontario. The corporations were allowed by the federal government to claim a deduction of five per cent from the federal tax because of their payments to the provinces.

MANY UNDERLINGS

Dr. McCann said Thursday that as a result of the new agreement with Ontario, the corporations may have underpaid the federal tax in instalment payments.

An order-in-council has been passed making it clear the corporations will not be charged interest on the amount of their under payments if they correct the situation prior to the end of the year.

Under the agreement, similar to those signed by all provinces except Quebec, Ontario gave the federal government almost exclusive use of the personal income and corporation tax fields. In return, the province receives federal payments based on population and the value of gross national production.

Seek Higher Wage

TORONTO (CP)—The Teamsters Union (AFL) Thursday served demands on the Automotive Transport Association of Ontario for a series of wage increases—20 cents an hour for city drivers, 30 cents an hour for mechanics and one-cent a mile for highway drivers. The union represents about 6,000 trucking industry employees in the province. Present rates are $1.23 an hour for city drivers, $1.42 for mechanics and five cents a mile for highway drivers.

Dr. Jordan Says

Babies Thrive On Physical Sign Of Parental Love, Affection

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

There is practically nothing so bound up with tradition and prejudice as the care of babies. Anyone and everyone offers free advice on how the baby should be fed, clothed and how it should be trained.

Most of this advice is worth what is paid for it—exactly nothing. It is given with the best intentions, but usually comes from a strange mixture of what grandmother did, or what somebody's neighbor or aunt said.

A few years ago the late Dr. C. Anderson Aldrich and Mrs. Aldrich wrote a book called "Babies Are Human Beings," which I hope is still in print. The main theme is that babies should not all be treated alike, because their individual personalities would have little chance to develop.

As the Aldriches point out, babies are different even at birth; in a hospital nursery for newborns a great difference between one baby and another in appearance and behavior can be noticed. Every parent instinctively recognizes that her baby is "different".

One question which the Aldriches discuss is about fondling or loving babies. Conscientious mothers often ask whether fondling is proper. For some reason they sometimes feel that it may be wrong for babies to be rocked, hugged or mothered, and that the infant in order to be healthy must be raised as practically "untouched by human hands".

It is not good, of course, for a baby to have indiscriminate fondling by friends and relatives. Like everything else, this matter can be overdone. The more people who come in close contact with the baby the greater the chance of giving the infant some infection. To feel that a mother and father should not give the infant physical affection, however, is to inflict unintended cruelty.

GO EASY ON INFANT

Everyone thrives on some affection and probably infants most of all. Of course, it is good to fondle babies—good for the baby and good for the parents. This does not mean bouncing a baby around roughly or exposing it to colds or other infections.

Two principles should govern treat a baby as you would like to be treated if you were young and helpless; and remember that signs of affection are appreciated even before a child can talk. The rewards of proper handling in infancy will be reaped when the child gets older.

FRANCE RETAINS SAAR BASTION—Typical of factories in the tiny but mighty Saar region is the "Neukirchen Eisenwerke," a steel works at Saabrucken, where workers joined in voting against the coal-rich region's return to Germany. Despite a pro-German campaign urging a boycott of the balloting, 93 per cent of the voters turned out to give Johannes Hoffman's pro-French Christian People's Party a big victory in the parliamentary election, which was really the climax of the French-German struggle for the territory sandwiched between the two countries.

Noronic Hearing Adjourned Indefinitely

DETROIT (CP) — Hearings of claims filed by residents of the Detroit area in connection with the cruiser Noronic fire in Toronto Harbor three years ago were adjourned indefinitely.

Ralph Vince, federal claims commissioner, will reopen hearings in Cleveland early next year and it is expected he will return here next spring to wind up Detroit hearings.

Seven-year-old Pamela Kolodsick Thursday described how her father carried her from the flaming ship in which 119 persons died.

Pamela said her father, Howard G. Kolodsick, wrapped her in his topcoat and carried her to safety as "flames were flying all around."

Mr. Kolodsick, his wife and Pamela seek damages of more than $96,000 for injuries and loss of personal effects.

Mr. Vince said hearing of all 585 claims, totalling $19,000,000, will not be completed until late next year.

Canada Steamship Lines' offer of $2,151,000 has been accepted to cover damages and Vince is to decide how it will be divided among the claimants.

Australia Pushes Ahead Her Outpost Defence Plan

By LOUIS L. LECK
Canadian Press Correspondent

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—Australia is pushing ahead with her Pacific outposts as part of a plan aimed mainly at a potential enemy submarine threat to her communications.

Before leaving for a visit to the northern and western defences, William McMahon, air and navy minister, said the government has brought the target date for completing the Manus air and navy base forward to 1954 instead of 1956 as previously planned.

Manus, one of the Admiralty Islands, just north of New Guinea, became a huge United States naval base late in the war after the Japanese invaders had been driven off. After the war the Americans negotiated with the then Australian government to keep control of the base but protracted talks finally broke down. The Americans sold most of the equipment remaining to the Chinese Nationalists and the jungle soon overran what was left.

Service chiefs say that Australia's war plan for her outer defences includes long-range anti-submarine aircraft to carry out a pattern of watching and searching (some of them neptune bombers recently bought from the United States), aircraft carriers and specially-equipped destroyers and frigates.

TWO BIG BASES

Two of the main bases will be Manus in the north and Cocos Island in the Indian ocean to the west. Australian Air Force construction companies now are leaving Cocos after building giant runways and other facilities, and Qantas airliners on the new South African service are using the island.

Many of these engineers are on their way to Manus to speed up the airfields there. Navy men are building docks and repair workshops.

Mr. McMahon said Manus would also be a training centre for navy and air force units to experience the conditions they would have to face if there were a war.

Seven Names On Casualty List

OTTAWA (CP)—A Korean casualty list included two men killed in action and five men wounded in action.

All were members of the 3rd battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry which went into the lines Nov. 19.

The Army list issued Thursday brought to 1,245 total casualties so far suffered by Canadian troops in Korea, including 233 dead, 899 wounded, 28 missing, 84 injured in action and one captured.

The navy has reported three dead and three injured in action.

Among those wounded in action the list named:

Reject Indian Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Foreign Minister Y. T. Pyun announced Thursday that the South Korean government cannot accept the Indian compromise plan on Korea approved by the United Nations assembly. Pyun said a communication to L. B. Pearson, president of the UN assembly, will state his government's rejection of the Indian plan.

Four Escape Jail

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP)—Four men broke out of the provincial jail here Thursday by sawing through bars on a lavatory window. RCMP and city police threw up road blocks around Prince George, 400 miles north of Vancouver. The four escapees are Lorne McQuarrie, Douglas Johnson Terence Talbot and Conley Hall.

Form Lutheran Council Foster Co-operation

WINNIPEG (CP)—Formation of the Canadian Lutheran Council to foster co-operation in some phases of the church's work was announced following a meeting here of delegates from six Lutheran bodies.

A council statement Thursday night said that while church ministry is a cross-section of Canadian life, the council sprang from the following racial backgrounds: Danish, Finnish, German, Icelandic, Swedish and Norwegian.

Rev. Dr. Mars A. Dale of Saskatoon was elected president

The statement said the gathering resulted from efforts dating back to a free conference of all Lutheran groups in Saskatoon in 1944 under the commission of American missions of the National Lutheran Council (U.S.).

Lund Changes Roles, Tries Western

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—John Lund came crashing into a frontier saloon with his pistol shooting flame. Five other characters were firing back at him and he finally slumped to the floor, a goner.

This was Lund's stirring death scene for a western called "The Woman They Almost Lynched." A far cry from the Lund of yore. In the earlier part of his film career, he was more noted for tossing off witticisms in comedies.

"I used to be known as an indoor actor," he remarked. "Now I'm getting a reputation as an outdoor actor. I must admit that it's been quite an awakening for me. The first time I ever fired a pistol was yesterday."

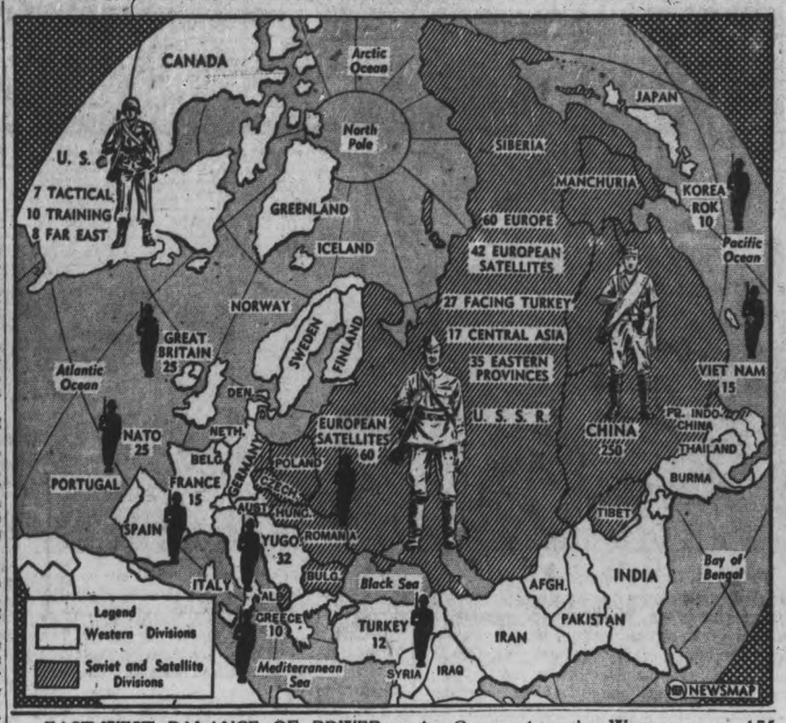
NOW WHY THEY'RE GRIM

"Now I know why all western heroes have that same grim look. That's because they're flinching from the sound of gunfire."

Lund has had a wide experience since leaving Paramount. He has portrayed a rodeo star, a cavalry officer, a steel worker, a plumber and a spy.

"It's an entirely different world," he commented. "Before, I was identified with more or less high comedies like 'Miss Tatlock's Millions' and 'A Foreign Affair.' The audiences who go for pictures like those don't see the kind of pictures I have been making recently. And the fans of outdoor pictures don't see the other kind."

Capsule Review: "Face to Face" is a good coupling of two short features. The first is a period piece about a new captain (James Mason) of a sailing vessel. The Joseph Conrad story tells how the captain finds himself by helping a runaway sailor. The second tale concerns the death of the old west. The sheriff (Robert Preston) brings his bride to town and quells an over-age desperado. It is a delightful bit of comedy-drama.



EAST-WEST BALANCE OF POWER COMPARED—According to experts of the U.S. State Department, the leaders of the Kremlin and the Soviet satellites have stationed about 491 division of troops in Asia and Europe, which form a potential menace to the free world. As opposed to the Communists, the West can put 175 divisions in the field. Militarily this presents a dark picture, but the odds are made more nearly even by the productive genius of the Allied powers. Above Newsmap shows how the two camps are lined up, and indicates the troop concentration in each country.

Big Army Units To Have Home Station

OTTAWA (CP)—The army is aiming to provide every major unit with a home station of its own, preferably near the bright city lights.

The long-range problem of getting enough accommodation to catch up with the post-Korea expansion is described authoritatively as the No. 1 army issue of the moment.

Taking the hypothetical view that Korea is going to go on, that the Atlantic Pact commitment will continue, that manpower will be somewhere between 50,000 and 60,000 for some years, headquarters has drafted a plan to house the army that faces this situation.

It is likely to mean an extension of the system under which Calgary, for instance, is the home base of the 1st battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. Edmonton is one city expected to have a unit based close by. There are likely to be others.

Smaller Prisons Would Aid In Curbing Prison Riots

TORONTO (CP)—The head of prisons for women in the United Kingdom says she believes prison riots in the United States and Canada would disappear if prisons were smaller and prisoners were segregated.

Miss N. Nellanby, one of England's five prison commissioners and the only woman in the group, is studying Canadian reform institutions on her trip to Canada. She said in an interview here that "small prisons eliminate trouble."

In smaller institutions, she said, "the men are under closer observation and guards are able to spot easily any would-be trouble-makers."

The largest British prison, Wandsworth in London, holds 1,400 men and "is much too large," she said. The average however is less than 400.

"The riots in Canada and the U.S. this last year can definitely be traced to the size of the jails and overcrowding," she said. "When you get more than 1,000 men in one prison, it is bound eventually to lead to trouble."

Miss Nellanby has had 17 years of prison work, and she says there hasn't been a prison riot in the United Kingdom for years.

"All new prisons in England are designed to hold 350 at the most," she said.

She emphasized the importance of keeping prisoners segregated. Hardened criminals, murderers and sex perverts should be kept from other prisoners.

Family United

Prisoner Files Damage Suit Against 2 Judges

DETROIT (CP)—Herman Faubert, 45, a native of Riverside near Windsor, Ont., and one of the most colorful prisoners at Jackson state prison, has filed a suit for $144,100 damages against Michigan's attorney-general, Frank G. Millard, two judges, a lawyer and a court clerk.

Faubert charges the five conspired to keep him in prison.

Judge John V. Brennan, one of those named in the suit, sentenced Faubert to life in 1936 after the latter pleaded guilty to killing a gasoline station attendant.

In 1948 Faubert was granted a new trial and was again sentenced to life.

Scarcely able to read when he entered prison, he has become an ardent student of law and always acts in his own defence in court. He has made four unsuccessful petitions for a new trial.

Ore Deposits Near Ungava

QUEBEC (CP)—Cyrus Eaton, Cleveland industrialist, announces discovery of "very large" tonnages of iron ore near Ungava Bay, more than 1,000 miles north of Quebec City.

Mr. Eaton said Thursday night in a speech prepared for a joint meeting of the Quebec Chamber of Commerce, Junior Chamber and Junior Board of Trade that the discovery was made by Canadian geologists hired by himself and a group of associates.

The deposits of iron ore, of medium and lower grades are so located that water transportation to Europe would be the logical route for them to follow to market, he said.

In an interview before the speech, Mr. Eaton said the find of "almost unlimited tonnage" was near the western shore of Ungava Bay in the Hope's Advance Bay and Payne river areas. The iron ore is on the surface and easily mined, he said.

Executives Honor Departing Constable

APSLEY (ENS) —On Monday evening the executive of the Community Centre with the wives held a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Wilson. The occasion being a "farewell" to OPP Bert Howden and Mrs. Howden. The evening was enjoyably spent playing cards.

Mr. Wilson on behalf of those present thanked "Bert" for the interest he had shown in the sports for the young people and for his assistance in these sports and the planning and starting of the large new arena. Mr. Clarence McCormack presented OPP Howden with a leather club bag and Mrs. Stewart Brown presented a fitted travelling case to Mrs. Howden. Both replied expressing regret at leaving a village where they and their little boy, David, and girl, Betty Ann, had been made to feel so welcome and where they had enjoyed the years they had spent here. Lunch was served by the ladies.

Gibson, Cowan To Lecture

Leonard Gibson Cowan, author of the recent best seller "The Log of the Pelican" British journalist, lecturer and radio commentator, will speak to the Jewish community of Peterborough in the Synagogue Community Hall on Sunday night.

Mr. Gibson Cowan was staff correspondent for Reuters news agency during the Palestine war, was for a time Captain of King Farouk's yacht, and has spent over ten years in the Middle East. He has recently returned from a nine month survey of the Arab countries for the London Sunday Times and is at present on a speaking tour of Canada and the United States on behalf of the United Jewish Appeal.

On the same program will be Miss Varda Hall, Swiss concert and radio star. Miss Hall will sing a number of Hebrew folk songs collected during her European tour, and including some songs taken down from the Yemenite Jews during their exodus from Southern Arabia on what is now known as "Operation Magic Carpet".

TORONTO (CP) — Two men Thursday night robbed Donald Pratt, 36, a department store truck driver, of $207. Platt said he was about to enter his truck when one of the men hit him in the face and ordered him into the back. The other man drove. Later they tied him with string, took the money and fled.

Loneliest Lifer Weds Widow New Friend

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Ernest Lindquist, 63-year-old man once known as the Iowa state penitentiary's "loneliest lifer," was married Thursday to the 68-year-old widow who befriended him.

Lindquist was paroled last April after serving 42 years of a life term for slaying a policeman. He got the "loneliest lifer" tag after news stories disclosed he had received no mail in prison for 30 years.

Mrs. Jackson read about it, sent him letters and gifts and finally went to see him. Then romance bloomed.

Gives Phony Cheque Man Held In Store

DETROIT (CP) — Byron Williams, 25, was arrested Wednesday after he attempted to purchase a $50 overcoat with a cheque police said was phony. Later he told police he has been absent without leave from the RCAF base in Clinton, Ont., since Oct. 14.

His wife, Dorothy, was charged with being an accomplice. Police said they found three books of blank cheques in her purse.

A department store cashier called a store detective when he noticed Williams' cheque did not carry an account number.

Appointed President

Lawyer Accident Victim

DUTTON (CP)—William D. Roberts, 42-year-old St. Thomas lawyer, was killed Thursday night when his car ran off Highway No. 3 and crashed into a culvert about a mile east of Wallacetown. The car spun into a water-filled ditch landing upside down. Coroner Dr. M. G. Graham, Dutton, attributed death to a fractured skull and multiple chest injuries.

Dogs Attack Sheep

BRAMPTON (CP)—A pack of five marauding dogs Wednesday night attacked a flock of 33 registered sheep on the farm of William Armstrong, nine miles northeast of here. Mr. Armstrong said he killed one of the dogs with a .22 rifle but the others got away. "Only one ram and three ewes were untouched by the dogs," he said. "The rest will have to be destroyed they were so badly injured."

Soviets Demand Deserter Be Returned

BERLIN (AP) — The Soviets Wednesday demanded the return of a Russian deserter to the west and the Americans promptly countered with a request to interview an American soldier the Reds say has gone over to them.

Sergei Dengin, chief Soviet representative in Berlin, demanded that the U. S. immediately return Russian Pte. Alexander Kulikov, who entered West Berlin last Thursday and asked "political asylum." Dengin charged the Americans were trying to "make him turn traitor to his country."

Maj.-Gen. Lmuel B. Mathewson, the U.S. commandant here, replied in a letter that Kulikov was a legitimate political refugee and suggested that the Russians come interview him and see for themselves.

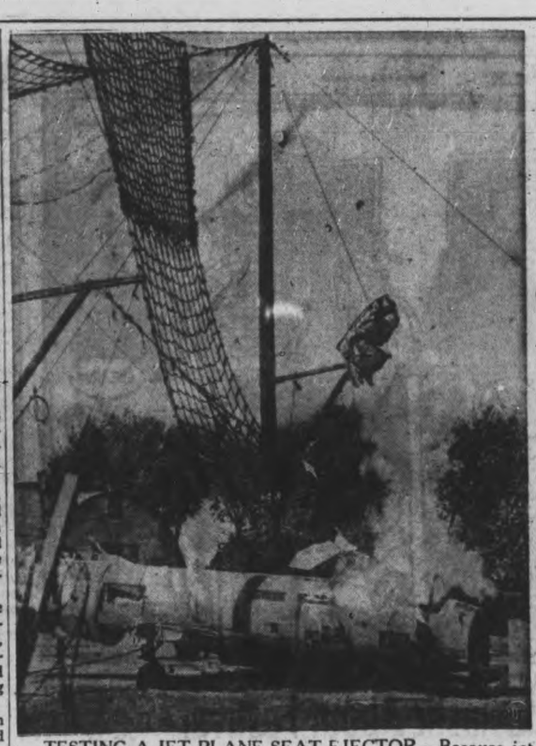
Mathewson added he would be "gratified" for the same opportunity to interview Pte. Carl T. Blake, an American soldier. The Communists earlier this week said he had deserted to the Red zone, fleeing "American imperialism."

Kulikov came into the American sector last Thursday night and fired a tommy-gun into the air to get arrested.

Big Apartment House Planned In Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—A combination apartment house and commercial block to cost "well in excess of $10,000,000," is planned for midtown Toronto, Mayor Allan Lamport says.

Mr. Lamport, meeting with prospective backers of the scheme in New York, said in a telephone interview Thursday the project is "further than the planning stage. It's now a case of raising money."



TESTING A JET PLANE SEAT EJECTOR—Because jet pilots have been unable to jettison their canopies to operate their ejection seats, the Bureau of Aeronautics in Philadelphia, Pa., is conducting tests to see if it is feasible to fire the pilot through the plexiglass canopy. TRENT RIVER (ENS) — The Havelock Women's Institute were hostesses Monday afternoon to the Belmont and Trent River branches of the WI when the main item on the program was the showing of the film, "The Royal Tour," by the Rev. R. D. Duncanson.

A report of the convention held in Toronto last month was given by the delegate, Mrs. R. Brown. The president, Mrs. H. Pollock, presided.

Tea hour hostesses were Mrs. Pollock, Mrs. H. W. Roche, Mrs. H. Thompson, Mrs. F. McKenzie.

Trenton Steel Workers Return To Making Shells

TRENTON, N.S. (CP)—Trenton steel workers, one of three steel fabricating companies in this Pictou county industrial area, has returned to its traditional wartime operation—manufacturing shells.

Some 375 workers turn out a two-shift total of 1,000 shells of 90 millimetres daily from one of the most modern production lines on the continent.

The plant began manufacturing projectiles last September. They are being sold to both the Canadian and United States governments.

The plant here turns out the part of the shell to be filled with exploves. The shell case and fuses are added elsewhere. Eventually the projectiles will be used by tanks and anti-aircraft guns.

IN TWO WARS

Shells for Allied armies were turned out here during both world wars. In the Second World War two types were manufactured, one for army use, the other for the navy.

Plant officials hope to boost shell production from the present 1,000-a-day figure. Steel billets are being forged at the rate of 1,400 a day and officials say the finishing process should soon catch up with the forgings.

The shell plant is but one phase in the triple-headed operation of Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Co. Ltd., the subsidiary holding company of Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation.

This Trenton-New Glasgow area is the oldest heavy manufacturing district in Canada. The country's first steel was produced here in 1882 from iron ore and coal dug in Pictou county.

MOVED TO SYDNEY

At the turn of the century, the basic steel industry moved to Sydney after the depletion of the Pictou county ore and discoveries of new deposits at Wabana, Nfld. But the fabrication part of the steel industry continued. Today, third generation Scots-Canadians ply the same steel-working trades as their forbears.

The other Dosco-owned plants are Eastern Car Co. Ltd. and Trenton Industries Ltd. Eastern Car turns out 20 gondola cars daily for Canada's railways. Trenton Industries Ltd.—basically a machine shop operation—manufactures the Dosco continuous miner, a mechanized behemoth that chews coal out of a mine face at the rate of eight tons a minute.

Civil Servant Writes History For Europeans

By BERTRAND THIBAULT

QUEBEC (CP)—The newest book written about Canada for foreign—and especially European—readers has come from the pen of Jean Bruchesi, 51-year-old Quebec historian and civil servant.

Mr. Bruchesi was commissioned to write "Le Canada" by publisher Fernand Nathan of Paris, for the collection "Merveilles de France et du Monde." ("Wonders of France and of the World.")

The author, who is provincial under-secretary of Quebec province and a member of many cultural societies, jumped at the chance to help make Canada better known and loved by contributing a book to the de luxe collection.

WELL-KNOWN WRITER

Mr. Bruchesi had several historical works to recommend him for the job of writing the text and selecting the photographs for "Le Canada."

The University of British Columbia recently informed him it has selected his "Histoire du Canada" as required reading in one faculty.

A book on Canadian history, written especially for youngsters, "L'Epopee Canadienne," has been used for several years by French-speaking school children in British Columbia.

Mr. Bruchesi's office, with its Canadian paintings, Breton statuettes and piles of books, is far from a quiet retreat in which to write books.

At odd moments between his administrative duties, numerous trips and lectures at Marguerite Bourgeoys College for women in Montreal, he finds time to write and look up archives and other works on the country's history.

WELL ILLUSTRATED

"Le Canada" made heavy demands on its author. Apart from writing a 15,000-word review of leading political, religious and intellectual facts in Canadian history he selected 132 photographs, out of 800, showing various points of interest in the country.

"This book will be translated in several languages," he said. "It is the first of its kind to give an accurate idea of Canada's achievements, past and present."

Protest Sugar Imports

MITCHELL (CP)—Members of the Perth county federation of agriculture passed a resolution Thursday protesting the importation of cane sugar into Canada which, they said, was threatening prices of sugar beets in western Ontario. Another resolution asked the federal government to find a market for surplus farm products in undernourished countries. The federation returned all officers, including President Harold Peterson of Unro, for another year.

Charge Of Theft Of Cedar Trees Altered, Delayed

A charge of theft of trees, valued at more than $25, was reduced to a similar charge of theft of trees, shrubs and cedar branches valued at more than 25 cents by Magistrate W. R. Philp Thursday when the accused, Kenneth McClure, RR 2, Lakefield, appeared before him.

The first charge against McClure was laid by the crown when cedar trees and branches were allegedly cut on the property of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hamilton, Dummer Township, September 25.

The crown presented it case against McClure a week ago in a preliminary hearing to determine whether or not McClure would be committed for trial. Then Magistrate Philp reserved judgment until Thursday.

In reducing the charge the magistrate said in the crown's evidence there was nothing to link or involve McClure in the total value of all the trees and branches cut on the Hamilton property.

Mrs. Hamilton, who had been sitting at the back of the courtroom, came to the front, requesting the magistrate, Crown Attorney John Bradshaw and defence counsel, W. J. Arthur Fair, to speak louder. She said that they couldn't be heard.

Magistrate Philp, after Mrs. Hamilton was seated about 10 feet away from him, briefly and simply repeated his judgment, explaining each phase clearly for everyone to hear and understand.

Mr. Fair told the court that the defence was unprepared to proceed with the lesser charge and agreed to go on with the case on Monday.

Drives Into Train

SUNNYVALE, Calif. (AP)—A mother recently treated for a nervous condition drove her car in front of a speeding train Thursday. She and her three children were killed. Police, who found one note in Mrs. Sedora Wilson's purse and two more at her home, called it suicide. Killed with their 37-year-old mother were John, 10, Sedora, 9, and Cirica, 7.

Third Bus Victim Dies

NELSON, B.C. (CP) — Walter Payne of Wynndel, B.C., died in hospital Thursday, the third victim of a Greyhound bus crash on the shore of Kootenay Lake Tuesday. The bus plunged from the snow-sheathed highway into the lake. Eight others who were injured are reported in good condition.

Tyrone Guthrie Enthusiastic About Festival

MONTREAL (CP)—Tyrone Guthrie, noted British theatrical producer, said today a Stratford, Ont., Shakespeare festival scheduled for next July may be the birth of Canadian theatre on a large-scale basis.

Mr. Guthrie, who will produce the five-week festival and is in Canada to recruit a Canadian cast, said it is hoped Stratford will be established as a centre of Canadian theatre, comparable to its famed English namesake, Stratford-on-Avon.

He arrived here Thursday by air from Britain and will spend approximately two weeks in Canada before returning overseas. After three days in Montreal, Mr. Guthrie will travel to Ottawa Sunday to interview prospective players there. He will continue to Toronto and, if possible recruit also from Western Canadian cities.

In an interview, Mr. Guthrie pointed to a model of an Elizabethan stage with balconies and staircases.

"We now are constructing at Stratford what I think will be the first Elizabethan stage ever to be used in a large-scale theatrical production since the days of the Elizabethan theatre," he said.

"The stage will allow the audience to sit on three sides of the players and should re-establish the intimate relationship between actors and audience which has been lost since those early days."

Mr. Guthrie said Tanya Moiseiwitch, considered Britain's No. 1 theatrical designer, will design sets and costumes for the Stratford festival.

Tom Patterson, Stratford - born newspaper man who is organizing the festival, said it will be a "strictly non-profit" venture.

NOT MONEY MAKING

"Our whole feeling is against making the event a money-making tourist attraction. Our aim is to introduce good theatre to Canada in which Canadian talent can work under top world producers in their own country."

Mr. Guthrie said he would not necessarily "audition" Canadian players he will interview. "I do not believe one can tell the acting ability of a player by what he or she recites at auditions. Sometimes I can tell a lot more about them by just talking to them."

Asked if he considered the Canadian accent an impediment to an accurate production of Shakespeare, Mr. Guthrie replied: "I don't believe anywhere today you will find Shakespeare spoken as it was in the Elizabethan days. Why should we say an English accent of today is any more correct than a Canadian accent?"

Alec Guinness, British stage and screen star, has agreed to star in the Stratford production instead of accepting Broadway and Hollywood offers, the producer said.

OBITUARIES

JAMES GARRETT JARVIS

The oldest Indian in the Hiawatha Reserve on Rice Lake, James Garrett Jarvis, 93, died Thursday at the home of Samuel Parker, Hiawatha, following a lengthy illness.

A member of the Objibway Nation, Mr. Jarvis was known as Gi-Tow-I-Sik, which means Fair Weather. He was born in Hiawatha and has lived there all his life.

He leaves one daughter, Mrs. Thomas Parker, of Beaverton. Mr. Jarvis was married three times and his third wife predeceased him several years ago.

The funeral will be held Saturday at 2.30 p.m. from the Hiawatha United Church. Mr. H Malcolm of that church will conduct the service. Burial will be in Hiawatha cemetery.

MRS. ALBERT J. WHETUNG

LAKEFIELD (ENS) — After a short illness Mrs. Albert J. Whetung, a resident of Curve Lake for 51 years, died Thursday in Peterborough hospital. She was in her 72nd year.

Mrs. Whetung was the former Sarah Evelyn Franklin. She was born in Alderville, daughter of the late Robert Franklin and Esther Hill. She was educated in Alderville and lived there 20 years before moving to Curve Lake where she lived for 51 years.

Mrs. Wheutng leaves her husband, Albert J. Whetung; a son William S. Whetung of Lakefield; and a sister, Mrs. M. Marsden (Nellie) of Lakefield.

She was a member of Curve Lake United Church.

The body will rest at the Anderson funeral home, Lakefield, until 11 a.m. Sunday and then to Curve Lake United Church for service at 2 p.m. The Rev. W. B. Day of the Church on the Rock, Burleigh Falls, will officiate, assisted by Mr. Kenneth Stewart of Wesley United Church. Burial will be in Lakefield cemetery.

GRAND CHAMPION—Leader II, chosen Grand Champion Steer at Chicago's International Livestock Exposition, takes the honor without so much as an acknowledging bellow, but not so his herdsman, Dick Sauer, of Fostoria, Ohio. Dick waves his hat in glee as he learns that the 1,100-pound summer yearling, owned by Ohio State University, has won the award. It is the first time in five years that a Shorthorn steer has won the coveted honor.

$25,000 Bridge Opened At Cobourg

COBOURG (ENS) — The new $25,000 Factory Bridge at Cobourg was formally declared open on Thursday afternoon in a ceremony attended by Warden Harry Campbell and members of Northumberland and Durham Counties Council, Mayor Jack Burnet and Cobourg town council and officials from the Department of Highways.

The old bridge was taken into the counties road system in order that an 80 per cent bridge subsidy could be received on the new one.

Later it will revert to the town of Cobourg. J. D. Miller, deputy-minister of highways for Ontario, cut the ribbon to open the bridge.

Gift From Sea

SANDGATE, England (CP)—A seagull flying inland dropped a live fish on the doorstep of Mrs. H. Adams here. Sandgate is in Kent county on the Strait of Dover.

Oshawa Man, 23, Fined $300 On Driving Count

LINDSAY (ENS)—Judge J. A. McGibbon today gave 23-year-old Robert Gray of Oshawa three months' suspended sentence and a $300 fine after his conviction on a charge of dangerous driving.

A county court jury Thursday brought in a verdict of guilty.

The charge arose out of an accident last August in which 23-year-old John Knox, also of Oshawa, was fatally injured. The accident took place on the county road near Little Britain.

Judge McGibbon told Gray he could consider himself fortunate that he did not receive a more severe sentence. The judge said that a number of jurors had telephoned him overnight, explaining that they did not know they were able to attach to their verdict a rider asking for leniency.

Judge McGibbon reserved judgment after all the evidence was in Thursday.

Crown Counsel Lorne Jordan, QC, based his argument for conviction on the grounds that Gray had been travelling too fast at the time of the accident, and was negligent in not noticing a curve sign at the side of the road, more than 200 yards away from the scene of the mishap. Gray's car, it was shown, had failed to make a sharp curve at the top of a hill on the county road, south-west of Lindsay and had gone through an island at the junction of that road and a township road, snapping off two highway signs and rolling over on its top.

Knox had to be pried from jammed door of the car and was rushed to Ross Memorial Hospital, and from there to Toronto by ambulance. He died there. The three boys had been on their way to Haliburton for a week end holiday. Judge McGibbon in remarking on the jury's decision, said that no other verdict was possible. He commented that the boy had shown carelessness, should be protected against doing the same thing again and the public should be protected. Defence counsel Dave Thompson of Lindsay argued that the crown had shown only circumstantial evidence, but had not proved that there had been enough negligence to warrant a charge of dangerous driving.

Gray told the court that he had not noticed the curve sign, and had not seen a checkerboard marking the curve until he was only 60 feet from it. Provincial Constable Plumbtree of Lindsay, testified that the checkerboard was clearly visible for some 400 feet. After the verdict was brought in, counsel for the defence entered several character witnesses, including Gray's employer, who told the court the man was badly needed on a plumbing job he was doing on a new hospital. Judge McGibbon stated in making his decision to reserve sentence, that he could not, under the circumstance, make a hasty conclusion, since the boy had impressed him with his "honesty throughout the trial."

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Use Of Herbs Can Give Christmas Food New Touch

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Novel use of herbs may give Christmas dishes the different touch you're seeking this season.

Home economists of the consumer section, Canadian department of agriculture, have provided a brief dictionary of herbs, their taste, when they should be used.

Basil—Best for tomato dishes.

Rosemary — Pine-like flavor which may be added occasionally to potatoes, cauliflower or turnip as they are cooking.

Chervil—Has something of the flavor of a nasturtium leaf and is good with salads, soups, sauces and eggs.

The French "bouquet garni" really is three herbs in one. Three of four sprigs of parsley, the same of thyme and one bay leaf are put together and the "bouquet" with the thyme on the outside is tied with thread.

This often is added to soups and stews. The "bouquet" should not be left in soup or stew too long.

Mincemeat. Five cups seedless raisins; three cups currants; 1½ cups finely chopped candied peels and citron; three-quarters cup almonds blanched, coarsely chopped; 3½ cups shredded raw tart apple; 2½ cups finely chopped suet; 2½ cups lightly packed brown sugar; 1½ teaspoons salt; 2½ teaspoons ground cinnamon; 1½ teaspoons grated nutmeg; 1½ teaspoons ground ginger; one teaspoon cloves; one teaspoon ground, allspice; one cup grape juice; one-quarter cup lemon juice; one-quarter cup orange juice; one-quarter cup white vinegar.

Combine brown sugar, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg, ginger, cloves, all-spice. Add to fruit mixture and combine well.

Mix in grape, lemon and orange juices and vinegar. Combine thoroughly, then turn into sterilized jars and seal. Store in cool place. Yield: six to eight pies.

FOR THE GIRL on a winter vacation, these separates make the starting point for a wardrobe. Mock linen (left) in pale beige has graceful all-over fern print in deep blue. Top has neck with high scoop in front, low scoop in back. Polished embossed cotton makes halter top of raspberry pink (centre) worn with very full, lightweight seersucker skirt dotted with pink polka dots. Rosy red tissue-weight cotton is used (right) for four-square top and full skirt. Dots are of patent leather and are baked on so that fabric is completely washable. Other fabrics shown here will take to suds, too, and will iron easily.

Of Interest to Women

Elect Mrs. J. Thompson WA Head

HASTINGS (ENS)—The Women's Association held their quarterly meeting in the United Church. Mrs. J. G. Thompson acted as secretary in the absence of Mrs. H. Youngs. Kitchen facilities were discussed, improvements were suggested and a committee named to look after this: Mrs. C. Oliver, Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe, Mrs. J. H. Hess and Mrs. J. I. Thompson.

The Christmas cheer for shutins is to be convened by Mrs. Ethel German anl assisted by Mrs. J. H. Hess and Miss E. Breckenridge.

A donation of $5 is to be sent to the Canadian Instiute for the Blind.

The ladies voted the sum of $100 to the fund for a memorial window, inscription to read in memory of departed WA members.

Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe and her committee, Mrs. R. R. Burnham and Mrs. J. G. Thompson had their slate of officers ready for 1953. Mrs. Metcalfe presented the slate as follows: president, Mrs. J. G. Thompson; 1st vice-president, Mrs. C. Oliver; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. G. Rigby; 3rd vice-president Mrs. John Richardson; secretary, Mrs. Harvey Youngs; treasurer, Mrs. L. Humphries.

Mrs. Metcalfe moved that from year to year one member be dropped from the nominating committee and a new member added. The committee for nominations for 1954 will be Mrs. R. R. Burnham, Mrs. J. G. Thompson and Mrs. F. S. Crate.

The retiring president, Mrs. Crate, thanked the groups for the co-operation they had given her in the past year and wished the Association every success in 1953.

Mrs. C. Oliver had charge of the worship. The theme, "Self Discipline," was taken by Mrs. Oliver. Miss Kate German voiced the appreciation of the WA to the retiring president.

First Tea Successful

BRIDGENORTH (ENS) — The afternoon tea and bazaar held by the Bridgenorth Home and School Association at the YWCA in Peterborough was successful in every way. It was the first event of its kind attempted by the Bridgenorth ladies and proved to have been well prepared and carried out under the convenership of Mrs. A. Connors.

Receiving was Mrs. C. G. Collins, president of the Home and School Council, with Bridgenorth association president, Mrs. Ray Harding. Tea pourers were Mrs. Andrews and Miss Murphy of the teaching staff and Mrs. Alan Heideman and Mrs. L. M. Richardson.

McLarnon, 61 Chamberlain St. The Church Year group meeting was postponed to December 28 and will be held in the church with a carol service and refreshments afterward in the parish hall. The draw on a quilt on which tickets have been selling this fall was made by Mrs. A. Davis and he winner is Mrs. H. G. Kelsey. The officers of the club were re-elected for the coming year by acclamation. The evening was then closed with prayer by Mrs. Howell.

Fur Accessories Popular With Many Paris Designers

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters)—"With a fur coat and a black dress, a girl can go anywhere," a well-known novelist once wrote.

This man had mink primarily in mind, but Paris designers this season are producing many new trends, utilizing furs ranging from humble rabbit to the pastel minks.

Now, more than ever, fur is being treated exactly like fabric, with styling adapted to individual pelts.

Redingotes are also in the picture in flat furs—Persian lamb, broadtail, beaver and the leopard family.

Stoles also appear in long hair skins, including the new civet hat.

The jacket continues to be a basic standby, measuring anywhere from finger tip to bolero length.

The two-fur contrast is one of the really new effects in the winter picture. Handled in linings, borders and trimming, mixtures include Persian lamb or broadtail highlighted with pastel or white mink, leopard and beaver, or black seal trimmed with large barrelled cuffs of black fox.

In the utility group of hard-wearing, budget-priced furs, favorites include squirrel, muskrat (dyed to imitate many of its higher priced sisters) mouton (launched in a whole new color range), racoon, opposum, and Indian lamb.

Another Paris-endorsed idea is the fur accessory. Hats and matching muffs, removable gauntlet cuffs or fur-cuffed gloves, scarves and collar pieces may be adapted in almost every type of skin.

Paulette shows a tiny bonnet and perky ascot tie in the season's pet—ocelot. Lanvin exploits this effect in "fur jewelry" with mink tails or other bits and pieces, while together like a paper chain to form necklaces.

The corner stone of Holy Trinity at Quebec, oldest Anglican cathedral in Canada, was laid in 1800.

Quarterly Meeting Guide, Brownie Local Association

The Guide and Brownie Local Association meeting was held Wednesday evening in the Salvation Army hall with new chairman Mrs. Walter Perry in charge.

A report was given by the district commissioner, Mrs. J. R. Epping, of her attendance with some leaders to the Guider and Commissioner Training Course at Trenton in September. Fine reports were given of the activities of the Guide companies at Sacred Heart, St. Peter's, St. Alban's, Salvation Army and All Saints, and from the Brownie Packs at St. Andrew's, Salvation Army and St. Alban's.

It was decided that the local association, with the assistance of the Guide and Brownie Mothers' Auxiliaries, will hold a rummage sale, sometime after Easter, to raise funds for the LA treasury.

District Commissioner Mrs. Epping announced that Local Association members will probably be asked to assist at the Big Scout-Guide field day in Peterborough May 16, 1953.

The Uniform Exchange being held in St. Paul's Church basement the first Thursday afternoon of each month was explained to also include Guide and Brownie uniforms. This exchange is under the direction of Mrs. Gordon Minty, and Mrs. R. K. Irwin. These ladies may be contacted at any time for further information.

The next regular meeting of the Local Association will be held in the Salvation Army hall, Wednesday evening, March 4, 1953.

Legion Aux. Tea And Bazaar Very Successful

The Christmas tea and bazaar held by the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion on Thursday afternoon was very successful. More than 150 guests were welcomed by the president Mrs. Albert Mason and by president elect Mrs. George Stevens. Mrs. Robert Ritchie was taking the tickets.

A tea room decorated in the Christmas theme with wreaths of evergreen and colored lights contributed to the conviviality of the occasion. Quartette tables were set for greater convenience to the guests and they were served by Mrs. W. Downer, Mrs. J. Frape Jr., Mrs. C. Shannon, Mrs. Arthur Druce and Mrs. James Buchan.

Centepiece on the main tea table was vey effective with three tall red candles set in a base of silvered driftwood with decoration of Christmas ribbon and tiny silver bells. Presiding over the silver tea services at the opening hour were Mrs. Hugh Waddell and Mrs. Harold Scott. Mrs. M. E. Clarke and Mrs. B. W. Harvey took their places later.

Mrs. C. S. Windsor and Mrs. A. Green were in charge of making sandwiches and Mrs. M. Kernohan supervised the tea making. Replenishing the tea table was looked after by Mrs. Hurrell Dodds, Mrs. H. Beresford, Mrs. J. McColl, Mrs. Arthur Moscrop and Miss Ada Jenkinson.

Music in the tea room was played by Mrs. E. Woods. Another feature of entertainment was tea cup reading with two expert readers on hand.

Draw tickets on a fine mixmaster were being sold by Mrs. F. J. Frape. The draw was not made because some tickets had not been turned in yet. It will be made at the bingo next Wednesday night at the Legion Hall.

The candy booth was in charge of Mrs. A. Gynane and Mrs. M. Franks and they had two boxes of candy as draw prizes. Winners of these were Mrs. W. Downer and Mrs. G. Foster. Another feature at this table was "suckers by the yard."

Home cooking was sold by Mrs. E. Graham and Mrs. E. Dormer. Mrs. A. Wagstaff and Mrs. E. Withers had charge of the sewing table.

A realistic "wishing well" was set up and filled with attractively wropped parcels which were dispensed by Mrs. Bruce Rollins and Mrs. Ted Moore.

General convener of this event was Mrs. A. Parrington.

Y "Open House" Shows Work In New Program

"Gym Open House" at the YWCA Thursday evening presented to a packed gallery audience samples from the new program in the Y's health education department. The work at the gym this year has been a matter of curiosity to many so far. The directors planned this presentation simply to show what they are doing and do not class it as a demonstration since there has been only two and a half months of practice yet.

There was a noticeable casualness about the exercises and dances and a feeling that the participants were enjoying themselves. However the trim waistline, grace and flexibility are the expected results for every muscle of the body is being put to use, as those of the business girls' gym class will testify.

Little folk of the pixies class and the dancing class as make-believe flowers and china dolls stole the show for applause. In an "exercise in time" routine by the 5 to 8 year old gym class, it was the tiniest girl of all who was the "lead" and she did it exceedingly well.

Nine to 12 year olds enjoy the rolling and tumbling in the gym on mats and are now able to build pyramids among other feats. Two European folk dances were demonstrated by girls of this age group in the dancing classes.

Miss Beatris Pelsis who holds a diploma from the Institute of Physical Education, Riga, Latvia, is director of most of the gym classes, others being in charge of Miss Roselyn Stone, BPHE. Both were introduced to the parents by Y president Mrs. H. T. Rehill.

The visitors and participants of the evening were invited to the Green Room for refreshments served by the Y '38 Club. Welcome was extended by the club president Miss Geraldine Dunford and donations for the World Service Fund were received by Miss Hazel Wilson. Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. Rehill and Miss Leta Brownscombe.

Cavan WA Elects Mrs. W. E. Newell

CAVAN (ENS)—The WA met at the home of Mrs. W. E. Newall on Wednesday afternoon. A good attendance was present and the meeting opened by the president Mrs. Ray Syer. Bible readings on the birth of Jesus were read by Mrs. L. Pritchard, Mrs. Milton Carr and Mrs. Snider.

The following were elected: president, Mrs. Newall; recording secretary, Mrs. Ken Syer; assistant secretary, Miss A. Tinney.

There were 3 of last year's officers re-elected, namely: corresponding secretary, Mrs. L. Pritchard; financial secretary, Mrs. Fred Byers; treasurer, Mrs. H. Snider; pianist, Miss A. Tinney.

The hostess, Mrs. Newall, served a dainty lunch and Mrs. D. Tinney invited the ladies to meet at her home in January.

Coldsprings WI Holds Bazaar, Tea

COLDSPRINGS (ENS) — The Women's Institute colors of yellow and blue decorated the basement of the township hall on Wednesday afternoon for the Coldsprings Women's Institute annual bazaar and tea.

The hostesses were Mesdames J. Gordon, E. Hoskin, J. Rosevear, C. Minifie, L. McIntosh, C. Bowman, W. McMann, W. Maughan and H. Minifie. Arranging and replenishing the relish dishes, sandwich and cookie plates were Mesdames A. Linton, C. Baptist, O. Snelgrove and C. Avery. Working in the kitchen were Mrs. C. Baptist, Mrs. P. Harris and Mrs. K. Grieve, and tea makers were Mrs. M. Linton and Mrs. M. Minifie.

The fish pond was in charge of Mrs. M. Lacey, Mrs. R. Bray sold tickets on an angel food cake which was won by Mrs. Jack Gordon.

In charge of the large rack of aprons were Mesdames R. Willis, E. Jamieson, E. Bowman and M. Dines. A table where fancy work, towels, knitted and miscellaneous articles were offered for sale was in charge of Mrs. H. West, Mrs. A. Willis and Mrs. E. Turk.

Plants and vegetables were attended by Mrs. F. Ford and Mrs. T. McBride. The home cooking table was in charge of Mrs. N. McIntosh and Mrs. C. Timlin. Candy was sold by Mrs. M. Alderson and Mrs. N. Timlin.

The secretary, Mrs. H. McKinley, was cashier. The sum of $171 was realized.

Guests were present from Port Hope, Cobourg, Bethesda South, Centreton, Plainville, Camborne and Bethel Grove.

Rest Rooms Quite Modern

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—Sydney's city council is building a £90,000 rest room for women in the heart of the city, but it won't be just for mothers and children. It will have bathrooms and dressing rooms and irons and ironing boards for women who want to change before going to dances or the theatre.

In addition, of course, there will be a creche and feeding rooms, a children's bedroom and an open air playground for children—but there will be a three-hour limit on leaving children there. Four nurses will be on duty as well as maids to help. In the building there will be a refreshment room and a drug store, with a taxi rack outside.

CONFEDERATION SCHOOL

Three hundred attended the Confederation Home and School Association's Christmas meeting Tuesday evening. A short business period preceded the program, with Mrs. Lionel Monk presiding.

Mrs. Don Wood made the presentation of a projector for the school to principal Mr. J. Nicholls. The sum of $350 was raised by the Association with the "fun night" toward purchase of this projector. A carol singing film was then shown and also a film for the children.

An entertaining program for the parents was presented by the pupils of the classes of Miss Day, Miss Parker, Miss Johnston, Mrs. Murray, Mr. Olmstead and Mr. Crown.

Refreshments were convened by Mrs. Jack Wineberg and Mrs. Douglas Abraham and a committee of mothers from King George St. and Park St.

Many Homes Are Broken Up By Mothers Going To Work

LONDON (CP) — Mrs. Helena Normanton, a former lawyer, claims to have the secret of domestic bliss and lasting marriages. Economic justice in the home and a specific spending allowance for the "little woman" does the trick.

The recipe was offered to the royal commission on marriage and divorce by the 58-year-old president of the Council of Married Women, who practised law for nearly 28 years before retiring in 1950.

Mrs. Normanton said the last thing she would suggest would be anything unkind or unfair to the husbands. But appearing in the courts in something like 2,000 matrimonial cases had convinced her too many homes were broken up by mothers going out to work.

She thought the commission could do more to build up happiness in marriage by making the wife independent and otherwise contributing to economic justice in the ordinary household.

DOROTHY DIX

Say Unreasonable Jealousy One Way To Lose A Man

DEAR MISS DIX: When I first met Martin he vowed he would never get serious over any girl. In fact, he bragged about his feminine conquests. Now we have discovered that we love each other, but I am very jealous of him. If he so much as says hello to another girl, I become angry; I've tried not to show my jealousy, but haven't been successful. I know I'm going to lose him if I don't stop. O. N.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Since you are well aware that unreasonable jealousy may lose your Martin, you must be equally cognizant of the fact that the solution to your problem is within yourself. Jealousy is a wretched thing, destroying all who give way to it. It proves lack of faith in yourself, lack of confidence in your sweetheart and over-exaggerates the charms of other women. Give yourself a break! Realize that you are at least as alluring as they are—after all, didn't you catch the man they chased so long?

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 30 years old and have been married twice. The first time was when I was 17, and we had one child. We were together eight miserable years, then I got a divorce. My second husband has also turned out to be a big disappointment. We separated, with a divorce pending. I just can't seem to find a good man; where do they all hide? B. J.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: There isn't much I can do to teach you discrimination in selecting men. You should have learned something from the trial-and-error method you've been pursuing, but apparently that doesn't work either.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am the mother of a 12-year-old son and would appreciate it if you could tell me at what age a boy should know the facts of life, and how I can explain them to him. MRS. D. W.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I am rather afraid that by this time your son has acquired at least some information concerning the facts you plan to impart. Modern children rarely wait until they are 12 before learning something of sex. If you will send me a self-addressed envelope, I'll be happy to recommend a fine booklet presenting a solution to your problem.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been going wth a boy on and off for five years. I want to know if he loves me and if he will marry me. Sometimes he acts as though he cared, but he won't tell me yes or no.

He has gone to another city to work. Can you tell me if and when he is coming back? M. M.

ANSWER: Even a gypsy fortune teller would have trouble answering your questions. I'm no clairvoyant, my dear, just a woman trying to do a conscientious job.

I might suggest that, since the boy hasn't made a declaration of love in five years, maybe you had better utilize the time he's away to find another and more aggressive beau.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 20 years old and have just met a very nice boy. My mother has forbidden me to see him because he has a twitch. I like him so much that I've been going out with him anyway. Am I right? S. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: No, you are not, primarily because deception is never right. It's quite possible, you know, that mother's attitude is caused by apprehension that the twitch may be a symptom of a serious physical or nervous disorder. Get her to tell you frankly why she objects. If the grounds are valid, better reconsider your attitude; of she has no unreasonable dislike of the boy, or is convinced herself that his condition is a minor affliction, wait until you are 21 before making up your mind about him.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: For some time my husband has been letting a married man use our mail box to receive letters from another woman. I don't like the idea, but my husband says there's no harm in it. PATSY.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your husband is wrong to connive at his friend's infidelity. Of course, all parties involved are wrong, but your husband might be able to make the other two see the light if he refused his co-operation.

THEY RUN BRANCH OFFICE FOR SANTA—Mrs. Elizabeth Schmitt, standing, and her 85-year-old mother, Mrs. Mary Schuwerk, operate Santa Claus' Southern Doll Division in St. Louis, Mo. To give a hand to the jolly old Saint, the two women make some 200 rag dolls each year, and distribute them to needy children at Christmas time.

Readers' Friday Column By Mary Moore

QUESTION: . . . enclosing my recipe for fruit cake. As you can see the fruit is soaked for 1 or 2 hours . . could I put in a little brandy at that stage? If so how much? I was especially pleased to see Tomato Soup Cake . . . mine was too moist . . . yours is different. Will you be having a recipe in the paper for Carrot Pudding? If not will you please send me one? (Mrs.) Helen C.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Yes, you can soak the fruit in some brandy if you wish. Reduce the amount of grape juice to ¾ cup and add ¼ cup of brandy to it. Soak the fruits in this mixture. Steamed puddings were given yesterday. I hope you saw them.

QUESTION: I see you have many queries for diets . . . hope you will be able to help me as you have so splendidly done for others. I need a salt-free diet. My main trouble is making a substitute for cake, cookies, etc . . . beside no salt there must be no baking powder or soda, no dried fruits, no glandular meats but liver.

In case you or any readers would like recipe for Salt-Free Bread here it is: Using 1 package yeast making 2 loaves: 5 cups flour, 5 tablespoons sugar, 4 tablespoons shortening, 2 cups water. It may require more flour to mix stiff . . . will be grateful indeed for any recipes you may give. Mrs. S. R.

ANSWER: I am mailing to you a salt-free diet menu sheet. Most patients on salt-free diets use sweet yeast breads in place of cake and find them not only satisfactory but pleasanter altogether. They would not want to go back to eating baking powder cakes.

Here is one I like and which I made up this week for a Tea.

CHERRY COFFEE CAKE

(Those who make this for normal diet should add ½ teaspoon salt.)

In ½ cup lukewarm water soak package granular yeast with 1 teaspoon sugar, stirring twice during 15 minutes. In a warm bowl cream until fluffy ½ cup saltless butter or best quality shortening, then beat in ½ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 2 beaten eggs, ½ cup lukewarm milk and ½ teaspoon each cinnamon and freshly grated nutmeg. When well mixed add yeast mixture which will have risen to top of a measuring cup by this time. Stir in 4½ cups sifted bread flour. Now knead or stir for 5 minutes. Scrape dough from sides of bowl, butter top of dough, cover with cloth and let rise 1½ hours or until doubled in bulk. Cut dough down. Now add 4 oz. sliced candied cherries and ¼ cup chopped dates or peel and shape into 2 round loaves. Butter tops, let rise until doubled. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 20 to 25 minutes.

Thank you for the recipe for Salt-Free Bread.

QUESTION: Your many suggestions have been a great help . . . I have no trouble with butter cakes or sponge cakes or angel foods, but one trouble I have and that is when making Christmas cakes they want to go mouldy on me after storing for about 1 or 2 months. My cakes turn out lovely. It is a disappointment when after New Years or even before they start to mold. (Recipes for dark and light fruit cake enclosed.) Mrs. M. B. C.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I notice that both of the recipes for fruit cakes call for either sour cream or milk. Do not use these ingredients if you want to store your cakes. Replace the sour cream in the dark cake with ¼ cup butter plus ¾ cup some fruit juice such as pineapple. However I do not think the cake requires that much liquid so cut it down as much as possible. Leave it out entirely if you can still stir the batter. Better still use the tested cakes printed in this column Nov. 20.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: . . . recipe for Sweet and Sour Spareribs— the kind served with Chinese food . . . they were done in red sauce . . . Mrs. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: As you know the spareribs are cut so that the meat is left on both sides of one rib; this rib is then cut in halves crosswise These pieces of rib are dipped in Cover Batter: To 1 beaten egg add ¾ cup milk, 1 teaspoon melted fat. Sift over them 1 cup sifted flour, ½ teaspoon salt and 1½ teaspoons baking powder. Stir until smooth. Fry in deep or shallow fat until golden. Place in baking dish. Pour over them Sweet-Sour Sauce: 1 cup sweet pickle vinegar, 1 cup best tomato catsup, ½ cup cold water. Into this stir a mixture of ¼ cup brown sugar and 2 tablespoons cornstarch until thick and smooth over heat. Add ½ cup chopped sweet pickle, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper. Pour over ribs fried in batter, bake covered at 300 deg. Fahr. 1 hour.

ARTHRITIC PAIN
Almost Unbearable

"My husband is a carpenter on the railway," writes Mrs. Jack Taylor, St. Catharines, Ont. "One morning he went to work and found he could not climb the ladder to do his work. A dull pain in his shoulder and leg was almost unbearable. The druggist recommended T-R-C's. My husband took 2 capsules and before the day was over he was back at work again. Now, if he has any pain at all, he carries T-R-C's in his lunch pail."

Don't suffer another day from Arthritic, Rheumatic, Neuritic pain—Lumbago or Neuralgia. Try Templeton's T-R-C's—Canada's LARGEST-SELLING proprietary medicine for fast relief from such pain. Only 65c, $1.35 at druggists. T-851

MORE BEEF FOR YOUR FOOD DOLLARS

Know Your Pot Roast Meats

BY GAYNOR MADDOX

For flavorful, tender pot roast, the chuck and rump of beef are top selections. The boneless sirloin tip and the Boston-cut or English-cut pot roast are also well suited to this type of cookery.

Make certain your pot roast is at least two inches thick for sizeable juicy and tender slices when the meat is served. Allow 1-3-pound per serving of bone-in-meat and ¼-pound per serving of boneless meat. But plan also on ample meat for the left-over service.

A heavy kettle or roasting pan with a tight-fitting cover is an essential. A small rack or two or three jar lids punched with a nail to keep the meat off the bottom is a safeguard against burning.

Rub the roast with flour with a small amount of salt and pepper added. Then brown the meat in the kettle in a small amount of fat. During the browning do not allow the meat to burn, for burned-meat flavor will be intensified during cooking.

When the meat is browned on each side, slip the rack under the meat. Add about a cup of water or other liquid, cover the kettle and cook meat slowly on the range surface or in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Simmer, but do not boil. Add more water if necessary to keep ½ to 1-inch liquid in botom of kettle to form steam. However, avoid "drowning" the meat.

A 2-inch thick pot roast, averaging about 3 pounds, will be done in approximately 2½ to 3 hours. From 3½ to 4 hours will be required for a 5-pound, 3-inch-thick pot roast. A thick-boned roast requires about 1 hour longer cooking time than for a thinner bone-in roast of the same weight.

Pot roasts may be prepared in a pressure cooker. Follow the cooker manufacturer's directions.

Tomato juice added in place of water is a favorite. Fresh or dried herbs added to the broth give an interesting flavor, if not used too profusely. Or stir 2 tablespoons curry powder and 1 teaspoon sugar mixed with ½ cup water into broth about three-quarters of an hour before the meat is done. Or, carrots, peeled onions, stalks of celery, pared medium potatoes and any other mild vegetable in whole or good-sized pieces may be added during the last 45 minutes of cooking.

For gravy, skim off fat and measure remaining broth. If there are broken vegetables in the broth, strain and mash before returning to the gravy. Add water to make 2 cups of meat broth for each 3 pounds of roast, or 3 cups of meat broth for each 5 pounds of the meat.

Mix flour for thickening with cold water and stir into broth. Stir and let boil for five minutes. Season to taste and serve in bowl.

Teachers Seek Code Of Parliament

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario secondary school teachers are looking for a code of student punishment.

A standard guide for punishment which would "make the punishment fit the crime" is suggested in Education Facts, a monthly leaflet of the Toronto branch, Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation.

The article urges teachers, parents and education authorities to get together to work out a formula that would grade student misdemeanors and list punishments. It says that at present there may be a wide variety of punishments handed out by different teachers for the same breach of conduct.

Three advantages for a standard code are listed:

1. It would impress on the pupil that a certain misdemeanor or infraction of rules brings certain disciplinary action.

2. It would serve to put a brake on the teacher who is too aggressive in disciplinary measures, and to give courage to teachers inclined toward weakness.

3. It would remove much of the source of criticism directed by parents toward teachers and the schools.

May Set Up Tribunal Study Damage

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (CP)—A special tribunal may be set up to hear claims against the Canadian government for high-water damage to property on the United States side of Lake Ontario.

Perry B. Rauch, a lawyer representing some of the claimants, said today he has received word from the U.S. state department saying it would be "pleased to arrange" for a discussion leading to possible establishment of the tribunal.

Rauch estimated that about 1,500 claims have been made and that many other persons are planning to file. They claim that the Canadian-built Gut dam in the St. Lawrence River is responsible for high water which damaged waterfront property. The dam now is being removed.

PREPARED TO INVESTIGATE

Hume Wrong, Canada's ambassador to Washington, had told the state department Canada had not waived sovereign immunity from suits in U. S. courts. However, he added that Canada was prepared to "facilitate submission of all claims to an appropriate tribunal which would have the power to determine" the extent of damage and whether it was caused by the Gut dam.

The state department said it would be "pleased to arrange" for such discussion. Rauch said today action on a test suit for $12,000 brought by Arthur and Dorothy Oster of Rochester, N. Y., had been delayed in U. S. district court pending possible establishment of the tribunal.

Thieves Get $5,000 From Credit Union

WELLAND (CP) — Two men stole more than $5,000 from the Caisse Populaire, credit union office in Welland's French-Canadian section, in a holdup at noon today.

Police shortly afterwards found an automobile used by the men to flee from the robbery scene and recovered some of the stolen money.

Rough Treatment

TAUNTON, England (CP)—The speaker at a meeting here quoted a letter from a Sheffield woman who stopped her husband's lumbago by slogging him with stinging nettles. Whenever the lumbago returns, she wrote, a few light taps with the nettles fix it.

Dollar Strong Dues To Canada's Fine Resources

NEW YORK (CP) — Strength of the Canadian dollar is due to the abundance of Canadian resources and soundness of Canada's economic policies, the New York Herald Tribune says today in an editorial on Canada's gold subsidy.

"The news of the Canadian government's intention to increase the subsidy paid to gold producers points up the cause and effect connection between their dollar and gold, the paper says.

"Many regard currency as merely the ghost of gold, deriving its value from exchangeability into that metal.

"Canadian gold producers know the opposite to be true. It is worth their while to produce gold only if they can get enough dollars for it.

NOT GOLD CONTENT

"The Canadian dollar is strong; its strength is reflected in the amount of goods and services it can buy. Its strength is not due to gold content (Canadian currency is not backed by gold) but to the abundance of Canadian resources, the soundness of Canada's economic policies.

"Canadian gold has contributed relatively little to the naiton's prosperity. Its production has kept some mining equipment busy, afforded a small amount of employment and made a modest contribution to export earnings.

"Other industries have done as much or more. They have done it without subsidy. Their output has been a net addition to the nation's wealth.

"In the case of gold, on the other hand, tax funds from the whole nation have been transferred to the gold producers just to keep them in business.

"Canadians outside the gold industry may well wonder whether such funds might not be put to more directly and unambiguously productive uses. . ."

Westwood WMS Officers Returned

WESTWOOD (ENS)—All Westwood WMS officers were returned by acclamation Wednesday. Mrs. Clayton Brackenridge continues as president, with vice-presidents Mrs. E. W. Sargent and Mrs. W. Breckenridge.

Other officers are: Secretary, Mrs. H. S. Neilson; treasurer, Mrs. E. W. Sargent; temperance secretary, Mrs. A. Wood; missionary monthly, Mrs. J. S. Sargent; supply secretary, Mrs. R. J. Douglas; associate helpers, Mrs. W. Breckenridge; literature secretary, Mrs. Wood; pianist, Mrs. J. S. Sargent; assistant, Mrs. Gordon Warner; press secretary, Mrs. E. W. Sargent.

Mrs. E. Sargent opened the meeting and the Rev. N. Cole led in prayer.

A letter received by supply secretary Mrs. R. J. Douglas regarding the 1953 bale was read. A note of appreciation was received from the United Church Overseas Relief Fund for a donation.

Miss Jessie Davidson took charge of the Christmas program. Christmas hymns were sung and scriptures readings relating to the birth of Christ were read by Mrs. E. Sargent, Mrs. H. S. Neilson, Mrs. John Davidson and Mrs. W. Breckenridge.

Mrs. Kock, a native of Holland, who resides in this community, gave an interesting talk on Christmas customs and festivities in Holland and also sang a German Christmas carol.

Mr. Cole took the chair for election of officers.

Iris Grower Awarded International Honor

INGERSOLL, Ont. (CP)—William Miles of nearby Surreyhurst farm has been awarded the Sir Michael Foster memorial plaque, highest honor on two continents for iris growers.

This is the first time that the plaque, presented annually by the world society in Britain, has been awarded to a Canadian. Mr. Miles, who has produced some 20 new varieties of the bloom, has received American Iris Society awards for several years, and is vice-president of the Canadian Iris Society of London.

DRESSES AID IN WAGING HEALTH BATTLE — Gloria Swanston shows Bob De Mar, of New York, one of her creations which went to aid in the battle of the rare blood disease, hemophilia. The famous actress donated several to the annual fund-raising party of The Hemophilia Foundation which devotes all its resources to aid victims of the disease and to further research into its cause. Hemophilia prevents coagulation of the blood.

Father Saves Baby As House Afire

TORONTO (CP) — A young father saved his baby's life Thursday night by holding the four-month-old boy out a second-floor window until firemen rescued them from the blazing rooming-house.

Firemen said that the upper rooms of the house were filled with black smoke and that Richard Fenn would have been asphyxiated if his father, Stanley Fenn, hadn't held him out the window.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Fenn and the child escaped down a ladder with the help of firemen.

SURPRISE CATCH

LOWESTOFT, England (CP)—Fishing nets valued at £1,500 were lost by the trawler Waveney during a gale in the North sea. Days later another trawler brought in the missing nets—packed with herring.

Need God's Intervention

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"The only true solution in Korea is the intervention of God," said Evangelist Billy Graham today as he took off on the first leg of a trip to the fighting front. "I think (President-elect) Eisenhower should call the nation to a day of humiliation, repentance and prayer. It would have a profound effect on the solution to Korea." The evangelist said he hoped to spend Christmas on the front lines.

General's Aides Keep Trip Strict Secret

NEW YORK (AP) — Gen. Eisenhower left before dawn last Saturday. Behind him his aides closed ranks in a smooth-working "cover" operation that would have pleased the strictest intelligence officer.

The security plan at Eisenhower's New York headquarters while he was absent in Korea was accomplished by civilians.

His wife, Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower; his designated secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, and his designated assistant, Governor Sherman Adams were among those who had roles in keeping the secret while the general was absent.

Reporters co-operated too. No reporter covering Eisenhower's New York home and headquarters has seen the general since last Friday night. They were not told he had left. They surmised, naturally, that he had gone.

Friday night Eisenhower strolled out of his Hotel Commodore headquarters. Before dawn Saturday a limousine sped him to Mitchel Field on Long Island. His Constellation was gone before the sun was up.

During the next few days a stream of visitors came and went. They ran a gauntlet of reporters' questions as they entered and departed from the general's inner offices. No one saw Eisenhower, but visitors' comments made news.

Hundreds voluntarily kept the secret.

38 Missing After Plane Crashes Off Bermuda

R. Dobbin Elected President Of Engineering Institute

In his unanimous nomination for the presi dency of the Engineering Institute of Canada, Ross L. Dobbin, general manager for the Peterborough Utilities Commission, has been highly honored by his associates of that distinguished profession throughout the ten provinces of this country. Proposed at a meeting last February of the Peterborough branch of EIC, of which he is a charter member, his name was submitted to the council of the Institute, composed of fifty of its members. Eventually, in the September issue of its Engineering Journal announcement was published that Mr. Dobbin was the only presidential nominee from its constituent branches, of which there are nearly forty-five.

Procedure of the Institute provides that any one of its members is entitled singly to present a nomination up to December 1st. If a contestant were named from that source, election of president would necessarily have been by ballot.

However, only one nomination was received by the council, and with the passing of December 1st as the prescribed time limit, the election of Mr. Dobbin became an acclamation, and was then available for general publication. It becomes effective at the annual convention of the Institute in Halifax next May, when the president-elect succeeds J. B. Stirling, head of Cape Construction Co., Montreal, who officially visited the Peterborough branch a month ago.

ELECTED COUNCILLOR

A. R. T. Hailey of the engineering staff of CGE Co., Peterborough, has been elected a councillor of EIC.

Although the list of presidents of the Engineering Institute of Canada includes the names of men who have been linked with Peterborough, professionally and otherwise, R. L. Dobbin is the first of its sons to have attained this distinction.

Several of those to whom Peterborough laid claim were. Alex Grant, president in 1930, for years Chief Engineer of the Trent Canal here, succeeding to a similar appointment on the new Welland Ship Canal. He is still living in St. Catharines, and is one of the senior engineers in Canada. Walter J. Francis, president in 1923, was one of the head engineers in

Canadians Didn't Mind Long Wait For Eisenhower

By BILL BOSS

IN KOREA (CP)—The weather was nippy. In fact, it was nearly zero. But the Canadian troops didn't mind too much last Wednesday as they waited 8½ hours for President-elect Eisenhower. They put on a show that brought a letter of appreciation from the man who has seen many such shows in the last dozen years. Newspapermen who watched the parade were critical of "top brass" arrangements that forced the Canadians and other United Nations troops to spend most of a cold, raw day outside awaiting the arrival of the general. But the men themselves didn't complain. They said they considered it an honor to be able to pay their respects to the man who had come to Korea to see for himself what could be done to end this bitter war.

The Canadians who were to parade that day were hauled out of their front-line berths at 3 a.m. They had to be at corps headquarters by 6:30. Then they stood around until 9 a.m. when the first rehearsal of the day's parade was scheduled to begin. They were paraded on the airstrip at 1:15 p.m. The general showed, as scheduled, at 3 p.m.

TRIED TO KEEP WARM

While waiting, the men kept warm by beating their hands together, kicking their feet and pounding each other's backs

The Canadians, part of the Commonwealth division, paraded for the President-elect at three points on his three-day tour of Korea. Their contribution to Wednesday's 15-country parade was a party of 30 Royal Canadian Regiment soldiers under Lieut. David Hanson, London, Ont.

French Arrest 12 Leaders

TUNIS, North Africa (Reuters) French colonial authorities arrested 12 Tunisian nationalist leaders here overnight as tension mounted over Thursday's political murder.

Among those arrested was Mahmoud Messadi, the man who replaced the political murder victim, Fehrat Hached, as chief of the General Union of Tunisian Workers.

Another arrested was Fathi Zouhir, legal adviser to the Bey of Tunis.

Authorities refused to disclose any details. The arrested men were sent to internment camps in the remote south of Tunisia. Authorities said the arrests were temporary, taken as a safeguard against reprisal attacks by terrorists.

Hached was a moderate nationalist. His battered body was found early yesterday.

A general strike, called over the murder, continued today with most civil servants still away from work and all stores shut. But public utilities were almost normal, manned by French personnel.

The French believe Hached was killed by extremist nationalists because his views on Tunisian independence were too moderate.

Wanted—2 Parrots! Dangerous Birds

LONDON (AP) — The BBC company broadcast an appeal Friday to aid medical authorities in a hunt for two gaily-colored but possibly dangerous green parrots.

The feathered pets are believed carriers of parrot fever (psittacosis)—a rare disease that killed 100 Britons in a 1930 epidemic.

The two parrots went on the wanted list after the manager of the pet shop that handled and sold them died of suspected psittacosis.

The birds were recently imported from Australia.

Santa Comes By 'Copter To West European Children

Today is St. Nicholas Day and in much of Europe it is the day on which children receive gifts. Christmas, still almost three weeks away, is a quieter affair, with churchgoing and family gatherings.

The red-robed saint generally doesn't show up until late on the eve of the feast day. But one Santa Claus—riding by helicopter—landed in Bavaria Friday, ahead of schedule.

In Freising, near Munich, he arrived in a U.S. Air Force helicopter at an orphanage where the children danced with glee. After him came four more helicopters full of presents.

It was the first beachhead in "Operation Christmas" managed by U.S. airmen stationed at the Erding depot near Munich. More than 70,000 gifts worth $25,000 will go to 17,000 orphans in Bavaria—all by helicopter.

In Holland and Belgium, where St. Nick rides the rooftops with his white horse, he found at the fireplace of each home little wooden shoes filled with hay, raw carrots and letters. The hay and carrots are fodder for his horse. The letters contain suggestions for gifts.

Eisenhower Apologizes To Soldiers

General Not Aware Troops Assembled Long Before Arrival

SEOUL —(CP)—President-elect Eisenhower apologized at a press conference for keeping troops waiting in zero weather for a review during his Korean visit.

Canadian troops waited for hours in bitter cold Thursday for Eisenhower to review Allied troops. AP correspondent Don Whitehead said that there were cases of frost-bitten feet among troops who stood for long periods.

The general obviously wasn't aware the troops had been ordered to assemble so long before his arrival.

Eisenhower told his press conference Friday the incident "disturbed" him.

"It was cold and miserable and I can understand very well how those soldiers must have felt," he said.

"All my life I have made a point to be on time at any review. . . in my honor.

"I want to extend my apoligies to any soldiers who through some misunderstanding were out in the cold longer than they should have been."

Enemy Stages Raid As Ike Leaving

SEOUL (AP) — The U. S. Fifth Air Force reported today it repelled the "largest enemy night air attack of the Korean war," while President-elect Eisenhower was leaving Korea.

The air force said Allied radar in a three-hour period beginning at 7:10 p. m. last night picked up a total of 11 "hostile aircraft" roaring towards Seoul. Eisenhower's plane took the air at 8:01 p. m. and the attack continued about two hours after that.

The air force spokesman said an earlier statement by the Far East air force commander, Gen. O. P. Weyland, that "not a single enemy aircraft of any kind was able to penetrate south of the Chongchon River" during Eisenhower's visit was "based on earlier information."

The enemy planes dropped bombs which "fell close to the installation from which personnel were directing the Allied night interceptors." But the spokesman said security also blacked out any information on whether damage was caused.

The sketchy Air Force announcement did not say how close the Red planes came to the South Korean capital of Seoul.

Brantford Soldier Meets Eisenhower

IN KOREA (CP) — President-elect Eisenhower during his Korea tour visited a United States mobile army surgical hospital where most Canadian wounded receive their first surgery.

West's Peace Contract Wins German Votes

BONN, Germany (AP) — The West's proposed peace contract and military alliance with West Germany won substantial votes of approval today on their second reading before the lower house of Parliament.

Third and final readings are expected next month.

Today's preliminary vote in the Bundestag was 218 to 164 on the peace contract, which would restore virtual German sovereignty. The vote was 216 to 165 on the pact to weld West Germany to the proposed six-country European defence community and raise a German army of 500,000 men.

In heated arguments with Socialist opponents the chancellor said the United States had promised billion of dollars to equip West German troops with the "best and most modern weapons." Listeners understood him to use a figure of 40,000,000,000 marks ($9,520,000,000).

COPENHAGEN (Reuters) —The Scandinavian airliner making a trans-polar trip from Los Angeles to Copenhagen arrived safely at Thule, Greenland, dispelling fear that had mounted during an eight-hour radio silence.

Explosion Kills 6 Children Asleep In House

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A natural gas explosion reduced a three-storey frame home to a pile of rubble and killed all six children of a Pittsburgh family.

Fire Chief Stephen Adley said the blast Friday night in the semi-industrial north side section of this steel capital resulted from an auto skidding into a retaining wall and breaking an exposed natural gas main leading into the house.

The victims were sleeping when the blast rocked the neighborhood and frightened nuns saying their night prayers in a nearby convent.

RECOVER BODIES

Hours later firemen, carefully picking up bits of the house with auto wrecker cranes, recovered the last of the bodies of the five sons and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moulis. The victims:

Moulis, 37, and his 36-year-old wife, Rose, literally were blown from the house. They were in a state of shock and nearly incoherent as they crawled from the wreckage, their faces blackened like coal miners.

Not Thinking Of Calling Strike

REGINA (CP)—Frank Hall, chief union negotiator in the current railway wage dispute, says union members are not "even thinking" about a strike.

He said in an interview Thursday night that the 144,000 non-operating railway workers want to approach the forthcoming negotiations on the merits of their case. "We are not talking about it (a strike) nor even thinking about it. We hope to settle it."

The unions, consisting of 15 international and two national brotherhoods, will sit down with railway officials next Wednesday in a meeting proposed by Labor Minister Gregg.

The unions announced last Saturday their rejection of the majority report of a federal conciliation board recommending a pay raise of 16 cents an hour for non-operating employees—those who do not actually run the trains. The unions seek 45 cents an hour.

The railways accepted the 16-cent recommendation.

Canadian Jet Ace Arrives From Korea

MONTREAL (CP) — Sqdn. Ldr. J. Douglas Lindsay arrived at Dorval airport Friday night to be greeted by his wife after 4½ months in Korea during which he destroyed two enemy MiGs and damaged three.

Sqdn. Ldr. Lindsay, after a leave at his home in Arnprior, Ont., will return to his old squadron — 413 — at Bagotville, Que. He was one of four Canadians flying with the United States Air Force in Korea and has been replaced by another Canadian.

"Combat is exactly the same in jets, but it's at a slightly higher speed," he told reporters when asked to compare Korean air fighting with his experience in Spitfires during the Second World War when he shot down 7½ German planes.

Comparing the Russian-made MiGs with the United States Sabre jets, he said: "They each have features better than the other, but I think the United Nations pilots are a little better than the Reds. They're certainly more aggressive."

Hamilton Soldier Killed In Crash

OTTAWA (CP) — Pte. Frank Hamilton, 39, of Camp Borden, was killed early today when a car in which he was a passenger skidded on a slush-covered pavement about 20 miles west of here and crashed into a hydro pole.

Two other soldiers in the car, both of Camp Borden, escaped unhurt. They are Cpl. Andrew Coughler, and Pte. Albert Deslauriers.

Coast Guard Picks Up 4 Survivors

Indicate Explosion On Board Just Before Crash

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) —The Cuban airliner "Star of the East," with 42 persons aboard, crashed into the sea about three miles off this island today, shortly after taking off from the U.S. Air Force base, Kindly Field, near St. George's.

The president of the Cubana line, operators of the plane, said reports in Havana indicated an explosion occurred aboard just before the crash. He said the plane, outbound from Madrid via Bermuda, was carrying 34 passengers, including a baby, and a crew of eight.

A U.S. Coast Guard vessel directing rescue operations said four survivors had been picked up in a choppy sea about three miles northeast of Kindley Field.

The Cuban line's president in Havana said later he heard six survivors had been picked up. The survivors were taken to Kindley Field's hospital. None was identified immediately.

Aircraft and crash boats from the big American base are combing the waters for further survivors.

The plane, a DC-4 operated by Cubana Airlines, a subsidiary of Pan American World Airways, arrived at the base at 3:30 a.m. from Santa Maria, The Azores, and took off for Cuba at 5 a.m. Authorities said the plane managed an apparently normal take-off. About a minute later it plowed into the sea.

Reuther, Meany Favor Merger

NEW YORK (AP) — Walter Reuther, newly-elected president of the CIO, and George Meany, new head of the AFL, have pledged to work toward uniting the two big labor organizations.

Both men spoke Friday night at a dinner meeting of the executive board of the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions.

Reuther, the first to speak, said: "I extend the hand of friendship and solidarity to the AFL. I will do everything in my power to work together for unity.

"When we sit down to talk about unity, we of the CIO will come there with good conscience, good fellowship and the spirit of good will and common sense."

In reply, Meany said:

"I have said many times and I have many, many times taken the position that there is no trade union reason for division in American labor ranks, and I know of no trade union reasons for the continuance of that division."

This was the first public meeting of Meany and Reuther since their election to the top labor posts.

Nehru Says Misfortune China Rejects Plan

BOMBAY (Reuters) — Prime Minister Nehru said here today it was a "misfortune" that China and Russia had rejected the Indian resolution for an armistice in Korea.

He told Bombay meeting of his Congress party, that India had hoped the resolution would be acceptable to all countries.

Delegates Agree On New Steps For Freeing Pound

LONDON (AP)—Ranking delegates to the Commonwealth conference said today the nine-country group has agreed to take some new steps toward freeing the pound if the United States will help. The reported arrangement would allow sterling to be exchanged without restriction for urgently-needed dollar goods such as machinery. Two pre-conditions have been set: 1. The United States would co-operate to build up gold and dollar reserves in the British-led sterling area, presumably by entering long-term price-fixing pacts on some scarce commodities such as rubber and tin.

2. The United States would aid in applying delicate administrative measures to control various sorts of pound-dollar transactions

The Commonwealth countries long ago set the goal of a convertible pound — one that could be freely turned into any other foreign money.

SURPRISE SWITCH

One informant disclosed a surprise switch in the Commonwealth's attitude toward increasing the world price of gold. He reported that gold-producing South Africa "no longer stands alone" in her campaign to have the world gold price increased from the present $35 an ounce.

The argument on gold is that a higher price would strengthen the sterling area's reserve funds, essential before the pound can be traded safely with dollars.

Earlier this week, British officials said the South African demand appeared to have little chance of getting Commonwealth support.

Actually, it is the United States, holding about two-thirds of the world's gold supply, that sets the world price.

TRIED IN 1953

The new plan for freeing sterling would be tried in mid-1953 if the new Republican administration of President-elect Eisenhower agrees to play along.

Prime Minister Churchill, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and the chancellor of the exchequer, R. A. Butler, expect to visit Eisenhower in Washington before long to talk over some agreed aspects of Commonwealth policy.

Other Commonwealth prime ministers intend to make similar trips to Washington soon, among them Australia's Robert Memzies and New Zealand's Sidney Holland.

Another conference of Commonwealth leaders has been arranged for next May or June in London to map economic programs anew in light of the new U. S. administration's intentions. Major actions have been deferred until the spring meeting.

Rhee Certain Ike To Break Stalemate

The South Korean president said in an interview that he had told Eisenhower "foreign troops could be relieved from the front-line if Republic of Korea forces are sufficiently increased, trained and equipped to be able to defend ourselves."

Rhee did not elaborate on what he considers a sufficient increase. There are at least 12 RoK divisions in the field currently.

Swiss Expedition Beaten Back By Strong Winds

NEW DELHI (AP)—Reliable reports reaching here from Katmandu, capital of neighboring Nepal, said a Swiss expedition attempting to climb towering Mt. Everest—highest peak in the world—has been beaten back by buffeting winds and 30-degree-below-zero cold.

The reports said the Swiss climbers abandoned their attempt Nov. 20. No one has ever reached the peak of Mt. Everest, more than 29,000 feet high, and returned to tell about it.

Nepalese sources here said the expedition, led by Dr. Gabriel Chevalley, had descended to Namche Bazaar village at the base of Mt. Everest and was resting before beginning the hazardous two-week overland journey 160 miles to Katmandu.

Outcome of the final assault on the Himalayan peak's highest slopes has been a mystery since the middle of last month, when a native runner brought back a report that several of the Swiss had reached a point 150 feet from the summit.

Informants today said Chevalley is believed already to have reported to the Swiss Alpine Foundation in Zurich that three climbers—Raymond Lambert, Ernest Reiss and Sherpa Tensing—and seven Nepalese porters established their eighth and last camp Nov. 19. They planned to make the top the next day but extreme cold and continual winds forced them to abandon their efforts.

All previous expeditions have blamed their defeats on the extreme altitude, the bitter cold and the peak's fierce winds that hurl stones about like baseballs.

"When you get that high, you just don't care," said one Swiss

O'Dwyer Ends Job In Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — William O'Dwyer, the most controversial U. S. ambassador to Mexico in 39 years, went out of office today with no definite plans — except to stay in Mexico if possible.

O'Dwyer came here under the most favorable auspices. Mexicans were delighted to have an ambassador who was Catholic and who spoke Spanish. Papers in New York, where he had been mayor, praised his appointment.

But U. S. opinion became more critical as O'Dwyer's name came up in investigations of crime and corruption in New York. He went back once to testify before the Kefauver committee on its televised hearings. At other times he has talked in Mexico City to investigators from New York.

Formula Kept Secret

Title For Queen Touchy Subject At Parley

The problem has been under study for some time but has acquired urgency because of the impending Coronation. Some Commonwealth countries are known to feel strongly that changing times require a modernization of the monarch's title.

The formula they have worked out remains a secret. Before it can be adopted it must first be approved by the Queen, and then by the Commonwealth Parliaments.

The Queen's father was known as "George VI, by the Grace of God, of Great Britain, Ireland and of the British Dominions beyond the Seas, King, Defender of the Faith."

At his coronation the title "Emperor of India" also was included, but this was dropped when India and Pakistan became independent in 1947. India, the only republic in the commonwealth, does not recognize Elizabeth as Queen, but only as head of the Commonwealth.

Some countries now have their doubts about such phrases as "by the Grace of God" or "Defender of the Faith," which applies directly to the Protestant faith.

Others look askance at the word "Dominions," on the ground it may be taken to imply that Britain has a different status from other Commonwealth countries. Some Canadians feel strongly on this point.

Other critics object to the reference to Ireland, since Southern Ireland has become a republic outside the Commonwealth and severed her constitutional links with the crown. Northern Ireland remains part of the United Kingdom.

A hint of the solution which may be found is in the title used in the proclamation of the Queen's accession. It was: "Queen of this realm and of all her other realms and territories, head of the Commonwealth."

Survey Plan Might Help Milburn Says

Federation Secretary Has No Solution, But Action Needed

Some degree of voluntary regimentation was suggested to the thinking of farmers by V. S. Milburn, secretary of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, at the annual meeting of its Peterborough branch in the Normal School Friday night.

"Can we agree to making a survey of our productive capacity and trying to regulate it to our known market?"

Mr. Milburn was discussing the problems which today are confusing farmers in their quest of solutions of difficulties which have reduced their income nearly 18 percent in the last year. He said he didn't know the answers. Neither did he know anyone else who knew them. The situation demanded objective thinking by farmers themselves in the possibility that a practical answer might evolve from their own ranks and recources of planning.

Mr. Milburn acknowledged that the word regimentation had long been repugnant to rural ideology and practice, but on the other hand there were notable instances of its actual adoption and effect. Prairie farmers marketed their grain through their own agency, employing a quota system of deliveries which was devised as an equitable arrangement for producers. They had agreed to sale and delivery of so many bushels per crop-acre in order that the grower with a lot of grain and trucks adjacent to an elevator did not have a disproportionate advantage over others with less crops and means of transport from their more distant farms.

"By that method, the first man doesn't get all his grain stored in the elevator, and the other fellow farther away is not left out in the cold."

TOBACCO GROWERS

Mr. Milburn mentioned the Ontario tobacco growers, and their agreement of planting so many acres. If there was any sign of chiselling here and there, to get around the measure of agreed control, an inspector could soon rectify that kind of deviation. "If they had let everybody grow as much tobacco as they wished this year, the price, instead of being 42 cents a pound, mightn't have been 22 cents," Mr. Milburn said.

He also referred to the quota system regulating the fluid milk branch of the dairy industry. He recalled briefly the protests which were raised against it by farmers when that method was put into effect. They didn't want any "regimentation," but they were not objecting today. In effect it was a form of the closed shop and the check-off.

"Do we need a bit of regimentation? I don't know," Mr. Milburn said.

In his discussion of the hog industry he said "we produced over 800,000 more hogs this year and got over $3,000,000 less. Maybe we ought to take a leaf out of Denmark's book?" a reference to Danish supervision of production and marketing.

HOME MARKETS

Mr. Milburn suggested that perhaps the Canadian farmer should concentrate more attention on his potential home market. The population of Canada has increased 21 per cent in the last ten years. Ontario is becoming tremendously industrialized, and a major factor in that development was the gradual movement of the steel industry from the eastern United States into Canada, attracted by our resources of ore and potential electric energy.

"Gone are the days when the Ontario farmer could expect to hire cheap help. Steel is one of the highest paid industries in the world," and with its expansion in this country it was unlikely that agriculture would ever again expect the cheap labor on which it once depended.

As to concentrating on the potential domestic market, Mr. Milburn said it was a beautiful ideal that farmers should produce to their maximum in order that they could help feed a hungry world. But, why should the farmer be expected to produce surpluses of food, and thereby destroy his own income?

Farmers wanted export markets for their excess produce, "but they've got to be long term markets, in order that we can be assured of their continuance."

Henry A. Sharpe, president of Peterborough Federation, was chairman of the meeting. It began with a series of reports from commodity groups. Fred Crowe spoke for the cheese producers, Clarence Mann for the Ayrshire breeders, Clarence Johnston for Jersey breeders, Horace Hawkey for the Eastern Ontario Hereford Association, Lou Shaw for the Shorthorn breeders, Archie Davidson represented the Junior Farmers, W. W. Dawson reviewed briefly the progress of Kawartha Co-operative Medical Services, and Wellington Sutton represented the Farm Forums. Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, followed Mr. Milburn, who was introduced by Henry Batten.

Bright interludes in the program were the vocal numbers by a group of PCVI girls who introduced themselves as "Six Hits and a Miss." They were Anne Grant, Betty MacDonald, Elaine Grant, Barbara Woodcock, Mary Lou Waterman, Catherine Waterman. The vocal training the young ladies receive at the Collegiate Institute was reflected in the harmony of their Christmas carols.

KENNER COLLEGIATE, the culmination of more than three years of planning by the Board of Education, was officially opened Friday night by L. S. Beattie, superintendent of secondary education for Ontario, second from left. The quartet, looking over the program before the opening ceremony began, are W. B. (Pete) Gordon, chairman of the board; Mr. Beattie; G. Wilson Craw, chairman of the accommodation committee, and Superintendent K. S. Wightman. Feature of the night was the large number people who made a tour of the $660,000 school.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

OBITUARIES

FREDERICK ROSBOROUGH

Frederick Rosborough of Lakefield died today in hospital following a short ilness. He was born in Smith township, son of the late Alexander Rosborough and Hannah Trennum, where he farmed all his life before moving to the village two years ago. He was 78 years of age.

Mr. Rosborough leaves one brother, Joseph, in Peterborough. He atended the Baptist Church.

Funeral service will be held on Monday at the Hendren funeral home at 3:30 p.m. The Rev. George Downing of Lakefield Baptist Church will officiate and burial will be at Lakefield cemetery.

ROBERT G. CHARLTON

A prominent Douro township farmer for 60 years, Robert George Charlton, of Carolyn St., Lakefield, died today at his home following a short illness.

He was born in Harvey township, son of the late William Charlton and Jane Gillespie, and retired to the village nine years ago.

Besides his wife, the former Lydia Anne Rose, he leaves one daughter, Mrs. Alex Nichols (Minnie), of R.R. 1, Lakefield, and two brothers, David Charlton, of Peterborough, and Samuel, of Lakefield. There are three grandchildren, Joan, Bonnie and Ben Nichols.

Mr. Charlton was a member of Lakefield United Church and of LOL No . 122.

The funeral will be held on Monday from the Hendren funeral home to Lakefield United Church where service will be held at 2 p.m. The Rev. W. H. Tonge will officiate and burial will be at Lakefield cemetery.

ANNE MAUREEN McBRIDE

Infant Anne Maureen McBride, age two months, died on Friday at Gravenhurst hospital while en route with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Berton McBride, and two small brothers and sisters, from Parry Sound to Hamilton.

Mr. McBride, an X-ray technician and former Peterborough man, was moving to Hamilton where he will work with Dr. C. H. Hess of Medical Arts Building, Hamilton.

The body arrived in Peterborough by train today and will rest at the home of Charlton McBride, 16 Manning Ave. The Rev. A. A. Mathews, of George St. United Church, will officiate at a service there on Monday and burial will be at Little Lake cemetery.

France Boycotts Tunisian Debate

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) The UN resumes its French-boycotted debate on Tunisia today in an atmosphere of explosive tension following the slaying of a Tunisian independence leader, Farhat Hached.

French spokesmen said their delegation would ignore the pleas of some fellow-diplomats to return during discussion of an Arab-Asian bloc resolution supporting Tunisian demands for talks aimed at freeing the North African protectorate from French colonial rule.

The French announced their boycott as the debate opened Friday. They claim the Tunisian question is France's own internal business and no concern of the UN.

Two of the Arab-Asian bloc countries that sponsored the resolution, Egypt and Indonesia, join Cuba on the list of speakers due to address the 60-country political committee today.

The atmosphere in the UN halls became heavily charged by Friday's news of the murder of Hached, Tunisian union leader whose body was found machine-gunned and battered on a highway south of Tunis.

Fog Diverts Claxton Plane

LYNEHAM, Wiltshire, England (CP) — A military aircraft carrying Defence Minister Brooke Claxton and External Affairs Under-Secretary L. Dana Wilgress from Canada touched down at this RAF station today after being diverted by thick fog shrouding most British airports.

The Canadian party also included Air Marshal W. A. Curtis retiring chief of air staff.

The Canadian aircraft landed shortly after noon. Arrangements were quickly made for transport to nearby Swindon, where the passengers boarded a train for London.

An RAF spokesman at Lyneham said Claxton expressed mild displeasure about the enforced detour on the last stage of a 3,000-mile flight.

Claxton is to visit Canadian Defence establishments in Britain and Germany. Along with Wilgress and Finance Minister Douglas Abbott, he will go to Paris for the forthcoming meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Abbott is here for the current conference of Commonwealth ministers.

the construction of the Trent Canal through this section, and at one time was quite well known in Peterborough.

John M. R. Fairbairn, president in 1921, is the retired Chief Engineer of the Canadian Pacific Railway. His wife was a sister of Judge George M. Roger, and their father was the Rev. John Roger, the first Presbyterian minister in Peterborough.

Some of the recent presidents of the Institute were: Dr. Thomas H. Hogg, 1940, former chairman of the Hydro-electric Power Commission, and in 1941 Dr. C. J. Mackenzie of Ottawa, who is the president of the Canadian National Research Council and head of the Chalk River Atomic Control Board.

VISIT EVERY BRANCH

The recent presidential visit of J. B. Stirling of Montreal to the Peterborough branch was significant of an institute custom which virtually requires its presidents in their terms and turn to call upon every branch in the nation from Victoria, B.C, to St. John's, Newfoundland. This duty of maintaining and strengthening contacts with the EIC council assumes that the national chairman will have ample time for journeying across the country.

Mr. Dobbin's many friends in his native city will be delighted at the news of his acclamation to the chief office of the Engineer Institute of Canada. Most of his professional work has been done in Peterborough.

In 1911 he was graduated from the University of Toronto with the degree of Bachelor of Applied Science. One of his first appointments that year was a resident engineer under Walter J. Francis who was consulting engineer on the construction of the Moose Jaw municipal water system. In 1914 he was engaged as general manager of Peterborough's public utilities, gas water and electricity.

Mr. Dobbin was a student member of the EIC in 1910, prior to his graduation, became an associate member in 1914, and has been a member of the Institute since 1919.

Elected to the council of EIC for fourteen years, he was also vice-president in 1936-37, altogether an executive service and long membership which began in his student days at the University of Toronto and now places him in the presidency.

The citizens who have known Mr. Dobbin in his public work and management here, including his friends, will be grateful of the fact that his nomination was inspired by the professional company of the members of Peterborough branch of EIC. This was the recognition of men who know him best, and who presumably perceived his standing with the members of other branches.

One Arrested For Holdup Of Welland Credit Union

WELLAND (CP)—One man has been arrested and charged with armed robbery following the holdup of the Caisse Populaire by three masked men, who escaped with $5,500. Edward Sorokowski, 25, of Niagara Falls, Ont., was taken into custody while drinking coffee in a bus terminal restaurant. Police said he had almost $1,000 in bills in his pockets.

A second man was apprehended in a Niagara Falls hotel and brought to Welland for questioning, but police have laid no charge and declined to identify the suspect. A warrant for the arrest of a third man has been issued.

In their hurry to escape after the holdup Friday the three bandits dropped $1,446 on the street outside the combined credit union and post office.

TIED UP DIRECTOR

Gerard Poirier, financial director of the organization, said two men entered the room while a third climbed over the post office wicket. "They pushed me in the rear room," he said, "then forced me to lie down on the floor. While one of them bound my hands behind my back and my feet with adhesive tape, the other stuffed money into his pockets."

Omer Crevier, 34, of Welland, who went in to buy a money order, said he saw a tall masked man pushing bills into his pockets. "I just stood there. . . he didn't bother me and I didn't bother him. You never know if these guys will shoot."

The getaway car was found abandoned. Police said it had been rented from a Niagara Falls agency.

Agriculture Facing Gloomy Future

REGINA (CP)—Premier T. C. Douglas and Agriculture Minister I. C. Nollet told the Saskatchewan Farmers' Union convention that Canadian agriculture faces a gloomy future unless something is done to recapture overseas markets for meat and dairy products and to stabilize livestock and dairy farm income.

The Saskatchewan premier, just returned from a visit to Britain, said Britain needs Canada's cheese poultry products and meat, he said he refuses to believe the shortage of foreign exchange is an insoluble problem.

Mr. Douglas described marketing of meat, poultry and dairy products as "chaotic."

In the 5-above-zero temperature their appearance was such that one correspondent commented: "The Canadians must be the only troops with pressing irons—they're sharp."

Thursday the general had an honor guard in which Canada was represented by five gunners of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, three members of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry and two of the Royal 22nd Regiment. Later the same day the general saw two Canadians in a field hospital.

Flies For Prize

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Dr. Selman A. Waksman, director of the institute of microbiology at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N.J., arrived by air Friday to collect the 1952 Nobel prize in medicine. The co-discoverer of the wonder drug streptomycin will receive a $33,037 cash award and diploma from King Gustav Adolf next Wednesday.

Long Cattle Airlift

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — A plane-load of zebu calves arrived in Port Moresby, New Guinea, yesterday from Pakistan after a 5,000-mile flight — the longest cattle airlift ever carried out. Zebus are an Indian breed of humped cattle sturdy and impervious to tropical sun and most diseases. They will be used for breeding experiments.

Fire On Caronia

LIVERPOOL, England (Reuters)—Fire broke out in the boiler room of the luxury liner Caronia Friday night, injuring two of 50 firemen who brought it under control. Damage was not extensive. The 34,000-ton ship is being refitted here.

4 Students Burned

SOMERSET, Pa. (AP) — Four high school pupils returning from a dance burned to death today as their auto skidded off a bridge near this southwestern Pennsylvania town, plunged 60 feet to railroad tracks and burst into flames.

Sentence Commuted

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The death sentence of Lester Stevens was commuted to life imprisonment last night — less than two hours before he was scheduled to die in the electric chair. "I'm so happy I can't say anything sensible," he said. Stevens, 31, was convicted of the slaying of Joshua Blocher, 85-year-old recluse, in a robbery attempt that netted only 13 cents.

Official Medal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The official medal commemorating the inauguration of Dwight D. Eisenhower as president Jan. 20 will be a 2¾-inch bronze piece with a profile of Eisenhower on one side and the United States seal on the back. They will sell for $3 each, on a first-come, first-served basis.

Dr. C. D. Gaitskell To Speak Here

Prince of Wales Home and School Association will have as guest speaker at their regular monthly meeting, Tuesday, at 8 p.m., Dr. C. D. Gaitskell, Director of Art for the Province of Ontario. His subject will be "Art in the Schools Today."

Dr. Gaitskell was born in Kent, England, but came to British Columbia at an early age where he was educated, attending the University of British Columbia and obtaining his MA degree.

After post-graduate work in California and Toronto he received his Doctor of Paedagogy and was appointed Director of Art for Ontario.

Dr. Gaitskell headed several research investigations into teaching of art in Ontario. He is the author of several books related to this subject.

A signal honor came to him when he was appointed chairman of an international seminar on child art education sponsored by UNESCO.

Dr. Gaitskell is principal of the Summer School in Arts and Crafts at Danforth Technical School each summer. This school which serves primarily the needs of teachers in Ontario is the largest of its kind in North America.

Last Of Convicts Captured By FBI

PITTSBURGH (CP) — The last of nine desperate convicts who broke out of Western state penitentiary at Pittsburgh Sunday was captured at a home of a relative, the federal bureau of investigation announced today. He was Andrew L. White, 31, serving 17 to 34 years for robbery. He offered no resistance.

Seven others were captured during the week. Another convict was picked up a short distance from the prison after following the others down a 70-foot rope of sheets and towels.

Officer Disappears

BELGRADE (Reuters) — Maj. Gen. Bekir Boloku, former chief of staff of the Albanian Army, has disappeared without trace, Belgrade radio reports. The radio said he was last seen in August getting into a plane at Tirana airport with three civilians. Soon after a new chief of staff, Maj.-Gen. Petri Duma, was appointed.

Hunt Murderer

HANNOVER, Germany (AP)—West German police are on a country-wide hunt for the "autobahn murderer" suspected of strangling 16 women in a five-year career along the highways and byways. Placards offering a reward of 7,000 marks ($1,666) for his capture were posted through the country today. They bear a drawing of him made from descriptions supplied by eye-witnesses to some crimes.

Gen. MacArthur Has "Solution"

NEW YORK (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur, mentioning President-elect Eisenhower publicly for the first time since the election, says "there is a clear and definite solution to the Korean conflict."

MacArthur, in a speech Friday night to the National Association of Manufacturers, said he was confident a solution "can be executed without either an unduly heavy price in friendly casualties or any increased danger of provoking universal conflict."

The former Far East commander did not go into details, saying that basic decisions are involved "which I recognize as improper for public disclosure or discussion." He said, "it is well known that my own views have not been sought in any way."

Zurich Charming Blend Of Old And New

A bustling crossroads in Europe since long before the Romans levied the first ferry dues, Zurich a charming blend of medieval and modern is one of the loveliest of Swiss cities. It is the commercial, educational and cultural centre of that dynamic little country.

Too many tourists hurry through this delightful city with eyes only for such noted points as Interlaken with its wonderful mountains. Zurich is a city with a river — the Limmat — and the riverfront is Zurich. On both sides of the Limmat, for several bridges, it is lined with old guildhalls now housing glamorous restaurants. A room in the Hotel zum Storchen (To The Stork) with a balcony overlooking the river is one of the most beautiful views in that country of lovely sights.

For those who like to avoid the big rush of tourists in the "off season," April is a delightful time to visit the city and also to say goodbye to Old Man Winter.

At the end of April each year, Zurich holds a holiday for the Festival of Spring. A great procession moves through the streets — not unlike the Lord Mayor's show in London. Members of the old guilds take part in these, many of them dressed in clothes of olden days. At 6 o'clock, an image of Winter is burnt in the great square, and in the evening, men of the guilds visit each other in handsome guild houses along the river. The merrymaking lasts till early morning.

As far back as the third millennium Before Christ, pile-dwelling occupants lived around Zurich through the stone and bronze ages till about 800 B.C. Land settlements of the early Iron Age gradually sprang up and evidence of their occupation is in large grave mound remains in the vicinity of the city. About 58 B.C., the Helvetians and tribes came under Roman rule.

Some of Zurich's more interesting offerings include: Rieter Park, a magnificent public park with a view of the lake and Alps. In the park is the Villa Wesendonck where Richard Wagner once lived. There is the Grossmunster, which legend says Charlemagne founded at the beginning of the 9th century. It is still the most important Romanesque edifice in Switzerland. To keep it company, in 853 his grandson founded the Fraumunster Abbey for his daughter and part of the abbey survives in the cloisters of Fraumunster Church.

There is St. Peter's Church with its 13th century tower substructure and with the largest clock tower in Europe; Lindenhof Hill, a former Roman citadel with excavations; the Rathouse (town hall); the Swiss National Museum and the historic Guild houses.

HARD TO CHOOSE

There are many interesting and lovely trips which can be made by train or steamer to places nearby. A 25-minute ride by the electric railway from Selnau station will take the visitor to Uetliberg (2,853 ft.) to Zurich's most famous viewpoint. Here there is a magnificent panorama of the Alps, Lake of Zurich and its environs and the Alpine foothills. There is also an excellent restaurant and observation tower.

By train, in 2 to 4 hours, one can also visit Waid for a grand view, and 30 minutes by electric railway will take the visitor to Forch for another beautiful view.

Steamers run several times a day to different points on the Lake of Zurich. One of the loveliest of these trips can be done in half a day to Rapperswill — "Rose Town" by the lake. It has an ancient castle, good hotels and restaurants.

Other half-day trips include those to Insel Ufenau which has the tomb of the reformer Hutton and to Halbinsel Au, another fine panorama view of the mountains and lake.

FOOD DELICIOUS

Food in Switzerland varies according to the region: French in the west; Italian in the south and German in the north and east. Zurich falls in the last category. There are numerous specialties among which is fondue. This is a dish of cheese, melted in wine and eaten with pieces of bread. There are wonderful sausages and hams, excellent cheeses. Venison and hare are also popular.

Native Swiss wines are tart and the most famous is Neufchatel, a dry white wine. Some of the best regional wines include: Lake Geneva, the Valais and famous Riesling-sylvaner of Zurich vineyards. Good liqueurs include Kirsch and Marc (the latter being highly potent).

There are many luxury hotels, but any hotel or inn in Switzerland, regardless of size, is clean, pleasant and safe for travellers. There is a set price for accommodation and meals and tipping is not the racket it is in many European countries.

Tipping is a 15% service charge added to the hotel bill and that covers everything except for very special extras. In restaurants tip 10% and cabbies receive 10 to 15% and higher at night. Checkroom and washroom attendants get around 25 centimes.

No trip to Switzerland could possibly be complete without a few days in Zurich. Indeed a good part of a vacation could be well spent there and the delights of the city would not lose their charm.

Knox United Founded 42 Years Ago

Guest preacher the Rev. William G. Berry associate secretary of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church of Canada, will preach for anniversary services on Sunday at Knox United Church.

The church was founded 42 years ago in a stable on the east side of Aylmer St., between Charlotte and Rink Sts., and was known as Knox Presbyterian Church. The stable church was the first meeting place of the Presbyterians in Peterborough during the ministry of the late Rev. John Roger.

A lot was acquired on Dalhousie St., between Stewart and Rubidge in 1873 and a Sunday School was erected on the plot, for non-denominational use. The building and lot were eventually sold to the Church of England, the present All Staints' Church.

From 1892 when a new lot was purchased for $1,250 nothing was done in the way of building until 1902 when a Sunday school was buildt at a cost of $4,037 and was known as St. Paul's Mission. It became an independent parish five years later and a corner stone for the present Knox United Church was laid in 1910 by the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, the late Hon. J. M. Gibson.

The church was ready for use ten months later and remained Presbyterian until church union of 1925 when it became a Uunited Church.

Norwood WMS Holds Christmas Meeting

NORWOOD (ENS)—The regular meeting of the WMS of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was held in the primary room of the church Tuesday afternoon with a good attendance.

The program prepared by Mrs. A. A. Waddel began with quiet music, "O Little Town of Bethlehem," and the president, Mrs. S. A. Sexsmith, in the chair, read a poem, "To Bethlehem." Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. John Gilmour.

Poem, "O Little Inn of Bethlehem," Mrs. Sexsmith; verse two of hymn, "O Little Town of Bethlehem"; scripture, the announcement, Luke 2:8-14, Mrs. William Robb; hymn, "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night"; shepherds, Luke 2:15-20, Mrs. John Rogers; "Only a Manger scripture, the response of the Cold and Bare," Mrs. S. A. Sexsmith; hymn, "Holy Night"; the response of the wise man, Matt. 2:1-11, Mrs. Gordon Rothwell; hymn, "As With Gladness Men of Old"; Mrs. Aubrey Waddell, a reading entitled "The Star," and Mrs. Sexsmith, "O Little Inn of Bethlehem"; Mrs. William Golloher gave a reading on "The Coming of the King of Kings."

Following the meeting, the Mission Band was shown two films, "The Royal Tour" and "Santa Claus Parade." After the pictures lunch was served.

Marilyn Robson Heads Jr. Homemaking Club

The project for this year is "Working With Wool." Wool was tested by burning it with a match. Then various kinds of material were put in a dye solution. The pure wool dissolved. The group members measured each other and discussed ordering patterns. The next meeting will be on Tuesday, December 9, at the home of Phyllis Isaac.

Sunlight Hazard

CAPETOWN (CP)—The South African Medical Journal said overexposure to the sun may be a major contributary factor in skin cancer of white people. A research team found that African natives do not suffer to the same extent.

TEN TO ONE—Judge Joseph Sabath, above, noted Chicago jurist, takes pride in the 10,000 marraige he has saved, by reconciling estranged couples, during his 42 years on the bench. On the gloomy side of the picture, the retiring jurist estimates that it has been his duty to sign 100,000 divorce decrees during the same period.

RIDES UNDER WATER—Great Britain's latest under water "weapon" is the Austin 'Champ," top. The four-wheel-drive vehicle is waterproofed, and carries a snorkel-type device which allows it to "breathe" under water. Below, driver could get a foot or more deeper if he were equipped with a mask and oxygen supply. The auto is designed for personnel transport.

Wizard Of Stock Market Penniless Seven Years Ago

By FRED SAITO

TOKYO (AP)—The wizard of the booming Japanese stock market is a 37-year-old South Korean who started without a penny of his own in 1945 and now speculates with some $10,000,000 entrusted to him by millions of clients.

His personal fortune is a secret, but Matsutomi Ito is a wide contrast to more than 600,000 other Koreans in Japan, most of them poverty-stricken day laborers, looked upon as second class citizens.

Ito now heads a private stock investment fund with 180 branches throughout the country. The powerful Honganji Buddhist sect with 10,000,000 followers is one of his best customers.

Japanese brokers look with awe upon this slight young man who adopted a Japanese name and is now a naturalized citizen.

Ito came to Japan in 1928 to live with his brother, a factory worker now missing in Korea. Now he lives in a palace-sized house and travels in a chauffeur-driven limousine.

After the Second World War Ito borrowed money and headed for the countryside to buy food and bring it to starving Tokyo.

STRENUOUS BUSINESS

"It was a strenuous business but rewarded with 100 per-cent profit in the chaotic days when many faced starvation," Ito told an interviewer.

Ito turned away from his fellow Koreans.

"I have no friends in the Korean community and don't seek them," he said.

With funds gained from his food dealings, Ito started a stock brokerage business in Tokyo's east-end slum district in 1948.

PROVES GENIUS

He proved a genius at figuring the twistings and turnings of Japan's bouncing market. He borrowed money from investors and speculated on his own, dividing the profits later.

The average of 225 stocks issued on the market recently advanced from 167 yen, early in January, to 329 yen on Nov. 10. One Japanese camera firm's stock shot up from 165 yen to 415 yen in two weeks.

Ito learned to call the turn and he's still at it.

2 Die In Handcar Dive

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—Two men were killed and a third injured Friday night when their handcar plunged 100 feet from a railway trestle to the gorge below. Killed were Heinz Schulze, 22, and Beverly Campbell, 20. Injured was Thomas Bowling, 25. The men were replacing timbers on the Canadian National Railways trestle when the accident occurred.

5 Die In Cabin Fire

NORTH CREEK, N.Y. (AP)—Five young children perished Friday in a fire that destroyed their parents' log cabin. Their mother, Mrs. Harold Olden, 31, suffered severe burns in trying to rescue the five, whose ages ranged from five to 10. The mother and father escaped with two other children, aged 1 and 2.

Face Murder Trial

MONTREAL (CP)—Robert and Yvon Bedard, aged 16 and 14, Friday were committed for trial on charges of murdering their father and the attempted murder of their mother. The father, Philippe Bedard, was fatally shot and his wife wounded Oct. 30, when, police said, the parents reprimanded the boys for coming home late.

Prudence Is Also A Virtue

The unfortunate death at Barrie of a girl who abandoned the use of insulin in the hope that her faith would cure her of diabetes, has aroused some hasty and ill-considered opinion about faith and healing. There has even been a suggestion that a law preventing faith-healers from spreading their beliefs is needed in Ontario. We are not disturbed about this, for we are sure that good sense will prevail in this matter—but when we say good sense we attach something more than the casual meaning to the phrase. We think that faith and good sense should go hand in hand.

* * *

There are countless instances in which faith has healed sick people of serious illnesses; the nature of these illnesses is much better understood than it used to be, and the expression "psychosomatic" has been coined by the medical profession to describe them. They are not "imaginary" in any trivial sense, but their genesis is different from that of certain other sorts of disease. It is unjustifiable for anyone to assume that because faith has cured certain people of serious ailments, that faith will cure every ailment in every case. But few physicians would deny that faith is an extremely important element in most cures which appear to be brought about wholly by medical skill. For most people, faith and a good doctor are the safest refuges in illness.

* * *

To cast aside insulin treatment which had been continued for many years would seem to most people—including those whose faith is deep and abundant—to be an unwise course of action. Faith, as formal theology teaches us, is one of the greatest of the seven virtues. But another of the virtues is called Prudentia, or Common Sense; faith divorced from common sense is like a ship that is all sail and no rudder.

* * *

Let us not lose our common sense or our faith because of the unhappy case at Barrie. Above all, let us not talk about making laws which restrict the work of people who, though mistaken, are sincere and devout in their faith. Education and persuasion, not laws, will meet the need.

An Old Region, Niagara

They have been building bastions at Niagara since 1678. The French explorer La Salle constructed a stockade on the east side of the river, which later became Fort Niagara, the most important outpost of western Canada. The Loyalists, 1,200 families of them, set up political bastions in the area after the American Revolution. Queenston Heights and Lundy's Lane in the war of 1812-14 resulted in Brock's monument towering into the sky. They dug a canal beside the river, and by 1932 the Welland Ship Canal had the largest single canal lock in the world—blockades of concrete for peaceful commerce. They have been putting other walls in the river itself, and towers atop them; by 1957 Hydro will have doubled its power capacity at Niagara, giving Ontario the largest supply of water power produced at any single site in the world. Other bastions are less prominent but equally pervasive; for instance the picket railings along front verandahs on which formidable Falls town landladies sit in their rocking chairs, waiting for tourists to drop into their lap in search of a bed for the night.

The Niagara Region, as delimited by statisticians of the Ontario Bureau of Research, is the counties of Lincoln and Welland in the eastern section of the Niagara Peninsula. The region is bordered on three sides by water—Lake Ontario, the Niagara River and Lake Erie—and is, in tourist opinion, fringed by the U.S.A., spray from the Falls, and the blossom of fruit trees. Tourists, especially to Niagara where the moon is made of honey, get a starry-eyed view of the area. In reality it is Ontario's power house and most highly industrialized area. Although it contains one of the most intensive horticultural areas in the Province, agriculture is of comparatively minor importance. The region's net farm income runs to little over ten million dollars a year (Lincoln County with its fruit belt provides seven of the ten million); farm income is well below the provincial average; on the other hand the gross value of its manufacture is five hundred million dollars.

For all its garden semblance, the Niagara Peninsula is urban and industrialized. Not that its cities and towns suggest this. St. Catharines, Merriton, Grimsby, Beamsville, Welland, Niagara Falls, Thorold, Fort Erie. These names and outward appearance continue the myth of Niagara as a garden of Eden with a Jupiter water-fall. An intimate look shows that since 1921 the majority of the population has been urban; today 67.1 percent. of the people of the peninsula are townspeople, and those who do not cater to tourists or put fruit into cans are working at the largest nickel refinery in the world (Port Colborne), at nine electric furnaces in Welland (city) which have a combined capacity of 175,000 tons for steel and steel products, in Crowland township and Welland at heavy iron fabrication (for instance, the pipe for the Alberta-Great Lakes oil pipeline), at producing heavy machinery and tools, automobile parts and textiles at St. Catharines, or in pulp and paper mills at Thorold and Merritton. During last year seven new industries were established and thirty-five existing plants were enlarged.

It is these industries—and the minor business of growing and canning fruits—which keeps the Niagara peninsula from being parasitic, living off tourists, shipping and power (also shipped away). The Welland Ship Canal, besides passing cargoes through, actually brings and takes away Niagara cargoes. Way traffic on the canal last year accounted for eleven per cent of the total way and through cargo tonnage. This Niagara cargo included 392,000 tons of pulpwood, 390,000 tons of soft coal and 346,000 tons of wheat.

Industry is not entirely a blessing to the Peninsula. It is unstable; right now the district has more than the average amount of unemployment in the Province. The fruit cropping and canning business is seasonal; the tourist business is seasonal, and the heavy industries are liable to great fluctuations.

Another oddity in the Peninsula: one of its two counties, Lincoln, is the smallest in the Province. Another item of size: the area has eight million visitors a year, who obviously have a profound psychological as well as financial ($30,000,000) effect on Niagara people.

"Just An Atom"

The new President of Mexico, Adolfo Ruiz Cortines, says that he likes to stroll in the streets of New York "lost among 8,000,000 people. There, one is just an atom." Just an atom. The phrase is an echo of other days, when an atom was merely the smallest and least important thing imaginable. So small, in fact, that it could not be divided. But now scientists have destroyed the fact and the phrase; they have split the atom and exploded it into a bomb-quaking world. A person who likes to feel the sensation of being "just an atom" is suspect. What megalomania possess him; what horrible things is he contemplating; what blow to the world? Is the newly-installed President Mexico's A-bomb? It seems not; he is a bureaucrat, addicted to efficiency and statistics, a quiet, honest man. He likes to feel himself "just an atom" among millions of people. It is an old-fashioned notion, to express his liking for anonymity and inconspicuousness, not for demagoguery. And yet, has it not been modest, quiet, honest men with a passion for efficiency and figures—they very archetypes of anonymity as they work in their laboratories—who have split the world as they divided the atom? We fear to dismiss President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines' metaphor for the mild phrase it seems.

Saarlanders' Choice

Last Sunday 620,000 Saarlanders faced a choice between voting for the official pro-French parties and a demonstrative blank vote for the reunion of the Saar with Germany (the pro-German voters had no candidates running). The Saarlanders decided in favour of their bread-basket rather than their German blood. About 580,000 voted; only 141,892 votes were invalidated, indicating that fewer than a fifth favoured a return to Germany. The election called when the Franco-German negotiations on a Saar compromise were temporarily broken, had the aspect of a plebiscite: a vote for the official parties was a vote for an autonomous Europeanized Saar, a blank vote was one for reunion with Germany and against Europe.

Most Saarlanders, a shrewd and cautious people, showed their conviction that whatever they did, their future would be decided by continued negotiation among the Powers. They are not masters of their fate in this essential pocket of Europe's steel industry, and must come under the hegemony of either France or Germany, with age-old bickering between them.

The election gave the Christian Democrats of Premier Johannes Hoffman 29 of the 50 seats in the Parliament. With the Saar still remaining under French influence, the Schuman Plan may perhaps be fully negotiated, for with the Saar, France has a balance to Germany's own production capacity. Without it, France would be a secondary and impotent partner in the deal.

NOTE AND COMMENT

In its civic elections 70 per cent. of Ottawa's voters went to the polls. The defeated candidate, Controller Coulter, polled more votes than any previous mayoral candidate ever received and even with that Miss Whitton beat him by 3,875. A good show all round!

The Journal of Samuel Marchbanks

SUNDAY: There can be no doubt that future historians will look upon this present age as an Age of Decline. True it will have its glories, and may be referred to in histories of philosophy and humanism as the Age of Marchbanks, but it is scarcely possible for a single man to redeem a whole era. Today, for instance, I found myself in the company of several men of business, and they were boasting, which is no cause for surprise. But of what were they boasting? They were blowing, to my grief and astonishment, about the rate of Income Tax they paid. "Fifty per cent. of all I make goes in Income Tax", cried one. "Laughable pauper!" cried another, "I have paid sixty-five per cent. for years!" "To the House of Refuge with you!" cried still a third, and revealed that he keeps only fifteen per cent. of what he makes. When all men have left to be proud of is the poor moiety which the tax-gatherers leave them of their wealth, a greater decline than that of Imperial Rome is far advanced in its progress. Mark the words of Marchbanks the Prophet.

MONDAY: Shop windows are beginning to be full of things for Christmas, and today I found myself, pondering in front of a window full of dolls. Why, I asked myself, have they such faces? There is a look of more than human stupidity on the face of the average doll which fills me with amazement. It is not a look of innocence, for innocence has an appealing beauty; it is a look which suggests that all the sins and horrors and wonders of the world had passed before the eyes of the doll, and that the doll was too dumb and indifferent to form any opinion about them. Why, also, have dolls complexions which would convince any physician that apoplexy was at hand? Those bulging cheeks, engorged with blood; those parted lips, as though perpetually panting for breath; those thick necks; that tendency to go to sleep whenever they are not sitting bolt upright; those squeaking voices, so eloquent of serious glandular maladjustment—all these things make dolls abhorrent to me, for they are plainly sick creatures, and I do not want a diseased thing to put into the hands of a child. I have only known two women in my life who looked like dolls; one is insane, the other in a home for fallen women.

TUESDAY: A child showed me a comic book today which was supposed to be improving in its influence, for it sought to show how much better life is today than it was in the 18th century. It pointed out rather smugly that in those days there was no electricity, that many people could not read, and that life was somewhat inconvenient. So far as I am concerned life is still far from convenient, but pleasant for all that, and many people who can read do not seem to do so. Further, some things achieved a perfection in the 18th century which has never since been surpassed: we have never bettered their window-sashes, for instance; nor have we designed any chairs which combine beauty and comfort as theirs did; our glass and chinaware are not, on the whole, as good as theirs, nor are our textiles. In fact, in virtually every phase of architecture and industrial design, they beat the heads off us and we still copy them because we cannot do better. It is dishonest to give children the notion that we are cleverer than our ancestors in every respect. We make many things more easily than they, but not necessarily better.

WEDNESDAY: Was visited today by a Hindu gentleman who is in town with an evangelistic entertainment sponsored by one of the large evangelistic churches. "My friends told me you looked very queer", said he, "but you do not look queer to me". I thanked him for these kind words, which were most sincerely spoken, but I pondered on them secretly. Do they mean that I look odd to the devout? It may be, for many of them look uncommonly odd to me. Or does his remark imply that I look like a Hindu? I should not mind, for on the whole I like Hindus, but it is certainly curious that an Anglo-Celt should look like one. He came to see me because he wanted to have a look at a Canadian writer. "Have you a coherent philosophy of art?" he asked. Oriental people ask these indelicate questions without warning, and they always disconcert me. Should a Canadian writer have a coherent philosophy of art, or should he be content with a shaky grasp of English grammar and a few friends on the staffs of big magazines? I parried the question by saying that I had an incoherent philosophy of art which I was trying to clarify, and he was kind enough to change the subject.

THURSDAY: Bought a book in a second-hand shop today, and was surprised when I took it home to find the name of a dear friend of mine, who died a few years ago, written on the flyleaf. I was glad to have his book and give it a good home, for his sake as well as for the interest of the book itself, but the incident saddened me. Some day will my books lie in dishonoured heaps in junk-shops, waiting for chance buyers? The relationship between a book-lover and his books is a deeply personal one, and perhaps, when a book-lover dies, his books should be burned on his grave, to save them from less affectionate hands.

◇ ◇ ◇

FRIDAY: Had to go to Toronto, for in a weak moment some months ago I agreed to talk to a women's club today. I am a hardy optimist; when people ask me to make speeches several months before the appointed time I often accept, stupidly thinking that in the interval something will happen to prevent me from making good my promise. But the fateful day always comes, and there I am, on my feet, clutching my notes, with despair in my heart. An audience entirely of men is bad enough, but an audience entirely of women is as frightening as a battery of machine guns. There is one thing about female audiences, though — they have a delicious smell. Powder, expensive textiles and scent—all favourite sniffs of mine,—combine to make them more glorious than a June garden. I am sure not one of these ladies today was wearing any scent below the rank of Chanel Number Five, and I thought I detected several twenty-five-dollars-an-ounce whiffs, for they were wealthy women, knee-deep in good works. So I inhaled deeply and gave tongue. Audiences of men smell of cigars, whisky and shoe-polish, which inspires we with solemn and world-shaking thoughts, unsuitable for the more delicate intellects of women.

◇ ◇ ◇

SATURDAY: Remained in Toronto on business, which was considerably impeded by an invasion of zealots from the West, supporting the Edmonton Eskimos in their ill-fated quest for the Grey Cup. Huge roaring men in white hats charged about the streets like mavericks, accompanied by women with leather lungs and improbable costumes. It was an awesome sight, and a great hindrance to traffic. Later I was in conversation with a merry fellow who knew many odd scraps of history and told me that William McKinley, 25th president of the U.S.A., died of a tobacco heart. "Surely he was assassinated by the anarchist, Leon Czolgosz?" said I. "Czolgosz shot him", said he, "but McKinley lingered for some time, and when he died several papers of strong moral tendency said that if his heart had not been weakened by tobacco smoking, he would have pulled through. I was alive then, and I recall it well; you can't imagine how powerful the anti-tobacco faction was in 1901". He also told me that the name of the killer was pronounced Cholguss, and many wits at the time said he had been driven to madness, and his rash act, by a lifetime of hearing it mispronounced.

Letters To The Editor

A POOR LAW

Sir: Rarely do I miss voting in civic, provincial or federal elections. However, I reluctantly refrained in the recent civic elections in the case of the aldermanic vote.

After careful study, I found there were but three candidates I knew enough about and felt would make good council members—though, no doubt, some of the other candidates were equally capable; and all who offer their services deserve credit.

But, since one must vote for four or none at all, I voted for none. Probably others feel the same as I do. It is a poor law that forces one to vote for that many. It probably keeps many people away from the polls.

Sincerely,
NON-VOTER

ABOUT AMBULANCE SERVICE

Sir: I am in full agreement with R. R. Findlay's suggestion in Thursday's Examiner. I do not think that a service which is surely as vital in saving life as the fire service, should be left in private hands.

May I say a few words about the Ambulance Service in England.

Before the war, in the town in which I lived, which was larger than Peterborough, 3 ambulances were stationed in the same building as the Fire Hall. Emergency calls for the ambulance came into the Fire Hall switchboard and the ambulance was immediately sent out and driven by a Fireman who was a fully qualified St. John First Aid man. He was accompanied by another fully trained and very experienced St. John's man, who was regularly on the staff and in charge of the First Aid work and at all time wore the St. John's Ambulance Uniform. It has been their boast that, whatever the weather, day or night, the Ambulance was out in the street within 2 minutes of receiving a call.

When the war started and the 'A.R.P.' was formed, the Ambulance Service was manned by them and I was a driver for 6 months.

Each ambulance was fitted with an electric bell, which was worked by the horn button in the centre of the steering wheel. We were only allowed to use this bell when going to an accident. It was rung almost continuously and I think the sound was much more effective than the siren used here. Our main street was about as wide as George St. but about twice as long and when one rang the bell, all traffic pulled out of the way or stopped. It was uncanny to drive through heavy traffic with the bell ringing to see the road ahead clear almost immediately. We kept a log showing time of call received and the time of the journey and the nature of the accident.

The other two ambulances were kept in case of 2 or more accidents and were relatively older, but very serviceable. They were all three painted white with a large illuminated red cross on the top. This cross was only illuminated in the case of an accident call.

Besides accidents we did 'Removals" or took sick people to local hospitals or London hospitals, the patient paying according to the distance involved. These removal cases were booked in advance. There were no private ambulances, all the work being done by the City Ambulance Service.

Incidentally we were always taught that, in case of an accident, the casualty should not be moved until seen by a trained First Aid man as much more damage could be done by moving, than may have been done by the accident, especially with fractures and back injuries.

I think the suggestion of R. R. Findlay is along these lines and apart from garaging, the only City expense would be the purchase or rent of the ambulance, which could be driven by Firemen and the employment of an experienced St. John's Ambulance man full time (or a nurse). The 'Removal' cases would bring in a certain amount of revenue to offset these expenses. I know this is a very different set up to the present one, but I know it really works and its speed and efficiency work as quick and good as our present Fire Service of which we can be proud.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

This is the book of the generations of Adam. . . . And Adam lived an hundred and thirty years, and begat a son in his own likeness, after his image, and called his name Seth: and the days of Adam after he had begotten Seth were eight hundred years: and he begat sons and daughters. (Gen. 5:1, 3, 4.)

And God saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually . . . And God saith unto Noah, The end of all flesh is come before me: for the earth is filled with violence through them: and, behold, I will destroy them with the earth. Make thee an ark of gopher wood; rooms shalt thou make in the ark, and shalt pitch it within and without with pitch. (Gen. 6:5, 13, 14.)

◇ ◇ ◇

And the Lord said unto Noah, Come thou and all thy house into the ark; for thee have I seen righteous before me in this generation. (Gen. 7:1.)

For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God . . .

The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God. (Rom. 8:14, 16.)

Unconsidered Trifles

From a provincial newspaper:

"Reliable and hard-working clerk who is paid on Friday and is broke on Tuesday would like to exchange small loans with another who gets paid on Wednesday and is broke on Saturday."

"Well, dear," said Mr. Blair, after tea had been cleared away, "what are you planning to do this evening?"

Mrs. Blair shrugged her shoulders. "Nothing special," she replied. "I'll probably write a letter or two, read, listen to the radio, and so on."

"I see, he replied. "When you come to the so on, don't forget my shirt buttons."

He had managed to get a job as collector for the Gas Board.

"Take this master-key and go around and empty all the coin boxes; get all the money," said the manager.

He was gone for three weeks. Then he walked into the office and announced: "Can I have another key? I've lost t'other one."

"Certainly," replied the manager. "But where have you been all this time? The cashier has stopped late every night expecting you to come for your wages."

"Gee!" exclaimed the man, beaming, "do I get wages as well'?"

Improved Breed

(Vancouver Province)

This year Canadians wagered $67,440,997 through the horse-racing pari-mutuel machines, the highest amount of controlled betting in 30 years and a near record.

The hypocrisy of clamping down on tiny local lotteries while permitting nation-wide betting on horse races is glossed over with the skimpiest subterfuges. The pari-mutuel figures, for instance, were issued by the agriculture department, which was given supervision of pari-mutuel betting in the days when it was deemed that horse-racing was primarily to improve the breed.

Despondency among the little ones overhearing Father Christmas discussing . . . very unseasonable terms the suggestion that shopworkers should work longer hours.

Township Clerk Capt. Hill Fined £20; Refused To Let Elected Man On Council

(By E. C. GUILLET)

When municipal government was established as a result of Lord Durham's Report, Captain Hill was appointed first Warden of the Colborne District and retained that office from 1842 to 1846. For the ten years prior to his death in November 1861 he was Clerk of Dummer and Burleigh townships, and for seven years Superintendent of Schools. (Not only was he Superintendent, but it appears from the researches of Mrs. Helen Marryat, Hastings, that in 1857 he taught at Westwood school, school section No. 1, Asphodel Township.) The neat and carefully-compiled records which he kept of municipal proceedings may still be seen in Warsaw village.

But all was not a bed of roses in those days of bitter politics, and towards the end of his life Hill became engaged in an unfortunate controversy in which he appears to have overplayed his hand. In the election of 1860 there was a hot contest between George Payne and William Manley for the Township Council, and Manley won by a few votes. But Hill declared in favor of the defeated candidate, refusing to admisister to Manley a declaration of qualification.

PROTEST MEETING

On January 19th, consequently, a public meeting was held in Warsaw, and Hill's action criticized. As a result the Clerk was brought before two Justices of the Peace and fined £20 and costs. But he still persisted in his opposition to Manley, so an application was made to the Court of Common Pleas to obtain a mandamus to force him to do his duty.

The Court tried to avoid it by suggesting that Manley make his declaration before a justice and then apply to the Clerk: but Manley did so and was again refused, so he renewed his application for a mandamus.

COURTED TROUBLE

Meanwhile Hill wrote the Peterborough Review, giving his version of the affair up to June 1860. He claimed that the Court, in refusing the mandamus, had confirmed him and the election of Payne, and suggested that a public example be made of the JPs who had fined him. In returning to the attack Manley charged that Hill was dishonest, crafty, obstinate, and continually making false statements, and that he, and the electors generally, were "at the tender mercies of a set of men as Councillors, led by their unerring star, G. A. Hill, who are ever ready to set aside all municipal law whenever it suited their selfish designing interests."

When the second application came up in August, Hill secured a postponement until November, when the case was heard by Chief Justice W. N. Draper. On December 29th the mandamus was granted, and on January 2, 1861, after a year had passed since his election, Manley again presented himself and was received by Clerk Hill.

DEATH

Ten months later, on November 4, 1861, George Arundel Hill died at the age of 65. Two short obituary notices are found in the files of the contemporary press. The Peterborough Review of the 15th carried the following:

"We record today the death of Mr. George A. Hill, of Dummer. Mr. Hill was the first Warden of the United Counties of Peterboro' and Victoria, then known as the Colborne District. He was elected to the office in 1841. For many years past Mr. Hill has filled the office of Township Clerk, Local Superintendent of Schools, and sub-treasurer of school moneys, in the township of Dummer. He was a man of more than average ability; but was principally remarkable for the eccentricity of his opinions upon religious questions."

"He was a man of the most strict accuracy in business, and until life's end drew nigh, one of his greatest cares was to fill the duties of a public office with correctness, and as he himself expressed it to a friend, not many days before his death, 'that after he was gone there might be no trouble on his account'. A large family and many friends are made mourners by his removal."

It will be appropriate here to assemble such memoirs as are available with relation to the family of George Arundel Hill. Colonel Charles Hill, 83 Lawrence Avenue, Toronto, whose grandfather, Bold Cudmore Hill, was a brother of G. A. Hill, and Mrs. Helen Marryat of Hastings, Ontario, have provided the author with valuable information as to some of Hill's descendants.

Colonel Hill states that Hopton, as well as Bold, would appear to have been a family name, as one of his sons was so called. A daughter, Mrs. Stephen Jory, was living at Crystal Lake, Manitoba, in 1913. Bold, another son, was apparently for half a century of unbalanced mind.

For many years he wandered from place to place in Peterborough County, where friends were kind enough to receive him for a day or two and to allow him to plant and cultivate a patch of potatoes. In fact it is recalled that Captain Hill left a sum of money to be distributed among various persons upon whom Bold was accustomed to call, and they at times provided him with clothing and other necessities.

"OLD BOLD"

In September, 1911, Bold Hill died, and the following pathetic obituary appeared in the local press:

'Old Bold', as he was commonly called by all, has been a most familiar figure on our public highways for the past half century.

He was brought up in the township of Dummer and was the son of a British officer, Captain George A. Hill, who was one of the first Wardens of this County, and a former Reeve of Dummer.

'Bold' is said to have been well educated, but when a young man went out of his mind (over some love affair, it is said). Since that time he has been walking aimlessly about and was known to everybody as a simple yet harmless individual.

For the past four or five years he has made his home with Mrs. Thomas Parker, Belmont Street, Norwood, from whose residence the funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon to the Norwood cemetery."

"HERMIT HILL"

G. A. Hill had another brother, who curiously enough had also been given the family name Arundel. He was a bachelor who taught for some time in the Cayuga High School and then removed to the shores of Rice Lake, where he lived a secluded existence and was commonly known as "Hermit Hill."

The author of what is perhaps the most remarkable of our county histories, both as to contents and compilation, had an accurate appreciation of Captain Hill's contribution to Peterborough. Detailing the various public offices he had held, "the duties of which he performed with rare ability and with scrupulous care and precision," Dr. Poole concludes:

"In several respects he was a remarkable man, and it is with regret that we find ourselves unable to do but scant justice to the memory of a private gentleman and a public officer who, during the many years he was associated with the public affairs of his township and county, was highly esteemed by the community in which he lived."

This obituary, available through the courtesy of Mrs. Marryat, is from the Norwood Register, reprinted in the Hastings Star September 21, 1911.

RELIGIOUS ECCENTRIC

The reference in one of these obituaries to the eccentricity of his religious opinions is verified by the recent discovery by W. S. Wallace, Librarian of the University of Toronto, of the long manuscript volume, "The 'Milltone' of the Apocalypse".

The title page of this very neatly written, India-ink manuscript says that "Geo. Arundel Hill" is the author, and below is a quotation from Revelations, XVIII, 21, which apparently suggested the title:

"And a mighty Angel took up a stone like a great Millstone, and cast it into the Sea, saying—Thus with violence shall that Great City BABYLON be thrown down, and shall be found no more at all!"

It would appear that some of Hill's verses may have been sent to Cobourg and Peterborough newspapers and not printed. In any event, due to this cause or the loss of early newspaper files, there is a gap of nine years, 1840-1849, for which we have none of his compositions. Four, however, of the period June-August, 1849, appear in the Peterborough Weekly Despatch.

Earl Elgin's Welcome to Upper Canada begins:

"Sincere as the welcome we gave to the rain
When our hopes of a harvest seemed blighted and vain,
As it came on its mission of kindness to pour Health, freshness, and bloom o'er what languished before:
And warm as the welcome the traveller gives
To the desert's lone spring, as he drinks it and lives—
Oh! warmer and truer, if either can be,
Is the welcome which, Elgin! we offer to thee!")

"An Epistle" begins:

"From the Knight of Toronto to the Knight of Hamilton
They tell me, Sir Allan, and no doubt they tell me right,
That you are, like myself, a most distinguished Knight:
Made so by the Queen for crossing over to Navy Island,
With the men of Gore at your back after M'Kenzie had cleared off to the nigh land:"

A letter of Hill's in the Despatch of August 30th explains perhaps he was guilty of poetic license in saying Sir Allan MacNab called tin boilers "Kettle-Drums"; acutally, he says, Sir Allan called them "Military equipments" in his despatches to Bond Head. He goes on to say that there is no doubt of "the universal contempt and indignation with which he and brother conspirators are bespattered by public opinion".

UP REFORMERS!

"Up, Reformers! no excuse,
With the Tory foe no truce,
Gather round the noble Bruce,
And the day's your own:
Think upon that age of ill,
When the Compact ruled at will,
Blighting every favor still
By the monarch shewn."
Firmly yet unarmed stand,
Bear no weapon in the hand,
Midnight torch and orange brand
Leave to them you spurn;
Faithful to your cause remain,
Keep it free from crime and stain,
And with Bruce's guidance gain
A bloodless Bannockburn!

—Peterborough Weekly Despatch, August 30, 1849.

Some great "Lines" by C. A. Hill are pleasant. There are 12 verses, in the vein of the first:

"Up-gazing at a twilight sky,
I watched in its slow deeping blue
The Stars in their immensity,
Like Angel's night fires glimmering through."

HILL'S GRAVE

In spite of his one-time prominence it long proved most difficult to find any definite trace of Captain Hill's grave; even the location of his farm and old home appeared to form no part of the knowledge of the inhabitants of the district. But finally through the antiquarian interest and persistence of George M. Douglas of "Northcote", near Young's Point, we were able in 1945 to visit the deserted farm and the shell of his once prententious two-storey log home.

As we approached after a walk of four or five miles, a flock of sheep tumbled out of the abndoned house. Near by was a well, the remains of a root-house and a barn, and one or two shrubs and fruit trees. There was a tradition in the neighbourhood that the Captain, his wife, and their daughter Hannah who long survived the death or removal of the rest of the family, were buried on that farm, and that there had once been a few rails around the plot. After careful search we found the place—a small enclosure fenced in by split rails. There, without a stone or any distinguishing mark, amid the ruins of his long-deserted farm, lie the remains of George Arundell Hill, veteran of Waterloo, pioneer settler and emininet official, educationist and author.

Christmas trees that started to trickle into town on the tops of deer hunters' cars are now arriving in trailer truck loads. Every small grocer has some for sale and the big operators' lots are rapidly filling up.

Down aound the Durham County badlands highway transports and railway boxcars are hauling them away to American markets by the million. These trees, thinnings from large plantations, are the chief and best source of supply.

There are other landowners, chiefly in the northern part of Peterborough County and beyond, who unwisely permit the indiscriminate cutting of young trees by fly-by-night operators. If such landowners would consider their small trees as a cash crop they wouldn't have to go crying to governments and conservationists in a few years time.

According to slick New York fashion magazines long-haired furs in the fox class are all the vogue. City fur buyers say they wish they could just run after the band wagon, let alone get aboard. That is how tough things are in their business.

Where buyers once paid as high as $40 for a red fox pelt the going price this year is around 40 cents, not more than 50. And when the dealer pays the government handling tax on each skin, ships them in lots to fur auction sales, he may get as little as a dime for some skins. Some hides have brought a low of four cents.

Harry Jopling feels that there are plenty of fox skins in hunters' hands right now but that they are waiting for the payment of the first county bounty on January 2. He doesn't care if he sees any more or not, until the situation improves.

What causes all this?

Harry didn't know but he ventured a guess that modern heated car travel may have a lot to do with the scarcity of fur-coat wearing. Seems logical, at that.

The Peterborough fly-tie boys are getting fairly well organized after half a dozen meetings or so. Their membership has dropped a little but they feel alright about it since those now left are sincerely interested in the craft.

From hencefworth meetings will be held at members' homes instead of in the board room of Canada Packers. One member says that there is nothing exclusive for men in this hobby class and wonders why some of the women about town don't get interested in it. Better than bridge, he thinks, and if the Better Half is a co-worker it means an ample assortment of flies, come May 1.

Tale Of a Rusty Old Skate

When it comes to vpting for Sunday sport in the Village I am going to go against it, if I am to be personally involved. There is one experience I am beginning to feel that I can leave well enough alone, that of being dragged from my Sunday afternoon couch to watch skating on the Marsh.

What with listening to the blather of lost mitts and muflers, hockey sticks and skates, I find it is a safety valve of sorts to finally accompany the small fry and watch them do their stuff.

We trip—and I mean trip—through the maple wood, and arrive at the Marsh where the old muskrat house hides in the tangle of tag alders. Fifteen acres or so of indifferent ice stretches out between the stands of bullrushes.

Away down the ice we see kids darting about like water bugs, shouting like mad. As we approach a smokey bonfire some of the young sports butt their cigarets as they see me.

A crowd of young ruffians pour onto the ice from another opening at the edge of the Marsh. The noisy ritual of "choosin' sides" goes on about the fire. Soon the sides take their positions and the strangers, armed with alder root clubs in lieu of hockey sticks, lose no time in drawing howls, and blood, as the game waxes loose and wide over acres of ice.

It appears that we, a tiny tot in a soap box sled and myself, are left holding the bag. She cries with the cold. I blow her nose. We are both miserable.

The only humane thing left for me to do is to drag the urchin home. By the time we get there she is beginning to think the whole outing is lots of fun. Her mother takes her indoors and compliments me on being such a good sport as to "join" the older children in an afternoon of fun at the Marsh.

Three hot drinks, six aspirins and two hours later I am beginning to thaw out in my own living room. When one of the kids accuses me at supper time of getting old, I'm cut to the quick.

Now when I was a boy ....

BROWN MONUMENT in Confederation Park. This memorial to Captain Edward T. Brown, who was killed at the battle of Batoche on May 12, 1885, and to other Peterborough volunteers who fought in the Northwest Rebellion, was set up in the park exactly a year later. Money for it was raised by public subscription. Time, weather and vandals have battered it shamefully.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Old Millbrook Paper Two-Fisted Against Reform Party

By E. S. CLARRY

When on Wednesday, March 2nd, 1863, John C. Rogers produced the first issue of his weekly paper The Millbrook Colonist he frankly told the public the political party he intended to support. He said in his leading editorial:

"Believing that as men individually, so also with the press there should be no temporizing, no haulting between two opinions, we have no hesitation in announcing our politics will be Liberal-Conservative. All measures of real utility to the country at large, all reforms to our political well being shall receive our firm support; while all uncalled for and crude legislation, and all things tending to weaken or sever our connection between us and our glorious motherland shall meet with unwavering opposition at our hands."

This declaration of policy was no doubt enthusiastically received by the ultra-loyal settlers of Cavan township, the majority of whom came from the counties of Cavan and Monaghan in dear old Ireland as well as by the sons of many of them who, a decade or so earlier, were members of the organization or gang known throughout the land as the Cavan Blazers.

BLASTED REFORM PARTY

From the first issue of the Millbrok Colonist until its demise about ten years late Editor Rogers continued to blast away at the Reform party which he felt was determined to sever the bonds connecting the colony with the motherland. When he had little respect for the Grits collectively; that is as a party, he had a high opinion of a few of them individually and he did not hesitate to demonstrate this when he felt circumstances warranted his doing so.

LIVING

In certain cases it is indecent to go on living. To continue to vegetate in a state of cowardly dependence upon doctors, once the meaning of life, the right to life, has been lost, ought to be regarded with the greatest contempt by mankind.

—F. W. Nietzsche:
The Twilight of the Idols.

ROBERT WADDELL SHERIFF

One of these rare occasions was in connection with the appointment of Robert Waddell as sheriff of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham but even while hammering out an editorial in which he spoke in high terms of Mr. Waddell he could not resist the opportunity to take a whack at the government which was controlled by the Reform party but was on the verge of collapse.

I: would appear from reading his long editorial of just eighty-nine years ago that sheriff J. B. Fortune, appointed by a former government was in serious ill health and that perhaps the work of his office had been somewhat neglected. The government appointed a commission to investigate the situation and the result was that he was removed from office.

Editor Rogers in a sizzling editorial charged that the appointmen' of' the commission was a cloak to cover a pre-conceived plan to dismiss Mr. Fortune and appoint in his stead a supporter of the government. He declared that,

"The course persued by the commission in conducting the investigation did not permit of any other conclusion. The refusal to grant Mr. Fortune those necessary delays which under the circumstances would not be refused the most blood stained criminal shows that the present ministry had determined to dismiss him and feared that the solicitated delay (due to ill health) would prevent the commission's work being done before their own dismissal from office."

RAW DEAL?

Concluding his editorial on the raw deal handed out to Mr. Fortune he had this to say,

"But though we thus object to the manner of Mr. Fortune's dismissal, and while we deeply and sincerely sympathize with him in his many afflictions, we must say that, all things being considered, Mr. Waddell is the most proper person on the ministerial side to fill the office. His careful business habits fit him well for the discharge of his new functions and will make him, we believe, generally popular in the office. Considering the character of the men in whose hands the appointment lay we think the counties have cause to rejoice at Mr. Waddell's appointment, remembering that among the Grits we might have got many a worse, but not one better."

The Millbrook Colonist of the 1860's was a great family journal. It carried news from all over the world and the Irish settlers in Cavan township were fed a great deal of information concerning what was going on over home. For instance a Mr. Whiteside in a speech in the British House of Commons had referred to the distressing conditions in Ireland and declared that,

"During the past three months 100,000 fighting men had gone to the United States of America; men of the same stuff as those who, on many a doubtful field had upheld the Empire and maintained the glory of Great Britain."

OLD DOCTORS YOUNG LAWYERS

Commonly physicians, like beer, are best when they are old, and lawyers, like bread, when they are young and new.

—Thomas Fuller.

Sir Robert Peel who followed was sorry the hon. member did not adopt the suggestion of Mr. Disraeli and abstained from introducing matters of controversy in considering the speech from the throne.

ABOUT CIVIL WAR

The Millbrook Colonist also devoted considerable space to the civil war that was raging across the border between the North and the South. Amongst the brigfer news items from Washington in that connection was this one,

"In Armory Square hospital all who die are embalmed. The cost is now only ten dollars for each subject."

Another one was,

"A woman applied for a free ride on the railroad at Troy, New York, on the grounds she had three husbands in the army."

No indication was given as to whether or not president Lincoln ordered the railway company to take the lady for a jaunt in recognition of the magnificent contribution she had made to the cause of the North. And it is not likely there was any regulation in those days whereby a certain portion of the pay of men fighting in the army was sent to the wives who kept the home fires burning but had there been, the lady of Troy would have been more fortunately situated than the ordinary spouse with only one husband.

ADVERTISEMENTS

The Colonist of the 1860's did very well in its advertising department carrying advertisements not only of business houses in Canada but in the United States as well. Many of the latter were from manufacturers of patent medicines. One was from Dr. Rogers who advertised a concoction called syrup of Canchalaqua guaranteed to cure coughs, colds, influenza, bronchitis, blood spitting, asthma and all other lung troubles tending to consumption.

The Leader, the Patriot and News of Toronto used the columns of the Colonist to tell what wonderful publications they were putting out and there was a good sized advertisement from Montreal Gazette over the names of Lowe and Chamberlain, publishers. It must have been not so very long thereafter that Robert White, owner and editor of the Peterborough Review sold out his Peterborough interests and purchased the Gazette which remained in the control of the White family until recent times.

Mr. Rogers most likely constituted the entire staff of the Millbrook Colonist—publisher, editor, business manager, compositor, make-up man, pressman and circulation manager. He must have spent many hours before the case, hand setting type for each issue, at the same time thinking up material on which he could base an editorial blasting the Grit party and doing his bit to keep Canada within the orbit of the British Empire.

Your Garden:

Removing A Tree? Be Prepared For Work

By HENRY PREE (NEA)

There is no short cut to the elimination of a tree in the garden, whether it is dead or alive. The usual procedure is to saw it off close to the ground, which leaves a stump and a lot of roots. The removal of this stump then becomes a job.

That there is no magic stump remover is a fact proven by tests made at several state agricultural experiment stations. In one test the experimenters used every means they could think of plus several chemicals advertised in farm and garden magazines.

A mixture used by the military to dislodge enemy trench and foxhole occupants was also a disappointment, although it did penetrate stumps to a depth of six inches.

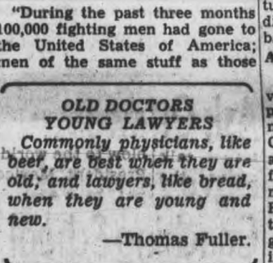
To save time and worry, heed the advice of the old gardener, get out your saw, mattock, ax and shovel, plus plenty of elbow grease, and grub out the stump. It may be a tough job, but it is the only way.

If the standing tree is several inches or several feet in caliper —caliper means the diameter of the tree about a foot from the ground—ascend the tree and saw off all the large branches. Take off the top to within about 10 feet of the ground.



Dig a trench two to three feet deep, three feet away from and encircling the tree.

Start to dig a trench three feet away from the trunk. As this digging uncovers a root use an ax to cut off the root so that the trench can be dug two or three feet deep. Encircle the tree with this trench. Then tie a rope around the tree close to the 10-foot top and try to pull it over.

The 10-foot trunk gives a leverage on the roots. If it is not possible to pull the trunk over, then do some more digging. Cut in under the tree. It may have a deep tap root which must be cut before the top will move. Tie the rope and pull the trunk in the direction in which it is to fall.

It takes much less energy to get a tree out of the ground with the bulk of its roots this way, than when the top is sawed off close to the ground.

Circling the bark of trees a year in advance of felling is not necessary with this method. Roots of the trees will not produce shoots if the main heart of the tree is removed as described above.

Gardening Questions

Q—Please recommend a satisfactory potting soil for cactus plants.

A—Cactus and other succulent plants thrive in a mixture of equal parts ordinary garden loam, sand and compost. If compost is not available substitute woods-earth or peatmoss. To be sure that the mixture is not acid add a liberal sprinkling of ground limestone.

Q—Kindly advise us if Greek Juniper Evergreens can be trimmed. Also advise us if this is the proper time of the year to trim such a tree.

A — Generally, trimming of evergreens should be done in late spring while the plants are in growth. However, trimming now will do no harm if only unwanted, dead or broken branches are removed.

Oddfellows Edge Kingston In 3-2 Junior Game To Climb In OHA Standing

Showing early foot and a fine defensive wall in the later stages here last night, the local Oddfellows yanked out a 3-2 OHA junior "B" victory over Kingston Vics before some 300 fans. The win put Doug Mortimer's men up a head of Vics in the standing—the two clubs being tied for second spot before the game. IOOF may be tied for top place with Belleville also, depending on how Lindsay and the Hawklets made out in their tussle the same evening. Triple Links rammed in two first-frame markers and added one next heat for a 3-0 edge going into the third. Max Jackson's scrappers from the Limestone City made it a tight fit by throwing in two goals in the third, but they couldn't quite sew it up. They drew four of seven penalties in a clean tilt, but for a fight in the third between McCracken and Koen, both drawing majors.

FAST HOCKEY

Play was quite fast all through and some good hockey was seen between the well-matched young squads. Bill Twist was an offensive standout for Peterborough with a goal and two assists in a nifty showing. Clare Ferguson was also strong to rap in one and help on another. Gord Coyle got a goal, and Leo Sullivan an assist. Don Senior and Paul Rea counted the Kingston goals, an assist apiece going to Wilson Reid and Pat Keon. Both goalies were outstanding to keep the count down, and the home defence turned in a first-class effort against strong opposition, Sullivan, Byrne, Clapper and Wilson all being in top blueline form.

Montgomery came close for the K's right at the start, and then a Smith-Robinson thrust nearly paid off for the homesters. It was up-and-down hockey, fast, clean and even for a space before the Links began to show more drive. Twist had a good try and then Coyle broke the egg with a slap shot on Twist's passout halfway through the stanza. A minute later, Twist got 'n to bang one more by Senior, aided by Ferguson and Sullivan, in a close-in ganging attack. Emmons tested Delahaye later as the visitors drove but Ferguson broke away and Bob Senior had to be good to block his shot. It was hot and quite even at the gong.

SCORED ANOTHER

Kingston had a territorial edge early in the second but the IOOF scored at 3:45 when Ferguson roared in fast to blast a hard angle shot into the net on a corner passout from Twist. Rea was gated for cross-checking in the first penalty of the game and McCracken saved a goal with Delahaye out as the Kingston first line tore in. Rea returned and a Smith-Robinson try just missed. Maracle went over for high-sticking, followed by Sullivan for interference, but no damage was done in their absence. Doris came close once and Robinson got away a bullet drive that was picked out of the air. Kingston's first line had an edge toward the end of the heat.

Coyle almost clicked to open the third and then Rea smashed a hard shot by Delahaye at the goalmouth, a slap shot with Koen's forward pass. Ferguson returned from an interference penalty and McDougall's goal was offside. McCracken and Koen mixed it briefly in a fight that drew majors, and later another mixup threatened between Smith and Maracle. Reid was robbed on a good try and Don Senior made it 3-2 with a hot shot at point-blank range from Reid in a scramble inside. Kingston pressed hotly to pepper Delahaye but he was unbeatable the rest of the way in a grand display of netminding. Robinson was blocked on a breakaway and Vallier came close, with Doris later making a good try. Kingston pulled their goalie with a minute to go but returned him for a faceoff, and Don Senior was chased for tripping with seconds to go. Teams:

Referee, J. Crombie; linesman, B. Kingdon.

Summary:

First Period
IOOF—Coyle (Twist) 10:10
IOOF—Twist (Ferguson, Sullivan) 11:25
No penalties.
Second Period
IOOF—Ferguson (Twist) 3.45
Penalties—Rea, Maracle, Sullivan.
Third Period
Kingston—Rea (Koen) 1:05
Kingston—D. Senior (Reid) 12:50
Penalties—Ferguson, McCracken, D. Senior, Koen.

Collis Cagers And Civic Capture Wins

Collis' cagers defeated Lindsay 24-16, and Civic Nurses won from CGE 31-14 in girls' basketball games last evening at the YWCA. The schedule called for Civic vs. Lindsay, and CGE vs. St. Joseph's, while next week's twin bill is slated as Black's vs. Collis, and St. Joseph's vs. Civic to wind up the pre-Christmas part of the schedule.

Collis' just managed a 10-7 lead at the half on six points by D. Thompson and two each by S. DeWarga and P. Stewart, while R. Gilson, of Lindsay, was tallying four with one each going to D. Capp, B. Green and H. Tsandelis. The latter added two in the last half, as did H. Robertson, while D. Britnell was good for five. But Collis' racked up 14 points on six by J. Dunk, four by P. Stewart, and two each by M. Borland and D. Thompson. Lindsay cashed in on but four of 19 free throws while Collis' missed out on their four tries on fouls. Teams:

Collis'—D. Smith, S. DeWarga, P. Stewart, M. Borland, D. Thompson, M. Wharry, J. Dunk.

AN OPEN GAME

The nightcap was a wide-open tussle with Nurses from Civic having a 15-5 margin at the rest period and outscoring CGE 16-9 in the last half. Betty Jaquith conted five for the winners in the first half and four in the second. J. Bell was good for two at the start but clicked or nine in the later stages. Pat Martyn got four and one for five points, Bev Dawe notching four in the first two quarters and one later, as Joan Plunkett tallied two. For CGE, Barb Luther and Madge Jones got two each the first half and Marg Batley a single. In the second, Ruth Bullock clicked on two field baskets for four points, Marg Batley got a basket and free point try and Madge Jones dropped in a basket. Nurses had 12 fouls called on them to seven for the losers. Teams:

Civic—J. Pinkett, C. Chestnut, P. Martyn, B. Dawe, S. Slater, N. Hanna, B. Jaquith, J. Bell.

CGE—B. Luther, J. Luther, M. Jones, M. Batley, M. Hodson, K. Calladine, S. Hubbert, R. Bullock.

Referee, Ted Cranfield.

PAT FLANAGAN, above, who will team up with Chief Big Heart against Lou Plummer and Dick Raines in a tag team match at the Brock arena next Wednesday night. Flanagan should just about prove the difference between a win and a loss for his side, although the Texas State champs will be hard to whip. Johnny Barend takes on Lee Henning in the semi-final while Joe Christie and Bull Montana open the classiest card to be presented here this season.

Robinson Wants Fight Turpin Then Quit Ring

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Middleweight champion Ray Robinson says he wants to fight Britain's Randy Turpin for the third time next June and then retire. If Sugar Ray signs for the rubber match quickly nearly everyone will be happy including the New York state athletic commission.

The only unhappy souls will be either British promoter Jack Solomons, or Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club. Both want the lucrative fight, Solomons for London or Dublin, Norris for New York.

Norris says he has Robinson under contract. Solomons has the papers with Turpin. There are going to be complications and confusion before the match is made.

Although George Gainford, Robinson's manager, said the fight will be held under Solomons' promotion overseas, and Solomons agreed wholeheartedly, the IBC raised an objection.

CAN DO BETTER

"We have a contract with Robinson," said Harry Markson, managing director of the IBC. "We can better any proposition Solomons makes."

The state commission demands a "binding agreement" before it will restore Robinson's title recognition. The commission started the fuss over Sugar Ray's future when it vacated Robinson's title Friday because he hadn't signed for a title defence within the required six-month period plus an extension granted him. New York's action wasn't followed by the National Boxing Association which includes all states but New York.

In London, Solomons said he had received a cable from Gainford which read: "This confirms our conversation—Robinson to defend his title against Turpin on date agreed."

Solomons said the date would be June 9, 1953.

Ask Ottawa Have National Coaching School

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government will be asked to give a shot in the arm to Canadian participation in international track and field events through a national coaching school.

The Canadian Advisory Sports Council, closing out a two-day meeting Friday, passed a resolution urging the government to establish a "pilot" school next spring to train student coaches from across Canada in track and field.

If the school proves itself, similar schools might be established for other sports.

The resolution was one of the main steps taken by the CASC, formed two years ago to encourage sports interest and participation and act as a liaison between all sports governing bodies in Canada and government.

NATIONAL COUNCIL

The request will go before the National Council on Physical Fitness here Monday. This body may recommend to the federal government that it support the school.

The idea came up at the meeting last month of the Amateur Athletic Association of Canada, which at that time authorized its British Columbia branch to go ahead with plans for a school.

The council Friday agreed to limit its recommendations to broad principles, after opposition arose to an AAU proposal that it should select candidates for the school.

In other resolutions the council urged:

1. Expansion of competition on local levels.
2. Encouragement of provincial sport championships.
3. Federal aid for all international competition, and not just the Olympics and British Empire games.
4. That the federal health and welfare department instead of the finance department handle grants for Olympic and British Empire games competition.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Doug Mowry, who used to catch for the Petes back ere the war, is mentioned thusly in the St. Catharines paper: "Doug Mowry, newly-elected general manager of the 1953 St. Kitts senior ball club, and Ontario scout for Brooklyn Dodgers, is being looked upon as the means-to-an-end for new players to the city nine. That he is on his job is shown by his note that Dodgers have signed the outstanding player in Ontario for 1953, catcher Bill Dixon of London Majors. Scout Doug has gone out on a limb promising the Saints players and if he fails to come up with the talent the midget scout may find himself so short-circuited that he'll need aid from his city job." Doug was interested in George Brabin of the Petes a year ago.

Glad to hear that parks superintendent Armar Butcher is planning on 14 open-air city rinks this winter to be ready by Christmas. Double rinks—one for skating and one for hockey—will be located at Riverside by the east end of the bridge, on the Orphanage grounds, at King Edward Park and at Turner Park. These puck sites may not be enough but will certainly help to relieve the congestion at Civic Arena for the kids playing hockey. Plenty of rinks then for skating in various parts of the city. For the minor expense entailed the city is doing a good job in providing these outdoor supervised rinks each winter for the youngsters.

Two of Top Snipers

Two of last year's highest scoring senior "B" hockeyists are now with the Petes, Chum Fryia and Toodie Greenlaw. Latter was with Eagles last year and had 46 points in the 25 games played, exactly the same as Fryia. Both scored 25 goals and had 21 assists. Gus Leonard and Arn Dugan (but Arn is now with Brantford) were tied for second with Petes last season with 44 points, the same as Freddy Mortimer of the Eagles. Fred Garvey, Junior West, Jake Wade (now at Brantford), Don Floyd and Ted Collins were all up there with 28 points or better—that is better than a point a game. George Steele was just out of the charmed circle, but he isn't with the Petes his semester, either.

* * * * * *

Bert Hill had 39 points for the Eagles, one more than Samolenko—now with Oshawa. Then came Reg Stewart with 36, while others in the point-a-game-or-better class were George Brabin (at Oshawa now), Keith Montgomery, Dootch Vitarelli and Bill Crowley. Two of the Eagles of a year ago, Greenlaw and Gord Fennell, are with the Petes this campaign while Keith Montgomery will join them if he gets the OHA okay. He has actually signed already. There is still a good chance that a few more of the former Eagles will go with the Petes this year, we're told on reliable authority. Jim Munroe of Eagles is now playing coach at Cobourg, and Doug Mortimer is coach of our junior Oddfellows.

* * * * * *

Juniors Earn a Win

Doug Mortimer's speedy Oddfellows yanked out a 3-2 OHA junior "B" victory o'er Kingston Vics here last p.m. before a slim crowd. It broke the second-place standing deadlock between the teams and possibly put the IOOF-ers in a top-place tie with Belleville, provided Lindsay beat the Quinte crew last eve. We hadn't heard at this writing. Anyway, Belleville comes here Monday night to play the Links, and that should be a dandy duel. The Oddfellows are doing right well so far this semester, though it's a tough enough group and there's a long way to go yet. These junior jousts are well worth watching, plenty fast and with a lot of exciting hockey shown by the big boys. They give it all they have.

* * * * * *

We especially liked the local defence last night. Bob Delahaye was in great goal-tending form, and he didn't have a snowball's chance on the two that beat him. Kingston peppered him plenty in the third, but he was mighty tough to beat. And the defences of Rock Wilson and tall Don Clapper as starters, and Murray Byrne and Leo Sullivan as alternates, turned in a whale of a chore back of that blue line. Rest of the squad went okay, too, with Bill Twist leading lamp-lighter (plus assists), Clare Ferguson in on a pair, and Gord Coyle and Sullivan in on one each. Red Robinson looked good, though kept off the score sheet. Yes, the team went well in a tough tilt against worthy foes, the Vics being no soft touches by any means.

Dese, Dem and Dose

Saigh Wins In Fight For Share TV Receipts

By JOE REICHLER

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Fred Saigh, baseball's battling bantam, finally has broken through in his long fight for a share of television receipts from other ball parks.

The president of St. Louis Cardinals, unswerving in his demand that the visiting club be cut into all TV profits, got a "foot in the door" Friday when he reached an agreement with Chicago Cubs whereby St. Louis will share in the television money for each game they play at Chicago's Wrigley Field.

The Cubs also came to a reciprocal agreement with Cincinnati Reds in which the Reds and Cubs will receive a visitor's share of the receipts in their respective parks. No other reciprocal agreements were concluded but President Gabe Paul of the Reds was confident he will reach an agreement with all clubs.

NOT HOPEFUL

Saigh was not hopeful of such an agreement with the other clubs, especially with New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers.

President Phil Wrigley of the Cubs said he would not become a party to any solid front in opposing Saigh's aims.

Neither party would disclose the exact percentage of Chicago's television money that will be given to the Cards and Reds, but it was learned that they will get 3" per cent after all expenses are deducted. The Cubs, according to business manager James Gallagher, received only $75,000 for their TV rights compared to about $400,000 received by the Giants and Dodgers.

"It is not so much the money but it is the equity I am asking for," Saigh said.

Constant Vigil Kept At Player's Bedside

Lawson, 22, is a pathetic reminder of the 1952 football season. For the last 35 days he has lain in a coma in his darkened room.

A tackle for Randolph-Macon college, Lawson collided head-on with a teammate, Ned Stiles, during a game with Johns Hopkins Nov. 1 and received a severe brain injury.

Two operations have been performed to ease the pressure of a blood clot out of reach of the surgeon's knife. To neither operation has Lawson responded.

Doctors say they can do no more than wait. Long ago they gave up medical hope for his recovery. But he hangs on to life with fierce tenacity.

FORM 25-YEAR CLUB

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A "25-year-club" to be made up of members of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues who have been in the game for 25 years as players, managers or administrators in the minor leagues was created by the association Friday.

Pryde Rolls High

Phil Pryde of Shockey's rolled high single of 333 this week in the men's City Bowling League, as B. Trennum hit top triple of 825. Shockey's led teams with 3613 pinnage and single of 1323. Six points were taken by Clapper's over Madill & Post, and by Monumental over Royal York Foods, as 4-2 wins went to Empress, IUE-CIO and Shockey's over McGillis, Payne's and Sunoco.

Good triples included: E. Reynolds 771, P. Pryde 767, A. Caccavella 703, D. Abraham 705, J. Gaspari 716, A. Pilling 709, B. Armstrong 742, V. Ferguson 705, J. Hanes 711, J. Playford 747, S. Richardson 731, H. Frost 757 and A. Mattucci 712; neat singles: S. Richardson 310, M. Akers 284, J. Hanes 296, J. Playford 280, J. Wade 293, T. Basciano 291, J. Gaspari 288, A. Caccavella 282 and E. Reynolds 296.

Marlboros Lace Biltmores 7-2 Via MacDonald

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rumor had it that Parker MacDonald of Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series would be absent from their game with Guelph Biltmores. The Bilts wish he had been.

MacDonald, who was supposed to get a chance with the parent Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, scored four goals as Guelph took a 7-2 lacing at home Friday night.

Barrie Flyers were badly scared by the surprising Windsor Spitfires in Barrie before they unleashed an overtime scoring punch to win 5-2. Windsor led until the dying minutes of the third period.

Other Marlboros goals were by Erie Nesterenko, Dave Reid and Wally Maxwell. The Dukes were playing without forward Gerry James and defencemen Ted Ingram, Jack Bionda and Dave Jackson but won handily. Bill McCreary and Ron Murphy scored for Biltmores.

OVERTIME GOALS

Overtime goals by Tony Poeta, Skip Teal and Doug Mohns broke the Spitfire attack. Poeta also scored the first of a rugged contest and Jimmy Robertson added the other. Windsor goals were by Marlin McAlendin and Bob Louttit. Barrie took over second place from Toronto St. Michael's by winning.

James, husky right-winger with the Marlboros, received a three-game suspension Friday night for deliberate injury to Phil Chapman of Oshawa Generals.

The suspension affects tonight's game between Guelph and Marlboros, Sunday's contest with St. Catharines and the next game with Oshawa Dec. 27. James will be allowed to play on the Marlboro tour of interlocking schedule games in Quebec next week.

The three-game suspension was approved unanimously after two-game and four-game sentences had been rejected by the group.

There was a difference of opinion as to how deliberate the attack last Sunday was and significance was attached to the fact that the left-handed James swung with his right hand and used a "bat" type blow rather than an "ax" type.

James said he had hit a player he did not see when he swung.

Re-elect Randall Softball Head

COBOURG — Joe Randall will head the Cobourg and District Softball League again next year, it was decided at last night's annual banquet of the loop, held in the Canadian Legion Hall.

Randall's entire executive was also given a vote of confidence. The slate is: First vice-president, Bill Bisset, Port Hope; 2nd vice-president, Jim Tracey; secretary, Jerry Harnden; treasurer, Ed Hogan, all of Cobourg. Fred Hempstead will be added as assistant treasurer this year, and Bruce Sloan replaced the Rev. Father G. J. Maher as publicity head. Father Maher is retiring after being in the post since the inception of the loop eight years ago.

The banquet, attended by members of the Port Hope Mathes, Baltimore Millars, CGE Foundry, Card Juniors and Dunham teams, was highlighted by the presentation of the Dye Works Trophy to the Card junior club. The A. R. Dundas Cup, which has a 30-year history in Cobourg softball, went to CGE.

Rain Washes Out Play Second Day

MELBOURNE (AP)—For the second straight day, rain today washed out play in the Victorian tennis championships.

Vic Seixas, playing captain of the U.S. Davis cup team, was to have met Australia's ace, Frank Sedgman, for the men's singles title.

Officials announced the matches will be played Monday.

Star Racers Entered For Santa Anita

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—The 1952 Kentucky Derby winner and champions of a half-dozen foreign countries are among the nominees announced today for the 16th Santa Anita handicap next Feb. 28.

Many of the turf headliners for the 1¼-mile feature, worth $100,000 guaranteed to the winner, are already on hand in advance of Santa Anita's opening Dec. 26.

The 18-horse foreign contingent includes Dalray from New Zealand, winner of the recent Melbourne cup; Peshawar from Australia, winner of that country's Caulfield cup; Yatasto, which won the Argentine triple crown last year; Windy City II from Ireland, Nearque from France, Stackallen Bridge and Iron Duke II from England.

Foreign entrants have won the handicap six times: England's Azucar, 1935, and Noor, 1950; South America's Kayak II, 1939; Olhaverry, 1947; Talon, 1948, and Miche 1952.

American hopes rest with such racing beauties as Calumet Farm's Hill Gail, last year's Kentucky Derby champion; Mark-Ye-Well, topnotch three year old; the filly, A Gleam; Brookfield Farm's Intent, which won this race last year but was disqualified for stretch interference with Miche; Marcador, Phil D, Lights Up and California's Moonrush.

Weights will be announced Dec. 20.

P-W Club Plans To Enter Teams In 1953

By C. H. IRESON

At the annual fall meeting of the Peterborough-Whitaker Cricket Club, presided over by Gordon Monkman, with 19 members present, it was decided to operate two teams next year, an "A" and a "B" team, one in the Toronto and District Cricket Council. This would provide 10 matches for each team during the season and would take care of all local cricketers.

Apart from TCS and Grove School, there is no club nearer than Oshawa, but entries in the Toronto Council permit regular competition. Regulations call for all players to be registered and, in the case of a club running two teams, eight of the players must be registered as "A" players, and none of these may perform for a "B" entry. The locals operated a "B" team in 1951 but not last year. This coming year the club will be in good financial condition and with players and equipment available.

Following is the 1953 executive: President, G. Monkman; vice-president, J. Wilde; treasurer, A. Hamilton; secretary, H. Dibben of 51 Park St. (phone 5350).. "A" captain, E. Cotton; vice-captain, B. Roberts; 'B" team, captain, S. Jennings; vice-captain, K. Illingworth; secretary "B" team, T. Fraser; director grounds and equipment, R. Harvey; director entertainment, W. Wright; honorary president, G. Whitaker; honorary vice-presidents, R. Whitaker, B. Whitaker, E. P. Whiteley, Hon. H. Scott, G. K. Fraser, MP, and Dr. Raymore Scott.

Crippled Leafs, Rangers Iced Patched-Up Squads

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

What New York Rangers and Toronto Maple Leafs make out of tonight's National Hockey League game in Maple Leaf Gardens should help defray some of the medical expenses the two teams have piled up this season. Both clubs will ice a patched-up squad. The Rangers, however, have most of their men out of sick bay, with the exception of Herb Dickenson, off with an eye injury. Jack Stoddart is a doubtful starter.

Max Bentley and Howie Meeker may be fit for Leaf duty. Conn Smythe brought up Parker MacDonald from the junior Toronto Marlboros Thursday night as a possible replacement but the youngster didn't play.

COULD STAND WIN

The Rangers could stand a win. Of 23 games played, they've won only three and tied six. The Leafs hope to win again as they did in Montreal Thursday night A win, plus a loss by Boston at Montreal, would give Toronto a comfortable seat in third position.

But Boston's hot this week. Thursday night they trimmed the league-leading Chicago Black Hawks 5-1 and Montreal has gone seven games without a win The loss of Elmer Lach last week with a fractured thumb has not helped.

It was whispered around Montreal that Frank Selke plans to add Skippy Burchell, now with Montreal Royals of the Quebec Senior League, and later perhaps Jean Beliveau, Quebec Aces strong-man, to the line-up.

Dollard St. Laurent will be off the defence line tonight. His replacement will be Bud MacPherson.

The other teams are idle Sunday Toronto meets Chicago, Montreal faces New York and Boston is at Detroit.

Cooke Purchases 3 From Browns

TORONTO (CP) — Jack Kent Cooke, owner of the Toronto Maple Leafs baseball club, has purchased three players from St. Louis Browns of the American League for $32,500.

The players are outfielder Cliff Mapes and pitchers Bobby Hogue and Stubby Overmire. Mapes was a .230 hitter with the Browns last year and Cooke predicted he will be in the International League's top five next season. He cost $15,000.

Hogue, whose price tag was $10,000, is a New York Yankee alumnus who had a 2-1 record as a relief pitcher for the Browns last year. Overmire cost $7,500. He was optioned here last season but recalled after the Leafs lost out in the playoffs.

Lindsay Muskies Whip Bowmanville 3-1

LINDSAY — Lindsay Muskies defeated Bowmanville Barons, 3-1, here Thursday in an OHA Intermediate "B" game. The contest was a penalty-filled Lakeshore League game played before one of the largest crowds of the season.

The Muskies took a 1-0 lead in the first period on a goal by Bob Lewis. Bird tallied for Bowmanville and Orley Crawford scored for the Muskies and Mike Burns scored the final goal for the winners, all in the second period.

The game produced 14 minor penalties and two majors as referee Dave Calhoun of Oshawa struggled to keep the game under control.

Montreal Leads Junior Hockey

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens are atop the Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association standings and three of the junior Habs rate one-two-three in the individual scoring.

Henri Richard and Guy Rousseau have 39 points apiece and Claude Prevost 34. Richard's total is made up of a pace-setting 19 goals and 20 assists and Rousseau has 18 goals and 21 assists. Provost has a 13-21 mark.

Ed Swartzack of Montreal Royals is next with 28 points. Three players have 26 points each, Ross Watson of the Royals, Michel Labadie of Quebec Citadelles and Camille Henri, also of Quebec.

In team standings, Canadiens have 32 points from 16 victories in the 20 games they have played. Quebec is second with 28 points from 14 victories in 19 games. Three Rivers is next with 15 points and Montreal Royals, in the cellar, have won only two and tied two of their 21 games.

National League Ball Has Attendance Decline

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—The National League announced official attendance figures for 1952 showing a decline of 904,854 or 12½ per cent from its 1951 figures. The league drew 6,339,148 last season compared to 7,244,002 in 1951.

Figures issued Friday showed Brooklyn led the league with 1,088,704 at home and 1,282,628 on the road. Still the Dodgers' attendance at Ebbets Field dipped 193,924. Pittsburgh had the sharpest drop, 293,917, with Boston close behind. The Braves drew only 281,278—by far the worst in both majors—showing a decline of 206,197 or roughly 43 per cent.

The National did suffer from adverse weather conditions that wiped out 13 Sundays and holidays, 18 night games and 22 day games. Only 30 games were rained out in 1951.

Real Test Of All Authority Foundation Of Right

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

At the conclusion of the Sermon on the Mount, in Matthew 7: 29, it is said that the people were "astonished at His doctrine; for He taught them as one having authority, and not as the scribes."

Among the amazing things concerning the teaching and ministry of Jesus none is more remarkable. The scribes were the official interpreters of the law, and were supposed to speak with authority.

Jesus, in fact, recognized their authority as those who "sat in Moses seat" (Matthew 23: 2); though He warned the people that they should do as the scribes said, but not according to their works, for they said, and did not.

But even in what was said, those who heard Jesus realized a difference. They felt that He had an authority which those who claimed authority did not possess.

Here was a young man from Nazareth, a hill town at which some scoffed, "Can there any good come out of Nazareth?" (John 1: 46). He had had the good education that was the heritage of every Jewish boy of that time in the schools associated with the synagogues.

But He possessed apparently, none of the outward credentials of authority, which both then, now, and always, have assumed so much importance in the eyes of men. He was neither a scribe nor a rabbi. He had no parchment, such as doctors, dentists, and often ministers, display; and it is certain that no school of the time would have given him an honorary DD.

Yet to those who heard Him He spake with authority which none of the possessors of the outward credentials of authority could command.

It is obvious, I think, that some evidence of authority is needed, some maintenance of qualifications, standards, and credentials. Our schools, to cite one example, would be a hodgepodge of inefficiency, mismanagement, and confusion, if we did not demand from teachers and administrators, evidence of having met established standards.

But we know perfectly well that all the outward qualifications and credentials in the world do not necessarily make a good teacher. Every now and then in almost every field of activity, someone comes along who, without outward credentials, possesses the know-how, the ability and efficiency that mark him as above many who have all the outward marks of authority.

The secret of the authority of Jesus was that it rested on truth. His "I say unto you" was not personal opinion, or man-made truth, made even by Him. His authority was that of the great Revealer of God, speaking in harmony with the truth of God and the universe, the foundation upon which all authority must ultimately rest. For the real test of all authority is the foundation of right and truth upon which it rests.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

FRIDAY NIGHT SUPPER CLUB

Induction, installation and initiation at the YMCA Friday night marked the meeting of the Friday Night Supper Club. The members dedicated themselves to the aims and objects of the club: purity of life, sacrificial service and purity of motive. YMCA General Secretary Charles Forsyth gave a short address.

GO TO FAIR MEET

Four members of the Peterborough Exhibition Board have been named to attend the Association of Ontario Agricultural Societies, No. 4 Division, that meet Dec. 10 at Port Perry. Dates for the various fairs are set at that meeting. The four from Peterborough who were appointed to go are President Norman McConkey, Secretary Manager G. A. Gillespie, and John Kitney and Don Milburn. Archie Clysdale was named as an alternate delegate.

Utilities Holds Annual Dinner

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—The annual banquet of the Campbellford Public Utilities Commission was held on Friday night at the Parish Hall.

Ladies of the Parish Guild served a turkey dinner to a large number of guests, and Archie Meyers, vice-chairman of the board, made presentations to Mayor W. A. Kingston, James O. Benor and Walter Wiggins, all retiring members of the present board. Mr. Benor was chairman of the board during 1952.

Woman Jailed Year

LONDON (CP) — A lady from Paris Friday was sentenced to one year in jail and fined £5,000 for trying to smuggle 268 contraband watches under her corset. A woman customs inspector nabbed Rosalie Silber, 48, as she landed here en route to London from Paris. The watches worth more than $14,000 were in a body belt under her corset.

LARGEST MINOR HOCKEY LEAGUE in Peterborough is the Church League, conducted by the Peterborough Boys' Work Board. One of the first major projects of the board since its re-organization a year ago the league has 26 teams and 350 boys. There's plenty of cheering (top, right) by the boys and also plenty of action, especially around the goal mouth (top right). The executive behind the boys' activities consists of: (middle left, front row) C. S. Saunders, T. M. Williamson, John A. Hunter, C. S. Laing, (back row) William McFarlane, W. E. Bell, W. R. Peebles and A. W. Townsend. Another feature of the work is the election annually to the Ontario Older Boys' Parliament. This year Walter Dainard, 492 Bolivar St. (lower left), is the city representative. — (Examiner Staff Photos)

Boys who ordinarily wouldn't be playing hockey until there were ice surfaces on the city's free rinks are speeding up and down the ice lanes every Saturday morning at the Civic arena. These lads form the city's largest minor sports organization, the church hockey league which comprises 26 teams for 350 boys, nine to 16 years. They all have the Peterborough Boys' Work Board to thank.

It started about a year ago. Then 19 former members of the Older Boys' Parliament formed a Peterborough branch of the Ontario Older Boys' Parliament Alumni. After several meetings these men realized the need for the re-organization of Peterborough Boys' Work Board to conduct activities for younger boys.

The alumni branch contacted the various Protestant churches in the city, asking for three members from each church. The YMCA, and the Peterborough Recreation Commission were also asked to attend.

RE-ORGANIZED

From that opening meeting the work board was re-organized; committees were set up, and affiliation made with the Ontario Boys' Work Board of the Ontario Council of Christian Education and a constitution drawn up. After a lapse of 10 years the Peterborough board was functioning again.

Topping the list of six objectives was the aim to promote and organize church work for boys from nine to 17 years; that is, for more boys' activities within the churches. But for boys' work you need boys to attend and that's the problem that faced the board.

The men agreed that the best way to attract the boys was through a sports program, including softball and hockey as a start.

But they were faced with another problem, leadership. Co-operating with the YMCA, the board held two leadership courses in the Y under Charles Forsyth, general secretary, Bill McFarlane, boys' work secretary, Fraser Wade, physical director, and Alex Sinclair, recreation director.

More than 60 took part in the courses which included work on group theory, small and large room games and teaching Sunday school. Out of those courses the men further realized the need for work among the boys in the city.

SOFTBALL LEAGUE

After a small hockey season, the board organized a slightly larger softball league for peewee, bantam, and midget-age boys. These teams represented various churches.

But when the hockey season drew near the board made plans for its largest undertaking, a church hockey league.

They agreed to limit the players to boys not on teams in the Peterborough Minor Hockey Association to give other lads a chance to play. These boys must attend the church they play for and have an above-average attendance.

About a month ago the three groups including peewee, bantam and midget teams started their schedules at the arena, beginning games at 8 a.m. and continuing until 1 p.m. The teams will be playing well in to March.

TAKES MONEY

But all these teams and all the ice hours cost money; but even there the board had looked ahead. Ice time costs the board $50 a week ($10 an hour) and this money is paid through the sale of $1 booster tickets sold by the players. So far all ice time has been paid for.

As far as the team equipment is concerned the boys and the churches look after thoses costs. The churches look after the sweaters and more costly equipment while the boys provide skates, gloves, shin-pads and sticks.

To win the game is not the main object, although it is important. John Hunter, board chairman, said that referees are instructed to stop play briefly and explain calls which boys do not understand. Besides being taught the game, the boys are also taught the importance of good sportsmanship, proper condition and clean play.

Another aim is to promote an annual election to the Older Boys' Parliament. That provincial or-

Two Awarded $1,038 By County Judge

Plaintiffs in a car acident case were awarded a total of $1,038 in a judgment given Friday by County Judge John de N. Kennedy. The civil suit was heard at a special sittings of the county court.

Mrs. Esther J. Sutherland, 53, of Douro Township, was awarded a total of $915.20 in compensation for injuries she received when involved in a two-car collision in Oshawa on July 29, 1951. The co-plaintiff, Frank Brown of Nassau, driver of the car in which Mrs. Sutherland was a passenger, was awarded $123 for damage to his car.

Alfred Webb, 21, of Agnes Street, Oshawa, was the driver of the other car. Through his counsel, Gordon H. T. Farquharson, he admitted liability and the case was reduced to an assessment of damages.

Plaintiffs will have to receive payment through the Unsatisfied Judgments Fund.

It was alleged that Webb, while driving along Colborne Street, failed to stop at the Church Street intersection and he struck the Brown car that was travelling along Church Street. Mrs. Sutherland, at that time a housekeeper for Brown, had to be pried out of the car. She was taken to Oshawa hospital in an ambulance and was there for more than two weeks.

As a result of the accident Mrs. Sutherland says she received a neck injury that still doesn't allow her complete neck movement. She has a nervous condition and still suffers some pain.

Judge Kennedy awarded her $415.20 in special damages and $500 in general damages, a total of $915.20. Brown received $123 for damages to his car.

Knife Victim To Wed In Hospital

Stanley McCabe, Gertrude Horner Marry As Planned

The old saying "Love will find a way" was borne out when Stanley McCabe, young Korean war veteran who was stabbed three times in the back Tuesday night in a brawl at the Manvers Station Orange Hall, confirmed reports that Miss Gertrude Horner, of Manvers Station, and he will be married today at 2 p.m. in his Civic Hospital room.

At first the marriage was to be postponed, but the young couple want to proceed with arrangements as planned. Only the reception and honeymoon will be indefinitely delayed.

The young veteran from Janetville and Miss Horner had made arrangements for their marriage today in Bethany and were the toast of the village Tuesday when the brawl occurred outside the Orange Hall.

In the brawl, McCabe was stabbed three times, presumably with a knife, in the back and hit on the head. He was rushed to Civic hospital and for a time it seemed that the wedding ceremony would be postponed.

John Hornal, hospital superintendent, said today that the couple had asked permission for the ceremony to be held in the hospital room; he added that the request was granted, providing that McCabe's doctor, Dr. G. M. Longfield of Bethany, also gave his permission.

PERMISSION GIVEN

Later Dr. Longfield said that although McCabe's condition is still "serious" that he felt it won't do "any harm for a quiet wedding".

"I feel that they can go ahead if he still insists," said the doctor.

McCabe said that he "hated to postpone the wedding, adding that if anything's worthwhile, it's worthwhile going ahead with. "We've waited long enough."

He added that the original plans called for only a quiet wedding. They had planned to be married at the Rev. T. S. Gault's parsonage in Bethany, following up with a reception and honeymoon.

McCabe added that although the reception and honeymoon would be postponed, they would definitely be held when he's out of the hospital. Apart from that, all wedding arrangement will be held according to plan; they will take the marriage vows at the original time, 2 p.m.

AFTER RELEASED

"I went through Korea and came home to this. But I'm not bitter about it. I'm only lucky it wasn't worse."

McCabe came home from Korea July 12 after serving his time with the second battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment.

As the result of the brawl charges have been laid against two men, Wentzel Hendsby and Frank Derusha. Hendsky, originally charged with causing a disturbance, has also been charged with assault occasioning bodily harm while Derusha has been charged with common assault.

Hundreds Turn Out To Help Open Kenner Collegiate

Kenner Collegiate Institute—the second collegiate built by the Board of Education in Peterborough—was officially opened Friday night by L. S. Beattie, superintendent of secondary education for Ontario. The gymnasium, pressed into use as an auditorium, seated 325 spectators but hundreds more, unable to witness the opening ceremony, just went ahead and inspected the school. Dr. Eldon P. Ray, principal, estimated that a quarter of an hour before the ceremony began there were at least 600 people touring the biulding. And he predicted more than 1,000 in attendance before the night was over.

After seeing the enthusiasm with which the spectators inspected the new school, Mayor Hugh Waddell commented: "They certainly have a great community spirit in the southend; they are really interested in anything that benefits the community—particularly school affairs."

STUDENT GUIDES

Forty student guides were present to show the spectators through Kenner Collegiate, and Dr. Ray and his teaching staff of 11 men and women answered a multitude of questions.

Mr. Beattie, representing the Hon. W. J. Dunlop, minister of education, laid down three criteria by which the school system can be judged.

1. The democratic principle of whether or not there are opportunities for secondary education available to every boy and girl in the province.

2. Does the secondary school education meet the needs of all pupils?

3. The economic question: Are the people of Ontario getting a reasonable return for what they are spending on education; and can they afford to maintain and even enlarge this expenditure as time goes by?

Mr. Beattie said that accommodation for school-children is one of the major problems in the province.

BUILDING CURTAILED

During the '30s there was an abundance of labor and raw materials, but little money, so building was curtailed; then during the years of the Second World War there was neither labor nor raw materials available. The result, said Mr. Beattie, has been a build-up of school accommodation needs that only began to be satisfied in 1945.

By 1950 more than 600 schools had been built in the five-year period. Some 80,000 children had been accommodated and $70,000,000 spent on these schools.

The accommodation problem was aggravated by the increase in the number of school-children, both actual and potential.

This "bulge" in accommodation has now reached grade VI, said Mr. Beattie, and within a couple of years the secondary schools will have to cope with it. Estimates of the Department of Education are

Paul McIntyre Wins Music Award

Paul McIntyre, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. McIntyre, of Toronto, is one of four winners of $1,000 scholarships to study abroad. Offered annually by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, the awards are made to Canadians who seek advanced study in the fine arts.

The CAHA scholarships are promoted by the Canada Foundation and have been awarded annually since 1949. Young Canadian painters, composers and theatre students have received them. Competition is on a national basis and this year 75 applications were received from students in eight of the provinces. Since the beginning of the awards 13 scholars have been aided in their studies in England, Scotland, France, Italy and the United States.

McIntyre is a former resident of Peterborough where his father was master at the Normal School. He is a graduate of the music faculty of the University of Toronto, and one of the most brilliant graduates of the Royal Conservatory of Music of Toronto. His record includes the rare distinction of a double honors course in piano and composition, and critics have spoken enthusiastically of his several published compositions. The award will assist him in his plan to study musical composition in Paris under Darius Milhaud and Olivier Messiaen.

Other winners are:

Gerald Trottier, 27, who studied drawing and painting for four years at the Arts Students League, New York, after basic study at Ottawa Technical School and with Ernest Fosberry, RCA. He has exhibited in New York, Washington, Toronto, Montreal and Halifax, as well as in his native

Brunette To Blonde Change Simple, If It's Furniture

So you have brunette furniture . . . and now you want to make it blonde to blend with the new modern color scheme you have in mind. No doubt its reconversion looks like a pretty formidable if not impossible job . . . but if you are one of those people endowed with a little more than average enthusiasm for such chores, then there's no reason why you can't make a good job of it yourself. All you need is patience, a few materials and elbow grease.

To prepare old pieces for blonding, the old surface coating must first be removed thoroughly with a good varnish remover. Apply this in generous quantities with a large paint brush and allow to stand until it softens sufficiently. Wipe off thoroughly with rags or old newspapers and repeat this process until every trace of varnish is off. Next, wash with turpentine, wipe off thoroughly and then bleach with oxalic acid which in turn is washed off with water. Instead of oxalic acid you can purchase a cold bleach already prepared.

When the surface of the wood has become dry a finish of white shellac is applied . . . if the grain of the wood is good, but if the grain is not satisfactorily even, and dark patches are evident, it is wise to use a filler tinted sufficiently to neutralize the discoloration. Follow this with a coat of flat varnish which may be waxed when dry.

Many Methods Of Finishing

There are various effects from which to choose the type of finish you prefer. The finish, of course, is determined to some extent by the kind of wood used. Newly cut mohogany is quite light in tone, but age and exposure to light soon darken it. Bleached mahogany is about the same depth of tone as natural oak. A filler and a sealer are required for this wood after bleaching, followed by a finishing coat of clear lacquer. Up to four coats of lacquer are used; the first three coats should be rubbed smooth with pumice and oil. Mahogany must never be subjected to harsh acids during the process of bleaching.

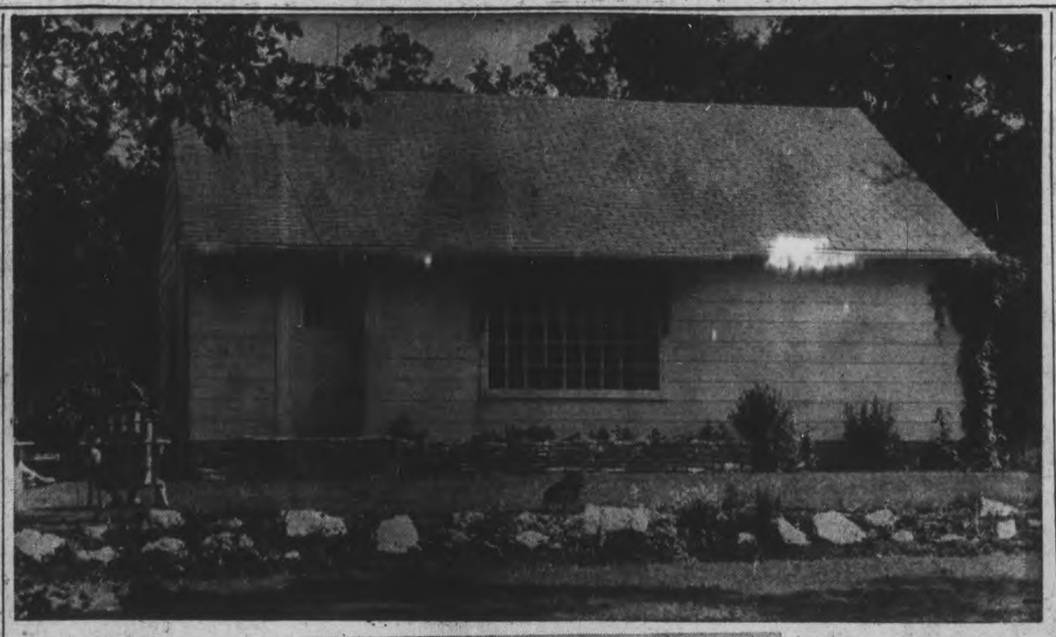
To give a deeper-than-honey finish to light furniture, a wood filler to match the wood is coated with flat varnish and later waxed. This is also recommended for woods which may not have a satisfactory grain. A golden tint is produced by applying two coats of flat or clear varnish over a surface which has been smoothly sanded, drying well between coats, of course. When the last coat is thoroughly dry, rub down lightly with pumice and water and then wax the surface.

Woods Most Suitable

As the main beauty to look for in converting old pieces into attractive-looking blondes is their clearness and lightness of grain, wood with dark streaks should not be blended. It will be more satisfactory to use an enamel, tinted to match the tone of the other pieces in the room. Plain white enamel covered with clear varnish is a good substitute for white pickled blonde wood. . . if your taste still favors the light shades. And, of course, white shellac alone may cover bleached wood in this case.

Blonde furniture is not only decorative and distinctive but it is also substantial and practical. It is particularly easy to keep clean when it is well finished because in most instances a damp cloth will suffice to remove soil. Though it is far removed from the traditional as to be adaptable to modern interpretation, it is equally suitable for Colonial homes.

Combining well with light blonde furniture are clear and lighter floor coverings in rosy tones and pastels, flesh, pale eggshell, beige and honey.



Deny Richter Been Arrested

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The director of Argentina's national atomic energy commission denies that Dr. Ronald Richter, supervisor of the Argentine atomic pilot plant, has been arrested.

The New York Times said Friday in a dispatch from Buenos Aires that engineers on the project had reported the firing of 300 workers at the plant at Huemel Island. The same sources were quoted for the statement that Richter, an Austrian-born scientist, had been put under arrest three weeks ago.

Naval Capt. Pedro Iraolagoitia, the atomic energy commission's director, said there are "absolutely no grounds" for the reports.

However, reports from Bariloche, nearest town to Huemel Island, said the pilot atomic plant had been closed and that many workers employed on construction jobs there had been dismissed.

Gets Diplomatic Post

OTTAWA (CP)—Arthur J. Andrew, 37-year-old wartime infantry officer and former newspaper man, has been appointed Canadian charge d'affaires at Vienna, the external affairs department announces. Mr. Andrew, native of Pictou, N.S., and a pre-war employee of The Canadian Press at Halifax, will be resident officer for Victor Dore, Canadian minister to Switzerland, who also is minister to Austria.

Cut Egyptian Tariff

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has agreed to cut tariffs on imports from Egypt in return for tariff concessions in that country, the external affairs department announced Friday. In future, Egyptian goods will be given most-favored nation tariff treatment. Duties will not be any higher than those imposed on goods of countries belonging to the 35-country General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

Support Ban On Margarine

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Creamery Association passed a resolution supporting the Ontario Federation of Agriculture's plea for a ban on the further introduction of margarine until a study has been completed of margarine's nutritional values and its impact on the country's economy.

The resolution passed Friday said that "the threat of the replacement of all dairy products by such products manufactured from imported oils is a clear and present danger to the economic state of Canada in general and Ontario in particular."

"Recent research has cast considerable doubt on claims that the nutritional properties of such ersatz products are the equivalent of genuine dairy products," the resolution stated.

The association also decided to petition the federal government to set butter prices "more in keeping with the prices of other dairy products. . ."

Premier Frost Speaks In Marmora Dec. 22

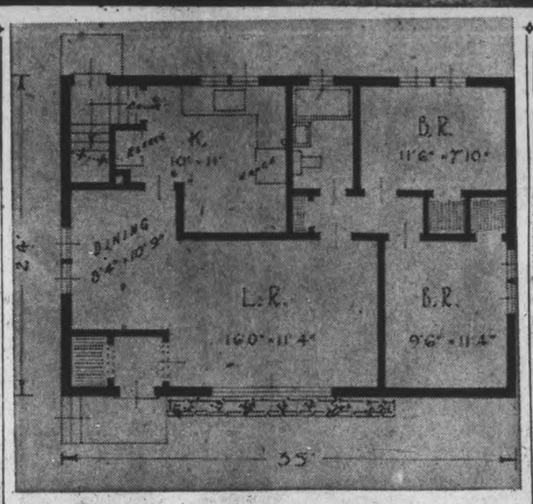
MARMORA (ENS) —Hon. Leslie Frost, Premier of Ontario has accepted the invitation of Marmora District Chamber of Commerce to visit Marmora on December 22.

Suggested plans include visits to the Deloro plant and that of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

The luncheon in his honor is scheduled to be held in the new guest house of the Bethlehem Steel Company, west of Crowe River. The premier is unable to remain for a Chamber of Commerce dinner meeting in the evening but it is hoped that he will be able to address a meeting in the Plaza Theatre about 4 p.m that day.

Forced Out By Gas

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Thousands of gallons of gasoline leaked out of a British-American oil company storage tank at nearby Sandwich West Friday and forced occupants of one home to evacuate. Workmen apparently left a link of pipe out of the line after flushing it. When the flow of gas was turned on again it poured over a nearby field. After Mrs. Gertrude Columbia reported a strong gasoline odor firemen ordered the house where she lived evacuated.



HOUSE No. 61-43 — Appeal of this home lies in its attractive appearance, but also in the simplicity of form and roof lines with resultant economy of construction. Facing west, exterior walls are of asbestos cedar grain siding. This trim two-bedroom home boasts a full basement, oil heating with forced air, completely equipped modern kitchen and many other features. Floors are oak in bedrooms, living and dining rooms — rubber tile in kitchen and bathroom. With basement, contains about 16,000 cu. ft. Millbrook Guild Hears Year's Work Reports

MILLBROOK —(ENS) —The guild of St. Thomas' Anglican Church met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. D. R. Fowler for their Christmas meeting. Mrs. Percy Hamilton, the president, conducted the opening devotions.

Mrs. H. A. Turner the secretary, in giving her annual report stated that they had had a most successful year. Cards of good cheer had been sent, and the sick and shut-ins had been visited. Year cards given to all families of the congregation had brought a substantial amount and there had been good returns from $1 talent money given each guild member. Home baking sales had been held in January and June and rummage sales in September and November. The annual bazaar and tea, held in October had also been successful. A projector had been bought and presented to the church and an electric stove had been purchased for the parish hall. $200 had been given to the wardens for church purposes. Mrs. T. A. Campbell, treasurer, reported a satisfactory bank balance.

Following the business meeting there was an exchange of Christmas gifts from a decorated basket beside a small lighted christmas tree centring the table. Mrs. Charles Brockenridge and Mrs. Hutchinson were the winners in contest conducted by Mrs. Chote in which they were asked to name by touch and smell 10 white powders in small containers.

Mrs. James Godfrey, Mrs. Ed Penny and Mrs. Ronald Palmer were supper hostesses for the social hour.

Mr. and Mrs. George Harrington have just returned from a motor trip to Toronto, Hamilton and Stratford. In Toronto they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Conover, and in Hamilton of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Carley.

Power Project Licence Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Public Power and Water Corp. Trenton, N.J., applied to the federal power commission for a licence for a hydro-electric project in the International Rapids section of the St. Lawrence river near Massena, N.Y.

The application was made Friday. The FPC said the project would be substantially the same as one proposed by the power authority of the state of New York, but includes construction of navigation features on the United States side of the project, which are excluded under New York state's proposal.

It said the project, like the one proposed at the same site by the New York agency, would be similar to the facilities referred to in an agreement reached in March, 1941, between the U.S. and Canada.

The FPC said Public Power and Water Corp. estimated total cost of the United States portion of the project at $25,021,200.

Fall From Rafters Fractures Boy's Arm

Warkworth—(ENS) —Lyle Nelson, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Nelson of White School District east of Warkworth, fell from the rafters of the barn to the floor while playing with other children when he was trying to walk across a board between two rafters. The board slipped and he fell to the floor breaking his arm and suffering bruises.

He was rushed to Campbellford hospital for X-rays and Dr. F. B. Brintnell of Warkworth attended him, placing his arm in a cast after which he was alowed to return home.

Buy Quality Floor Covering Floors First Thing Noticed

When you enter a room one of the first things you notice is the floor, so serious thought should be given to floor coverings because the wear and tear they receive will influence the quality for which you shop. Hall and stair coverings receive the hardest wear, also living room coverings, but a dining-room or bedroom floor covering does not. In a room where the covering may become spotted by hard use, as, for example, the dining-room or child's room, a patterned floor-covering or linoleum should be used in preference to a plain, perishable one.

It is economy to buy quality floor coverings, for nothing you purchase wears out more quickly than cheap ones. For years it has been possible to buy the highest grade rugs with labels attached that guarantee them.

In spite of the relatively high initial cost of Oriental rugs, they will often outlast by many years, the domestic varieties.

MUST BE KEPT CLEAN

Vacuums and carpet sweepers used to clean floor-coverings should be kept in excellent condition for a carpet kept clean and free of grit will last much longer. A close and careful study of your rooms should be given as to the

Try Metal Lath Mending Plaster Cracks

One of the questions most frequently addressed to this column concerns plaster cracks and what to do about them.

Here, for instance, is one typical question:

"Our bedroom has plaster cracks in the corners where the walls meet the ceiling. Also there are cracks which run diagonally from the corners of the windows. We used a preparation for fixing cracks, but after last winter's severe weather the cracks showed up again. How can they be fixed permanently?"

These cracks are happening at places where movements in the house are most likely to crack plaster. One way to have avoided the occurrence in the first place would have been to reinforce the plaster at those points with strips of metal lath over the board-type laths apparently used.

Assuming this metal lath was omitted, it is more than a little difficult to repair the cracks and remedy the condition.

To do so it is recommended removing the plaster down to the lath on each side of the crack for a distance of three to four inches. Then fasten a strip of metal lath cut to the length and width of the patch and fill it with patching plaster.

If you cannot get a corner lath for the crack at the intersection of wall and ceiling, buy a sheet of diamond mesh metal lath from your building materials dealer and cut it into strips five to six inches wide. Bend these strips to fit the corner.

If you are building a home or expanding an attic, using gypsum or fiberboard lath, it is well to put strips of metal lath at critical points to help reinforce against cracking. It should be placed at the corners of windows and doors.

BABY HARDWOOD FLOORING

By observing a few pre-installation precautions, you can be almost certain that the hardwood floors in your home will give lasting satisfaction.

For example, don't attempt to lay the flooring until all plaster work has dried. This may take two weeks or longer. It is also preferable that all other construction be finished, plumbing installed and painting completed.

Have the lumber delivered about five days before installation, pile the flooring loosely inside the building and heat the house to about 70 degrees. Avoid delivery during snow or rain, if you can, and if not, protect it from dampness.

Hardwood flooring, as does any wood, absorbs moisture and expands when subjected to moist atmosphere contained in a room in which plaster is still wet. Later it contracts. The flooring would fit snugly at first, but then heat would drive out moisture, causing shrinkage that would produce cracks between the boards.

METAL LATH can play an important part in construction or repair even if your home was planned to utilize some other form of lath.

Two Canadian Stars Play Top Roles In British Show

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Two show-business stars from Vancouver, Joan Miller and Bernard Braden, take the leading parts in a new British stage thriller, "The Man."

Already well-known in British theatre circles, the two Canadians opened in Edinburgh Nov. 10 on the first lap of a five-week provincial tour scheduled to end in a London opening. Although both have long rated top billing, this is their first stage appearance together.

The play, a psychopathic murder thriller by American Mel Dinelli, who wrote such hair-raisers as "The Window" and "The Spiral Staircase," gives Joan and Braden plenty of scope.

Throughout the 2½-hour production, they whip up suspense until Braden, playing a psychopathic killer, murders Miss Miller. Another Canadian, 23-year-old Saskatoon-born Neil McCullum, plays the part of a messenger boy.

CLEVER TEAM

The team-up of brown-haired, photogenic Joan and lanky, dark-haired Braden, one of the top comedy men in British radio, came after Braden played the leading role in "The Biggest Thief in Town." Both it and "The Man" were produced by Joan's English-born husband, Peter Cotes.

Miss Miller and her husband formerly owned two London theatres, the New Bolton and the Duchess. They have staged such successes as "Pick Up Girl," "Come Back Little Sheba" and "Rocket to the Moon."

The scheduled West End opening of "The Man" may be complicated by another play called "A Pin to see a Peepshow," which the Cotes are under contract to produce in New York, with Miss Miller in the lead. This is scheduled to open in March.

Joan was born in Nelson, B.C., spent most of her time in Vancouver and came to Britain after winning the 1934 Countess of Bessborough trophy in Ottawa. She hopes her New York trip can be stretched to include a visit to her sister, Mrs. Dorothy Tait of Vancouver.

STARS IN LONDON — Joan Miller, of Vancouver, B.C., is in the English murder thriller "The Man," now touring the United Kingdom before its London opening. Her leading man is Vancouver's Bernard Braden and the play is produced by her English-born husband, Peter Cotes. Another Canadian, 23-year-old Neil McCullum, of Saskatoon, also has a part in the play.

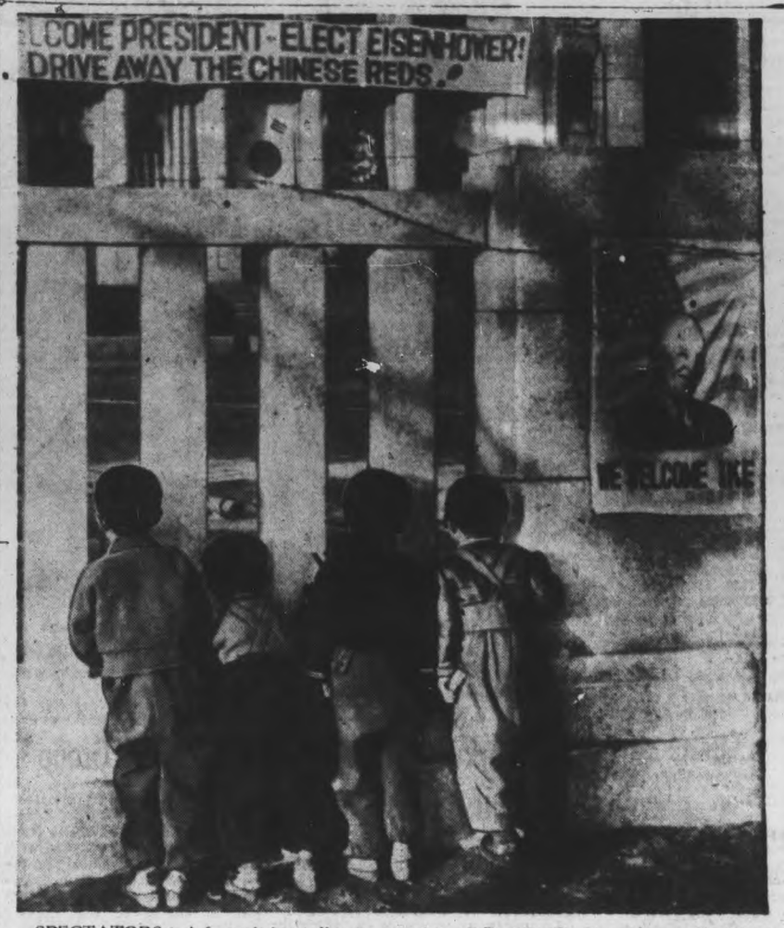
TV No Reason To Relax Rules On Bedtime Hours

Straight answer to those who "view with alarm" the possibility that television will result in children staying up too late at night is given by a father who has had a television set in his home since the days when it was first possible to "get" Rochester programs.

"If the children stay up," he says, "don't blame television, blame lack of parental discipline."

"My two children are very fond of my set, but it doesn't keep them up past their bed time. Their special programs come on between five and six in the afternoon and they are always in to see them. I'm more than glad that they are because I know then that they are safe in the house during the time when traffic is so heavy.

"The programs during the evening are for adults and don't appeal to children so much anyway. But even if they did, I wouldn't let them stay up past their bed time. Unless, of course, there was something of very special interest which I felt they should see. After all, we let them stay up past bed time for special treats like the exhibition or the pantomime, why not if there is a special treat on TV?"



SPECTATORS—A fence is just a "come-on" to youngsters in any land. These four small Koreans are looking through an aperture in the wall surrounding the South Korean capitol grounds to watch preparations being made within for the expected visit of Dwight D. Eisenhower, President-elect of the United States. Only police, soldiers and government officials are permitted to move around freely inside. The General arrived in Korea Tuesday and returned home yesterday.

Farmer Fights Paying Church Tithes

RUCKINGE, Eng. (CP)—For more than 20 years, Archibald Waddell, 77, once a wealthy farmer of this district, has been waging a one-man war against imposition of church tithes.

In his latest skirmish with the authorities he was sentenced to a jail term of seven days for failing to pay a tax of £10 assessed against him last May.

"I will not pay tithe, I will cut my throat first," the farmer shouted as he was led away by the bailiffs.

He has maintained this attitude of defiance ever since he purchased his farm for £6,000 after the First World War. For defaulting on tax payments his furniture, farm machinery and livestock have in turn been seized. Bankruptcy proceedings have also been brought against him three times.

HORSE RETURNED

After one sale of his property a cart horse he had owned for 18 years was bought back by "Our Dumb Friends League," and returned to him.

In 1939, after paying a liability of £100 when his land was threatened with seizure, Waddell told the court: "If tithe is for a national religion, then the nation should pay it."

He was still in a fighting mood when a receiving order was made against him in 1948 for refusing to pay a tax bill of £50.

"I am an old man fighting a lone battle," he said then. "But I do not intend to haul down my flag yet."

Won't Let Canadians Home On Leave

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian troops in Germany will have Christmas leaves but won't be given permission to come to Canada on leave, a defence department spokesman said.

He was commenting Friday night on a report from Frankfurt, Germany, that nearly 2,000 American soldiers will fly home on commercial airlines for Christmas leave. The round-trip tickets cost $494.60.

The spokesman said he is sure that members of Canada's 27th brigade—many of whom recently arrived there from Canada—won't be given a similar privilege They will likely be allowed, however, to visit relatives and friends on the continent and Great Britain.

Dismiss Damage Claim

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A claim for $18,000 damages by William Craig, who said he lost the sight of one eye after being struck in the face, was dismissed in Supreme Court Friday. Craig said Jack O'Neill, a former neighbor, now living in Montreal, assaulted him without provocation. But Mr. Justice Maurice King ruled the injury accidental.

WMS Names Group To Choose Executive

MARMORA (ENS) —The November meeting of St. Andrew's WMS was recently held at the Parsonage with Mrs. K. J. Crawford as hostess. Mrs. Crawford was in charge of the worship period.

The theme was "Education for Living" using the Bible as a means of grace. Mrs. H. C. Barlow was accompanist for the hymns and Mrs. T. J. Bateman took the Bible readings. In the absence of Mrs. Grace Pack, Mrs. Bateman also gave the treasurer's report.

Mesdames H. C. Barlow, J. Sproul and E. C. Prentice were appointed as the nominating committee to bring in the 1953 slate of officers.

Mrs. W. F. Tupper and Mrs. J. Appleton will have charge of the Christmas program which is to be held in the church parlor.

At the November meeting, the book, "Villages of Africa" was introduced by Mrs. Bateman assisted by Mrs. Crawford.

PlaceCrownOnFooting Of Citizens For Suits

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Garson has given the Commons notice of legislation to place the crown on about the same position as private persons in damage suits.

The measure, forecast in the speech from the throne at the opening of Parliament, would enable actions to be brought against the government as a property owner—for instance, in the case of crown property creating a nuisance. It also would widen the range of other suits.

The area of actions by private persons against the government now is limited. At its last session, however, Parliament removed a provision calling for the crown's consent before it can be sued.

Recapture Escapees

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP)—Four men who sawed their way out of the provincial jail here Thursday were recaptured Friday near High Prairie, Alta. Police said they were driving a stolen truck. The four are Lorne McQuarrie, Douglas Johnson, Terrence Talbot and Conley Hall.

Asks Provincial Conference On Health Insurance Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—A 62-year-old Progressive Conservative physician says the government should call another Dominion-provincial conference to work out a basis for a plan of contributory national health insurance.

Dr. W. G. Blair, member for Lanark, said in the Commons Friday that he believes all provinces are anxious and willing to improve health conditions "providing there is no interference with their rights to control health services."

But there must be a thorough investigation in advance. The plan must have approval of municipal and provincial authorities and medical authorities must be consulted.

"We should proceed to lay the groundwork of the plan by calling a Dominion-provincial conference and open discussions," he said.

The municipalities should have a place in these talks.

NOT TOO FAST

He could not agree with the CCF policy of launching a scheme immediately. But he left no doubt his party stands for the introduction of a contributory health plan.

He said:

"When we form a government we will proceed towards contributory health insurance."

In this Dr. Blair departed from the wording of an advance text of his speech made available to the press. This read: "When we form a government we will introduce a contributory health insurance plan."

Friday night Dr. Blair rose in the House on a question of privilege and, noting that the official reporter had quoted him as saying the party would "proceed towards" a plan, added:

"What I did say was that we will proceed with contributory national health insurance."

TOO HIGH

Dr. Blair said the high cost of sickness is becoming beyond the financial means of the people. A national health plan was needed but there had been "too much glib talk about such a plan without getting down to certain basic and essential considerations."

He said the ultimate objective of the various departments of health should be to bring to everyone an equal opportunity to attain physical and mental health, regardless of race, economic status or geographical position.

Claims Fire Ruined Voice

DETROIT (CP)—Mrs. Margaret E. Kolodsick says she lost her contralto singing voice as a result of her terrifying experience aboard the cruiser Nordnic when it burned in Toronto harbor three years ago.

She was one of those to testify before hearing of claims against Canada Steamship Lines was adjourned indefinitely.

Mrs. Kolodsick said Thursday that smoke and fire seriously affected her voice. She is seeking $21,367 damages for personal injury and property loss.

"The fire made me so nervous, I no longer have breath control," she said. "I used to sing in the... Baptist choir. Now when I try to sing, I can't hear anything come out."

Commissioner of claims Ralph Vince said hearing of claims by residents of the Detroit area will reopen next spring.

Fast Recovery

MONTREAL (CP)—Two armed, masked bandits Friday night robbed a Caisse Populaire (People's Credit Union) of $2,800. One was captured almost immediately and the money recovered. The other escaped but police say they have a good description of him.

Besieged Farmers

WINNIPEG (CP)—Leo Scholberg, who operates a farm at St. Boniface, told police he has found three steers and one deer shot dead on his property since the hunting season started. "It's getting so I'm afraid to go out on my own farm," he said.

Graduating Class Gets Chevrier's Advice

In an address at the commencement exercises of Cornwall Collegiate Institute Friday night, he urged the students to consider these needs:

1. To nurture the power of concentration, to develop individual thinking and to exercise reflection, without which qualities there could be no success.
2. To cultivate memory as a faculty to fortify the mind
3. To employ imagination, tempered with reason.
4. To acquire a sense of direction and purpose.

Why Monel nails, Dad?

"Well, here on the coast we have to remember what salt water can do to a boat. The salt rusts right through steel nails, but it has scarcely any effect on Monel, which is about two-thirds nickel and one-third copper."

"Is Monel used for anything besides nails?" "It sure is! Propeller shafts are made of Monel because it is extremely strong and tough and doesn't rust in salt water. That's why Monel is used so much too in plants where salt is made."

"How about Monel in acids, dad?" "Sulphuric acids have less effect on Monel than on most other metals. In fact Monel baskets are used to hold steel which has to be dipped in acid in steel plants."

War Casualties Low—Claxton

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's 5,000-man 25th Brigade in Korea has suffered fewer casualties than any comparable Canadian formation in the Second World War, Defence Minister Claxton says.

Taking exception Friday to an Opposition member's statement in the Commons that Canadian casualties in Korea are comparable to those suffered in the Dieppe raid of 1942, Mr. Claxton said:

"I am informed by the chief of the general staff that the casualty rate of the 25th Brigade has, relative to the actions in which they have been engaged, been lower than any comparable formation in the war in Korea or in the Second World War and that has been due to the finest possible equipment, good training, maintenance of strength and good leadership

"At Dieppe, of the forces of 4,963, 3,371 were casualties in eight hours. In Korea the 25th Brigade have been there a total of 7,900 man years. The total number of casualties suffered is 1,248 or 16 per cent a year as opposed to 68 per cent in eight hours at Dieppe."

ANSWERS CHURCHILL

Mr. Claxton, making his statement before leaving by air for the Atlantic Pact meetings in Paris, was replying to a speech Thursday by Lt.-Col. Gordon Churchill, DSO (PC—Winnipeg South Centre) a veteran of the two world wars.

Col. Churchill had said:

"Had there been no rotation of battalions and had the original brigade remained in Korea from February of 1951 to the present time without replacement, the fighting strength now would be one battalion, not three.

"In other words, the casualties have been approximately 68 per cent, the same heavy casualty rate as at Dieppe. The only difference is that at Dieppe the casualty rate of 60 per cent was suffered in a period of nine hours and the casualty rate of 68 per cent in Korea has been spread over 22 months."

Mr. Claxton said Col. Churchill's statement might have bad effects among the troops and among their families.

When the minister concluded, Col. Churchill said he had stressed the difference in the time element of casualties at Dieppe and in Korea.

ADEQUATE CHANCE

Answering other points raised by Col. Churchill, Mr. Claxton said Canada has adequate chances to make her views known in Korea, and no Canadian casualties can be attributed to a lack of ammunition.

Mr. Claxton's statement preceded resumption of the debate on the throne speech.

In the debate, Dr. W. G. Blair (PC—Lanark) said that if his party is elected to form a government it will "proceed with a contributary health insurance" plan. The Perth, Ont., physician said the government should call a federal-provincial conference to work out a basis for a plan of contributory health insurance.

USE SURPLUS

William Bryce (CCF—Selkirk) suggested the health plan could be financed mostly out of federal surpluses. If additional revenue was needed, a social security tax, based on ability to pay, could be imposed.

Leon D. Crestohl (L—Montreal Cartier) said opposition groups were inconsistent. They wanted the government to increase its services and, consequently, expenditures. Yet they persistently called for tax reductions.

G. W. Montgomery (PC—Victoria Carleton) in his maiden speech, said he is fully in accord with a health plan worked out in co-operation with the provinces.

Irvin Studer (L—Maple Creek) said the CCF and Progressive Conservative parties have different policies for different parts of the country. At times the CCF claimed Canada is going to the dogs. At others the party claimed Canada can afford a $500,000,000 national health plan.

Ray Thomas (SC—Wetaskiwin) said a representative of the Opposition should be taken along when members of the government visit Canadian troops overseas. The Opposition member could support statements—if true—of government spokesmen that the morale of Canadians overseas is good.

Ike Travelling On Cruiser; Storm On Way

By DON WHITEHEAD

OFF GUAM (AP)—The battle-scarred heavy cruiser U. S. S. Helena, carrying President-elect Eisenhower home from a three-day tour of the Korean war theatre, was heading today toward a tropical storm of near typhoon proportions.

The Helena, a veteran of duels with Red Korean shore batteries, was cutting through the water at 32 miles an hour toward tiny Wake Island.

There it was expected to pick up John Foster Dulles, Eisenhower's choice for secretary of state.

But in the cruiser's path the tropical storm raged. Rough seas and some seasickness were in prospect. The ship should run into the storm Sunday. However, the big cruiser was expected to ride through the storm without difficulty.

TO REVIEW PROBLEM

Eisenhower left Korea with a headful of impressions and a pocketful of suggestions on what to do about the war. His scheduled meeting with Dulles indicated an intensive review of the whole Far Eastern problem seemed in the works.

This was the harvest of his Korean tour, honoring a political campaign promise to go and see for himself if there is any path to peace.

There are "no panaceas, no trick ways," he said, of ending a war that has drawn in 17 countries on the Allied side and North Korea and Communist China on the other—with Russia supplying the sinews of the Red armies.

He said he would devote much time during the six-day cruise to Hawaii to studying this first great problem of his upcoming administration.

Eisenhower made it clear, in a press conference Friday before leaving Korea, that the task confronting the United Nations in the Korean theat to world peace is enormous.

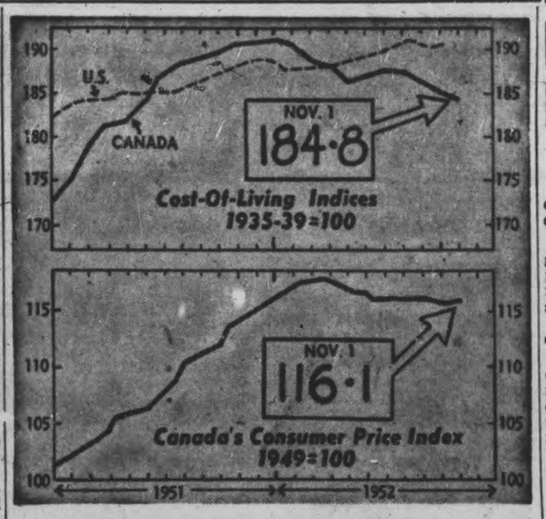
But Eisenhower is confident of ultimate victory. "I am far from a defeatist," he reminded.

Eisenhower flew the 2,179 miles from Korea to Guam. His plane set down early Saturday at the navy's Agana air station. Then the Eisenhower party was whisked eight miles to Apra harbor and the Helena.

During his entire three days in Korea and its approaches, Eisenhower was screened by a blanket of jet planes.

One American Sabre jet was shot down in air combat during the protective patrols flown during his visit. The air force, in its weekly summary of Allied air losses, reported four Russian - built MiGs were shot down in the period.

The Helena is scheduled to arrive at Pearl Harbor Dec. 11. Eisenhower may spend two or three days there before flying back to New York.



COST-OF-LIVING—Living costs as reflected by the new consumer price index climbed one-tenth of a point during October to 116.1 from 116.0. This is a reversal of the September trend when the new index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, dropped by the same amount. However, the cost-of-living index based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100, continued its four-month downward trend, declining by one-fifth of a point during October to 184.8 from 185.

Wheat Farmer Hits Opposition

OTTAWA (CP) — A Saskatchewan wheat farmer has let fly from his back-bench Commons seat a salty blast at Opposition political parties generally and CCF socialists in particular.

The speech Friday of 52-year-old Irving Studer, Liberal member for Maple Creek constituency, put the House in a fit of laughter and desk-pounding.

Acting Prime Minister Howe pounded his desk with both hands. Justice Minister Garson jumped in his seat in glee. Even the CCF, Progressive Conservative and Social Credit members, main butts of Mr. Studer's homey but effective barbs, couldn't repress smiles.

These were the rural member's opinions about the various political groups:

The CCF: "East of the Great Lakes they are wolves in sheep's clothing; west of the Great Lakes, sheep in wolves' clothing."

DOUBLE TALK

The Progressive Conservatives: Specialists in double-talk. They don't say the same thing in Ontario that they say in Quebec.

The Social Crediters: A "residue of conservative technocrats," a combination "seasoned with ginger, pepper and a liberal sprinkling of holy water who call themselves Social Credit. I think we should be protected from that."

The Liberal government: "In opposition to the policy of the Socialists, who are always trying to make the rich poor, this government is going to make all the poor rich."

That one just about brought down the house.

CRITICAL OF LIBERALS

But he was critical of Liberal policy in some respects. He said the government should institute a new system of taxation not "so aggressive toward the people of Western Canada." This was Canada, not Russia, and he didn't like "the policy that is in effect out there where the farmers were put through the wringer, through the grindstone, you might call it. . ."

He also suggested the government might appoint farmer-members to the wheat board and consider some form of unemployment insurance for farm labor to keep farm hands on the land

Getting down to specific criticism of the CCF, Mr. Studer had these comments:

RICH SOCIALISTS

There were too many "rich" Socialists these days. This was a "heresy in the rank and file of the Socialists — and you can leave out the file because they are all rank."

In one breath the CCF spokesmen said the country was going to the dogs under the Liberals, that prosperity was a mirage and there was going to be a collapse. In the next they said Canada now could easily afford another $500,000,000 a year for national health insurance.

The CCF government in Saskatchewan, he charged, had evaded its responsibilities to agriculture. Because of the "inoperation, the inefficiency, the uselessness and the impotence of the minister of agriculture in the province of Saskatchewan, the farmers of Saskatchewan have lost $140,000,000."

Fire Guts Building

CLARKSON (CP)—A woodworking shop and storage building, once a 14-room home, were gutted Friday night in a fire at the British-American Oil Refinery. Fuel oil tanks are located about 50 yards from the house, but a strong west wind carried embers from the fire away from them. Clarkson is 15 miles west of Toronto.

Committed For Trial

BELLEVILLE (CP)—Three Toronto men, accused of breaking into the office safe at Trinidad Leaseholds here Nov. 8, were committed for trial after preliminary hearing Friday. Michael Metrunitz, 40, Walter Johnston, 36, and Robert Knutson, 24, are each charged on two counts of breaking, entering and theft and being in possession of stolen goods.

Lack Of Support Seen Reason For Downward Trend In Stocks

By HARRY KINGDON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Soggy market weather brought out the bears on the Toronto stock exchange this week.

Lack of support was seen in the general downward trend and particularly in sharp declines in a few individual stocks. Some losses were so sharp that charges of "bear raiding" were heard. No evidence of raiding has been reported.

A market with little support is considered susceptible to "bear raiding"—usually an effort to drive down the price of a stock to make money on short sales. A short sale is a promise to sell a fixed number of shares in the future at a set price.

If the stock goes down, a seller may buy it at the reduced price and sell it immediately at the higher price previously agreed upon.

BEING INVESTIGATOR

Stock exchange officials said that extreme price fluctuations are investigated automatically and some are being looked into.

Central Explorers, a western oil, lost $2.35 Monday in a turnover of 85,000 shares. Between Nov. 28 and Dec. 5, it fell from $7.25 to $4.85.

Dominion Asbestos, a base metal dropped 80 cents Monday in a 96,000-share turnover. At one time Monday the stock struck $2—a loss of $1.20 from its Friday close. It gained strength later in the week and closed this Friday at $3.10.

Consolidated Smelters, a base metal, fell $2.25 Thursday in lighter trading—about 3,000 shares—and closed the week slightly more than $2.50 down from the previous Friday.

WARY OF MARKET

Some observers felt that the general investing public now is wary of the stock market because of recent losses.

In Toronto Monday and Tuesday golds gained while other sections were weak. In Montreal, papers gained Monday while industrials slipped, but both weakened Tuesday. The Montreal weakness continued Wednesday and in Toronto base metals and industrials turned downward. Both centres reported declines Thursday, but while Toronto continued weak Friday, Montreal rose.

In New York, stocks rose Monday and Tuesday, slipped Wednesday, turned mixed Thursday and rose again Friday.

From Friday to Friday the Toronto exchange's indexes showed industrials down 3.94 at 317.90, golds up 2.85 at 85.56, base metals down 4.81 at 173.06 and western oils down 3.13 at 111.76.

In the Montreal averages, banks were up .07 at 31.54, utilities up .2 at 90.8, industrials down 4.5 at 203.9, combined down 3.0 at 166.2, papers down 5.75 at 708.16 and golds down .37 at 64.95.

Woeful Statistics Piling Up For Tabbies

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Tigers of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League have piled up such an impressive list of woeful statistics that experts are having trouble finding a parallel.

Friday night Chatham Maroons took the Tabbies 8-5 in Chatham. It was the 18th loss in a row for Hamilton. OHA records show no equal to this since 1948, as far back as they go.

Sarnia Sailors moved into a third-place tie with Chatham and Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen by taking Kitchener 2-1 in Sarnia. Stratford skidded Brantford Redmen into sixth place by outscoring them 3-2.

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior southern group Sudbury Wolves trimmed North Bay Trappers 8-4 to take over third place. In the Porcupine Mines League Abitibi Eskimos won their first of the season from Timmins-Schumacher Flyers 5-3.

FINAL UPSET

Hamilton was within one goal of the Maroons until the final period. Joe Carveth scored three for Chatham, George Edwards had two and Paul Sironen, Guy Cellotte and Ernie Bick, tallied one each. Bill Hammond notched two for Hamilton. Singles went to Gord Peebles, Ron Morgan and Jack Drew.

All the damage was done in the second period in Sarnia. Jim Wilson and Harry O'Connor scored one each for the Sailors. Jack McKenzie scored Kitchener's tally.

In Brantford all the scoring was in the first two periods. Don Oberholtzer and Dugan scored for the Redmen. Bud Ferguson, Dinny Flanagan and Billy Flick did the chores for Stratford.

In Sudbury Nick Tomiuk and George Defelice scored two each. Roly McLenahan, Tatter McLelland, Mauno Kauppi and Yacker Flynn split up other Sudbury goals. North Bay marksmen were Frank Ringler, Boelik, Ab DeMarco and Don Hogan.

200 Citizens Trained As Defence Instructors

GUELPH (CP)—Some 200 citizens here are being trained as civil defence instructors as part of a campaign launched by A. Stewart Mitchell, civil defence co-ordinator for the area.

Mr. Mitchell, who hopes to have several thousand volunteers within a year, said Friday: "We must remember that a civil defence organization is of great value during peacetime. We are training for any emergency."

PLAN SAVOIE-DUNN BOUT

EDMONTON (CP)—Fight promoter Jack Berry said Friday he is negotiating with the Canadian lightweight champion, Armand Savoie of Montreal, for a match here Dec. 15 with Edmonton's George Dunn. Berry said he will attempt to make it an elimination affair for the British Empire title if the bout comes off.

Ryan Facing Big Split Over Indians

CLEVELAND (AP)—The shy, nervous insurance executive who replaced flamboyant Bill Veeck three years ago as boss of Cleveland Indians may have had enough of the baseball job he once thought would be fun for life.

Elis Ryan, 48, wrestled today with the problem of whether to sell out and quit as Tribe president or to fight to retain the leadership.

The showdown with those who have questioned his judgment in running the club will come soon after his arrival from Phoenix, Ariz., today. It may be in a meeting of 12 directors controlling the $4,000,000-a-year operation

Ryan is said to own about 500 of the Cleveland Baseball Corporation's 3,000 shares of stock In addition to his own stock, for which he is reported to have received a $300,000 offer, Ryan has support of some other holders. But his opponents appear to have mustered about as much backing.

General Manager Hank Greenberg, whose contract at an estimated $65,000-a-year has two years to go, owns no club stock, but is caught in the middle of the rift.

That was because Ryan is said to have asked recently for authority to be general manager as well as president. Veeck operated without a general manager, although he added Greenberg to his staff as a lieutenant with a vice-president title.

Greenberg and Ryan never have feuded but at times they fail to see eye-to-eye on how the club should be operated.

JONES UPSETS BRATTON

The votes, all for Jones, were: Judge Harold Barnes, 8-2; Judge Bill Healy, 7-2-1; referee Harry Kessler, 5-3-2. The AP scorecard had Jones the winner, 8-2.

The well-earned victory moved the sturdy Jones squarely into the limelight, while the defeat just about ruined Bratton's hopes for a title fight in the near future.

MAKING CHRISTMAS TREE decorations is no end of fun for little folk. Provide them with tissue paper, blunt scissors and a little supervision . . . and they will have a marvellous time, and produce trimmings for the tree which few "store" ones can outshine in their eyes.

Missing Beauty Of Yuletide Point Of Talk

Miss Myrtle Sargent was guest speaker at the Trinity Women's Federation meeting this week at Trinity Hall. Miss Sargent, president of the Elizabeth Parker Auxiliary of the church, chose as her theme "Let us stop and think of the true meaning of Christmas".

The point that so much of the beauty of the Yuletide season is being missed in the rush of petty shopping and tension of the busy days was stressed. "Without Christ the first Christmas would never have been" said Miss Sargent. "We would have missed the story of the cradle and the manger and of the wise men of old. She concluded, "God only comes into our lives when we help Him to come".

Devotions were led by Mrs. W. H. Magee and her group. The Christmas theme was carried throughout, commencing with singing of Christmas carols. Mrs. J. L. Nesbitt read the story of the Christ child's birth from St. Luke. The message of Bethlehem was read by Mrs. W. R. Philp. A poem entitled "A Canadian Carol" was given by Mrs. Neal and prayer was offered by Mrs. Magee. "How Far to Bethlehem" was presented by Mrs. J. H. Moebus. The offering was received at the manger in a Christmas setting aranged for the meeting.

Mrs. J. A. McNeill and Mrs. Clare Johnston entertained with duets, "Sweet Little Dove" and "Mary's Lullaby", accompanied at the piano by Mrs. James Turnbull.

President Mrs. D. Hamilton thanked the members for their cooperation during the past year. A vote of thanks to those taking part in this evening was moved by Mrs. Grace Northey.

After a short business discussion a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

What's Right?

You are playing records when guests stop by for a visit.

WRONG: Leave the music on—and expect your guests to listen to it.

RIGHT: At least pretend that you are more interested in your guests than in your records— so turn the player off and talk to them.

Flank Steak Very Popular

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Hearty, homey flank steak, a favorite economy cut, is appearing on dinner tables and in smart restaurants as a full-flavored tender "London Broil".

Quality is the secret of this new guise for a cut long thought to be suitable only for slow, moist cookery. Top-quality, thick, well-fatted flank steaks may be broiled the same way you would prepare any favorite steak.

However, if the flank steak you purchase is the more familiar thin, lean steak with the prominent long muscular texture, stick to your favorite braising method of cookery.

To prepare the London Broil, remove the membrane from both sides of a top-quality flank steak and trim off excess fat and uneven edges. Even though the fat is trimmed from the steak before broiling, it is important that the original steak be well fatted, both as an indication of top quality and to impart flavor and juiciness to the meat.

Score the meat on both sides into diamond shapes by cutting diagonal slices across the steak. Broil quickly in a preheated hot broiler 3 inches from the heat source for 5 minutes. Turn and broil 5 minutes more to give a well-browned surface with a rare interior. Season and carve in thin, slanting slices.

For variation of the London Broil, soak the meat overnight in a garlic oil with a small amount of vinegar added. Remove from oil and rub the meat with a clove of garlic before broiling. Broil one side of the meat, turn and spread with mashed blue cheese. Continue broiling until the cheese is bubbling hot and lightly browned.

Unless your flank steak is top-quality and well-fatted, braise it. Braised flank steak, filled with a flavorful bread or rice stuffing is a favorite with most families.

Roll the meat securely around the stuffing; tie with a string, or secure with metal skewers. Brown the meat well in a heavy skillet, cover and cook at a low temperature on top of the range or in the oven until the meat is tender.

Bacon strips wrapped around this meat after browning will baste the steak with neded fat. If a stuffing is not desired, roll the flank steak around strips of salt pork and add mixed vegetables during the final minutes of cooking.

WA Honors Mrs. A. Tully

Mrs. Alex Tully was presented with a life membership in the Mount Pleasant Women's Association at the association's meeting held recently at the home of Mrs. Earl Garnet.

Mrs. Tully is a charter member of the association and was president for two years. Mrs. James Fee presented the certificate and Mrs. F. Lawson presented the life membership pin. Mrs. Tully is now living in Omemee.

The meeting was conducted by President Mrs. G. McLean. Mrs. Keith Morden read the devotional paper prepared by Mrs. H. Jamieson.

Final arrangements were made for the supper.

The members were advised that the parcels sent to Korea to Russell Gardiner and Stewart Blake had cost $5.83.

Mrs. McLean was instructed to take over the treasurer's duties until the end of the year.

The nominating committee, Mrs. Jamieson, Mrs. H. Bland and Mrs. E. Lawson were asked to have their slate of officers ready for the next meeting.

Mrs. H. Lowes, Mrs. H. Gardiner and Mrs. J. Fee were appointed as a new program committee for the coming year.

The treasurer was authorized to send $25.00 to the Missionary and Maintenance Fund.

Following a short program, Mr. Larke closed with a prayer and a lunch was served by the hostess assisted by Group 3. During the tea hour, a sale of house plants and slips was conducted.

The next meeting will be held Dec. 10 at the home of Mrs. E. Lawson.

Keene WI Holds Christmas Party

Christmas meeting of the Keene Women's Institute was held Wednesday evening in the club room, which was decorated for the occasion with a tree and trimmings. The roll call was answered with a Christmas decoration suggestion by 50 members. Included in the business was a decision to grant $10 to the Peterborough County TB Association and plans were discussed for a dance to be held on New Year's Eve. Mrs. Anderson, one of the delegates to the Central Ontario Women's Institute convention in Toronto, gave a report on the first day's activities. Eileen Davidson and Marlene Stewart repeated for the club members the salad making demonstration which they, as members of Keene Teens, representing the garden clubs of Peterborough County, had given at the convention.

Three turkeys which were raffled were won by Mrs. Fred Norof Lindsay, Fred Whelan and Bob Keitle, both of Keene.

Program for the evening was under the direction of Mrs. Percy Oke and Mrs. Dave McIntyre. It included carol singing with Miss Margaret Bryce at the piano, two duets by Donna Short and Carolie McNevan, ideas for Christmas parties, a Christmas game and a contest.

The contents of the "Hobby Basket" were auctioned off by Mrs. Robert Wood. The evening concluded with an exchange of Christmas gifts.

Lunch was served by hostess, Mrs. M. Mather, Mrs. E. Doris, Mrs. D. McNevan, Mrs. H. Renwick and Miss E. Wood.

How To Feed Disaster Victims, Job For Women

Miss Edith Walker, director of emergency feeding for the British ministry of food, believes that learning to feed people who have been involved in disaster is a civil defense job for women.

Miss Walker was in Toronto Friday to study plans made here for such emergencies.

She is on a tour of the United States and Canada to advise civil defense authorities on preparing "for a war we hope will never happen." There is a direct relationship between the courage of the people during a disaster and the food they eat, Miss Walker says. "But you must know and understand people before you can help them in an emergency."

Women may think they know how to prepare food, but how would they make out when gas and electricity were cut off and the only material for making a stove was rubble? The time to think of these things is now, Miss Walker says, and women should be trained to cook in large quantities with makeshift arrangements.

This is a job especially for older women, Miss Walker thinks, because in wartime young women are taken up by industry and the army. In Great Britain 61,000 women have been trained in emergency feeding.

Miss Walker was agricultural secretary to the Women's Institutes of England and Wales before the war, and supervised the work of the WI in increasing food production and preservation in wartime. She got involved with the food ministry during the war and she's ben there ever since.

One of the things the war taught the British is that what a person wants immediately after a bombing is something to eat and drink.

"We learned it is more important to feed the survivors than it is to bury the dead."

Providing food that is easily swallowed and easily digested is one of the first considerations. It is important that the food be something the person knows and likes because even in an emergency people cling to ordinary conditions of life, and familiar food gives shocked persons a feeling of security and comfort.

The British found, too, that cooking equipment was useful needed when it was needed. Static kitchens that had been set up only when it was where it was were hardly ever where they were needed, and the answer to this problem was the mobile kitchen.

Mrs. McConnell Heads WMS

OMEMEE (ENS)—The Christmas meeting of Trinity United church WMS was held at the parsonage with 42 present.

The treasurer's report showed that the allocation would easily be reached by the end of the month. A letter was read from the presbyterial Christian stewardship secretary in which the missionary for prayer next year was named. There was also an advance notice of presbyterial annual meeting in Cambridge St. United church, Lindsay, Feb. 3.

The report of the nominating committee was adopted with one addition. Mrs. H. Graham's name was added to the finance committee.

President, Mrs. T. A. McConnell; 1st vice, Mrs. V. E. R. Zufelt; 2nd vice, Mrs. T. J. Pogue; sec'y, Mrs. W. D. Weir; assistant, Mrs. A. N. Weir; treasurer and Christian stewardship sec'y, Miss C. Connell; finance committee, Miss Connell, Mrs. R. E. Brooks and Mrs. H. Graham; reserve fund and literature sec'y, Mrs. Graham; pianist, Mrs. I. Connell; assistant, Mrs. Moyer; corresponding sec'y, Mrs. R. Williamson.

Christian citizenship, Mrs. A. Rutherford; associate helper secretary, Mrs. V. Lang; friendship committee, Mrs. Northey, Mrs. Overholt, Mrs. M. Jones, Mrs. W. Fisher; supply committee, Mrs. Moyer and Mrs. Williamson; Baby Band superintendent, Mrs. H. Deyell, assistants, Mrs. W. Fisher and Mrs. W. D. Weir; Mission Band superintendent, Mrs. S. D. Vaughan; assistants, Miss Marion Zufelt, Mrs. M. Finney and Mrs. M. Lethangue; press, Mrs. S. D. Vaughan; group leaders, Mrs. A. N. Weir, Mrs. S. Northey, Mrs. L. Casey, Mrs. M. Jones and Mrs. J. B. Hough.

Miss Jessie Lamb, leader of Group 5, conducted an impressive Christmas service of carols, prayers and devotional thoughts, interspersed with Bible readings by Mrs. Northey, Mrs. R. Clifford, Miss C. Connell and Mrs. R. Williamson. A solo, "Life for Evermore," was sung by Mrs. J. Hayes.

The Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt gave a five-minute talk on how Christmas was celebrated in Germany, as he observed it when taking a post-graduate course there before the Second World War. The spiritual celebration of Christmas, he said, was on Christmas Eve, when Christmas hymns were sung. Also Christmas Eve was the time of gift-giving. Christmas Day was a family day—a household celebration.

Friends came Christmas Eve and stayed until the day after Christmas. They attended in family groups, public places of entertainment where the very best orchestras were hired to play Christmas music.

Mrs. Lamb thanked Mr. Zufelt and Mrs. Hayes for their contribution to the program, and Mrs. Zufelt for the use of her home. Lunch was served by Mrs. Lamb's group.

Children Can Hardly Wait December, Christmas Time

By NANCY CLEAVER

"When will December be here?" is a question often asked by a small son or daughter. They can hardly wait for the "Christmas month" to arrive! It is a great moment when November can be pulled off the calendar on the kitchen wall. Even a baby seems to enter into the happy anticipation which the first of December brings!

There is real magic to a child in making decorations for the Christmas tree. Red tissue paper has a lovely crinkly sound when it is cut with blunt scissors. Mother helps to draw the outline of a star in cardboard which can be covered with tinfoil.

HAVE CAROL BOOK

Every home should have a favorite carol book. The piano rack should be cleared for Christmas music and the book of carols placed there. An excellent time for the family to gather around the piano to sing carols is after an early supper on Friday night, when the school week is over. Let the children take turns choosing their favorite songs. The music which you produce may not be remarkable, but you will have a grand time singing the youngest child's choice of "Away in a Manger", or an older child's selection, "Jesus Our Brother, Kind and Good". Take time to learn the lovely "Gentle Mary Laid her Child", by Joseph Simpson Cook, a Canadian. Don't forget the lovely French Canadian carols such as "Whence, O Shepherd Maiden".

Do invest in at least one good illustrated Christmas Book with the story of the baby Jesus in the manger, Mary, Joseph, the Wise Men and the Shepherds. The prose poetry of the story of the First Christmas quoted from the Bible is unsurpassed by modern writers. But children love their own book with colored pictures. Ask the clerk at a book store or the children's librarian at the Public Library to show you their choice of books about the First Christmas.

SPIRIT OF GIVING

You want your children to know that the true meaning of Christmas is that it is the baby Jesus' birthday. But on Christmas Eve all over the world little children are hoping that Santa, who represents the Spirit of Giving, at this happy time, will visit their homes. If mothers and fathers tell their children they must leave money out on the mantle-piece for Santa along with his Christmas cake and glass of milk it is a help in explaining the necessary limitation of gifts. Santa does the best he can with the amount the parents can afford to give him!

The immortal poem, "The Night Before Christmas" continues to be very popular even if "Rudolph, the Red nosed Reindeer" has had such a large sale too! Santa Claus, is best told to children in this poem which suggests that he is a "jolly old elf". What parent can produce a better answer than that when questioned "is Santa real?" Santa is as "real" as an elf or a fairy or any of the other imaginative creatures which people a little child's world. "Is Santa fair?" is another difficult question asked by the boy or girl who cannot help but notice the difference in quantity and quality of the gifts left by Santa for the only child of wealthy parents and those left for the younger child of poor people with a large family.

The first of December! There are four whole weeks . . . or very nearly, in which to get ready for the Day of Days! May no worry over gifts, no hectic shopping or elaborate preparations for company, spoil the family atmosphere on this last month of the old year! There may be rush and hurry, drifts and cold outside, but warmth and happy times are found indoors in countless homes. This season which marks the birthday of a child is the Children's Month. With singing carols and reading aloud, not to mention making decorations and buying gifts how quickly the days pass! There is no doubt at all in the minds of our youngsters that the last weeks in the year are the best of all—and parents are inclined to agree with them!

Marmora News

Mrs. J. A. Welsh of Edmonton, the former Louise O'Neill, is visiting relatives here after an absence of thirty years.

DOROTHY DIX

Fears Inroads of Neighbors' Children

DEAR MISS DIX: First, I hope you will forgive my not giving my name. Since this doesn't concern me directly, I decided I had better not. The problem may appear petty, but nevertheless we feel uneasy about it.

My husband and I saved and sacrificed to buy a little house (our children are married and away) and moved from the city where we had lived for many years. My husband is a country person, and I decided a nice place in the suburbs where he could grow flowers as a hobby would be ideal. I am worried, however, over the fact that he may not be able to pursue it in view of the fact that there are many children in the neighborhood.

I love children deraly, but am afraid flowers and youngsters may not mix. I dread to have to remind the children continually not to trespass. Back in the city I was regarded as being too easy with youngsters, giving in to them rather than chiding them too much. So what can I do now?

I put a "temporary" fence on this place so I could raise a lawn and, after several weeks, I have a beautiful one. Our flowers are being planted for spring and we are quite proud of our grounds. Now I want to remove the fence, but my husband doesn't. Perhaps this sounds silly, but we are in very moderate circumstances. Everything we have is in this house and we do want to keep it nice.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Perhaps, and probably, you are being unduly worried over a situation that hasn't materialized. So far, you have managed a lawn, and some planting without interference from the neighbors' offspring, and it's quite likely that you'll be able to continue unmolested. I would advise, however that the fence be kept until you are sure that your grounds will be respected without it. Such fences can be made very ornamental, even a low, attractive picket fence is sufficient to keep intruders away. Shrubbery also has a good effect on insuring privacy; its objection is that it takes a while to grow to useful height, but a temporary barrier will suffice in the interim.

DON'T ANTICIPATE TROUBLE

Most children—and adults, too—respect a well-cared-for bit of property, so you must fervently hope that your neighbors are in this category. If time proves that they are not, take whatever feasible means you can devise to keep your place protected. Fences, shrubbery, rock gardens, all have value in this respect.

Go to the library and consult their garden books for suggestions on plantings that will sturdily protect your more fragile blooms. These will add to the attractiveness of your home, insure privacy for you, and serve as guard for your flowers.

I do hope you will have a successful garden next year.

Don't worry about the anonymity. I answer all possible letters, signed or unsigned, though I prefer my correspondents named, chiefly in order that I may write them personally if that is more expedient than a column answer.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been a widow for two years and live alone in a small house. A friend of my husband, a widower for five years, lives in town and I would like very much to see and talk to him. He is friendly when we meet, but has made no attempt to ask me out.

G.T.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Since you and the gentleman have known each other for many years, there's no reason why you can't invite him to dinner some night. If you are a good cook and pleasant hostess, he might, in time, come to regard you as a good companion—perhaps, who knows, for life.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have two married sons living in town whose wives are everything a mother-in-law could desire. They invite me to see them, take me anywhere I want to go and are considerate in every possible way.

I also have two daughters for whom I have done everything, washing, ironing, packing lunches for work, keeping their rooms in order, etc. They tell me I'm not a good mother, that I'm untidy, can't cook or dress, in short, they are ashamed of me.

E. M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You have somewhat reversed the usual order of mother-in-law troubles and should be thankful you have such loying daughters-in-law. The trouble with your daughters, especially the one at home, is that you've done too much for them. Let your unmarried girl get an apartment for herself, as she suggests, and discover the responsibilities involved in running a home. Being a good mother and grandmother, as you are, is a fine job and don't let anyone tell you otherwise. Continue to be proud of the role; don't try to become a social butterfly to please your daughters.

Enrol 15 Brownies At St. Alban's

St. Alban's 7th Peterborough Brownie Pack has had the second enrolment of the year. Brown Owl Mrs. Albert Maskell presented for enrolment by District Commission Mrs. J. R. Epping the following girls: June Marie Casey, Jane Anne Pilling, Judy Halliday, Shirley Williams, Harriet Williamson, Diane Fenton, Gail Turner, Claudette Millard, June Moore, Rosemary Hayward, Dorothy Hewitt, Joan Frederick, Barbara Parkes, Norma Jean Barr and Linell Elliott.

The commissioner was welcomed to the Mission by Gail Turner and Linell Elliott and after the enrolment was presented with a corsage by Rosemary Hayward on behalf of the pack.

Mrs. H. Hooey played for Brownie songs. The Mother's Auxiliary served lunch to the mothers attending the ceremony and a special treat to the Brownies.

Readers' Saturday Column by Mary Moore

QUESTION: Would you be so kind as to help me with my cooking problems? I am moving to northwest Canada where food is expensive, there is just powdered milk, probably powdered eggs, fresh meat though, canned goods and some frozen foods, but I have not been able to find out exact details. My problem: to eat as inexpensively as possible on my budget of $13.50 per week for 2 adults and 1 year old baby, and yet get all esential food values. So (1) Can powdered milk be whipped? If so, how? (2) Can you give me some casserole dishes that utilize canned goods? (3) My baby is eating canned strained baby foods. How can I prepare meat for her myself and would it be less expensive but just as valuable? She refuses eggs, and alas, lumpy food. (4) Can you give me any hints on buying food that will make my shopping more economical? (5) Can you give me some easy-to-prepare company dishes—that is cans that can be tried and put away and brought out in an emergency to make an attractive meal? I have a pressure canner and will have the use of an electric refrigerator . . . Could you give a few desserts for entertaining? Margaret G.

ANSWER: I think I have a capital idea for you. I am mailing to you a copy of a column published on July 22 which contains a letter from a girl who is wife of an airman stationed in Whitehorse, Yukon, and who gives a vivid picture of her experiences there with shopping incidents included. I hope V.K. sees your letter and will send me her address again. Who knows? You might turn out to be neighbors.

Yes powdered milk may be whipped. Put ½ cup water in bowl, add 1 tablespoon lemon juice and ½ cup skim milk powder. Beat with rotary beater until thick (about 10 minutes), then add 2 tablespoons sugar and ¼ teaspoon vanilla. The two following meat dishes are current favor? ites with me for emergency meals.

CORNED BEEF HASH (serves 6)

Two cups (1 16-oz. tin) corned beef (or leftover ground roast reef), 3 cups cold or hot boiled potatoes chopped, ½ cup milk, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, dash of Worcestershire sauce, 1 tablespoon onion juice, or ½ cup finely chopped onion, 2 tablespoons butter or fat. (Chopped parsley or green or red pepper or pimiento are good additions.) Melt fat in frying pan. Mix all other ingredients but milk. Spread evenly over fat and fry slowly over surface about halfway through. It requires about 30 or 40 minutes over very low heat. Fold over, as you would an omelet on hot platter. Garnish attractively.

SALMON CASSEROLE (serves 4)

Flake canned salmon and measure 2 cups. Add a little salt, generous amounts of pepper and freshly grated nutmeg. Place in greased baking dish. Pour over 1 can condensed mushroom or tomato, or celery soup. Cover top with buttered breadcrumbs. You may add border of mashed potatoes if desired. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr., until top is golden and dish is bubbling.

You can make your own pureed vegetables and meats for the baby without losing nourishment if you steam the vegetables and meat and puree and serve them at once. It is exposure to air that injures vitamin content. I am sending you the copies of 3 columns printed recently in answer to reader who had to manage on $20. per week for four. Watch this column for company desserts.

ANSWER: I am not sure but I think you want directions for cottage cheese with which cream is mixed afterwards. If so here they are:

HOMEMADE COTTAGE CHEESE

Allow milk to sour in a covered jar in a warm, not hot, place until the whey separates from the curd. Drain the curd in a bag made of crash towelling until it is firm to the touch. Place it on ice for several hours. Remove from bag into bowl. Beat with wire whisk until it is smooth and creamy. Beat into it enough table or heavy cream to make it of consistency you prefer. Of course you know that chopped chives or ripe olives are a delicious addition, and that it is an excellent filling for fresh tomatoes.

A. H. Monk Re-elected SS Superintendent

BETHANY (ENS)—At the annual meeting of the United Church Sunday school officials, the following were elected for the new year: A. H. Monk continues as superintendent, with Earl Weatherilt and Mervyn Porteous as assistants; secretary, Howard Rowan with Allen Bigelow as assistant; treasurer, Charles Weatherilt; teacher of primary class, Mrs. George Waddell with Misses Marie Carr and Marie Finney and Mrs. Vincent Jackson as helpers; junior girls' teacher, Mrs. Wellington Fallis, assistant Miss Joan Bristow; intermediate girls' teacher, Mrs. T. J. Jackson and Mrs. Herb Coppins; intermediate boys' teacher, Earl Weatherilt and Miss Gladys Bigelow; young people's class, Mrs. Orloe Wright and Mrs. Clarence Rowan; adult Bible class, A. H. Monk with Edwin Challice as assistant; cradle roll superintendent, Mrs. Isabel Fallis; temperance program convener, Mrs. Herb Coppins.

The secretary's report showed a very successful year with an average attendance of 50.

It was planned to have a supper and Christmas program for the children on December 19 with Mrs. Isabel Fallis and Mrs. Donald Lowes in charge of the supper details and Mrs. Harvey Fallis, Miss Marie Carr, Miss Gladys Bigelow and Miss Marie Finney to look after the program.

The Rev. James Hampson expressed his appreciation of the work being done in the Sunday school by the superintendent, teachers and officers.

Marmora WA Elects Officers For 1953

MARMORA (ENS) —December meeting of St. Andrew's Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. A. W. Drew in Deloro on Tuesday. Each circle took part in a Christmas program of readings and carol singing. The new slate of officers for 1953 are:

President, Mrs. T. J. Bateman; vice-prseident, Mrs. C. Airhart; recording secretary, Mrs. J. Appleton; financial secretary, Mrs. F. R. Wells.

It was decided to also hold the January meeting at Deloro, namely at the home of Mrs. R. G. Walsh.

Hundreds Turn Out that accommodation will have to be found for 40,000 pupils of all grades in each of the next five years.

Inflationary prices have also contributed to the difficulty in building, he said.

SHIFT TO COUNTRY

On the subject of equal educational opportunities for all, Mr. Beattie pointed up one little-known fact: In the 1945-49 year period there has been an 11,000 increase in the number of school-children from rural homes; and at the same time a 6,000 decrease in the number of school-children from urban homes.

This means that a relatively higher proportion of rural children are now able to get an education equivalent to that of their city cousins.

"The opportunities for secondary school education, formerly denied to these boys and girls, is now available," said Mr. Beattie.

Since 1920 there have been vocational courses for pupils who don't intend to go on to "higher education," but go direct from secondary school into business and industry. This was in line with the principle of making secondary education meet the needs of all pupils.

Mr. Beattie said that when people talk about the "high cost of education" they should keep comparative figures in mind. On a personal calculation he found that his levy for education was less than the premium on his car insurance; less than his church contributions; and about three times as much as it takes to get his hair cut during the year.

FUNCTIONAL SCHOOL

Referring specifically to Kenner Collegiate, he said: "I think you will find that it is a functional school; every square foot has been put here for the purpose of education. Don't be deluded by the illusion of glass and light wood furniture. True, it is an attractive and well built school but there are no frills."

"There has been every possible economy and at a very reasonable cost considering the present market," said Mr. Beattie. "Parents are getting their money's worth."

G. Wilson Craw, chairman of the board's accommodation committee, said that the new $660,000 school was the culmination of three years of planning and work.

"We had to proceed carefully for our resources were limited," he said. "Since the Second World War we have built five additions to our public schools; two new schools are under construction, and another public school has had to be annexed a year or two after it was built. These all have to be paid for."

RAPID EXPANSION

Mr. Craw said the south end of the city was chosen because of the rapid expansion of home building there. In any case there was no land available at the PCVS site and even if there had been it would only have been stop-gap accommodation.

He said that since the southern section of the city was annexed during the Second World War, about $1,000,000 has been spent on new school buildings and additions there.

At Kenner Collegiate, he said, there are now more than 300 pupils attending and another 200 will eventually be added.

"We have a beautiful site and a playing field which can be developed into one of the best in the province," said Mr. Craw. "We are certainly not limited in space, something I think future boards and citizens will thank us for.

"The gymnasium is only half the size of the one planned. A new wing when required can be built on the north side of the lot and at right angles to the present school. And an auditorium at some future date is planned to be built immediately east of the gymnasium."

Mr. Craw paid tribute to the architectural firm of J. B. Parkin Associates and Hubert Eastwood, contractor, for having the building ready for occupation only 11 months after construction started. He also praised successive city councils for their help, other members of the accommodation committee, and K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools.

SPECIAL WELCOME

W. B. (Pete) Gordon, chairman of the Board, welcomed the people of Peterborough to Kenner Collegiate. And he had a special word of welcome for members of the suburban-area high school board.

"They participated largely in the building of the school," he said. 'And I want them to know their pupils will always be welcome here."

Mayor Waddell said there was a great need for a high school in the south end of the city.

"Our children will have the advantages of an absolutely modern building, with the most up-to-date aids to education," said Mr. Waddell. 'Whether it be in the classrooms, the lab., or the playing field, they will receive the skilled supervision which will give them the best possible advantage to make their way in the world, forming an invaluable and influential body of educated opinion."

"We are pleased and proud of Kenner Collegiate, and to those responsible I want to tender our sincere thanks and appreciation—ladies and gentleman of the Board, this building and its name will long remain a tribute to your energy and foresight and good citizenship."

Dr. Ray said he felt three emotions at the opening of the new school of which he is principal:

Pride because he is principal of such a fine school:

Happiness because he has had the enthusiasm and hard work of the staff, and the co-operation of the pupils;

Humility because of the responsibility given him by the Board of Education.

The Rev. H. J. Scuse of St. George's Anglican Church delivered the invocation.

Omemee Guild To Prepare Parcels

OMEMEE (ENS)—The December meeting of the Women's Guild of Christ Anglican Church was held at the home of Mrs. Horace Hill with 17 members present. The meeting was opened with prayer by the president, Mrs. Harvey Laidley.

The secretary was instructed to send a note of thanks to Mr. Streeter for the painting he donated and for making posters for the bazaar. The treasurer gave a satisfactory report of the success of the bazaar. Mrs. F. Bent reported for the Sunshine committee. On motions of Mrs. Bent and Mrs. H. V. Smith it was decided to send boxes of cheer to the sick of the parish this Christmas. Mrs. Bent volunteered to pack and distribute the same. All members were requested to leave their donations of cookies and candy at the rectory not later than December 20 for the Rev. Charles Richmond to distribute to the Old Folks' Home and the nursing home in Lindsay. A motion was carried to buy the necessary material for J. Magee and S. Nurse to make new folding tables for the basement.

Remodelling of the kitchen was discussed and it was decided that the church wardens, Mr. Ruttle, the property committee and the menu committee look the kitchen over and make plans accordingly. Conveners were appointed for catering to a wedding.

After the meeting was closed Mrs. Bent, Mrs. Ruttle and Mrs. Hill served lunch.

Told Quints' Story E. Bunyan Dies

OTTAWA (CP)—Edward H. Bunyan, 63, the newspaper man who gave the world the first story on the birth of the Dionne quintuplets, died Friday after a long illness.

Mr. Bunyan had been a telegraph editor on the Ottawa Journal for the last eight years.

He was news editor of the North Bay Nugget when the quints were born in Callander in 1935, and he sent out the first of the flood of news copy that was to record, over the years, one of Canada's greatest human interest stores. He became a close friend of Oliva Dionne father of the quints.

He was a native of North Bay.

Harwood WI Holds Christmas Meeting

HARWOOD (ENS)—Mrs. J. R. Meggs was convener for the program at the WI meeting Friday and played for carol singing with Mrs. Garnet Isaac conducting.

Mrs. J. Robson related the first part of the Belleville area convention, and Mrs. George U. Isaac, the second part. Mrs. Isaac stressed that at the convention it was urged that each branch keep a complete set of 'Home and Country' magazines, starting now.

A lengthy discussion took place regarding the name in front of the post offices in Ontario. In listening to Mrs. Isaac's paper we felt the Harwood Post Office should be clearly named.

Mrs. Meggs held a contest. Miss Lottie E. Drope read the legend of the willow pattern, and Mrs. Frank Milne presented a willow pattern plate, which was won by Miss Eleanor Thomson during the tea hour for the lucky cup. Mrs. R. E. Drope presided for the business.

Letters of thanks were read from girl club members for spoons, and from the leaders for the gift of cups and saucers. Also letter of thanks for fruit boxes sent. Boxes for Christmas were also planned and left to the flower and fruit committee to prepare. The branch was given a 'pen pal' in England. A discussion took place regarding chairs, and this will be taken up with the park committee.

A vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Ellis Isaac and Mrs. George Isaac for decorating the hall so beautifully for the Christmas meeting.

Buy Quality Floor

type of covering needed. If the rooms are small, all-over carpeting will help to give a feeling of more space. Large spacious rooms are ideal for the use of patterned rugs. Such a rug, though not touching the wall, should run very close to it. With colorful curtains and patterned upholstery, you should use a one-color carpet, for it will make a better setting for your furnishings.

Sometimes we want a plain effect—but the children, the dog. Would the plain rug be just too hard to take care of? There are a few of the mottled broadlooms available to solve this problem. On the floor they scarcely show their mixed color, but close examination reveals tufts of two or more colors. And thus we get our approximately plain surface, yet soil or specks scarcely show. There is a sensible tendency toward buying the large-size rugs, or even in having all-over carpeting for bedrooms. Warmth is needed in bedrooms and color can be brought in by using scatter rugs on top of plain rugs where the wear is hardest, as, for example, in front of doors. Scatter rugs should be treated much as one does a touch of color in a room. They can be laid on top of plain carpeting, linoleum, rubber tile, and even on a two-tone rug.

We have come to the realization that rugs can be made to wear longer when the hard knocks that our shoes give them are softened. This is especially important in rooms where there is much passing, as in the living room. Thoughtful people use a lining between the rug and the floor. It really makes quite a remarkable difference in the wear. Over old floor boarding, use a well laid linoleum or plywood to lengthen the life of your rugs. Cork or rubber pads are now made to put under scatter rugs to prevent their slipping. They also help to keep the smaller rugs in good condition. Just because you have a good sized rug on your floor is no excuse for neglect of the border or flooring that shows around it.

James Gilbert

NORWOOD (ENS)—The funeral of James Gilbert was held Thursday afternoon from the McConnell-Warner funeral home, Norwood with the Rev. R. D. Duncanson of the Norwood Presbyterian Church officiating, assisted by the Rev. H. K. Wright of the United Church. Burial was in Norwood cemetery.

Mr. Gilbert, a life-long resident of Belmont township, died Monday, following a lengthy illness.

Doctor Out On Bail

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Earl B. Clouse was released on $10,000 bail Friday pending his appeal from conviction on a charge of manslaughter. He was sentenced to 10 years in penitentiary. The charge arose from the death of a 31-year-old woman from an attempted abortion. Evidence at his trial was that she was not pregnant.

DIRECT HIT—Four Marines of the 1st Marine Division in Korea crouch before a bomb blast that makes their job easier. Seconds earlier U.S. planes roared over, dropping this napalm bomb on enemy installations.

WA Speaker Describes Christmas In Japan

HAVELOCK (ENS)—"Christmas in Japan" was the subject of an address given by Mrs. R. G. Newman at a meeting of the Women's Association of Havelock United Church Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Newman conducted the devotional service, which included a period of singing of the Christmas carols. A reading was given by Mrs. G. W. Chiles.

The nominating committee, Mrs. H. Gerow and Mrs. F. Chase presented the following list of officers for 1953, the Rev. R. G. Newman conducting the election:

President, Mrs. H. Agnew; first vice-president, Mrs. H. Hoard; second vice-president, Mrs. J. Wilde; treasurer, Mrs. H. Gerow; secretary, Mrs. A. Russell; pianist, Mrs. R. G. Newman.

Mrs. A. Anderson, vice-president, conducted the business period and Mrs. W. Forsyth acted as treasurer. There was an exchange of Christmas gifts.

St. Peter's Wins H.S. Debate

"Resolved, that Communism should be outlawed in Canada," was the subject of a keenly contested debate at St. Peter's auditorium Friday night.

The affirmative was taken by a debating team of three boys from Regiopolis College, Kingston, consisting of Edward Meade, Patrick Giardine and Edward Koen. The St. Peter's High School team of Patrick Masterson, Margaret O'Keefe and Joan Begley took the negative side, and were awarded the decision by the three judges, on a close margin.

Both teams showed preparation and knowledge of the subject, but were weak in rebuttal, and the outstanding presentation, considering deportment, material and eloquence, was given by Miss O'Keefe. Mr. Koen was most effective for the losing team.

Peter Ferren of St. Peter's High School was chairman.

Predicts Ruination Of Dairy Industry

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Gordon Greer of Ottawa, President of the Ontario Whole Milk Producers League, predicted Friday the ruination of the dairy industry if the use of imported vegetable oils in dairy products is not stopped. He told the Elgin Holstein Breeders Association that the use of vegetable oils for manufacture of ice cream, butter and cheese substitutes, and even an imitation of whole milk, is a menace to the industry.

Winter Fleet Smaller

PORT COLBORNE (CP)—The winter fleet here may be smaller than in the last few seasons, a canvass of local marine interests indicates. The fleet may number only about 19 vessels, compared with the 22 or 23 of recent seasons. Six barges and 10 self-propelled ships already are in winter quarters here.

Government Taking Steps To Cushion Army Report

By DOUGLAS HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The government is believed to be taking steps in advance to cushion the impact of criticisms that may emerge in the Currie report on army administration.

The report, expected to be given to the defence department shortly, could become a key issue both in this session of Parliament and in a 1953 general election as an adjunct to the current parliamentary quarrel concerning the conduct of the defence program.

Its exact contents are unknown but both government and opposition members, from what they have heard, are assuming that it will find fault with some army methods and supervision.

The Montreal accounting firm of George S. Currie, a former deputy minister of defence, was named last April to make a study of army methods of handling stores and equipment after the thefts at Camp Petawawa became known. The inquiry has gone well beyond Petawawa.

TWO DEFENCES

The government is believed to be getting set in at least two ways:

1. Prime Minister St. Laurent has told the Commons that it is difficult for Defence Minister Claxton to oversee all the details of administration because of the size of the defence program. He has said that Ralph Campney, now solicitor-general, is being named an associate defence minister and that he will specialize on the administration side.

2. The defence department, fully aware of the sort of questions the Currie accountants have been asking, is making efforts to correct now any flaws the report may turn up.

Improvements in the system of accounting used by the engineers corps—the key one in the Petawawa case—are believed to fall in this category.

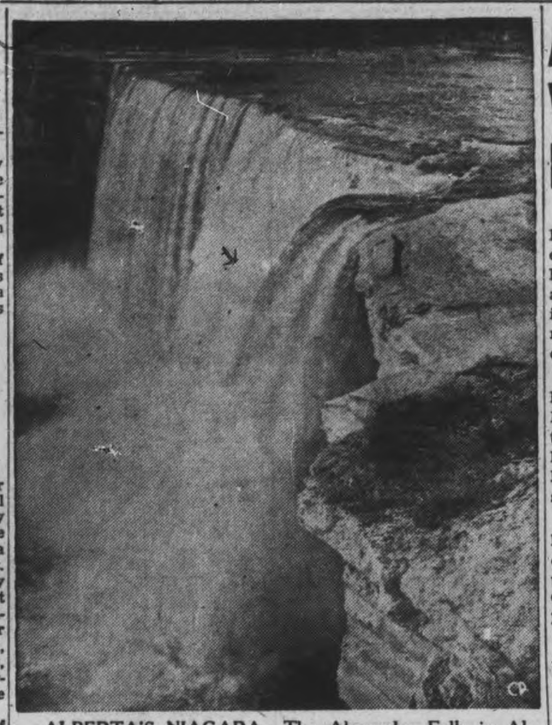
Pleads Guilty To Drug Breach

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A Windsor man, one of three held for trial in the Nov. 12 attempted robbery of a Canadian Bank of Commerce branch here, pleaded guilty to a breach of the Narcotics Drug Act.

Arthur McKay admitted Friday having drugs in his possession at the time of his arrest for questioning in the bank holdup. Similar charges against the other two men, Robert Woods, alias Sidney Clewes, and William Buckley, both of Toronto, were withdrawn by the crown.

The trio, all facing charges of assault with intent to rob in the holdup, elected trial by higher court when they were arraigned Friday.

All three were remanded in custody for one week for preliminary hearing date.



ALBERTA'S NIAGARA—The Alexandra Falls in Alberta's Peace River country has only a deserted log cabin and a roadside sign beside it. Located near Mile 350 on the Mackenzie highway, the falls tumbles 109 feet from the quiet Hay River into a roaring gorge. Niagara Falls, a world-famous tourist spot, drops 167 feet.

Tall Pines Crown Edge Of Beautiful Waterfall

EDMONTON (CP)—A beautiful Canadian waterfall lies virtually unknown in Alberta's isolated northland. Tall pines crowd the edge of the chasm and only a few trails lead to choice views.

Alexandra Falls drop 109 feet into a foaming gorge and are located near mile 350 of the Mackenzie Highway. The 384-mile, all weather road reaches north from Grimshaw in the Peace River country to penetrate some of Canada's most wild and unsettled areas to the shore of Great Slave Lake in the Northwest Territories.

The waterfall, dropping over sheer limestone cliffs from the quiet Hay river, is incongruous in such a flat area. Cliffs border the river for about three miles downstream to the Alexandra's sister falls, the 46-foot Louise, which are not visible from the highway and require a one-mile trek through rugged bush.

The Mackenzie Highway was completed in 1948 under a federal-provincial agreement. The Alberta government paid most of the cost of construction for the 303-mile section in the province and the federal government built the remaining 81 miles in the N.W.T.

CIVILIZATION LINK

The road has provided a link with civilization for hundreds of people who have dedicated their lives to the north country.

No longer does the trapper have to wait months for supplies. Nor does the farmer in Alberta's far-northern Fort Vermilion area have to ship his grain by boat to Peace River elevators. Sick persons can be rushed to hospital and a regular mail service is provided for the area.

The two most important industries which depend upon the Mackenzie Highway are farming and fishing. Almost all the fish comes from Great Slave Lake at the northern terminal while the bulk of the farming is done along the first 70 miles of the route.

Customs Agent Gives Evidence

SARNIA (CP)—Evidence of a United States customs agent who posed as a purchaser of smuggled gold highlighted the preliminary hearing of illegal gold possession charges against two Toronto men.

Eugene Volpe and Jack Pearl were committed Friday by Magistrate J. C. Dunlap to stand trial at the June sittings of the general sessions of the peace. Both were released on bail of $1,000 cash and $2,000 property.

Specifically, the two are charged with having in their possession a quantity of partly smelted gold (384 ounces).

Joseph A. O'Rourke, who described himself as a United States treasury agent assigned to the customs department, told of his negotiations to buy the gold which led to the arrest of the two men in Detroit Oct. 11.

Young Night Owls

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP)—Police have been warning boys and girls found on the streets after the nightly curfew, including youngsters who hang around theatre lobbies. A by-law here requires children under 16 to be off the streets at 9 p.m.

Special Ceremonies To Mark Opening

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Inauguration of a two-year department of highways program to link the department's divisions and vehicles by a combination of radio and telephone will be marked by ceremonies at the University of Western Ontario Tuesday.

Highways Minister George Doucett and the MLAs from Middlesex county will be on hand.

The communication program calls for installation of radio equipment in all of the department's vehicles — trucks, sanders and snowplows—which will tie into telephone lines and permit contact with any other division office or mobile unit. The system, when completed, will cover southern Ontario.

Suffers Concussion

LONDON (AP)—Sir Thomas Beecham, Britain's explosive symphony conductor, is recovering today from a concussion suffered in a taxi ride. Sir Thomas hit the ceiling—the taxi's—as he was getting out to make a recording several days ago. He was forced to remain in his London hotel and missed a concert Thursday night.

Agriculturists Want Say In Water Policy

OTTAWA (CP)—The Agricultural Institute of Canada says the federal government may cause heavy loss to Canadians if it concentrates a national water conservation policy in the hands of the engineer rather than the professional agriculturalist.

The Institute, in a brief to Prime Minister St. Laurent made public Friday, said it has learned that the government plans to present legislation at the current session of Parliament "concerning the conservation of our water resources."

"We understand that this legislation will probably result in the creation of a new organization in the department of resources and development.

LINKED TOGETHER

"It is the opinion of the institute that unless such development is entirely exclusive of soil and water conservation relating to agriculture, it would lead only to serious duplication of effort, wastage of public funds and considerable confusion."

The institute, representing professional agricultural workers in the 10 provinces, said water and soil conservation should be linked together. Programs should be administered by federal and provincial agricultural departments—not the resources department.

It was learned from other sources that a bill will be presented shortly paving the way for sharing of costs between the federal and provincial governments for the construction of dams and other measures dealing with water conservation.

Dies At White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. David Willock Wallace, mother-in-law of President Truman, died at the White House Friday after an illness of several months. She was 90. Mrs. Truman was at the bedside when her mother died.

Some Troops Term Morale Bad

Find Biggest Gripe Of Canadians Concerns Food

HALIFAX (CP) — Morale among Canadian troops in Germany was termed "rotten" by some of more than 720 men of the 27th brigade who arrived here on rotation. But the charges were denied by others who termed the grumblers malcontents.

The complaints as the liner Scythia arrived in port Sunday mostly concerned rations. Officers declined to discuss the brigade's morale or rations.

RSM Karl Jefferson of Bridgetown, N. S., said there was a lack of welfare services for the brigade but he was scornful of more serious complaints voiced by some men. He said:

"Take a glance at their conduct sheets. You'll find they are not the type of men we want in the Canadian army."

DON'T LIKE RATIONS

Pte. J. C. Lacombe of Vancouver said Canadians billeted in British camps were displeased with rations. "We had fish four times a week," he said, "and then they had nerve enough to ask if we wanted kippered herring on Sunday. We used our pay to buy extra food."

Pte. W. H. Hopwood of London, Ont., was one of the soldiers who used the term "rotten" in describing the brigade's morale. Like most of the troops, his "beefs" concerned food or leave. He said British rations provided one egg weekly, no sugar and no fresh milk. "But there was lots of that damn stew with leeks and brussels sprouts."

All the men in the draft were married and Pte. W. C. A. Holdam, Montreal, said:

"The meanest trick of all was not allowing the married men to stay at home with their wives. We got 2 a. m. passes. Call that living?"

Say Condition Of 2 Men "Very Low"

No Charges Expected As 2 Drivers Killed In Accident

BELLEVILLE (CP) — Three persons were killed, two critically injured and five others hurt when two cars crashed head-on on a highway curve near Tweed, Saturday night.

The condition of Don Elvins, 20, of Belleville, and Wayne deMille, 19, of Holloway, was described today as "very low." The two suffered fractured skulls in the accident.

Others in hospital following the Saturday night collision are Reginald Brushey, 23, Tweed; Betty Ross, 19, Corbyville; and Edith Stone, 16, of Holloway. Leta Woodcock, 16, and Gladys Shaw, 17, both of Tweed, are at their homes suffering from multiple injuries and shock.

SOUTH OF TWEED

The accident occurred on a wide turn, two miles south of Tweed. Both cars were wrecked.

An inquest was ordered by B. C. Donnan, Crown attorney of Hastings County, and was opened Sunday morning by Coroner Dr. M. G. Dales of Tweed. Following the preliminary hearing and the identification of the bodies, the hearing was adjourned for one month. Cpl. Jack Hatch of the Ontario Provincial Police detachment, Madoc, assisted by Constables Arthur Boiyea and Tom Lummins, and Chief George Spratt of Tweed, conducted the investigation.

Police said Reid was driving north, in a car owned by his mother, accompanied by Edith Stone in the front seat. The two others, Wayne DeMille, and Betty Ross, occupied the rear seat. They were driving to Tweed to visit with friends.

CRUSHED UNDER CAR

The other car, which was owned by Don Elvins, and driven by Robert Jones, was proceeding in

Workers Plug Leak As 20,000 Gals. York Gas Escape

TORONTO (CP)—Workmen early today plugged a pipeline leak that let 20,000 gallons of gasoline escape in suburban North York township on Toronto's northern outskirts. The presence of the high-octane fuel, which last night trickled down a ditch into the Don river, for a time gave rise to fears of fire or explosion. Police continued to restrict travel through the immediate area of the break but relaxed restrictions in the surrounding district where road traffic was cut off for more than 10 hours.

Firemen said evaporation and the successful efforts to contain the fuel greatly reduced the danger of fire.

Only about two dozen persons live in the area, about two miles north of the city limits. Police said none was endangered.

ANNOUNCES AMOUNT

Announcement of the amount of gasoline involved came from A. J. Horner, president of the Trans-Northern Pipeline Company, which owns the pipeline. He said he was misquoted earlier in a statement that only 20 gallons escaped.

Police said previously they thought it might be as much as 40,000 gallons.

Much of the fuel was recovered and pumped into trucks.

The Don valley industrial area remained on the alert today as a result of an earlier warning that a single spark might touch off a catastrophe.

However, as the hours went by, authorities said the threat was lifting. The red gasoline from the broken pipeline evaporated in clouds as it moved downriver.

The marshy ground in which the break occurred is thought to have absorbed a considerable amount of the gasoline.

Authorities speculated that vibration from passing trains might have caused the break. As soon as the leak was reported, the pipeline company shut off the gasoline flow at the nearest pump station, three miles away.

The 10-inch underground line is part of a 42-mile system. In the area is a junction for branches from Montreal, Sarnia, Hamilton and Toronto.

The escaping fuel ran down a ditch into the Don river a quarter-mile away, where it collected on the surface of the water. Firemen placed wooden log booms across the river to collect it, then pumped it into tank trucks.

Trains on nearby Canadian National Railways tracks were flagged down and ordered to creep along to avoid danger of sparks from fireboxes.

Family Of Three Killed In Trenton Fire

TRENTON — An expectant mother, trying to rescue her 10-month-old baby boy, and her airman husband attempting to extinguish the blaze that killed him, were found dead by Trenton firemen after fire swept through a basement apartment in a small bungalow here early Sunday.

LAC Joseph Louis C. Savage, 23, his 18-year-old wife, June, and the baby, Michael Roberts, had died when an overheated wood stove ignited the tar-paper walls in the living-room of their apartment.

The three victims were apparently asleep and awoke to find the house filled with smoke. Mrs. Savage was alive when dragged from the smoldering ruins of the house, but died before an ambulance arrived. The baby died of asphyxiation while the father, who was found with a pail of water beside him, was burned beyond recognition.

Wilfred Ellis, who happened to be passing by when the alarm was raised, squeezed through the window into the bedroom. Finding no one in bed, he thought the family was not in the house. The ground floor apartment has been vacant for some time.

A group of people returning from a bingo party was first to notice the fire. Jack N. MacLeod and Flt. Sgt. N. W. Anderson ran

Swiss Climbers To Try Again

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Swiss mountaineers will make a fresh attempt on unconquered Everest unless rival expeditions with improved oxygen equipment succeed first.

Swiss circles here disclosed the new try would be made in 1955 if French and British teams do not reach the top before then.

The disclosure came as the Swiss team, which failed by 150 meet and a few breaths of oxygen to scale the world's highest mountain, prepared to return home in time for Christmas.

Word reached here Saturday from the Himalayan wastes that the treacherous rocks and ice, the thin air, 30-below-zero weather, and the constant howling winds of Everest had turned back the six-man Swiss team.

Next in line is a British expedition, led by Col. John Hunt, and drawing on the data gathered last year by Eric Shipton, who has been on more Everest attempts than any other man. A French team plans to attack the summit in 1954.

Mother Denies Trying To Sell Son For $1,000

BLUEWATER (CP) — Mrs. Leslie Pilous denied today that she tried to sell her five-year-old son, Alan, for $1,000. She said she "just wanted to give my boy a better home."

The 25-year-old mother who lives in a shack in this community outside Sarnia denied a statement made last week by Judge C. S. Woodrow of Lambton county family court that she tried to sell the boy.

"I didn't mean it," she said. Mrs. Pilous added that the child was unwanted by her husband "because it is not his child."

In halting English she explained in an interview that Alan was born in Mogglingen, Germany. His father was an American soldier who returned to the United States in 1948. She believes he now lives in New York state near Buffalo.

MARRIED IN 1951

Mrs. Pilous said she married her present husband in 1951 and he preceded her to Canada, working in Sudbury and Kapuskasing on contracting jobs before coming to Sarnia where he is employed as a $65-a-week unskilled foundry worker.

Mrs. Pilous said she, too, has been working but must stop now as she is going to have another baby.

Mrs. Pilous said that she sought to have the child adopted but denied she put a price on the boy's head.

"Then last week they (the Children's Aid Society) took him away," she said. "Trouble, trouble — nobody will help me."

She said her husband "talked to rich people who need a kid" but that the couple he saw wanted a child of their own religions faith.

"I don't want money," she said. "I only want a nice home for him."

She said she took Alan to school this fall, but the teacher said she had better keep him home.

Stabbing Victim And Bride Wed In Civic Hospital Chapel

Korean war veteran and Tuesday night's stabbing victim, Stanley McCabe, 24, of Janetville, and his 18-year-old fiancee, Gertrude Horner, of Manvers Station, were wed Saturday at 2 p.m., as they had planned it, but in the chapel of Peterborough Civic Hospital. It was the first ceremony of its kind performed there and caused more excitement among the staff than the formal visit of Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent in 1950. Banks of nurses and orderlies stood aside in the hall as the groom in a dark blue suit was wheeled to the chapel door and assisted to a front seat. The bride, in a plain travelling suit and a small dark gray hat stood beside him. A small group of relatives quickly filled the four seats.

The groom showed a stiffness, resulting from wounds in his neck and back after the Orange Hall brawl at Manvers Station on Tuesday night, as he put the ring on his bride's finger and again when signing the register. Sister of the bride, Evelyn Horner, as bridesmaid, and the groom's brother, John McCabe, as groomsman, attended the couple.

Following congratulations and confetti-throwing the young couple posed with relatives for formal wedding group pictures and parted, she to her parent's home until her husband was released from hospital and he to his sick bed.

Mr. McCabe appeared to be tired after the ceremony and acknowledged only a few congratulation of the well-wishing hospital staff as he was wheeled back to his room.

Wedding reception plans and honeymoon will be carried out when Mr. McCabe returns home. He appeared to realize that from the physical effort of attending the ceremony on Saturday that it might be some time before their final plans are carried out.

Rioting Prisoners Free 8 Guards Held Hostage

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP)—Rioting prisoners at the New Mexico state prison today released eight guards they held as hostages since yesterday. All maintained a silence on how they had been treated and circumstances under which they were freed.

One, Fred Johnson, who was held by rebellious convicts in the prison hospital, was on the verge of tears as he greeted his son at the main gate of the big stone prison on the outskirts of Santa Fe.

Johnson and seven others were seized by a group of prisoners late Sunday and held in the prison hospital and cell block No. 2.

Their release came just three hours after penitentiary Warden Morris Abram had declared he hoped to reach a truce within an hour.

POISED FOR ACTION

A small army of National Guardsmen, state police and other officers had been poised to storm the prison area when the eight guards held as hostages were released.

The prison houses 650 inmates but only a few were involved in the mutiny.

A news blackout had been clamped on the uprising since it began. But newspaper men at the scene said they understood the convicts originally demanded that they be given a car and be permitted to escape through the prison gates in return for release of the guards.

Ringleader of the eight or nine prisoners involved in the rebellion was identified as Robert Eads of St. Louis, serving 18 to 25 years for armed robbery. He has repeatedly sought his freedom through the courts.

Authorities said the convicts were armed. Reports were that they had as much as four shotguns, two rifles and a sub-machine-gun.

Transport Overturns

OSHAWA (CP) — Robert Fite of the RCAF at Trenton suffered minor injuries today when a gasoline transport in which he had thumbed a ride overturned near here.

Two truckloads of firemen were called to the scene of the accident where for a time a river of gas flowed along the highway

Labor Party Scores Landslide

MELBOURNE (AP)—The Labor party won a landslide victory in the state of Victoria. It was the party's first victory in Victoria and suggested that Labor, which lost the federal elections in 1951, is growing stronger for the next test in the spring of 1954.

In the new state legislative assembly elected Saturday, Labor will have at least 33 seats, and possibly 37, of a total of 65. The party held on to the 24 it had before and won seven from the Liberal-Country party group plus two from the Country party, which had governed Victoria since 1950 with Labor support. Five seats remained in doubt, with Labor favored to take four.

Joliet Won't Forget Visit For While

JOLIET, Ill. (AP)—Lukie Wright, 17, came to Joliet from Chicago Sunday, and Joliet won't forget it for a while.

Lukie's car failed to negotiate a turn on the outskirts and snapped off a utility pole. Lukie and three companions were unhurt, but:

Seven hundred feet of power line carrying 16,000 volts went down, and set fire to Lukie's car;

Lights went out on Joliet's east side and many homes were also without heat for three hours;

Police charged Wright, with reckless driving.

From his cell, Wright said, "I was only going 20 miles an hour."

Rioting Erupts In Morocco

CASABLANCA, Morocco (AP)—Bloody anti-French rioting erupted today in this French North African protectorate. Three Europeans and at least 20 Moroccans were killed.

Police informants said an angry mob caught three Europeans in a stone quarry during the morning, slashed the throats of two of them and cut off their hands. The mob crushed the head of the third with rocks. Three other Europeans were wounded.

The crowd, numbering about 600 and fired up by nationalist agitators, moved on to the police station. As it moved it swelled to about 5,000. Shooting ensued and about 20 Moroccans were slain.

By noon, police had gained a shaky grip on the situation and tanks and armed troops patrolled the troubled sections. An 8 p.m.-to-6 a.m. curfew was imposed and assemblies of more than 10 persons were banned.

A police official driving to work was attacked by a mob during the morning. His automobile was burned but he escaped. A French schoolmaster leading Moroccan children to school opened fire on a crowd which started throwing stones at him and drove them off.

Committee Gives In

Pass Television Coverage Of Coronation Ceremony

LONDON (Reuters) — Officials staging the Coronation next June 2 bowed to a public outcry today and approved television coverage of the event.

The committee announced that TV cameras would be allowed into Westminster Abbey to cover much of the lengthy religious ceremony, including the actual placing of the crown on the Queen's head.

Some parts of the rites will be banned, however. The nation's televiewers will not see the Queen's brow and palm anointed with the sacred oil. Nor will they see her take communion.

The first announcement issued last month banned TV cameras from recording any of the rites inside the abbey except the formal procession down the aisle. Newspapers and many politicians joined in a public outcry and the matter was taken up by the cabinet.

The Coronation committee gave in on another point today. It announced the procession through the streets of London will be extended so more people can watch.

The Queen's stately trip to the abbey, riding in her brilliant royal coach and surrounded by a ceremonial parade, will follow a longer route than at first announced.

The winding 5½-mile procession back to Buckingham Palace after the ceremony will remain the same.

The first television ban roused bitter controversy. Newspapers complained that only a handful of privileged noblemen and officials would see the abbey ceremony.

Today's announcement means that the cameras will be placed in the section of the abbey where the peers will sit, probably on a raised platform among them.

The bulletin added that the RAF will stage a huge flypast over Buckingham Palace on Coronation day to honor the newly-crowned Queen.

Worst Fog In London's History Lifts

Transportation Paralyzed For 3 Days; Criminals Hit Jackpot

LONDON (AP) — London's great fog — worst in the city's long history — began to lift today and grimy Londoners got their first peek at the sun in four days.

The thick murk, laden with tons of choking soot from thousands of chimney pots, started to clear soon after dawn.

For the Londoners it was like the end of a nightmarish blackout —one longer than any Hitler ever inflicted on them. For three days transportation has been all but paralyzed. A number of persons were killed or injured in accidents, and the underworld unleashed a new crime wave behind the dense smog curtain.

The transport tie-up blocked milk supplies in the city and a critical shortage threatened.

RETURN TO NORMAL

By 10 a. m. today buses, subways, taxis and cars were running at a nearly-normal pace, and the Monday mid-morning rush hour went off without a serious hitch. Milk and other food supplies flowed back into the city normally and shipping in the Thames river began to untangle.

A heavy haze still hung over many parts of the city and its outskirts, however, and operators of London's two big airports awaited the signal for resuming operations.

First reports on the smog's crime wave listed dozens of burglaries. One robber climbed 60 feet up the outside of a fashionable Hyde Park apartment building to steal £10,000 worth of furs and jewels.

A six-man gang attacked an American airman in a suburb. They punched him in the face and robbed him of his wristwatch and some money.

In the city's vast Earl's Court auditorium, where the annual Smithfield livestock show was under way, two prize cattle choked to death and four others were slaughtered to put them out of their misery. Penicillin and whisky were given to dozens of other suffering animals.

NEVER BEEN WORSE

The British Automobile Association said it had never seen worse weather. Hotels were jammed over the week-end by scores of persons unable to leave the city for their outlying homes.

Since Friday the dark pall had hung, sooty and inescapable, across the 40-mile width of this city area of 9,000,000 persons. The thick layer of grime stained clothes, upholstery, hands and hair, even indoors.

Ambulances and fire trucks crawled to answer emergency calls behind walking guides who staggered ahead carrying blazing torches.

Squad cars of police were useless.

The freak fog, which left towns only 15 miles south of London in bright sunshine, already had cost several lives, dozens of injuries and damages running into millions of pounds.

HAVE FIELD DAY

Criminals had their best cover in years.

"I'm afraid we shall find some bodies floating around the docks when this lot lifts," a patrolman observed.

With lights burning through the day in every home and office, the electricity consumption soared, forcing the nationalized electricity authority to order the first power cut of the winter.

With 500 airliners grounded, the fog has cost the airlines $6 a minute since Friday morning.

Fires blazed unhindered while firemen were stalled in the fog. Blackjack gangsters struck and melted into the darkness. Desperately sick persons waited hours for ambulances. But Londoners also laughed at some of the less tragic confusion caused by the blackout:

Even ducks in the parks got lost and landed exhausted and bewildered on fog-bound highways.

Prince Alexander of Yugoslavia was driving his aunt, the Duchess of Kent, through London but became lost in the fog. A patrolman approached his stranded automobile and asked if he could help.

"I should be glad to know the way to Buckingham Palace. I have to get my aunt there," the Prince replied.

"Don't be sarcastic. I'm only trying to help," replied the cop.

It took quite a time to persuade him it was not a bad joke.

Report 5 Lives Lost

1,370 Passengers Stranded By Severe California Storm

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Wind, rain and snow pounded northern California taking five lives and temporarily stranding seven passenger trains with 1,370 passengers.

The storm paralyzed highway travel and communications during the week-end, flooded lowland communities and disrupted power service over much of the area. It had passed today, but rain was forecast for tonight.

Four of the stranded trains were freed after a 24-hour delay, when eight miles of snowbound, north-south Southern Pacific track was cleared late Sunday near Dunsmuir, 350 miles north of here.

Three southbound trains were held temporarily at Klamath Falls, Ore.

The storm struck its hardest blows in the southern Siskiyou mountains on the Oregon - California border. Snowplows cut through deep drifts to rescue stranded motorists and farmers.

The weather forecast called for scattered showers over northern California today, with more snow in the mountains.

Two men and two children were killed Sunday when a huge oak tree uprooted by high winds sliced through the roof of a home 50 miles north of Ukiah. A woman suffered serious injury.

They were identified as Russ Tulla, 24; his daughter, 10 months; Logan Trever, 26; and his son, Bobby, 2. Mrs. Tulla suffered a broken leg and shock.

Carl Seidner, 47, a pedestrian, was killed by a car in Humboldt county Saturday night. The driver said he was blinded by rain.

Still unsolved was the mystery of red flares reported near Tahoe City. Residents said they saw flares dropped from a plane "which disappeared behind a mountain and exploded in a burst of flame." A posse searched the area but found nothing.

Dairy Men Urge Ban On Synthetic Milk Products

"Further manufacture and sale of synthetic dairy products should be banned," was the active clause of an appeal to the Ontario Government by Peterborough Whole Milk Producers at their annual meeting Saturday night in the office of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. The preamble of the resolution by Henry Batten of North Monaghan and Harry Jackson of Emily township affirmed that the milk producers were seriously concerned about further inroads into the dairy industry, thereby threatening 14 percent of the working force of this province, which is employed in that industry in one way or another.

Farmers of the district are being asked to tell their story to their respective members of the Legislature, to write individual letters to them instead of using some stereotyped form, and also to try to enlist public support against a threat to the economy of this country which, it was said, was bound to have far-reaching effects.

SYNTHETIC ICE CREAM

"Possibly, you do not know that there is a company in Ontario who have formulae, equipment, everything down to the container package to put on the market synthetic ice-cream based on vegetable oils instead of our own dairy cream and butter fat," Vivian S. Milburn, secretary of the association, informed the largely attended meeting.

Mr. Milburn said that this new threat extended even to the manufacture of cheese and powdered milk, apart altogether from margarine.

"I think organized labor is with us in this appeal, and will be with us the more they understand that their jobs and earnings are likely to be affected," Mr. Milburn said. "You read in the newspapers not long ago about the layoffs in the plant of Massey-Harris. Why was that? Because they weren't selling farm equipment. Many orders from farmers had actually been cancelled throughout this year. That is how simple it is.

"When the prices of our products began to fall this year on account of the U.S. embargo at the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in the west, and because of our loss of the British market, I spoke to Mr. J. S. Duncan, president of the Massey-Harris Co., and one of our most able Canadian manufacturers. I asked him what was the experience of the company about cancelled orders. His reply was that they were still going full blast on 'firm orders'. These orders had been sent in from the dealers."

Since then, the layoffs did occur, and farmers could see accumulated machinery in yards and warehouses of agents of agricultural machinery. Banks and agents were both concerned, and Mr. Milburn suggested that a farmer with cash today would probably get more favorable welcome if he wanted to buy some machine.

Take the buying power of the farmers out of the market, and the business of this country soon realized the effect of that serious loss.

ACTION NOW

Mr. Milburn said that the threat of relatively cheap vegetable oils was a most serious threat to the farmers of this province. He declared that the time for action was right now, and that every farmer could do something about it, and should not delay in doing it.

"The dairy industry and its herds of cows are a most important factor in maintaining the fertility of the soil," Mr. Milburn said, "and after all we have heard and know about conservation in recent years, this new threat of vegetable oils will react right down to conservation policies and the productivity of the land."

The Canadian farmer had to carry on his business within the economy established in this country. Imported oils were a grave threat because they were imported from countries whose labor conditions and wages were greatly below those in the United States and Canada."

The resolution of the Milk Producers will be forwarded to the Ontario Whole Milk Producers' League, the Ontario Federation League, and Mr. Milburn said it would also reach Premier Frost. He remarked that the government was already seriously concerned about this matter.

"I think this is something the county councils could take up," Deputy-Reeve David McIntyre said.

Mr. Milburn said: "I heartily agree with that, and I understand that one of the counties has drafted a resolution, and copies of it are being sent to the other counties of the province."

The financial report of the association as presented by Mr. Milburn, secretary-treasurer, audited by Harry Jackson, showed a satisfactory balance for the year.

Officers were re-elected in one ballot as moved by Wellington Sutton and seconded by John Stewart.

The president is Eddie Butler; vice-president, Harry Jackson; secretary-treasurer, Mr. Milburn, and assistant secretary-treasurer, Henry Batten.

Mr. Milburn is director to the Ontario Whole Milk Producers, and directors to the Peterborough Federation of Agriculture are: Stanley Wood and Harry Young.

Producers represent the dairy farmers of the district, those whose herds supply the Peterborough dairies and through them the consumers of the city and district.

37 Perish In Plane Crash

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—A trans-Atlantic Cuban air liner exploded soon after it took off for Havana and carried all but four of the 41 persons aboard to death in shark-studded waters capped by burning gasoline.

Men, women and children were among the 37 who perished in the crash early Saturday five miles off this British colonial vacation resort. The victims were Spaniards, Cubans and Mexicans.

U.S. Air Force and Coast Guard crash boats picked the four survivors, three women and a man, from a choppy sea littered by debris, including a pair of baby shoes, a briefcase, rubber fittings from the plane's seats.

One who lived through it was the Cuban steward, Orlando Lopez Suarez, 40. Thrown out before the plane hit the water, he helped keep a Cuban girl, Alicia Ebank, afloat for an hour until they were rescued by the coast guard. The other survivors were Gloria Sotomayor, a Cuban, and Adelaida Arenal, a Mexican.

The plane, a DC-4, was operated by the Cubana Airlines, a subsidiary of Pan American. It carried a Cuban crew of eight and 33 passengers.

It was westbound from Madrid.

RCAF Jet Fighter Makes Longest Flight

TORONTO (CP)—An RCAF jet fighter has made the longest jet flight yet performed in this country, A. V. Roe, manufacturers of the aircraft, said.

The CF100 made the 1,100-mile flight in two hours 49 minutes, an average of 470 miles an hour. The plane, piloted by Sqdn. Ldr. Doug Biden of Moncton, N.B., left Ottawa at 12:11 p.m. EST and arrived at Winnipeg at 2 p.m. CST (3 p.m. EST). A crew man, Cpl. D. L. Barkley of Ottawa, was also aboard.

The plane, the first Canadian-designed and built jet craft, will undergo cold-weather tests at Namao, near Edmonton.

Martin Hopeful Indian Plans Aid For Peace

NEW YORK (CP) — Health Minister Paul Martin of Canada said today the United Nations peace plan for Korea brings an armistice closer even if the Chinese Communists and North Koreans reject it.

Speaking to students at Barnard College, Martin said the action taken by the general assembly in approving the plan "could very well become a turning point in the relations between the West and Asian nations such as India, Pakistan, Indonesia and others."

Delegates at the UN meanwhile were awaiting the Communists' formal reply to the proposal outlined in a letter sent Saturday by Assembly President L. B. Pearson of Canada. Russia has rejected the plan outright and Communist China has rebuffed it by implication.

Martin, leader of the Canadian delegation at the UN, said if the UN plan "fails to achieve its objective it will at least have the advantage of setting the record straight and revealing who is for war and who is for peace."

The Canadian emphasized the importance of the unprecedented unity of the non-Communist world in supporting the Indian plan adopted by the assembly with only the Soviet bloc in opposition.

Would Curb Religious Fraud

ESSEX (CP) — Legislation to curb "pseudo-religious confidence fraud" was recommended by the Rev. B. R. Oatley-Willis in a sermon at First Baptist Church here Sunday night.

Mr. Oatley-Willis was commenting on a recent incident in Barrie, where 19-year-old Mary Taylor, a diabetic, died within 60 hours of abandoning insulin injections after deciding to try "faith and prayer" as a cure.

"Any law which will halt this pseudo-religionism, which brings such reproach upon the church of God, will have my support insofar as it does not infringe upon our fundamental liberties," Mr. Oatley-Willis said last night.

Although affirming his belief in divine healing, the Essex pastor said that God needs no human medium to dispense His healing blessings. "If he does use them, they are doctors, the use of whom the Lord Jesus advocated," he added. "We have no record anywhere in the Bible of meetings being held specifically for the purpose of healing the physically sick. Nowhere does God advocate directly or by implication the disparaging of medical assistance."

Cedar Boughs Case To Be Heard Dec. 22

The "cedar boughs" case with Mrs. Joseph Hamilton of Dummer Township and Kenneth McClure of RR 2, Lakefield, as principals, will come up again December 22.

Today in police court Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, discharged McClure on a charge of theft of cedar trees valued at more than $25. He now faces a charge of theft of parts of trees valued at more than 25 cents.

Last week Magistrate Philp reduced the charge of theft from one of more than $25 to the 25-cent section. However, he said today that he had found that he had no jurisdiction for doing so.

(A magistrate may reduce an indictable offence to a less serious indictable offence, but he cannot reduce an indictable offence to a summary one.)

Mrs. Hamilton made a brief blast at the Examiner and told the court that she had a box of locks at home which had apparently been of little use "in keeping the devils out."

Lie Sees Little Hope For Peace In Korea

OSLO (AP)—The United Nations secretary-general, Trygve Lie, said in a recorded interview with the Norwegian state broadcasting system last night that there is little hope for peace in Korea.

"Everything has been done that could be done by the United Nations, but I'm sorry to say it looks like they who started the Korean war and attacked the Republic of South Korea, in reality, are against a peaceful settlement," Lie said.

"It is a fact," he said, "that the Soviet Union, together with four other Communist nations," now are completely isolated. They have never been in such an isolated position. "We must only hope that world opinion will be able to influence the coming decision about an armistice in Korea."

Truck Goes In Creek Driver 22, Drowned

NORANDA, Que. (CP) — Gerald Million, 22, of Noranda was drowned Saturday when the truck he was driving slid from icy Arntfield highway near here and landed upside down in a creek.

Two passengers in the truck, Dennis McDonald, 11, and Gil Caldwell, 12, escaped by forcing a Caldwell, 12, escaped by forcing a door. Million was trapped behind the wheel when the vehicle came to rest in water seven feet deep.

Reveal Stand About Tunisia

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) The United States, still at odds with Britain and France over the United Nations' right to discuss the Tunisian question, planned to reveal its stand on that terrorism-studded problem today.

Philip Jessup, whose resignation as a Truman ambassador-at-large has already been submitted, was to make the U. S. position known in the UN assembly's political committee at 3 p. m. EST

The U.S. has kept quiet while Arab-Asian countries argued for a UN commission to supervise new Tunisian home-rule negotiations with France. France has boycotted the committee on the grounds the UN has no right to intervene in what France considers a domestic question.

Britain's minister of state, Selwyn Lloyd, renewed the competence question in the debate Saturday, apparently to carry out a British promise to support the French attitude. He did not make any formal motion to end the debate.

A U. S. spokesman said before the meeting that Jessup planned to ignore the issue of UN competence and speak directly to the question raised about French administration in Tunis. The U. S. thus promised to try to keep a course near the middle, not offending the Arab-Asian bloc and counting on other ties to keep the sensitive French from too overt a break over the situation.

Prices Turn Mixed On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO (CP) — Prices turned mixed in early afternoon stock market trading today as the market fluctuated trendlessly

Papers weakened in afternoon list. Steels, refining oils and manufacturing companies also slipped. Foods showed strength in spite of a loss of more than $1 in Acadia Atlantic Pr.

Senior golds lost strength in light trading but support for junior producers and some prospects buoyed the list. Campbell and Delnite were strong in juniors while, among the prospects, Bevcourt, Gunnar and Akaitcho gained. Holding companies were firm.

Western oils slipped lower although a few issues made good gains. Gridoil, New Superior and Central Explorers added pennies while Canadian Atlantic, Cons. Allenbee, General A, Home Oil and New Concord slipped. Banff Oil, a new listing, sold about 500 shares between $1.85 and $1.90.

Higher-priced base metals gained while other issues slipped. East Rim and Rix gained. Minda-Scotia dropped from 16 cents to 9¾ cents in the first three hours.

3 Die In Hotel Fire

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Fire gutted a small downtown hotel early today, killing three persons, including Mrs. Hattie McCroskey, 83, blind invalid. There were 32 persons registered. Two were injured and others escaped unhurt.

Rental Housing Asked For Shifted Workers

HAMILTON — Federal government policy of establishing rental housing projects wherever industry necessitates mass migration of workers to new territory—as in the Ford Motor Company's transfer of its final assembly operation to Oakville — was urged by District Council No. 26, United Automobile Workers (CIO), representing 67,000 Canadian workers, meeting here in quarterly session during the weekend.

The council, made up of nearly 100 elected delegates from UAW-CIO local unions in Ontario and Quebec, also asked that part of the cost of transporting workers and their families be borne by Canada's Unemployment Insurance Commission fund. It set up a committee of the residents of UAW-CIO Locals 195, 200 and 240 in Windsor and the Toronto and Lakeshore Labor Council (CCL) to meet Federal government and Trafalgar Township Council representatives.

George Burt, Canadian director of UAW-CIO, said the union believed that workers caught in such moves as the Ford Motor Company's to Oakville, ought to have the same chance of buying their homes at 10 per cent down payment that workers in defence industries now enjoy.

The UAW council expressed its unanimous opposition to the anti-labor sections of the Bill H-8 amendments to the Criminal Code and urged adoption of a bill of rights in Canada to establish firmly in law the democratic rights of Canadian citizens. Delegates made a distinction between the labor movement and the Communist Party and asked that the Federal government make a similar distinction. "Labor considers the right to strike a democratic action and not an act of treason," the council declared.

Full co-operation with veterans' organizations, war mothers, central labor groups and other interested bodies in urging the Federal government to make November 11 a statutory holiday was endorsed by the council.

The council voted to lend the Workers' Education Association up to $3,500 to help pay off a mortgage on that organization's Toronto headquarters building.

from their car to the house and pounded on the door. Receiving no response they opened the door, searched the ground floor apartment and attempted to enter the basement, but the intense smoke drove them back. They then called at a neighbor's house and Gerald Penny called the Trenton fire brigade.

Many neighbors thought that the Savage family was not at home because their car was missing, but Benard MacDonald, next door neighbor, said he heard someone in the house chopping wood about midnight. Three quarters of an hour later he was awakened by the shouts of MacLeod and Anderson who were trying to rouse the occupants.

RECOVER BODIES

Firemen M. Mitts and Wilfred Elis recovered the bodies of the woman and infant. Mr. Savage, an aero engine technician, was stationed at No. 6 Repair Depot here.

Mrs. Savage was the daughter of Mr and Mrs. R. Casselman of Malone. The couple were married in 1951 and had lived in the apartment for almost a year. The airman's parents reside in Montreal.

LEAVE FOR HOME

The troops, a happy, healthy-looking group, are to leave for their homes today on two special trains.

While there were complaints about rations, the troops were unanimous on one phase of their year-long stint in Germany—the training. Maj. L. G. Craigie, Kamsack, Sask., said: "Manoeuvres were tops. We really learned something and easily held our own with the British and Americans."

In Ottawa, Brig. W. L. Coke, director-general of army medical services who recently returned from a tour of Canadian forces in Germany, said the brigade received British rations because its entire supply channel was through the British Army. These rations, however, were supplmented by 26 Canadian articles as extras.

CHILD UPSET

A. P. Bates, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society of Sarnia and Lambton county, said that Alan, who will be six Dec. 16, has been aware for some time that his mother and stepfather were trying to "get rid of him." Mr. Bates said the knowledge upset the child so much that he became unmanageable at school.

The boy has been placed in a foster home while authorities are investigating.

Last week Judge Woodrow signed an interim order giving the Children's Aid custody of the boy and rebuking the parents with the remark: "In this country we do not do this sort of thing."

Meanwhile the immigration department at Ottawa has requested a thorough report on the situation.

BELGRADE (Reuters) — The official Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported today that Deputy Premier Zdenek Fierlinger, five ex-ministers and "many other people" are being held in a new wave of arrests in purge-torn Czechoslovakia.

Ask Succession Duty Act Be Amended

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Federation of University Women wants a change in the succession duty act to make one half of married men's estates exempt from inheritance taxes.

The resolution, forwarded to Finance Minister Abbott, is one of five presented to the government following the federation's annual conference earlier this year. The CFUW claims a membership of 7,000.

The federation's request, similar to one made earlier by the national council of women, asks that the act be changed to make wives partners in their husband's estates, thus exempting half of the estate from taxes on a husband's death.

The other resolutions, all presented to Prime Minister St. Laurent, urged:

1. That the words "Dominion" and "Royal" be retained in the Canadian official vocabulary;
2. That the government set up a council for the encouragement of Canadian arts and letters and research and study in the humanities and social sciences;
3. That the government contribute to the United Nations organization for assistance to refugees;
4. That the CBC maintain its policy of impartiality and guard freedom of speech.

4 On Cruise Die In Storm

BRIGANTINE, N.J. (CP)—Four persons who set out from New York on a round-the-world cruise perished in an Atlantic storm because they took to a 10-foot dinghy instead of remaining in their 45-foot two-masted yawl which had gone aground.

The bodies of Charlotte Laberge, 30 her son, Lance, 11, and another youth, John Ahlberg, 18, were found Saturday washed up on the beach near Atlantic City Stephen Laberge, who gave up his job in California to go on the cruise, is missing and believed dead. The trip was begun Thursday.

The four took to the dinghy after the yawl went aground on a sandbar. They didn't know the vessel would remain watertight and safe until found the next day.

the opposite direction. Others riding in this car were Arthur Crossley, Reginald Brushey, Leta Woodcock and Gladys Shaw. The four young men had been in Tweed earlier in the evening and they met the two girls, and all started out to attend the movies in Belleville. The Elvins' car turned completely over and Crossley and Jones were apparently crushed to death, when the vehicle rolled on top of them.

Three ambulances rushed to the scene to remove the injured people to Belleville Hospital. Provincial Constable Jack Hatch said that no charges are likely to be laid, as both drivers were killed in the accident. Three residents of Tweed, Bob Sheppard, Ross McNaught and Sam Fisher, W. Morton of Thomasburgh and George Beatty of Sulphide were among the first on the scene, and pulled the victims from the badly wrecked cars, and notified police.

U.S. Dollar At Discount

MONTREAL (CP) — The American dollar was at a discount of 3 1-16 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Friday's noon rate was 97 3-32 cents. The pound sterling was $2.17¾, against $2.72 1-16 on Friday.

See New Lens Bringing Sight To Blind People

BANGOR, Me. (AP)—Dr. William Feinbloom of Columbia University announces the development of a clear image lens he described as powerful enough to give vision to partially blind persons.

Dr. Feinbloom reported Sunday that his new device, a member of the microscopic lens family, offers hope to many of the partially blind persons having as little as two-per-cent vision. The lens, he said, is the first device to remove all the blur optically possible from the eyes of the partially blind.

"For the first time," he told the Maine Optometric Association "the principle of aspherical surfaces is employed as an aid to the human eye."

REGAIN CLARITY

"With the lens," he added, "patients who never before viewed television clearly can now see the TV screen with maximum clarity and many who have had to depend on the eyes of others can, through the lens, read newspapers, magazines and books."

Feinbloom said the new lens had been successful with persons suffering loss of vision because of advancing age.

He cited clinical results with more than 400 patients who have used the lens for one to five years.

"Based on their ability to read ordinary newspaper type," he reported, "there have been good results with the new lens in over 90 per cent of the cases. Many had eye defects due to accidents, disease, or birth. Others were post-operative cataract patients, or had optic atrophy following brain surgery.

"After being fitted with the clear-image lens most of these patients, who had been treated as blind, carry out their daily routines without assistance."

Ask Newspaper For 25th Brigade

MONTREAL (CP) — Members of Montreal district, branches of the Canadian Legion, attending a one-day week-end convention, urged establishment of a government-sponsored newspaper and magazine service for members of Canada's 25th brigade in Korea.

A resolution asking the federal government to increase war veterans allowances to $1,200 yearly for single men and $2,000 for married men, was adopted. They now are $720 and $1,200 yearly respectively. Members also asked that maltreatment compensation to cover all former prisoners of war be extended.

They condemned Quebec new anti-margarine laws as "a danger to freedom by the introduction of gestapo methods."

SUPPLYING NEWS

Since the Canadians landed in Korea The Canadian Press has cabled a daily summary of Canadian news and sports to brigade headquarters in Korea, supplemented by weekly airmailings. The CP troop cable also goes to the Japan News, English - language daily published in Tokyo which is flown to the front lines on the day of publication for free distribution to the armed forces.

Road Subsidies $626,000 United Counties

COBOURG (ENS) — Subsidies paid for urban, county and township roads by the Ontario Department of Highways to Northumberland and Durham counties amounted to $626,000 this year, it was revealed by E. F. Marsten, district engineer for the Department of Highways at the close of the December sessions of counties council. He said that it would facilitate matters if the municipalities set up their 1953 road programme by January 24 in that year.

Indecision on the part of the counties' council in regard to filling two vacancies on the counties court of revision resulted in the session going into an extra day. Council earlier had been told that most of time only three sat on the court of revision, although five had been appointed and that on one occasion the court of revision had to adjourn because there was not a quorum present. One member resigned but council wondered about the other member and being uncertain as to his intentions, delayed disposition of the matter until the future plans of the doubtful member had been ascertained. When the resignation of the second man was received council was in a quandary as to whether it should be left until next year to appoint two new members or whether they could proceed at the present time. Finally, after learning from the remaining members of the court of revision that they could carry on until the January session, council laid the entire matter over until January.

3,500 ACRES REFORESTED

The report of the reforestation committee revealed that the reforestation area now amounted to 3,500 acres.

Eight members of the council, including the warden, announced that they would not be coming back next year. They were Reeve Elmer Scott of Hope township; Reeve Ralph Locke of Campbellford who has been elected mayor of that town; Reeve F. M. Vanstone, Bowmanville, who has also been elected mayor; Reeve J. Simpson of Brighton village; Reeve George Galbraith of Cobourg, who is now in the army; Reeve A. B. Billen of Seymour township; Reeve F. Broadworth of Alnwick township; Reeve Mervin Greer of Hamilton township and Warden Harry Campbell.

A by-law was passed raising the license fee for outside auctioneers working in Northumberland and Durham, to $25 a year per county. Another by-law set up a pension fund for counties employees.

SECURE ASSETS

Speaking in connection with the recommendation of the Board of Management that the council investigate the possibility of having residents turning over all their assets in trust to the counties on entrance to the Counties Home, Reeve Billen related that he knew of one man who had assets of $100,000 yet tried to get a relative into the Counties Home. Reeve Locke said he could not understand anyone wanting to go into the counties home if he had sufficient means to live elsewhere.

The council appointed the following as their representatives on various school boards: Morley Simpson, East Northumberland High School Area; Fred McAdoo, Peterborough Suburban Board; Harry Deyman, Cobourg Collegiate district board; L. H. Latchford, South Durham and Dave Wilson, Cartwright area.

The report of the Board of Management of the Counties Home showed that the income from pensions and paying residents of the Counties Home to October 30, this year was $19,275.83. Income from the farm, plus produce consumed at the home, was $6,229.20. Expenses to October 30 were $42,577.64. Replacing the old system of washing dishes, the board purchased a dish washer at a cost of $1,056. The fire-fighting facilities of the home were investigated and found to be satisfactory. The board recommended—"that the counties look into the possibility of having residents, on entrance to the home, turn over all their assets in trust to the counties.

NO ACTION TAKEN

The finance committee recommended that the Sidbrook private hospital at Cobourg be included with public hospitals in the matter of indigent patients. In connection with the report of the grand jury, the committee took no action in reference to redecoration of the Children's Shelter in Port Hope as an appeal was being made locally to various service clubs. Recommendations of the grand jury in connection with the Counties Home were referred to the Board of Management.

The special county property committee recommended that the grant made to the town of Cobourg for heating county offices be increased $500 bringing the annual amount up to $1,500.

At the annual banquet in honour of the warden, which marks the close of the December session, a gold watch was presented to the retiring warden, Harry Campbell. The presentation was made by Reeve Ralph Locke of Campbellford.

96 Questions Asked By MPs

OTTAWA (CP)—The government will start Wednesday to reply to some of the 96 written questions placed on the order paper of the Commons since the session opened Nov. 20.

The questions, placed on the order paper by individual members, concern a variety of subjects ranging from defence matters to the amount of canned pork now held by the government.

Approximately 20 questions deal with defence or defence production.

L. E. Cardiff (PC—Huron North) asked how many Garand rifles Canada has ordered and received from the United States. He also wanted to know if Canada was still buying the rifles.

ASKS ABOUT FIRES

In another question, Mr. Cardiff asked for information about the number of fires in defence department establishments since 1950. He wanted to know how many prosecutions had been launched by the department as a result of the fires.

In a six-point question Earl Catherwood (PC — Haldimand) asked for details about government's handling of surplus canned pork.

The Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC-Macleod) asked for statistics on the manufacture and sale of cigarets in Canada. C. D. Coyle (PC—Elgin) asked for figures on seizures of American cigarets smuggled into Canada.

L. H. Latchford

The funeral for Lawrence Herbert Latchford, 43, 579 Patterson Street, who died in Civic Hospital Saturday following a short illness, was held today from the Bellegham Funeral Home.

Mr. Latchford was born in Emily Township, son of the late Herbert W. Latchford and Ethel Mallock, and has lived in Peterborough nearly all his life.

An employee at the CGE, he was a foreman in the maintenance department. He was a member of Knox United Church, of AF and AM, Peterborough Lodge 155, Corinthian Chapter, a Past Master of LOL 50, and a member of the Royal Black Preceptory 261.

He leaves his wife, the former Martha Althouse, one daughter Barbara, two sons Kenneth and Keith, five sisters, Mrs. James King (Grace), Seaforth, Ont., Mrs. Cecil Jones (Teresa), Omemee, Mrs. J. A. Wilson (Greta), Mrs. Samuel Vint (Muriel), and Mrs. Fred Kiff (Ethel), all of Peterborough; and four brothers, Hector, John, Bruce and Robert, all of Peterborough.

The Rev. H. G. Douglas of Knox United Church and the Rev. E. W. Rowland of George Street United Church conducted the funeral service.

Pallbearers were Dave Lawson, John Latchford, Hector Latchford, Ira Althouse, Jack Flynn, and J. A. Wilson. Burial was in Emily Cemetery.

Taken For Joy Ride

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — A care owned by deputy-reeve-elect Douglas Mabee was reported stolen on Saturday afternoon, but was recovered a short time later a few blocks away.

Mrs. Maybee had parked the car near the Masonic Temple to attend an afternoon tea sponsored by the CWL. When she returned to get the car, it was gone.

A short time later, acting chief W. E. Cargin found the car parked near the intersection of Bridge and Centre Sts., a few blocks from where it had been reported missing. It was undamaged.

Eisenhower Holds Conference With Advisers

By DON WHITEHEAD

ABOARD USS HELENA (AP)—President-elect Eisenhower today opened a formal conference with advisers and future members of his administration within two hours after they were brought aboard by helicopter from Wake Island.

The Korean war was believed to be the main topic of discussion.

But Eisenhower's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, told reporters there would be no announcement now of subjects discussed or decisions that might be reached.

Reports that a definite military program already had been decided upon were derided by one reliable source close to Eisenhower.

"Nothing is definite yet," he declared.

MAY DELAY REPORT

Hagerty made it clear to reporters that the general may not disclose his plans until after he has taken office Jan. 20.

The conference that began today will continue until the Helena reaches Pearl Harbor Thursday. There, those aboard the cruiser will join military leaders and advisers for at least two more days of discussions.

Hagerty said he could not say what the general's itinerary would be after he leaves Hawaii.

Those who came aboard at Wake Island:

John Foster Dulles, secretary of state-designate; Governor Douglas McKay of Oregon, who will be secretary of the interior; George M. Humphrey of Cleveland, treasury secretary-designate; Gen. Lucius Clay, close friend and adviser of Eisenhower Joseph M. Dodger of Detroit, who may be the next director of the budget, and C. D. Jackson and Emmet Hughes, who will be on the general's White House staff.

Jews Are Hanged In Czechoslovakia

Last week in Prague eleven Czechoslovakian Communist leaders were hanged and three others were sentenced to life imprisonment—by order of a Communist court in a Communist country. They were accused of treason. They were, with three exceptions, Jews. Therein, it seems, was the fault, and not their treason. They were accused of a "Zionist, Trotskyite plot" to overthrow the Czech government. Trotsky was a Jew, too.

* * *

The Czech political purge, one of the sharpest in a Communist country since the mass Russian purges of 1936-38, was anti-Semitic. The hangman's rope in Czechoslovakia is as grim testimony as the flow of blood in the U.S.S.R. since the thirties, in Hungary and Bulgaria since the war, that modern state communism does not tolerate Jews. When Communism was an international faith true to the dogmas of Karl Marx (a Jew who became a Christian) and when the U.S.S.R. was rising from its blood-bath in the twenties, Communism offered a refuge and hope to Jews. There was to be no distinction of race in the New Democracy. The hope faded. The Jews have been deluded—and executed—by the grisly march of Communist countries into nationalism and racism. Now, racial prejudice is open, and as cruel as in Hitler's Germany. The Jews are being ground into the earth by anti-Semitic tyrants.

* * *

A political reason for the new terror may be the greed of Russia and her satellites for Arab oil, and so Arab favour is courted through condemnation of Jews by Communist courts. However, the basis of the anti-Semitism of state Communism is deeper founded. Communism in state practice is not international socialism, but National Socialism, as virulent as German National Socialism, as nationalistic, as racially discriminatory, as oppressive of Jews. Only a mad or stupid Jew today will look to Communism for succor and haven.

Male and Female

Some attention has been given to the transformation of George Jorgensen, an American male of 26, who has recently been changed by surgery and hormone treatment into a woman, now called Christine Jorgensen. Cases of this kind, though uncommon, are not unknown, and it is only a few months since a Scottish woman physician made public declaration that in future she must be regarded as a man. Such cases as this are evidence of the revision which we have had to make in our ideas about sex, in the light of modern scientific discovery.

We are not qualified to explain these matters technically, but it appears that the elements which determine masculinity or femininity are mingled in all human beings, and in most people one element is unmistakeably predominant. When this marked predominance is lacking, effeminate men and masculine women (and there are plenty of both) are the consequence; sometimes the balance alters, and sometimes mistakes are made, as in the case of Christine Jorgensen. We do not pretend for a moment that this is a scientfic explanation, and it does not begin to consider elements of personality. However, we think it is true enough and clear enough to make it plain that some of our ideas about sex need revision.

In particular this revision is necessary in our attitude toward homosexual men; homosexual women appear to be rarer and to solve their problems more readily. Much of the problem which homosexuality creates in modern society springs less from the sexual deviation itself than from the laws respecting it and the social taboos surrounding it. To punish a homosexual for being as he is, is no more just than to punish a man for having red hair, or for being insane. One of the important changes which we shall see in social attitudes during the next century will be in the realm of those who approach the neutral ground in sexual difference, and who are often forced into wretched and perhaps criminal behaviour by present widespread misunderstanding of their situation.

Concert In Kitchener

More than 6,800 people attended a concert in the Memorial Auditorium in Kitchener to hear Andre Kostelanetz, Thomas L. Thomas, Alex Templeton and the Toronto Symphony Orchestra. The Brantford Expositor remarks that this "just goes to prove what a city can provide in the way of entertainment if it has proper facilities". Precisely. Kitchener has an auditorium which will seat six or seven thousand people and makes a stellar concert such as that financially possible.

Peterborough has no large concert hall. The Collegiate auditorium seats a few less than 900. We very much doubt that a hall that would accommodate six thousand people would be useful in Peterborough; it is too large, both for the best hearing and for the number of people who would ordinarily attend a concert. A concert that would attract a sixth of the entire population of the whole Peterborough area would be a phenomenon so rare that to build a hall for them would be foolish. Even Kitchener does not grandiloquently run to a real concert hall capable of holding 6,800 people; the Memorial Auditorium in which its star-studded concert was held is also the Memorial Rink; in fact, it is primarily a rink. What Peterborough needs for concerts, important lectures and conferences is a hall that will seat twelve to fourteen hundred; big enough for average concerts and not a white elephant.

Lacking the facilities of a larger hall, Peterborough is not too badly provided with music. Although the budget of the Community Concerts (and other organizations supporting concerts in Peterborough) is limited by the number of seats in the Collegiate auditorium, the city does fairly well. We cannot afford the Toronto Symphony and Kostelanetz, but we have had from time to time Kathleen Ferrier, Malcuzynski, the Little Orchestra Society of New York, and, only a few weeks ago, the Boyd Neel Orchestra of London.

Two U.S. Ambassadorial Appointments

As President-elect Eisenhower continued to name men and women to Cabinet posts, it became increasingly apparent that he was not influenced in his selection by the rigidly conservative group of the U.S. Republican Party known as the "Old Guard". With his first two ambassadorial appointments, Mr. Eisenhower made it equally apparent that he feels no obligation to the isolationist element of the party. At the same time, these two appointments should serve to reassure the allies of the United States generally, and the United Kingdom in particular.

The first appointment was Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., defeated for re-election to the Senate, to be head of the United States' mission to the United Nations, with the rank of Ambassador. Mr. Lodge is a grandson of the Senator Henry Cabot Lodge who virtually assured the eventual collapse of the League of Nations by his successful fight to keep the United States out of that world organization, and who may be twitching, if not turning, in his grave because of the strong internationalism of his grandson. Mr. Lodge is also one of the original sponsors of the President-elect and a vigorous campaigner in his behalf. His appointment has been commented on favourably in European capitals.

The second appointment was that of Winthrop Williams Aldrich as Ambassador to the Court of St. James. Mr. Aldrich has expressed an emphatic belief that the "maintenance and strengthening of the cordial relations which exist between the United States and Great Britain are the most important aspects of our foreign policy today". In 1946, he urged the Senate to offer extensive aid to Britain, and a subsequent loan of almost four billions was made. Between 1940 and 1943, Mr. Aldrich was president of the British War Relief Society in the U.S. He was made Knight Grand Cross of the British Empire in 1947, and is said to look on Britain as his "second home abroad".

These and other reassuring appointments do not necessarily indicate that the policies inspiring them will always be approved by Congress. They are welcome evidence, nevertheless, that the next President of the United States retains the internationalist convictions he expressed occasionally prior to his election to that high post.

NOTES AND COMMENT

The reason a woman's intuition is quite often right with respect to a man is that it leads her to expect the worst of him.

If detours from the straight and narrow path were as rough as highway detours, the world would be in much better condition morally.

"Nothing will penetrate the human skin but a few highly volatile oils," says a physician, who manifestly hasn't ever been exposed to the occasional northeast winds around these parts.

Commenting on our decision that 65 is not "a ripe old age" the Ottawa Citizen's tame philosopher says, "at that stage the human prune is often still green at the core, though a little mellow around the edges."

A young soldier who wanted to give army secrets to Communists has been sentenced at Bovington, England, to a year in prison. That will delay, but not prevent him from carrying out his intention.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

THE HUMAN FACE is a book which may be read by anyone with a modicum of perception. This is especially true when age has begun to line and wrinkle the countenance; for this reason Rembrandt and other great artists preferred to paint old people. I have in my possession two reproductions of paintings of Handel. The first is a sepia photograph of a portrait alleged to be painted by Kneller. Strangely enough I have been able to find no trace of the whereabouts of this painting. The photograph was taken by a photographer in a small Devonshire town, apparently some time in the nineties, to judge from its mounting. It is likely that the original was in the possession of a gentleman of the neighbourhood. Not being a professional connoisseur I could not say whether the painting is an authentic Kneller, but the subject is almost certainly Handel. Wearing a hair wig of the earlier (and curlier) full-bottomed variety, a plain dark coat and a white stock he presents a somewhat clerical exterior. The face is one of a youngish man with the bare beginnings of a double chin; it is plump and unlined. The mouth is firm, and the eyes are large and fearless. The nose is strong and well-formed, and the brow is lofty. Let us look again at that mouth. It is firm, but it is fine and sensitive. Taken as a whole this is the face of that rare combination, the dreamer and the man of action.

✧ ✧ ✧

OUR NEXT PORTRAIT of Handel, the well-known painting by Kyte, which is reproduced in colour in the third edition of Grove's Dictionary, shows an older man. He has discarded his plain costume for a green coat with magnificent silver facings. He has been honoured by Royalty and acclaimed by a vast public. Surmounted by a full-bottomed wig of the type still worn by English judges the massive head sits on the somewhat rounded shoulders with a god-like dignity. The face has altered somewhat, though not in its essential characteristics. The eyebrows are heavier and the eyes look askance as though musing on something else. The eyelids are those of a man who has grown tired of the power and the glory, and also the struggles of this world. The nose has become broader and more majestic. The mouth and chin still display that combination of will-power and sensitivity, though the fleshier underlip and the double-chin tell of the pleasures of the table, to which Handel was much addicted. But there is a power and a nobility in this old face that was only latent in the earlier portrait, which perhaps could have been of almost any go-getting ecclesiastic of the early eighteenth century.

✧ ✧ ✧

LISTENING TO OPERA on the radio is, as I think I have observed before, a somewhat frustrating experience. Verdi's La Forza del Destino, which was broadcast recently from the Metropoliton Opera House in New York, is no exception. In spite of the fine music in Verdi's best vein and the helpful remarks of the commentator between the acts I found it a severe test of concentration to listen to a full-length opera in a foreign language, without the help of the scenery of acting. From my scanty knowledge of Italian I was able to pick out a word or phrase here and there, but it was the merest shadow of a live performance. The intervals of these performances are enlivened by interviews and of course the inevitable "quiz", on operatic subjects. Questions such as "What is the only opera in which a character is killed accidentally?" are asked. The answer to this is easy to anyone who heard "La Forza", for it is in this opera that the Soprano's father is accidentally killed by the Tenor.

THE OTHER DAY a friend of mine was inveighing against the many popular fallacies that are current in this day and age. He contended that the cost of living has not risen since 1939. According to him the purchasing power of the dollar has gone down, but this is more than offset by the rise in average wages. This may or may not be, but I can certainly add one or two popular fallacies concerning matters musical. The chief of these is undoubtedly the erroneous idea that we are living in an "age of rhythm". As a matter of fact the Arabs and other peoples have long practised rhythmical patterns far more intricate than anything in Swing or Bebop. Professor Barbeau tells of a journey made by him in company of Sir Ernest Macmillan to some remote Indian tribes living in the far North-West. At one point an Indian performed a song with a drum accompaniment in a rhythm that baffled the attempts of Sir Ernest to put on paper. At length after several hearings he was able to unravel the mystery; the Indian sang a melody in 6/8 time and accompanied himself simultaneously on the drum in 9/8 time. But even Sir Ernest and Dr. Barbeau tied themselves together in knots trying to reproduce this unusual rhythmic combination themselves. The next morning a visitor arrived at their tent; it was the small daughter of the Indian. Without the slightest hesitation she performed the same song as the one that had baffled the palefaces. I would say that modern civilization as a whole tends to suppress the rhythmic sense in the individual. The commonest mistakes of students of music are, in my experience, of a rhythmical nature, and they are amongst the hardest to eradicate. Possibly our methods of teaching could be improved in this respect; the system of names for rhythmical patterns originated by a French teacher has something to recommend it. According to this each beat is signalized by the syllable ta. A two-beat note is ta-a, a threebeat note ta-a-a, and so on. Rests are indicated by sa and sa-a, in the same way. Subdivisions of the best are ta-te for two half beats and ta-fa-te-fe for four quarter beats. The only objection to this delightfully simple system is the fact that it is necessary to learn it in addition to the more conventional method, but it is so simple that it can be learnt very easily indeed and I can say for myself that it obtains good results.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN MY OPINION the best cure for poor rhythm is to be found in playing and singing in duets, trios and other forms of concerted music. It is a great advantage for a piano teacher to have two instruments, so that he can "infect" his pupil with rhythm by playing together with him. Grieg used to do this, improvising second piano parts to Mozart sonatas played by his pupils. He was persuaded to write some of these down, and they were published. As works of art they are in dubious taste, for Mozart knew what he wanted without Grieg's help, but they are invaluable helps toward stimulating a steady rhythm.

An American Opinion: "HERE'S ONE REASON OURS IS SUCH A HAPPY LAND"

Sweden's Amazing Mrs. Axnas

By E. MICHAEL SALZER

ONCE-A-WEEK shopping, simple food, buttonless pyjamas, a few kitchen gadgets and "a little dust here and there" make life easier and the family happier.

This is the opinion of one of many thousands of Swedish women who competed for the title of the "Ideal Housewife". It was a nation-wide contest for suggestions as to how a family could be kept content without the mother's life becoming a back-breaking grind.

Mrs. Nina Axnas, who entered the winning essay, is the well-groomed, cheerful wife of a university lecturer and the mother of five children whose ages range from eight to seventeen. She runs a small house in a Stockholm suburb without help, sews the children's clothes and under-wear and does her own washing; she also finds time to read, to study, to attend gymnastic courses, to visit both friends and art exhibitions, to go to the theatre and to "enjoy life".

As in most countries nowadays, domestic help in Sweden is expensive and difficult to obtain. Yet Swedish housewives pride themselves on being "free" in comparison with the women of many other nations. A recent Stockholm exhibition, "The Liberated Housewife", attracted thousands of visitors. The exhibition stressed that gadgets in themselves are of little use unless the person using them has the "right spirit".

MRS. AXNAS has given the recipe for her spirited "liberation". She saved up for an electric sewing machine, a small washing machine, a vacuum cleaner and an electric kitchen "assistant" (for kneading dough, grinding and mixing). She uses kitchen utensils recommended by the Swedish Institute for Good Housekeeping. Thus she has spoons, knives, saucepans, plastic-covered plate-drying racks, stainless, steel bowls, pealing knives and other implements which cut working-time by half.

She also has her own scheme of work, in which husband and children take part—all have to tidy their rooms first thing in the morning. While she cleans the bathroom and dresses the small children, Mr. Axnas attends to the central heating and puts on porridge and coffee. Once the children are in school she does the house cleaning and the washing up ("the job is done in ten minutes"); at 10:30 a.m. she takes a rest, reads the paper and drinks a cup of coffee. Every day except Friday (when she does the house, the washing and shopping), she takes three hours off for her studies. On Saturday she bakes and cooks for the week-end. And when the children are older she hopes to take a job again.

She serves simple food, taking at most one hour to prepare it with a pressure cooker. On Sundays there are always special dishes such as crabs, smoked fish, ham and cocoanuts. "The children also collect berries and mushrooms." She shops once a week. Few Swedish shops deliver daily to the house, but they bring half-monthly orders for sugar, flour, oats, etc.

"Since adopting my scheme," says Mrs. Axnas, "I feel truly liberated." To fully understand this "liberation" one must also know something of Swedish life. Schools provide free lunches for all pupils. Wage-earning women can leave their small children in kindergartens and creches run by factories and business establishments. There are communal laundries and restaurants, and any number of professional baby-sitters. Houses have central heating; kitchens are streamlined; furniture is designed without dust-catching frills. Semi-cooked foods is good and cheap and makes for quick meals. And everything is now off the ration.

Letters To The Editor

PETITION IN RHYME

Sir: The following is an open letter to the Peterborough Bus Lines:

Myself and Jim and Ivy too,
We want a school bus;
It is the least that you can do
Then we won't raise a fuss.

For school most times we come in late,
The Kenner Clan upsets us;
We go tearing out:—ten after eight,
Usually without breakfast.

The bus is packed, we have to stand,
Our books, they weigh us down;
On an empty stomach, ain't it grand
We have to travel all o'er town.

We once did have a school bus
Eight-thirty in the morn,
But now we go to school late
And wish that we weren't born.

Why "Old Faithful," the school Ford,
Was taken away, we'd like to know
And why do you, the buses hoard?
While we stand in the snow.

Our student friends, Anne and Don
I'm sure they both agree
As they climb aboard and stifle a yawn
They say, "This ain't for me".

Monaghan South is our home
We like to keep it neat,
But the reason for this little poem:
We'd like a bus on the street.

Oh please kind Sir, hear our appeal,
And give us what we ask,
This little favour we do feel,
Is not too great a task.

Thanking you very much for this space, we are,

MYSELF, JIM AND IVY

CENSORSHIP FOR THE PULPIT

Sir: In view of the recurring crimes against society seemingly caused by unfettered religious teaching it appears obvious that the time has come for some kind of Government supervision over religious matters in Canada.

The evangelical and "holy-roller" type of Bible-thumper with which this country seems to abound feeds mainly on the gullibility and naivete of large sections of the population. These men (usually reformed "sinners") dispense their brand of religion mainly with the object of providing themselves with a very lucrative occupation.

I would suggest, therefore, that the sermons and teachings of all these "lay" preachers be prepared or censored by a suitable Government department or, better still, that these men be forbidden to preach at all.

Their adherents could then amalgamate with one of the more harmless and orthodox types of Christian religion such the Presbyterian, Anglican or Roman Catholic.

Yours etc.,
"OLD FAITHFUL"

The Recall Of The Legions

(MONTREAL GAZETTE)

THE BRITISH garrison is about to be withdrawn from Bermuda. The move is to begin this month. It will be completed in May.

It is much like the recall of the legions in the old days of the Roman Empire. Britain is short of soldiers. They must be stationed at the points where they are most needed.

Most cities of the old British Empire have seen the soldiers depart. It was November 11, 1871, as the bands played "Auld Lang Syne" and "The Girl I left Behind Me," that the last of the British garrisons left Quebec City for England. Earlier that year the old military establishments in Montreal were being closed, or turned over to other uses.

Many a citizen saw the change with great regret. It meant the taking away of much that was colourful. It meant that there would be no more of the Imperial bands to play on the Champ de Mars of a summer's evening, and no more of the gay balls with red coats enlivening the dance.

Among those who seriously missed the garrisons were the merchants. The garrisons had been almost the perfect economic asset. Times might be good or times might be bad, but the money spent in Canada by the British Exchequer, as well as by the British officers from their private means, was an unfailing support to purchasing power.

But perhaps the British garrisons were missed most by the young ladies of Canada. No longer would there be any opportunity to meet officers at balls or on sleighing parties, and to capture even Britain's best titles.

Indeed, shortly after the garrisons had left Canada, an illustrated magazine published in Montreal pictured a young lady pleasantly acknowledging the bow of a civilian gentleman in the street.

"I thought you weren't speaking to him," her friend says to her in astonishment. "I wasn't," she replies, "but with the garrisons gone, a girl has to make do with what she has."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

In the beginning was the Word, and the word was with God, and the Word was God . . . All things were made by him: and without him was not anything made that was made. (John .1: 1, 3.)

✧ ✧ ✧

By the word of the Lord were the heavens made; and all the host of them by the breath of his mouth . . . For he spake, and it was done; he commanded, and it stood fast. (Ps. 33: 6, 9.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Lift up your eyes on high, and behold who hath created these things, that bringeth out their host by number: he calleth them all by names by the greatness of his might, for that he is strong in power; not one faileth. (Isa. 40: 26.)

✧ ✧ ✧

For thus saith the Lord God that created the heavens; God himself that formed the earth and made it; he hath established it, he created it not in vain, he formed it to be inhabited: I am the Lord; and there is none else. (Isa. 45: 18.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Ye are my witnesses, saith the Lord, and my servant whom I have chosen: that ye may know and believe me, and understand that I am he: before me there was no God formed, neither shall there be after me. (Isa. 43: 10.)

Unconsidered Trifles

Teacher: "There's only one truthful boy in this class."

Smith (in an undertone): "That's me."

Teacher: "Did you speak, Smith?"

Smith: "No, sir."

"Oh, come now," said the exhibitor. "I saw the trade show and I'd hardly call the film 'colossal'."

They were receiving a little conventional advice from the minister. First the husband was given a long dissertation upon his responsibilities as a married man, and then came the wife's turn.

"You must love, honour and obey your husband," droned the parson, "and follow him wherever he goes".

✧ ✧ ✧

A tailor suffering from insomnia finally agreed to try out the age-old remedy of counting sheep. Next morning, however, he turned up for business more tired than ever.

"What a night," he confessed. "I counted 3,000 sheep. Then I figured that as 8,000 yards of wool. That would make 2,500 suits—and where was I going to get all that lining?"

A Story Of Two Books

(New York Times)

In the American Memorial Chapel in St. Paul's Cathedral in London there will rest a leather-bound and handsomely illuminated volume called "American Roll of Honour." It carries the names of 28,000 Americans who gave their lives during the war in Britain or in service with British units. It is displayed, just now, in the north transept of St. Paul's while the Chapel is in construction.

Colonel Astor, chairman of the Times Publishing Company of London, has brought to the United States copies of another book. It is called, "Britain's Homage to 28,000 American Dead." It reproduces some of the brilliant pages of the Roll of Honour and adds its own intimate story of Americans who lived and served with our British allies. The purpose of Colonel Astor's visit is to obtain the names of the next of kin of the 28,000 in the volume in St. Paul's. Each will receive a copy of the "Homage" with the name of the honoured person inscribed in gold.

This story of two books is typical of the deep ties that bind together the United Kingdom and the United States. These warm gestures on the part of our British comrades are a reflection of a permanent affinity of spirit and aspiration.

Bedford and Bunyan

(Ottawa Journal)

At Bedford, England, 200 people from a nearby village gathered to demand that their vicar be fired. This sturdy independence has deep roots — it was at Bedford that John Bunyan lived and flourished, in Bedford jail that he spent some years of his life. (Incidentally on an American quiz program the other night two persons failed to share $1,500 cash because neither of them knew Bunyan had written Pilgrim's Progress.)

Windsor Catches Fire, Downs Generals 7-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Marlboros stretched their lead to eight points in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A race during the week-end while Windsor Spitfires gave notice of their intention to vacate the cellar.

The Marlboros came from behind to take St. Catharines Teepees 3-1 Sunday, while Windsor pulled into an eighth place tie with Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts by thumping Oshawa Generals 7-1 in Windsor.

Toronto St. Michael's defeated Oshawa 8-2 in Oshawa Saturday, then dropped a 3-2 decision to Galt Black Hawks Sunday. The Teepees trimmed the third-place Barrie Flyers 9-5 in St. Catharines Saturday while Galt trimmed Kitchener 7-3.

Guelph Biltmores invaded Three Rivers Sunday and beat the Reds 4-2 to shake their losing streak. In Montreal the league-leading Canadiens coasted to an 8-0 win over the last-place Montreal Royals.

EIGHT FIGHTS

In Windsor, a third-period brawl involved eight separate fights and four major penalties. The Spits spread their seven goals among Al Arbour, Lou Dietrich, Elmer Skov, Ted Reid, Ed Louttit, Archie Burton and Cummy Burton. Bob Mader scored the single for Oshawa.

Murray Costello again led St. Mike's to victory Saturday as he scored three goals in Oshawa. Jack Caffery scored twice. Singles went to Bill Dineen, Art Clune and Marc Reaume. Jack Armstrong accounted for both Oshawa goals.

The Marlies' win Sunday resulted from third-period goals by Fred Glover, Wally Maxwell and Parker MacDonald. Hank Ciesla scored for Teepees.

Jim McBurney scored all three Galt goals Sunday to top off a good week-end. He scored four against Kitchener Saturday night. Mike Ratchford and Bill Lee scored for St. Michael's.

Besides McBurney's four Saturday, John Sleaver, Neil McDonald and Ken Wharram notched singles. Greig Hicks scored two and Graham Joyce singled for the Greenshirts.

OTHER SCORERS

Ken Schinkel and Wimpy Roberts scored two each for St Catharines Saturday. Alan Kellogg, Charlie Marshall, Alec Leslie, Hank Barlow and Brian Cullen divided the others. Ken Robertson scored a pair for Flyers and Doug Mohns, Ken Collins and Bob White, tallied singles.

Guelph took an early lead in Three Rivers on goals by Ron Murphy and Chuck Henderson. Roger Dubec and Louis Desrosiers tied it up but Bill McCreary and Jim Holmes salted it away for the Bilts.

Lindsay Muskies Defeat Bowmanville

LINDSAY — (ENS) —Muskies continued their winning ways in the OHA intermediate "A" Lakeshore League Friday night, as they outplayed and outshot the Bowmanville Barons to win 3-1.

Lindsay's first goal came when the game was only three minutes old, when the Hicks-Lewis-Corley line carried the puck into the Barons' end, and Lewis finished off a passing play from Hicks.

The other goals were scored in the second period in which the fans were treated to the roughest and fastest hockey of the tilt. Bowmanville opened with a tally by Bird, from Hamilton, but the Muskies came back less than half a minute later, and Orley Crawford, winger of the pint-sized Parker-Coombs-Crawford line potted a rebound from Parker's shot, following the face-off.

Mike Burns tallied the final goal of the game near the end of the period, on a breakaway while his team was a man short. Grant Green, Muskies' captain, carried down the ice on a break, circled the net, and passed in front to Burns, who made no mistake with his high shot behind Gearing.

SIGN JAMES ANDERSON

SHAWINIGAN FALLS, Que. (CP) —Shawinigan Falls Cataracts of the Quebec Senior Hockey League have signed James Anderson, right wing formerly with Edmonton of the Western league and Glace Bay of the Maritime League, it was learned Sunday. The Cataracts also announced that centre Jackie Hamilton, suspended eight days ago for leaving the club, has been sold to New Westminster of the Western League.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Wally Bent, who never struck us as an absent-minded gent when he looked after boys' recreation for a club here, must have too many suits of clothes. He promoted minor sports for the Belleville "Y" after leaving Peterborough, but has now moved on to Montreal. Anyway, the Quinte columnist wrote the other day: "The mystery of the missing birth certificates has been cleared up and 24 mammas and pappas can relax now, for the certificates which disappeared last summer have turned up. They arrived in the city yesterday in a letter written by Walter Bent, late of this city. Bent said he found them in a suit of clothes he had not worn for some time. The letter was postmarked Montreal."

Probably as colorful a character as graces the colorful fraternity of pro grapplers—the Mystic Order of the Mat—is one Pat Flanagan of Toronto. The husky ex-flying officer is perpetual motion in ring action with more twists and turns than a can of fish worms. Pat hasn't shown here in many months, but will be on deck this Wednesday to team up with Chief Big Heart in an effort to subdue the Texan champs, Lou Plummer and Dick Raines, in the main tag bout. Lee Henning tackles Johnny Barend in the semi-final at the Brock, as Joe Christie and Bull Montana meet in the prelim match.

IOOF After Top Spot

The fight for top place in the OHA junior "B" grouping in Central Ontario at the moment is between Belleville Hawklets and the local Oddfellows. That 3-2 IOOF win here Friday o'er Kingston Vics helped Doug Mortimer's squad a lot. But they have a toughie at Civic Arena tonight when they face the Quinte crowd, a good team which is aided by Chicago Hawks both financially and with player prospects. If the Links travel and check against Belleville as they did 'gainst the Vics, they should wrap up another win. We look for another streamlined struggle as these juniors turn it on every minute they're on the ice. It's a real good group race right now.

* * * * * *

The Petes obtained a first-class senior defenceman when they got the OHA okay on Keith Montgomery. They need a few more players and Monty will be a big help back there at the blue line. He's a popular puckist around these parts, being a fast-stepping attacker and fine stickhandler, while rival forwards won't run into a stronger defender on their sorties down the ice. The guy is really strong and muscular, backing up from no one. He was a standout from the days he played junior "B" for Lakefield, and—like Mike Rodden of Kingston—we've wondered why he wasn't in pro company ere this. Monty may be in the Ellis lineup when the Petes play in Kingston on Wednesday.

* * * * * *

Petes Add to Roster

Petes had a workout the other day and Buck Legrow was signed. A couple of former juniors, too, we hear, and several other prospects were watched by Coach Jim Ellis. Monty was on hand for the practise. Some of the former Eagles have been discussing signing lately with the club, but haven't hit the dotted line as yet. Don't sell the Petes short so early in the season—they're building gradually and will be in the thick of the fight for top place shortly. There are no weak sisters in the six-club setup, and many a stirring struggle will be served up to home customers in the months ahead. Belleville Glens are visitors Friday night.

* * * * * *

OHA junior "B" group point system up this way has been changed again, after a kick from the Quinte club. It has been decided that the last round of the home-and-home games between the original four clubs—IOOF, Kingston, Belleville and Lindsay—and the newcomers, Oshawa and Cobourg, will be four-point games. It had earlier been announced that the first round tilts would be the four-pointers, but this has been washed out, and the four-point frays will commence on Jan. 12 when IOOF plays at Oshawa. All junior jousts so far this season must be scored as two-point tussles regardless of which team played which in the revised schedule.

Barons Clip Buffalo 5-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cleveland Barons consolidated their hold on first place of the American Hockey League with a 5-3 win over Buffalo Bisons at Buffalo while Hershey Bears shaded Providence Reds 4-3.

The Sunday victory was the second straight win over the Bisons for Cleveland as the Barons beat Buffalo 3-1 Saturday night. In other Saturday games Pittsburgh Hornets played to a 6-6 tie with Hershey and Syracuse Warriors overwhelmed St. Louis Flyers 11-5.

Sam Bettio's 25-foot blast with two minutes left to play gave Hershey their one-goal 4-3 edge over Providence.

Trailing 3-1 with less than eight minutes remaining the Bears scored two quick goals before Bettio fired the winner. It was his second marker of the game.

The loss was Providence's sixth straight.

Maroons Clip Stratford 4-1, Anger Fans

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Black Jack Stewart, who drew a lot of penalties and earned a reputation as a rugged defenceman during his career with Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, hasn't forgotten his old style.

He played true to form Saturday night in Stratford in leading his Chatham Maroons to a 4-1 victory over the league-leading Stratford Indians in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League. Black Jack collected five minor penalties and the ire of the Stratford fans.

Owen Sound Mercurys moved to within three points of the Indians by beating Sarnia Sailors 6-4. The two teams are now seven and 10 points up respectively on the third place Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen and Chatham Maroons.

Kitchener gained their tie with Chatham by trimming brantford Redmen 6-3 with a three-goal burst in the final period.

Sudbury Wolves of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior southern group defeated the first-place Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds 3-2 Saturday but dropped their Sunday game to Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians 3-1. The Wolves are in third place behind North Bay Trappers.

DOES BUMPING

Joe Carveth fired two goals for Chatham while Stewart did the bumping. But Campbell and Al King tallied the others. Mickey Roth spoiled the shutout for Marv Brewer in the Chatham nets.

The Owen Sound win snapped a three-game winning streak for Sarnia. Mike Bukacheski contributed three goals to the Owen Sound total. Andy Grant, Tommy Burlington and Roy Leckie fired others.

It was a bruising contest in Kitchener as Charlie Brooker scored two goals for the Dutchmen. Don Bauer, Billy Cupola, Maurice Leveque and Al Buchanan added others.

Stan McLellan scored two for Wolves Saturday and Marty Burton hit for the other. Hec Pozzo and Doug Towers rammed in Greyhound goals. Lennie Speck scored the Wolves' single Sunday when he gave them a 1-0 lead in the first period. The Indians came back with two goals by Laurie Peterson and a single by John Lumley in the third period.

Seixas Wins Victoria Crown

MELBOURNE (AP)—Crafty Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, whose chances were considered "next to nil," stunned tennis-mad Australia today by whipping Frank Sedgman, 8-6, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, to win the Victoria championship.

Seixas' brilliant victory, on a court made slick by a week-end rain, rocketed United States hopes in the coming Davis Cup matches —and proved to the 5,000 fans in Kooyong Stadium that Sedgman, the Australian ace, is not unbeatable.

Before the match, Australian newspaper men had said Seixas' chances were "next to nil" against Sedgman, holder of the U.S. and Wimbledon championship. But the Philadelphian, hitting the peak of his game, played resourceful tennis to down his opponent.

In the final of the women's division, Maureen Connolly of San Diego, Calif., defeated Julie Sampson of San Marino, Calif., 6-2, 6-3.

Blake Resigns Seventh Term As President

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Harness racing's grand circuit re-elected Octave Blake of South Plainfield, N.J., to his seventh term as president.

The grand circuit winter meeting Saturday also established its 1953 program subject to the approval of individual state racing commissions.

The proposed 1953 schedule opens June 22 and closes Nov. 28.

Oilmen Capture Opener Over The Cage Marines

Gaining strength for points in the last half, the Oilmen opened the men's city league basketball Saturday night with a 68-51 victory over Marines. The Marines stayed fairly close to the Oilmen until the late stages of the third quarter when the latter combined well to gradually build up the lead on well-distributed scoring plays. Ted Cranfield sparked Marines in the first quarter when they took a slim one-point (17-16) lead. Cranfield dropped in four field baskets for eight points to match the pace of Oilmen Doug McPherson and Gord Burns.

DROVE BACK

The Oilmen came back in the second quarter to hold Cranfield scoreless, and at the same time work their passing plays for 17 valuable points. Vern Butcher, Burns and McPherson maintained their first quarter pace to give Oilmen the lead, 33-28, at the half.

From the start of the second half, the Oilmen indicated they would keep the lead. Hugh Dibben, Burns and McPherson hit the hoop regularly. By the three-quarter mark they had lengthened their lead to 11 points, 49-38.

All the winners took part in a last-quarter drive which saw them for the third straight quarter outscore Marines. They held a six-point margin pretty well throughout the quarter for a 17-point edge on the game.

LED THE WAY

Marines' Ted Cranfield topped the scorers with 18 points, grouping most of his points in the first and last quarters. McPherson and Burns led the Oilmen with 14 points each.

This year the league planned on four teams, but last week decided upon three for the first, while perhaps later this season adding a fourth. The third entry is Al Northcott's Merchants, who play the Marines Tuesday night.

Lineups:

Oilmen (68)—Dibben 13, Butcher 8, Burns 14, Ryan 4, Dadson 8, Galvin 7, McPherson 14.

Marines (51)—Edger 7, Frise 7, Brown 6, Richardson 3, Smith 4, Gillespie 6, Cranfield 18.

Major Leagues Adopt Ruling Requiring 2-League Waivers

By JACK HAND

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—The major leagues wound up their meeting by adopting a rule requiring two-league waivers after the June 15 trading deadline. They also backed up the hard-pressed minors by adopting the bonus rule and banning the 24-hour recall of optioned players.

Meeting in joint session under commissioner Ford Frick, the baseball clubs finished their week-long session Sunday and headed home.

George Troutman, head of the minor leagues, called the majors' action "very helpful and stimulating to the minors."

The minors also got a promise of more help when the majors voted to set up a committee to work with the minors on the proposal to pool "outside" radio and television receipts into a trust fund to help "damaged" minor league clubs.

CAN'T MAKE DEALS

The new rule on waivers will not permit the kind of deals New York Yankees have been making with National League clubs in recent years.

Last August the Yankees acquired Ewell Blackwell from Cincinnati Reds for $30,000 and three players. The deal came two months after the trading deadline.

They did it under the old waiver rule which provided that after the clubs in one league had passed up a chance to get him, he could then be sold to the highest bidder in the other league.

Under the new rule, the teams in both leagues will have a chance to bid for the player at the $10,000 waiver price before he can be sold at a higher figure.

The Yanks are not the only club that has picked up players from the other league after the deadline. But their recent action in bolstering their pennant chances by acquiring Johnny Mize, Johnny Hopp and Johnny Sain from the National League pointed up the situation.

COULD BE FAR-REACHING

The new rule on recall of optioned players could be far-reaching. When a big league club farms out a player to the minors the player must stay at least 10 days and can't be recalled after July 31. There is one exception to cover emergency cases when a key player might be injured in the majors.

Under the new bonus rule, effective at once, any free agent signing his first pro contract for more than $4,000 in the majors and higher minors or $3,000 in the lower minors becomes a "bonus player."

A minor league "bonus player" may not be moved up or down until he has gone through an unrestricted draft period (one year).

Fines of $2,000 for a big league club and $1,000 for a minor were established with individual violators facing $500 fines and possible suspension.

Both the American and National also backed up similar unanimous action by the minors in continuing the present high school rule by which scouts are allowed to talk to—but not sign—boys until their high school class graduates.

Amateur Athletic Union Certifies 182 Records

SPOKANE, Wash. (CP) — The Amateur Athletic Union Saturday certified 182 United States track and field records, including several involving Canadians attending U.S. universities.

Don McEwen of Ottawa, attending University of Michigan, was credited with a record of 9:04.6 for the two-mile run.

McEwen, John Moule of Hamilton and John Ross of Oakville, Ont., were members of the four-man team which set the mark of 17:08.6 for the four-mile relay. Other member of the team was William Hickman. All attend U. of Michigan.

Jack Carroll of Montreal was on Michigan's 880-yard relay squad which set a record of 1:30.8.

2 Boxing Bodies Have Buried Hatchet

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia Amateur Boxing Association and the B.C. branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada buried the hatchet.

The two bodies, which have been sparring for control of amateur boxing in B.C., reached an "amicable" agreement Sunday on supervision of the sport.

It was decided at a special meeting among officials of the AAU, BCABA and delegates from Vancouver Island and the Fraser valley to form an 11-man commission to operate amateur boxing.

Frank Carswell Home-Run Champ For 1952

NEW YORK (CP)—Frank Carswell of Buffalo is the batting and home-run champion of the International Baseball League for 1952, official statistics showed today.

The 33-year-old outfielder led the circuit with a .34 batting average and won the home-run derby with 30 round-trippers. He also paced the loop in total bases with 300.

Harry Walker, player-manager of Rochester's junior world series winners, wound up with a .355 batting mark, but failed to win the batting derby because he made only 367 trips to the plate—short of the required 400.

Don Richmond, Rochester third-baseman who held the batting crown for the last two seasons, finished second with a .329 mark. Outfielder Carm Mauro of Montreal was third with .327.

TOP 10

Rounding out the top 10 were Loren Babe of Syracuse, .305; Charley Thompson, Montreal .303; Don Lund, Buffalo .302; Junior Gilliam, Montreal .303; Ray Jablonski, Rochester, .299; Rip Ripulski, Rochester .296, and Don Hoak, Montreal, .294.

Ed Stevens of Toronto led in runs batted in with 113. Gilliam, the circuit's most-valuable player, scored the most runs—111. Hoak, regarded as one of the best third-basemen in the minors, led in triples with 15 and Richmond in doubles with 40.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

There is no doubt that curling is now in full swing from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and this is especially so in centres that are fortunate in having artificial ice.

We in Peterborough are numbered among the fortunate, who have been curling steady for about one month.

Just to give an idea of the spread of curling, we'll run down some of the clubs that are holding ladies' bonspiels within the next eight weeks. These notices have been sent to the ladies' secretary, Mrs. M. McCartney, and are posted on the notice board: Toronto Granites, Hamilton Victoria, Oakwood, Toronto Royal Canadians, Midland, The Heathers, Chicago, Hamilton Thistles, Lindsay, Kitchener, Guelph, Oshawa, and many more. We don't expect our lady curlers will be entered in all these bonspiels, but chances are they will be represented in many of them. The entry fee for these bonspiels ranges from $8.00 per rink to $24.00 per rink.

Tonight Group 4 plays at 7:00 o'clock and Group 5 at 9:00 o'clock.

The winning skips on Saturday afternoon were: B. Grant and W. Harvey. In the evening A. Ingram and G. Webb were the winning skips.

Name Haughton Leading Horse Driver

At 29, he's the youngest ever to take the title, and his earnings of $311,728 were topped only once before, in 1951 when Johnny Simpson of Hanover, Pa., set the record with $333,136.

Others in the top 10 as compiled by the U.S. Trotting Association included Clint Hodgins, Clandeboye Ont., who ranked third with earnings of $228,340 and Joe O'Brien of New Glasgow, N.S., fifth with $224,260.

THREE BREAK RECORD

Three harness horses, led by W. H. Cane's Good Time, broke the single season money-winning record in 1952.

The association said the Goshen, N.Y., pint-sized pacer brought his owner $110,299 before his retirement. C. W. Clark's Sharp Note won $101,625 and Dudley Hanover, property of the Hayes Fair Acres stable of Duuoin, Ill., chalked up $87,994 in purses.

The previous record was set by Proximity in 1950 with earnings of $87,175.

Prince Adios, owned by Grant Hodgins of Clandeboye, won $44,451 last season to rank 10th among the top-10 pacer and trotter money earners in 1952, USTA figures show.

Prince Adios, who ranked sixth in the top 10 pacers, had 30 starts, was first 10 times, second nine times, and third eight times.

Alerted Captures Plate At Bowie

The $41,100 first prize Saturday gave Alerted earnings of $335,860 in three years of racing.

A foul claim by second-place Auditing's jockey Nick Shuk was rejected. Shuk claimed jockey Dave Gorman had swung Alerted over on him in the stretch.

H. B. Cohen's Mully S. was third.

Red Wings Begin To Roll Tied For Top Spot After 2 Weekend Games

By CRAIG ARMSTRONG, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Detroit Red Wings, defending champions of the National Hockey League, have begun to roll. A week ago they vaulted from fourth to second place and this weekend pushed their way into a first-place tie with Chicago Black Hawks. A win over Chicago and a tie with Boston did the trick, pulling the Wings back to the spot to which they were accustomed the last few seasons. The Wings cut Chicago's lead to one point Saturday night by shutting out the Black Hawks 2-0 in a playoff of a postponement from a scheduled game Nov. 4, United States election night. The game was played in Indianapolis because no open dates were available at the Chicago Stadium.

TIE BRUINS 1-1

Sunday night defenceman Red Kelly scored late in the third period to give the Wings a 1-1 tie with Boston Bruins at Detroit, avoiding what might have been the first home-ice shutout for Detroit in 53 games. Leo Labine scored for Boston from in front of the net, after receiving a pass from Bob Armstrong in the second period.

Chicago was beaten 2-0 by Toronto Maple Leafs on home ice Sunday and the victory, Harry Lumley's first shutout of the season, moved the Leafs into a third-place tie with Boston. Rookie George Armstrong and Sid Smith scored for the Leafs.

New York scored 2-2 ties both Saturday and Sunday night and in each game defenceman Hy Buller scored the tying goals. Saturday night Buller scored unassisted in the third period while both teams were short to save the game for the tail-end Rangers. Edgar Laprade scored the other Blue Shirt tally. Bob Solinger and Ted Kennedy scored for Toronto.

RANGERS DEADLOCKED

Sunday night the Rangers tied the fifth-place Montreal Canadiens who haven't won a game in nine starts. Nick Mickoski, celebrating his 25th birthday, put the Rangers ahead in the second period.

The Canadiens tied it up in the same stanza with the Rangers a man short. Paul Meger tallied after receiving a pass from Bernie Geoffrion. Geoffrion lured Chuck Rayner out of the New York nets to score in the third period after getting the puck from Billy Reay. Then Buller scored the tying marker.

The Bruins edged the Canadiens 2-1 Saturday night in Montreal on a goal by Jack McIntyre when the teams were knotted 1-1. He picked up a stray pass by Tom Johnson, Canadiens defenceman, and swooped in alone on goalie Gerry McNeil. Dave Creighton had scored earlier for Boston. Rookie Paul Masnick scored the Montreal goal.

"Argentina"
NICOL SMITH

An explorer and world traveller, Mr. Smith's outstanding films are matched only by his absorbing commentary.

Beginning our film story at Argentia's famed and beautiful Inguaza Falls, we go to Ushuaia—the world's most southern-most city. Then to cosmopolitan Buenos Aires. And in Mendoza we will witness the picturesque grape harvest and see the Verdimia, the grape festival where two thousand actors take part in a ceremony as colourful and gay as any that can be filmed today.
In the lake country the glorious snow covered Tronador (The Thunderer) is our companion. Then the fisherman's dream, catching 11 lb. brown trout. The legendary Mambi forest is unforgetable.

Call Talking Horse To Help Find Missing Youngster

RICHMOND, VA. (AP)—A 27-year-old "talking" horse has been called in to play "detective" in the search for a missing Rhode Island youngster.

Nine-year-old Gary Hayman disappeared near Providence, R.I., Sept. 23.

Mrs. Benjamin Hayman, clinging to the hope that her son is still alive, called the Richmond Times-Dispatch Sunday from Rhode Island and asked that a reporter be sent to query Lady Wonder, a horse whose amazing 'answers to questions once prompted two psychologists to tab her a "genuine phenomenon."

The Times-Dispatch sent reporter Bill McIlwain to "interview" Lady, who pecks out her answers on a giant typewriter-like contraption. When she answers, she lowers her chin to touch levers jutting out from slots containing letters.

SAYS BOY INJURED

Then she spelled out the word "hurt" and when McIlwain asked where the boy is, Lady replied "truck."

When asked where the truck was, Lady said "Kansas." McIlwain repeated the question twice and got the same answer.

Then he asked if Gary could be found.

"Yes," said Lady.

When Mrs. Hayman learned of Lady's responses, she said:

"Oh God, I hope he's safe, I hope he's safe."

Mrs. Hayman heard about Lady Wonder through a newspaper story three days ago which told of the horse helping to find the body of a missing four-year-old Massachusetts boy.

District Attorney Edmund R. Dewing said Lady gave the answers that led searchers Thursday to the body of Danny Matson, missing from his Quincy, Mass., home since January, 1951.

STRANGER THAN FICTION

"It's stranger than fiction," said Dewing. "And we kept it a secret because we didn't want people to think we were completely out of our minds."

In the Matson case, Dewing said a friend questioned the horse and was told the animal answered "Pittsfield Water Wheel." On the basis of that information, a detective was dispatched to Pittsfield, Mass., but learned nothing.

"We got to mulling it over," Dewing said, "and we thought the message might have been twisted—that the poor old horse meant to say 'Pit Fielde Water.'"

A search of the Fielde-Wilde Quarry in Quincy was ordered. The child's body was found there.

Lady, owned by Mrs. Claudia Fondap has been the subject of numerous studies and articles by medical experts. One of the first such examinations, by two Duke University psychologists in 1928, resulted in a conclusion that Lady is a "genuine phenomenon."

Board Of Trade Sponsors Show

NORWOOD (ENS)—The Board of Trade sponsored the motion picture "Showboat" in the town hall on Friday night. The hall was well filled. Following the show the softball club held a dance.

Designer Dies

TORONTO (CP)—Ralph Edmund Geiger, production manager and designer for the William J. Anderson company of Whitby, died in hospital Sunday. He was born in St. Thomas, was graduated from the University of Western Ontario, London, Ont., and taught in Picton and Long Branch high schools before joining the Anderson company. He was prominent in Whitby Baptist church work.

TAYLOR HORSE TOPS

Canadiana won $40,672 last year. She is trained by Gordon (Pete) McCann and won nine races in 11 Canadian starts, a record.

Her two most spectacular victories were in the Coronation stakes and Cup and Saucer race. She is a top-heavy favorite to win the Queen's Plate next season.

Interest In Hens May Lead Man Far From Farm Barnyard

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Hens may lead one far from the barnyard.

Students of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph were told this today by W. Frank Jones, president of Borden Co., Ltd., who advised them to be prepared for "surprises" and illustrated the advice with a story.

The story concerns Dr G. Edward Hall, president of the University of Western Ontario.

Dr. Hall came to OAC in the late 1920s, bent on a lifework of poultry breeding.

A talent for research, however, brought him to the attention of the late Sir Frederick Banting, co-discoverer of insulin, and led him into medical research and the study of medicine.

CONTINUE WORK

He returned to the laboratory and joined Sir Frederick in aviation research. Sir Frederick was killed in an airplane crash in 1941. Dr. Hall and others continued the work.

This led him into power dives in airplanes; through Italian naval defences in the Mediterranean in a submarine; to director of aviation medical research, RCAF, and the rank of group captain; to the Air Force Cross and to the American Legion of Merit.

After the war he became dean of the faculty of medicine, University of Western Ontario, and then university president.

So much for where an interest in hens may take one. Mr. Jones' address today was part of the annual presentation of awards and scholarships. He outlined the characteristics which he believes college graduates should take into their future work. They are:

RARE QUALITY

"Common sense, sometimes called horse sense — a much rarer quality than you may suppose.

"Character, loyalty, honesty, dependability. Keen interest in one's work. Ability to get along with one's associates. Practical and academic knowledge and experience. Willingness to accept responsibility.

"Courage in making decisions, not the ones you think will please your chief, but your honest opinion and conviction after intelligently weighing the factors involved

"Ability to express one's thoughts clearly, concisely and forcefully, both on paper and orally Imagination — the ability to see what may happen in the future and prepare for it in advance.

NOT OVERDONE

"Self-confidence and enthusiasm, but not a superiority complex. Desire and ability to follow projects through to completion. And:

"Sense of humor. A real sense of humor also means a true sense of proportion, adult perspective and, above all, tolerance in the full sense of the word."

To these Mr. Jones added "at least elementary tuition in salesmanship, advertising and public relations." He asked the students:

"Do you know of anyone who, more than the farmer, needs to know the principles and techniques of selling?"

North America has a total area of 8,300,000 square miles compared to 6,800,000 for South America.

Solomons Hit By Bad Luck

Harry Matthews, Seattle, Wash., heavyweight who is booked to meet Britain's Johnny Williams under Solomons' promotion Wednesday, is ill in a London hotel and may have to withdraw from the bout or postpone it. Matthews injured his back in training three days ago. A doctor was to examine him today and rule whether the American can go into the ring this week.

While Solomons was worrying about that blow, thieves raided his West End office and escaped with cigars, whisky, a camera, £18 in cash and some office records.

Request West To Invest In Jap Industry

TORONTO (CP) — Japan's ambassador to Canada appealed today for Western investment in his country and a chance for Japanese goods in Western markets Contrary to general belief, he said, high-cost production now rules much of Japan's industry

Sado Iguchi, Canada's first ambassador from Japan, told Toronto's Canadian Club the Japanese people will have to face a much lower standard of living unless they can find trade outlets abroad. Before the war Japan was represented here by a minister

Mr. Iguchi affirmed the intention of his people to live in peace and to deal honorably with other nations, he said in a prepared speech, but with too many people, too little land, too few natural resources, Japan faced an ever-growing need for expanding overseas sources of food and raw materials.

MAKE CONTRIBUTION

She looked forward to using her industrial resources to "contribute immeasureably to the economic prosperity of the Pacific, particularly that of her neighbor nations in southeast Asia."

But she needed capital because her industry needs modernizing.

Japan had had to change her trade patterns because of the loss of pre-war territories and China's swing to communism. She had had to turn to North America for many things and this, coupled with the greatly-increased cost of labor, had brought high costs to many Japanese industries.

In her enormous dependence on foreign trade, Japan was looking for treaties and agreements that will allow expansion in this field, for a lowering of tariffs and controls and other barriers, for signs that Western countries will encourage the entry of more Japanese goods.

But most of all her economic future lay in the Pacific

There Japan had a "constructive part to play in the advancement of economic well-being." Japan's industries and technicians were well equipped to join with the Commonwealth and the United Nations in building up the living standards of the people in that area.

Wilson Ellis Heads Polls In Omemee

For councillors — Wilson Ellis headed the pole with 277 votes; George Stephenson received 223; Walter Mitchell 176, and L. M. McKenzie 166. G. Wollerman and Wm. Fisher though unsuccessful were fair runners-up with 147 each.

Last year's hydro commissioners were re-elected—A. Hayes receiving 177 votes, and C. Jones 175. C. G. Shaw and J. A. McConnell were unsuccessful.

US Wage Board Resigns Over Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—All seven industry members of the U.S. wage stabilization board quit Saturday with a blast at President Truman for what they called the "perpetration of a fraud upon the American people."

The industry members, who constitute one-third of the wage board, said Truman's approval of a $1.90 daily wage increase for John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers was a "special privilege" extended to a few and made "second class citizens of all others."

DAMAGED PROGRAM

The wage board had voted to hold the miners' pay increase to $1.50 a day, on the ground that the higher figure, to which the coal operators had agreed, would "irreparably" damage the entire anti-inflation program.

Truman over-ruled the board, saying its action would lead to a coal strike and confront the new Eisenhower administration with a national emergency on its first day in office.

Will Re-organize Year-Round UN Timetable

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (CP)—A complete re-organization of the United Nations year-round timetable is being considered to speed up lagging work of successive general assemblies

Informed sources said the plan's major aim would be to avoid the delays caused by United States elections every four years. This year the assembly, which is supposed to start its meetings at the end of September, postponed the opening until Oct. 14.

But even that delay failed to get around the necessary hedging in debates caused by the possibility of a change in the U. S. government. The haziness of U. S. policy in the period between the election of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and his installation Jan. 20 is also slowing assembly action.

NEW PLAN

The new plan, still being formulated, would have all assembly sessions start in April or May and last about three months. This would entail changing the usual summer sessions of the trusteeship and economic councils which work now towards presenting their reports to a fall assembly.

Spring sessions would possibly have the added effect of spurring delegates to complete their work quickly to escape New York's summer heat.

The target date for ending the current assembly was originally Dec. 20. But there appears little chance now that the work can be cleared up by then. It is still not clear whether the session will adjourn just before Christmas to resume work early in February, or leave everything over until spring under the new plan.

Last year the assembly opened Nov. 6 and ended Feb. 5. The late start then also was caused by an election — France's.

CORONATION PARADE ROUTE — This map shows the route which has been approved by Queen Elizabeth for the coronation procession next June. The procession will travel from Buckingham Palace via the Mall, Admiralty Arch, Trafalgar Square, Whitehall, Parliament Square to Westminster Abbey for the ceremony. Returning to the Palace, the Queen will leave by way of Whitehall, Pall Mall, St. James's Street, along Piccadilly to Hyde Park Corner, through the Central Arch of the screen, along east Carriage Road in Hyde Park, through Marble Arch into Oxford Street, Regent Street, Piccadilly Circus, Haymarket, Trafalgar Square, through Admiralty Arch to the Mall, and past the Queen Victoria Memorial.

Give Average Day Of Queen's Life

(Next June Queen Elizabeth will be crowned at Westminster Abbey Preparation for that ancient ceremony has added new pressure to Her Majesty's already crowded life. This story, first of six prepared by The Canadian Press to give Canadian newspaper readers an up-to-the-minute picture of their young sovereign, describes the day-by-day routine in the Queen's houshold.)

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—A coach clatters up the broad boulevard to Buckingham Palace. A messenger carries in an armful of dispatch boxes. Royalty's daily round of paper work begins.

The coach is an undistinguished brougham from Her Majesty's government, drawn by a single horse in the anachronistic fashion of royal institutions. The dispatch boxes, also more in accord with tradition than modern practice, are the means of communication between the palace and the various departments.

Studying the state papers from dispatch boxes is one of the sovereign's most formidable duties. King George V, Elizabeth's grandfather, spoke wearily of "doing my boxes." Her father, George VI, had a reputation for plodding doggedly through the documents, word for word. Queen Victoria once wrote in her diary:

"Perfectly distracted with work of all kinds, boxes, letters, telegrams, questions, people to see, etc., until I am really quite bewildered and exhausted."

EXACTING ROUTINE

She gets up early, reads four or five newspapers, takes breakfast in her private apartments and usually manages a few moments with her children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne

The official routine starts shortly after 9:30 a.m. when she sees her private secretary, Sir Alan Lascelles. She does some preliminary desk work, reading foreign office telegrams, other documents and "paper," and important correspondence.

At 10:15 she sees her assistant private secretary, Martin Charteris, deals with more mundane letters, signs any acts of Parliament and studies documents specially brought to her attention. Practically any submission from a government minister requires the Queen's approval.

Next she may see the Keeper of the Privy Purse about royal finances, or the Master of the Household about arrangements for a function. Until lunch there are many other interviews—a Privy Council in a nearby room, an ambassador calling to present credentials, a governor-general or a bishop coming to do homage, a high-ranking service chief paying respects before leaving on a mission.

NO TIME TO RELAX

Lunch at about 1 p.m may be followed by a sitting for a portrait, more desk work, interviews, audiences and letter-writing Tea is just before five o'clock Then comes a nightly period with the children, which a Court spokesman says is "almost" a rule but lasts only about 15 minutes.

The evening may bring more desk work, reading, an outing at the theatre. It seldom affords complete relaxation.

This is the bare minimum. Public engagements—opening a dam, launching a ship, placing a wreath—must be squeezed into the schedule. Once a week, too, time must be found for the prime minister.

In this first year of her reign the pressure of official duties on the Queen will be tremendous. She is ultimately responsible for all the preparations for the Coronation. The climax will come during Coronation week next summer. Apart from the ceremony in the abbey, there will be public engagements, such as garden parties, state banquets, luncheons for Commonwealth representatives, radio broadcasts, court balls, evening receptions and an appearance at Epsom to watch the Derby. Always the Queen will be surrounded by crowds.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY—Westminster Abbey, resting place of 15 British monarchs, will be the setting next June for the coronation of Queen Elizabeth. The coronation, essentially religious, will be carried out before the magnificent high altar.

Best Ways To Handle Business Women

By ADELAIDE KERR

It comes—complete with notes on what to do about gossip, tears and talk—from the Research Institute of America. The institute is a private research organization that analyzes and interprets developments affecting business for a membership of 30,000 business executives and others.

Both men and women members of its staff worked on the memo about women after consultation with psychiatrists and psychologists.

If you are faced with a flood of tears, give the girl an opportunity to recover her self-control. The tears are generally due to a combination of on-the-job and personal problems. Let the girl know you are available to discuss anything she wants to bring up, but don't pry.

Above all, don't dismiss a tearful girl with an off-hand "go wash your face: you'll feel better." Finally, keep in mind that some women use tears as a deliberate weapons. Don't yield. Whatever happens, you have to maintain your standards.

When criticizing a woman's work, remember that women take things personally. Ask a man: "Where did you get this steak?" He will answer: "At Green's meat market." Ask his wife the same question and she'll answer with some emotion: "Why? What's wrong with it?"

In the business world such reactions are due partly to the fact that women are on the defensive; not only because they feel as a group that they have to prove themselves, but also because a woman tends to see almost everything in terms of herself.

In dealing with women, criticism should always be linked closely with encouragement and appreciation. Never take a woman for granted. Your failure to comment favorably is likely to be interpreted as disapproval. Women expect praise in greater quantities than men do.

Women, if not as logical as men, are sometimes one jump ahead in their thinking. Women are extra-sensitive to other human beings, observe them more carefully than most men do and feel their moods.

Women generally are more interested in people than things. Women's gossip stems from this intense interest in people. But the time spent talking in the powder room is out of all proportion to the importance of the subjects discussed. This kind of absenteeism during the day is contagious. If you don't control it, expect it to spread.

2 Toronto Students Chosen As Debaters

TORONTO (CP)—Two students from the University of Toronto have been chosen to represent Canada in an annual debate between Scottish and Canadian students.

They are Elmer Sopha of Cobalt and Dweight Fulford of Brockville. Herb Noble of Toronto was chosen as an alternative.

The trio will fly to Scotland late in January to debate with a Scottish team selected from St. Andrew's University and the Universities of Aberdeen, Glasgow and Edinburgh.

Says Three A's Very Important

TORONTO (CP)—The three A's, age, ability and adaption, are as important in education today as the three R's, Rev. J. Kelly of St. Michael's College, says.

"We must adapt our curriculum to the individual pupil," he told 200 members of the Ontario English Catholic Teachers' Association Saturday. Our education has been too intellectual, we must consider the physical, emotional, aesthetic, spiritual and social aspects of living, he said.

Dr. J. J. Geoghegan, Homewood Sanatorium, Guelph, said playing favorites, discriminating between pupils, sarcasm and ridicule from the teacher take their toll in mental ill-health. He said rapid promotion develops neurosis in brighter pupils because they can't cope with the students and subjects in senior grades.

RHEUMATIC PAIN
Can Be Costly!

"This winter I had to quit work because of rheumatic pain," writes Mr. T. Glofcheskie, Wilno, Ont. "I became fearful of being laid up as on a previous occasion with rheumatic pain. My pain became increasingly severe and spread from hip to ankle. Out of bed, the leg felt cold as though in cold water, so I stayed in bed. A friend persuaded me to take T-R-C's and I'm glad I did. In a short while I was relieved of my pain and was soon on the job again."

Charge Fur Coat Theft

TORONTO (CP)—Police arrested a 27-year-old mother of two children Saturday night for shop-lifting and said they discovered loot worth $15,000 collected during the last three years. Mrs. Audrey Hindle was charged with stealing a mink coat. Included in the haul, apparently untouched since they were taken, police said, were a mink coat and stole, other fur pieces, 16 radios, 24 pairs of shoes, a speedometer, a sink, a shock absorber, childrens' toys, lamp attachments and shaving soap.

THE QUEEN—Next June in historic Westminster Abbey where she saw her father crowned in 1937, Queen Elizabeth II, head of the Commonwealth, Defender of the Faith, will be the centre of the oldest state ritual in English history. There, in a setting of the highest solemnity and with elaborate ceremonial, she will receive the crown, symbol of sovereignty.

Chas. Winniger Not Interested In Retiring Yet

By BOB THOMAS

He says "I'm not ready to turn in the tools of my profession yet." He proves it by doing two pictures in a row, planning to follow with another and angling a possible TV series.

"I made a pilot TV film for the Bing Crosby company," he explained. "Everett Crosby told me it has a good chance of selling. If so, I'll arrange it so I can make 13 of them in a row and then be able to do a picture."

At 68, Winninger still has the bounce that endeared him to two generations of theatre goers. Far from being jaded, he spins tales of theatre life with the enthusiasm of any stage-struck youngster.

BOY SOPRANO

"I started in as a boy soprano when I was six or seven," he recalled. "We were all in the business together—my mother and father and their five sons. One of my brothers wasn't on the stage; my father always said it paid to have a member of the family in the box office.

"I've played in everything from medicine shows to opera. At the medicine shows, we'd also sell blood purifier. And we carried along a nurse to pull teeth.

"There's no telling how many shows I've been in. One time in our stock company the leading man left and my father gave me his place. I had to learn and perform six different plays in a week. Luckily, I've always had a photographic memory."

SHIP'S CAPTAIN

The veteran actor, whose most famous role was probably Captain Andy in "Show Boat," is again playing a ship's captain in "A Perilous Voyage." He indicated in the future he will be sticking to films.

Last season he made a return to Broadway in a revival of "Music in the Air." Despite his good notices, he admitted he had little love for the legitimate theatre of today.

"There is too much dissension in the theatre now," he said. "In our show, everybody was fighting with everybody."

10 Of 18 Chosen Red Heads Have Survived Disgrace

By DON DALLAS

LONDON (Reuters) — Eighteen chosen European Communist leaders met secretly in Poland five years ago and vowed to work as comrades in a fight against the "imperialist" West.

Today only 10 of those 18 founders of the Cominform have survived execution, disgrace and natural death. Delegates who attended subsequent Cominform meetings have fared little better.

The Cominform was founded to link the Communist parties of Russia and her satellites with those of France and Italy.

A policy statement issued after the first meeting divided the world into two camps—progressive and imperialist.

Of the 18 who helped formulate that statement, two were expelled within nine months. These were the Yugoslav representatives, vice-premier Eduard Kardelj and Milovan Djilas.

NATURAL DEATH

Two have died a natural death, according to doctors' certificates: Andrei A. Zhdanov of Russia, generally believed to have been the architect of the Cominform, and Vladimir Poptomov of Bulgaria.

One, Rudolf Slansky of Czechoslovakia, was executed in Prague Dec. 3 as a traitor and saboteur. Stefan Bastovansky, his colleague, is reported to be in jail, stripped of party honors.

Another, Wladislaw Gomulka of Poland, is in prison awaiting trial. Ana Pauker, Romania's former foreign minister and the only woman founder of the cominform, has been toppled from office and may soon be tried.

A ninth, Eugenio Reale of Italy, may also be feeling the chill wind of Communist disfavor. A member of the foreign affairs committee of the Italian senate, Rome reports that he is going through a period in the party doghouse.

Foreign Minister To Study 1952 NATO Balance Sheet

By HAROLD KING

PARIS (Reuters)—The foreign ministers of the 14 North Atlantic Treaty nations will meet in Paris in the week beginning Dec. 15 to examine what progress in joint defence has been achieved since they last met in Lisbon in February of this year and to plot a course for 1953.

The exact balance sheet of what has been accomplished this year will not be available until the ministers themselves have examined it. But officials say the all-over achievement has been good despite the shortage of a few divisions from the target laid down in Lisbon.

Lord Ismay, vice-president and secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty council, told a reporter "a year ago the Russians could have got to Calais (on the English Channel coast) according to a previously drawn-up timetable. Today, they would have to fight for it. It would be an operational understanding. This makes a vital difference."

MAY GET WARNING

"Furthermore, I believe the Russians could not support the lunge into Western Europe with what they have got in the show-window. They would have to build up more forces, and that means we should get some warning," he said.

Lord Ismay added that he felt there was too much public worry about whether there were exactly enough divisions available.

"Quality in training, equipment, leadership, discipline and morale are far more important than quantity," he declared. "The greatest general of them all, Napoleon, always said that morale against physical quantity was worth three to one in any battle, and I should think under modern conditions it is worth six to one."

"NATO manoeuvres this year have shown," Ismay said, "that morale among the Allied troops is good. Every observer who attended the manoeuvres in Germany this summer was struck by this fact, and especially commended the elan and discipline of the French divisions."

AIRPORT PROGRAM

The foreign ministers at the December meeting will also be able to note with satisfaction the progress made in creating the airports and other military installations throughout Western Europe needed to enable Allied forces to operate with full efficacity.

From Norway to Italy, NATO plans a chain of 126 airfields, with 41 in France and 35 in West Germany. The big majority of these have been completed or are nearing completion.

The ministers also will receive a favorable report on the NATO navy which according to Sir Arthur Power, until recently commander of the NATO English Channel fleet, "is now a reality instead of just a dream."

Quebec Creates Labor Federation

MONTREAL (CP)—The Quebec Federation of Labor has been created here as the central voice of 50,000 union members affiliated with the Canadian Congress of Labor.

About 200 delegates attended sessions during the week-end to launch the new body and adopt a constitution.

The federation will correspond in pattern to similar Quebec groups of the Trades and Labor Congress and the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor.

A. R. Mosher, president of the CCL, attended the opening session Saturday.

The federation will ask the CCL for a charter. The constitution adopted is similar to that of the Ontario Federation of Labor.

Says Alberta Benefits More Than BC People

KINGSVILLE (CP)—Solon Low, national Social Credit leader, said here that the people of Alberta benefited 12 times more from gross revenue of $89,000,000 from oil and gas than did the people of British Columbia for the province's $525,000,000 lumber industry.

Addressing a week-end Men's Club meeting in this town about 22 miles from Windsor, he said Alberta's provincial government had wiped out most of its provincial debt with oil leases and royalty revenues.

Found Royal Stables

JERUSALEM (AP) — Lt.-Col. Philip Langstaff Ord Guy, 67, the British archaeologist who unearthed King Solomon's stables 25 years ago, died here Sunday. He made his famous discovery at Megiddo, Palestine, while director of excavations there for the University of Chicago.

Diabetic's Funeral

BARRIE (CP)—Mary Taylor, 19, who died after giving up insulin in the belief that faith alone could cure her diabetes, was buried Saturday in a country cemetery near here. No sermon was delivered at the funeral. Members of the family said it was a simple ceremony, conducted by Rev. L. F. Rowe of St. Paul's Anglican church at nearby Churchill.

Rescues 4 From Car

VANCOUVER (CP)—An 18-year-old youth was burned to death and four others were saved by an heroic companion Saturday when a car plunged into a deep ditch in suburban Richmond. Dead is Raymond Hill of Vancouver. RCMP said 18-year-old Alan Don of Vancouver, driver of the car, rescued one other youth and three girls from the burning wreck. He suffered severe burns.

Charges Communism Organized Treachery

GUELPH (CP)—Opposition Leader George Drew says communism is not a political doctrine "but organized treachery."

Speaking to the South Wellington Progressive Conservative Association Saturday night, he said the fight against communism should start at home and a law should be passed "that anyone who seeks to destroy our freedom should be tried for treason."

Communist foreign-language newspapers in Canada were poisoning the minds of new Canadians, Mr. Drew said.

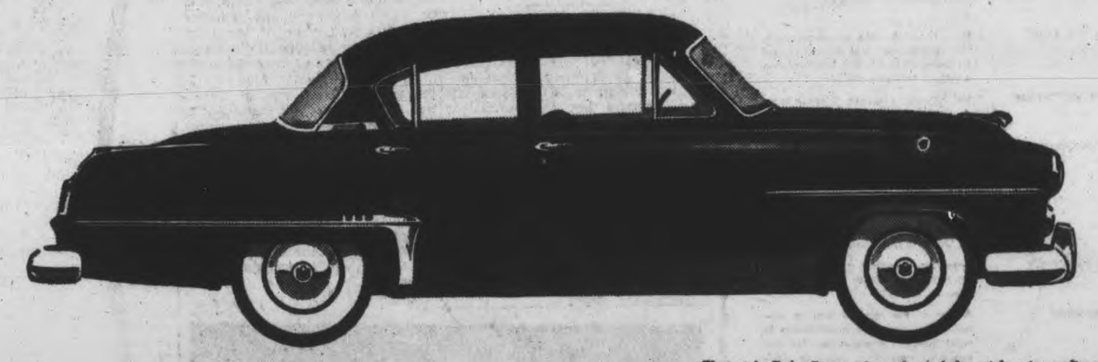
'53 DODGE



Illustrated—Dodge Regent 4-door sedan including certain extra equipment items. Check with your local Dodge dealer for information on standard equipment.

new beauty

In style and beauty, you'll find that the '53 Dodge is new and finer in many ways. It has that long, wide, low look that draws admiring glances. Graceful, sweeping fenders and the broader, lower rear deck lend a touch of continental styling. There's a new type of one-piece curved windshield and an attractive new wrap-around rear window which give you better vision. You'll like the smart, new instrument panel with its central glove compartment for easy access. The beautiful new interiors and rich new colours add a further note of elegance to the most beautiful Dodge cars ever produced in the low-price field.

When you take the wheel of this stylish, more compact Dodge, you'll quickly discover that, in performance, too, Dodge is new and finer. You'll find that this new Dodge handles with astonishing lightness and ease—clings surely to curves—parks without effort. On the highway, you'll experience finer performance and easier acceleration at higher speeds—result of the new higher gear ratio. And with Overdrive (available at extra cost) your highway driving becomes even smoother and more economical. Arrange now to get behind the wheel and put the new Dodge through its paces.

new 3-way smoother ride

When you drive a new Dodge, you'll find a 3-way smoother ride . . . steadier . . . more level . . . softer. You'll agree it's the most comfortable ride you've ever experienced in any car at a comparable price.

It's a steadier ride because of a wider frame, a lower centre of gravity, and the new positioning of the wider rear springs.

Doctor's Medical Hunch Cracks Mystery About Serious Bleeding-Disease; New Blood Types Uncovered

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A medical hunch, put to test on human volunteers, cracked a mystery about a serious bleeding disease

That led to discovery of new kinds of blood types—a hitherto unsuspected secret of nature

The new blood types are types of platelets, the blood cells that prevent bleeding. Their discovery gives hope for more effective blood transfusions—and help for people sick from rays from A-Bombs or X-rays used to treat cancer

Dr. William J. Harrington of Washington University medical school was studying a bleeding disease, thrombocytopenic purpura, in which people lack platelets which help form blood clots. People with this illness bleed into the skin and internal organs They become weak and anemic. If the bleeding occurs in the brain, they get strokes or die.

MANY UNEXPLAINED

Some causes of purpura are known, but many cases were unexplained.

Harrington, a hematologist, thought people with unexplained cases might have something in their blood which was destroying platelets as fast as they could be made in the body.

The test was to inject some blood from these patients into healthy persons. Harrington was his own first volunteer, followed later by others in the medical school

Within a few hours, healthy persons got the bleeding disease Some "X" stuff in sick people's blood began destroying the platelets in healthy blood.

The researchers learned there are types of platelets, just as there are types of red cells which determine your blood type.

If people had had many blood transfusions and got the platelets of a different type than their own they could make antibodies against platelets. But there is apparently no danger from different types of platelets in routine blood transfusions.

REMOVE SPLEEN

Transfusions of blood of the right platelet type helps some victims of purpura. The standard treatment for purpura now is to remove the spleen, which filters out damaged platelets. The damaged platelets are still good enough to prevent bleeding. The spleen is removed to keep it from taking out too many platelets.

Babies sometimes are born with purpura. They may get it if their mothers had thrombocytopenia, corrected by removal of their spleens. The baby, still having a spleen, begins losing too many platelets.

USUALLY RECOVER

Babies with this trouble usually recover in a few weeks or months. But if they are seriously affected, they could, theoretically, be given transfusions of blood of the correct platelet type, to wash out the blood with antibodies and stop the war in the bloodstream.

The bleeding disease can also come from radiation, or sometimes from drugs which damage bone marrow, the factories of blood cells.

A-BOMB VICTIMS

Many Japanese victims of A-Bombs bled to death because they temporarily lacked platelets as well as other blood cells from radiation damage. This bleeding might be halted or prevented by giving bomb victims transfusions of the right type of platelets Cancer patients suffering from overdoses of X-rays could be similarly helped.

Platelets are very delicate cells. It has been difficult to separate them from whole blood. New methods of gently separating blood into its component parts are being studied.

Trigger-Happy Boy Has 2 Rifles Seized

Humane Society officials are sure that some people are either over-zealous in reporting cruelty-to-animals cases or they do their reporting for spite.

Recently Humane Inspector Bruce Menzies went to a Dummer Township farm after he had been informed that an old blind horse was being kept there and ill-treated. His investigation revealed that the horse was blind right enough, but it was getting good care. Lots of hay and straw. And it was in good condition.

Mr. Menzies was sent on another useless trip, this time to Lindsay. He was informed that a dog was being kept on a short leash and ill-treated. He found that the dog was being given good care.

Two rifles were taken from a trigger-happy boy who shot a dog in Otonabee Township. The boy shot the collie and left it lying by the side of the River Road South, in Otonabee Township, with its back broken by a bullet.

Mr. Menzies had to finish the dog off the next day. It had lain there, paralyzed, for hours.

On the subject of dogs: Mr. Menzies reminds dog owners who have their dogs living in kennels that the animals must be kept warm now that winter is here. There should be plenty of straw and the kennel should be on a platform stand to keep it off the cold ground.

During the month the Peterborough Humane Society found homes for 18 cats and kittens and seven dogs.

Mr. Menzies picked up 11 cats and eight dogs; he destroyed 47 cats and 34 dogs; he found a total of 79 strays—39 cats and 40 dogs; and he issued 28 warnings.

Woman Denies She's Spendthrift

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) A woman who said she has 100 pairs of shoes including 24 handmade pairs from Italy denied in an answer to her multi-millionaire husband's divorce suit that she was a "spendthrift."

Mrs. Kinta Desmare Merill Friday filed an answer to a divorce suit filed last June 23 by Charles Edward Merrill, member of a New York brokerage firm.

Merrill, 66, alleged his wife was guilty of extreme cruelty and had a violent and ungovernable temper.

Mrs. Merrill, in her answer and counter-claim, asked a divorce and alimony the court deems proper.

She said that although he once complained of the high cost of living he didn't want to close or sell any of his three homes.

Merrill complained she never tried on the imported shoes. Mrs. Merrill replied that 14 pairs he brought her from Italy were too large.

Say Desperate Hunger May Force Attack

NA SAN, Indo-China (AP) — Desperate hunger may force the Communist-led Vietminh to launch a new assault on this encircled fortress in a matter of days, a senior French staff officer said today.

Prisoners taken in three previous big attacks say the enemy needs food badly. A spokesman said this was borne out by the fact the Vietminh took all the rations from one small post overwhelmed last week.

When the French retook the position all the ammunition and supplies were also gone.

It was announced Friday that at least 1,500 of the enemy had been killed in the last 12 days of fighting and another 4,500 are estimated to have been wounded.

Emigrant Learns Parents Alive

MONTREAL (CP) — Ivan Huljina, 22-year-old Yugoslav emigrant who believed his parents both dead and last week discovered his mother was alive, has now received a letter from her saying his father is alive too.

Huljina thought his parents had died in a concentration camp where they had been taken as a reprisal for his brother fighting against the Tito forces in the Second World War. Huljina came to Canada after the war.

Last week he learned through a Red Cross newspaper advertisement that his mother was trying to get in touch with him

He cabled to her immediately and her reply by letter said his father is also alive and they were living in poverty.

They were living in a stable and each day only had a plate of soup and a slice of stale corn bread to eat.

South Africa Regards UN Decision Void

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—South Africa declared it regards as "null and void" the decision by the United Nations assembly to set up a commission to investigate racial conflict in the union.

Thirty-five countries voted for the resolution Friday. It was introduced by 13 Arab-Asian countries who charged that human rights are being disregarded in South Africa and the situation is a threat to international peace.

South Africa was alone in opposition. Twenty-three countries abstained, including Canada, Britain and the United States. G. P. Jooste of South Africa told the assembly after the vote that his country considers the resolution an intervention into its domestic affairs. He warned that the action sets a precedent which will harm the UN.

The South African gave no indication, however, that his country would walk out of the UN because of the decision—a move threatened recently by Prime Minister Daniel Malan when he condemned "interference" by the UN in South African affairs.

Railway Upkeep Up

TORONTO (CP)—It cost the Canadian Pacific Railway $15,000,000 more to maintain its facilities this year than it did in 1949, W.A. Mather, president of the railway, said Saturday night. He told the Toronto Railway Club that to keep its facilities in shape cost the CPR $80,000,000 in 1949 and $95,000,000 this year. The increase was caused by the country's economic expansion and higher prices.

Winter Fleet Arriving

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal's winter fleet of lake and river ships which tie up here during the closed season is beginning to show up in port but many are unable to dock at their regular berths because ocean-going vessels are still unloading. The winter fleet is expected to total 15 ships. The Lachine canal system closed traffic at midnight Saturday.

Killed By Shark

PACIFIC GROVE, Calif. (AP)—A 17-year-old boy was attacked and killed by a shark Sunday while swimming only 50 feet from shore in Monterery Bay. One of young Barry Wilson's legs was nearly severed. The other was badly mangled. Large pieces of flesh were bitten away. Witnesses said the shark was at least 15 feet long.

PREDICT DATE—Senator John T. Haig, Progressive Conservative leader in the Senate, doesn't profess to be a swami, but he says his crystal ball tells him the next federal election will be Monday, October 12, 1953. The senator was right on the button on a previous prediction picking Monday, June 27, 1949, as the date of the last election.

Have Difficult Job Pick Queen's Title

By MICHAEL NEWMARCH

LONDON (AP)—Member nations of the British Commonwealth, comprising scores of different races and systems of government, are united in wanting at least one thing in common—a title for their Queen.

It sounds an easy thing to settle but this is one of the trickiest constitutional problems now facing this group of nations.

During the next weeks, Prime Minister Churchill will be taking his fellow Commonwealth chiefs aside in an effort to work out an agreement while they are here for the Commonwealth economic conference.

At the moment if you ask a lawyer to define the title of the Queen you might get several answers.

When her father died last February, she was proclaimed in London as "Elizabeth the Second, by the Grace of God Queen of this Realm and of all her other Realms and Territories, Head of the Commonwealth, Defender of the Faith."

At Ottawa, on the other hand, Canada proclaimed her as "Elizabeth the Second, by the Grace of God, of Great Britain, Northern Ireland, and the British Dominions beyond the Seas, Queen, Defender of the Faith, Supreme Liege Lady in and over Canada."

NOT ALL CORRECT

Several other versions were used for the royal proclamation in other Commonwealth cities.

They can't all be correct, constitutional experts argue. Since there is only one queen, she can only have one set of titles.

What is more, the 1927 Statute of Westminster—which defines the status of self-governing dominions—says clearly the sovereign's titles can be changed only if the alteration is agreed to by all the governments of the Commonwealth and the necessary legislation has been passed through their respective parliaments.

So there were raised eyebrows when the Queen was proclaimed in so many different styles last February.

FOLLOWS IT UP

Churchill warily declined to answer—but promised to get in touch with all Commonwealth leaders when they came to London.

Since the styles of George VI were settled the British Commonwealth has undergone several big changes, notably the granting of republican status to India.

The word "dominion" for a self-governing territory looked pretty broad-minded to territories which were once used to being called colonies but it is not nearly so popular today.

South Africa's ruling Nationalist party has strong republican leanings.

Through the ages, however, British sovereigns have been accustomed to changing their official title at frequent intervals.

So the Commonwealth prime ministers won't be too worried about making changes when they talk to Churchill. The hardest job probably will be choosing the phrase that will be passed through their parliaments without too much argument.

West Ward Led Municipal Vote

With 46.8 per cent of the voters going to the polls in the municipal election last Monday, the voters in the West Ward of the city led the other five sections of the city. However, the residents north of McDonnel Street and comprising the North Ward were a close second with 46.3 per cent going to the polls. The only other section to be better than the average of 42.2 per cent was Ashburnham area where 44.5 per cent of the voters cast their ballots.

Lowest on the list was the centre section of the city where only 34.5 per cent went to the polls. The South Ward, with the largest vote in the city, had 37.8 per cent and the Claraday section, or that part of the city south of Lansdowne Street, polled 37.1 per cent of its voting strength.

Taking the vote for Utilities Commissioner as the total vote cast there were 1,806 voting out of a total eligible vote of 4,538 in the South Ward; 1,819 out of 4,132 in the North Ward, 1,799 out of 3,836 in the West Ward, 1,162 out of 3,131 in the Claraday section, 1,246 out of 2,797 in the Ashburnham area, and 377 out of 1,094 in the Centre Ward.

These figures show that more voters went to the polls in the north section than in any other area.

Eight Injured In Collision

HAMILTON (CP)—Eight persons were injured when a panel truck carrying a family of six collided head-on with a small car at Duff's Corners just west of nearby Ancaster on Highway No. 2.

Taken to hospital in serious condition were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Moordian of Brantford, both 29, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Moordian Sr., also of Brantford, and the two children of the younger couple Terry, 5, and Susan, 3.

The accident occurred Sunday night.

Gerald Depalmo, 18, driver of the car and Frank Salerno, his passenger, both of Hamilton, were taken to hospital with head and other injuries.

Second Airliner Crosses Pole

STOCKHOLM (CP)—The second airliner to make a test flight from Los Angeles across the polar dome of the world to Scandinavia landed at Stockholm's Brommar Airport.

The plane, a new Douglas DC-6B named the Hjalmar Viking, took off from Los Angeles Friday morning. It stopped at Edmonton, Thule in Greenland and Oslo before making the final hop to Stockholm, arriving late Saturday.

Jaycees Try To Reduce Traffic Accidents

Caanda's 25,000 Jaycees are going all out in an effort to reduce traffic accidents and fatalities, it was announced in Montreal by National President J. Roger Flumerfelt of Calgary. A 50-page manual entitled "How to Promote Traffic Safety," based on a proven program of Education, Engineering and Enforcement, has been released to 270 Junior Chambers of Commerce across Canada to assist in co-ordinating activities at the local, provincial and national levels. Specific sections of the manual deal with adult and 'teenage drivers, school children and bicycles, pedestrians, and the setting up of "inspection lanes" to check condition and maintenance of motor vehicles.

"We are not approaching this problem on a short term basis," stated Mr. Flumerfelt, "but as a continuous program aimed at both individuals and authorities. At the local level the Jaycees will stress safe driving and walking practices and the observation of traffic rules and regulations by the individual citizen. Committees will be set up to study traffic problems and submit recommendations to proper authorities regarding traffic signals, street lighting and maintenance, standardization of traffic regulations, and most important of all — impartial and strict enforcement of existing ordinances.

The bark of the hemlock tree, rich in tannic acid, is used extensively in the tanning industry.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

DEWATERING SHAFT

The mine shaft of the Kal-Addington syndicate near Northbrook which is north of Kaladar in Lennox-Addington is being dewatered and cleaned under the supervision of J. M. Simpson, who is now manager.

REALLY NEEDS A JOB

After working here some four months, a man from New Brunswick has been out of a job for about a month. He says he is willing to do anything, does not smoke or drink, and is now behind in his board bill, which is chief anxiety.

TO SPEND $455,000

Construction of a fire hall and police station at a cost of $455,000 has been "virtually approved" by Brantford city council. Expected credits are $110,000 from sale of the present fire hall and police station and $21,000 from the sale of other property.

ART EXHIBIT

A Canadian Abstract Exhibition opened today at the Peterborough Public Library. The exhibition is made up of 45 paintings by 26 Canadian artists. Included are the paintings of Lorne Harris, Tom Hodgson, Alexander Luke, J. W. MacDonald, William Ronald and Joy Ray Mead.

CLEAN WINDOWS

Chief John Thompson warned car and truck drivers today to clear the mist, frost and snow off their windows or charges may be laid. He pointed out that a number of car drivers today were creeping through the fog, peering through a peep-hole on the windshield.

RAGS BURN

Firemen went to the home of George Bowen, 628 McKellar St., on Sunday. Rags were burning in the water pan of the furnace, but the brief fire was out when they arrived. Earlier they had to put out a rubbish fire at the rear of 239 George St. A hand pump was used. A sprinkler head went off at the Peterborough Canoe Co., also on Sunday, causing an automatic alarm to go in.

HESITATING HERON SPOTTED

A great blue heron was spotted on Highway 7, south of Lindsay, on Saturday afternoon by zone forester M. D. Kirk of the Department of Lands and Forests. The bird was not greatly alarmed by the close presence of his car, he said. The large swamp bird, still able to feed on frogs and fish in open swamps, is delaying its southern flight until the last moment.

Big For Her Age

A Barred Rock spring chicken owned by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Woolridge of Omemee laid an egg weighing four ounces. The egg measured eight inches the long way round.

Few Families In County Have Many Children

Large families are not popular in Peterborough county, the 1951 census figures show.

Setting five or more children arbitrarily as a large family, the figures reveal only 707 families in the county with five or more.

There are 9,253 families with one to four children, and 5,367 with none at all.

Altogether, there are 15,327 families in the county. Fourteen of them have 10 or more children, 22 have nine and 34 have eight. With five, six and seven children, there are 363, 162, and 112 families respectively.

In the small family bracket 3,670 couples have one child, 3,188 have two, 1,651 have three, and 744 have four. Many of the latter will likely argue after a hectic day that their families are large too.

The census figurers have all this information fractionally distilled, much as crude petroleum is, and you make your two rows of thought meet in a single space to get the required answer.

For instance, if you want to know how many rural families (not depending on agriculture for a living) have five children, you look at the horizontal row which lists the number of children to a family, then at the vertical row which lists the county and the various types of families. The answer is 74.

Starting with families, there are 4,783 rural families and 10,544 urban families. Of the former, 2,323 are dependent on agriculture and 2,460 are not.

22,165 CHILDREN

All these families have 22,165 children. Of these, 16,788 are under 14 years old, the remainder are older. The census statisticians have listed as "children" men and women up to the age of 24.

The table also shows that of the 22,165 children, 2,664 are working, and 2,356 are at school.

The pamphlet, issued by the dominion bureau of statistics, bears as the title on each page: Table 131. Families by number and age of children 24 years of age and under at home and children in families by age group and activity, for counties and census divisions, rural farm, rural nonfarm, and urban, 1951.

Another pamphlet, Table 128, reports on much the same facts, but includes the earnings of the head of the family.

According to it, 127 heads of families in the county earn $6,000 or more yearly, while the majority of wage-earners are in the $2,000 to $2,499 bracket. By far the greater percentage of breadwinners have yearly earnings of between $1,000 and $4,000. A relative handful earn from $4,000 up.

Of the small group earning $6,000 or more, eight are from rural areas, and are not dependent on agriculture. The other 119 are in urban districts.

Bailiff Must Seize Own Goods For Taxes

ANSONVILLE (CP) — A man here soon will have to seize his own goods and chattels to pay his back taxes.

W. J. Kennedy, bailiff of this northern Ontario community about 40 miles east of Timmins, will also have to seize his son's possessions to meet Calvert township's decision to press for tax arrears through seizure and public auction.

CHRISTMAS CAROLLERS ON CITY STREETS gave Peterborough a Dickens touch as 40 or more costumed PCVS songsters sang on Saturday. Performing each Saturday until Christmas and on shopping nights, Friday, Monday and Tuesday prior to the holidays as part of the Christmas Jamboree, they are being sponsored by the Retail Section of the Chamber of Commerce and The Examiner under the direction of music teacher M. J. Curtis. Shown above, (left to right) practicing beneath a "lamp standard" are Jim Foster, Betty Blakemore, Janet Hughson, Michael Loucks, Theo Collins and Joan Parton.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

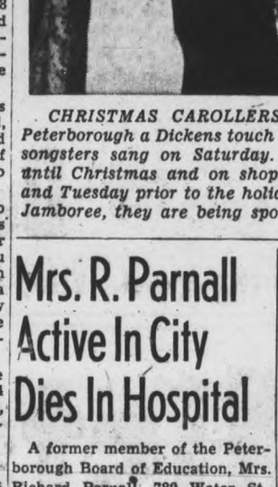
Mrs. R. Parnall Active In City Dies In Hospital

A former member of the Peterborough Board of Education, Mrs. Richard Parnall, 789 Water St., died in hospital Saturday following a short illness.

Mrs. Parnall was born in Harvey township, the former Eva Jane Bennett and daughter of the late William R. Bennett and Eliza Jane Welch. She has lived in Peterborough for the past 56 years coming here from Harvey township.

ON BOARD

Mrs. Parnall was a member of the Board of Education in 1946 and 1947. She was a life member of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association and a past president of the association. She was also a past president of the Peterborough Home and School Council and a member of the board of directors of the provinc. l executive of the Home and School Federation.



MRS. R. PARNALL

A very active member of George St. United Church for 53 years, Mrs. Parnall was particularly interested in the Women's Missionary Society. She was a past president and was a member of the WMS Presbyterial executive.

Mrs. Parnall leaves one daughter, Mrs. Rod Nicholls (Ruth), Peterborough; two sons, Robert, Peterborough, and Lloyd, Havelock; three sisters, Miss Elsie Bennett and Mrs. Wallace Harris, both of Peterborough and Mrs. Edna Stewart, Montreal, and two brothers, Arthur and Gordon Bennett, both of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. from the Comstock funeral home. The Rev. A. A. Mathews and the Rev. E. W. Rowland of George St. United Church will conduct the service. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

Names Of Women Appear On Jury Lists First Time

In the selection last week of the general list of citizens of the city and county for jury duty in 1953, the names of women were included for the first time in Peterborough history. Thereby fell another of the old barriers which have restricted the service of women in their communities since the early settlement of Ontario. Statutory amendment of the Jurors' Act, brings court practice in this province into line with that of Great Britain and the United States.

Preliminary selection of names is made in September by municipal officials, such as the reeve, clerk and assessor of townships and villages, and in the city the mayor is the equivalent of the reeve.

The final preparation of the list of jurors took place by the following board: the County Judge, the Warden, Mayor of the city, the Sheriff, the county and city treasurers with the clerk of the peace, J. A. Bradshaw, Q.C., as secretary.

Eligibility for jury duty requires that a juror must be 21, a British subject by birth or naturalization, in possession of his natural faculties and not infirm or decrepit and assessed as owner or tenant of real property valued at $600 in cities and $400 towns.

EXEMPT

Those who are exempt include: every member of the Privy Council, Executive Council of Ontario, Senate, House of Commons, Legislative Assembly, secretaries of the Governor-General and Lieutenant Governor; also persons who are more than 70 years of age; others excluded are judges, magistrates, sheriffs, coroners, jailers, keepers of a house of correction or lock-up, sheriff's officers and constables, police officers and constables.

Also ministers and priests, barristers, solicitors, students-at-law, officers in any court of justice, physicians, surgeons, dentists, veterinary surgeons service men and women pilots and seamen, heads of municipal councils, editors, reporters, printers, employees of railways, street railways and public commissions, telegraph and telephone operators and firemen.

In all cases the wives of men exempted from service on a jury are also ineligible. After receiving notice of selection, a woman should notify the sheriff within three days where she is willing to let her name stand.

HON. WALTER HARRIS

Liberal Rally To Hear Harris

The Liberals of West Peterborough will meet on Thursday evening in the PCVS audtiorium to name a candidate in the next general election. The Hon. Walter Harris, Minister of Citizenship and Immigration, will be the guest speaker.

Mr. Harris represents the riding of Grey-Bruce in the House of Commons. He is a lawyer and served overseas during the Second World War. He was first elected to the House of Commons in 1940 and re-elected in 1945 and 1949. In 1947 he was appointed parliamentary assistant to the Secretary of State for External Affairs when the Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent held that portfolio. When Mr. St. Laurent became Prime Minister he was appointed his parliamentary assistant and in 1950 he was sworn in as Minister of Citizenship and Immigration.

Child Crushed By Elevator

SUDBURY—The young daughter of a former Bailieboro man, Ray J. Barnard, was instantly killed Saturday when she was caught between a moving elevator and the basement ceiling.

The youngster, Barbara Jean, three years and eight months old was riding in the elevator of the funeral home which her father operates in partnership with two brothers, Frank and Merle.

Police said she leaned out the door to call playfully to an employee in the funeral home. Her skull was crushed between the machine and the ceiling.

Riding in the elevator with her were her brother Alan, 14, and a cousin Ricky, 5. Police said the child acted so suddenly, her brother did not have a chance to hold her back.

The child is survived by her parents, a brother, Robert, 19, at the University of Western Ontario a sister Joy 13, and Alan.

Mr. Barnard is the son of Mrs. Barnard and the late Harry Barnard who had a farm near Bailieboro. Two of Ray's brothers still farm near Bailieboro: Charles and Arnold. They left today to attend the funeral.

Ray Barnard was formerly a funeral director in Port Hope and Peterborough, going to Sudbury about 16 years ago.

93rd Veterans Plan Re-union

The 93rd Battalion Association, composed of First World War veterans, are planning a big reunion on May 24.

On Sunday they had their annual meeting and election of officers for 1953. Harold Freeman was returned as president for his third consecutive year; Herbert O'Heron is the vice-president; Howard Hall, secretary; Frank Smith, assistant secretary, and Fred Oxley, treasurer.

The 93rd was the first unit recruited in Peterborough that left this city intact. Later, in England, the battalion was broken up. They are now making plans for their second meeting; the first was three years ago.

Officers say there are between 400 and 500 veterans of the battalion — most of them in Peterborough and district but others scattered across Canada and in the United States. President Harold Freeman asks all former members to contact the Association so accommodation can be obtained. And the names of any ex-members, not on the official list and out of touch with the association, should also be forwarded.

Some 50 members attended the meeting Sunday afternoon at the Armouries. Among those present was Captain Hilliard Neilson, of Westwood.

It was reported that 19 of the 93rd veterans had died since the last reunion.

Israel Bastion Against Reds In Middle East

Jews in the Peterborough-Lindsay district have set an objective of $11,000 to be raised for the United Jewish Appeal. The money is used for relief work among refugees going to Israel.

Sunday night the local Jewish community heard a first-hand account of how Israel is getting along with her Arab neighbors. The speaker was Leonard Gibson Cowan, sailor, author, commentator, actor and producer on the British stage, who recently returned after a tour lasting nearly a year, through the Middle East countries.

A former correspondent for Reuter's news agency, Mr. Cowan said that Israel stands as a bastion of the Western world against Communist infiltration of the Arab countries.

"In the Moslem world where only about five per cent of the population can read and write it's easy to reconcile Communism with the Moslem religion. The Communists only promise relief from the desperate straits in which the Arab people live, with no mention of the ideologies involved. With the example of Israel before Arab eyes, where they can see our western democratic way of life providing work and food, the Arab leaders can see that Communism is not the only solution to their problem."

PRAISE FOR NEW STATE

He had high praise for the new state of Israel. He said Israel had no doubt made mistakes but few of them were economic mistakes.

"Israel would be self-supporting already if she ignored the problems of Jews outside."

Mr. Cowan warned that it is only a truce in the Holy Land between Jews and Arabs.

"The war is still on. Don't fool yourselves the war still goes on The people who hate and fear Israel are the Arab leaders."

Israel has permitted thousands of formerly bitter, disillusioned and anti-social people to live normal lives again, said Mr. Cowan. And they have lost their sense of inferiority.

Miss Varda Hall, Swiss concert and radio star, was guest soloist. Her repertoire included songs of he Yemenite Jews.

Myer Cherney was chairman of the meeting.

Woman's Leg Broken In Crash

Mrs. E. Redmond, 191 King St., suffered a broken right thighbone Saturday night in an accident at the corner of King and Aylmer Sts. She was taken to St. Joseph's hospital for treatment. Her condition today was described as "very good."

Mrs. Redmond was hurt when the car in which she was a passenger met in collision with a truck driven by Ralph Portsmith, RR 4, Omemee. The Portsmith truck was going west on King St. and the other car, driven by Gordon Simpson, RR 3 Peterborough, was going south when they collided at the corner.

Portsmith was also taken to St. Joseph's hospital where he was treated for a cut above his right eye as well as some bruises.

Constables Andre Dalton and Arthur Beardsmore investigated.

One Punch

A fight between two women on King St. lasted only long enough for one woman to land one lethal punch. Her opponent crashed to the sidewalk unconscious. She stayed out and a doctor was called. He ordered her to a hospital where she finally came around and was released in a short time. However, the doctor said the punch was not as deadly as it appeared. The woman had been knocked out more by the blow to the back of her head when she fell backwards than from the punch.

13 Local Men Arriving Home From Overseas

Three Peterborough men and 10 from the district are among the 325 Ontario soldiers starting their rotation leaves after service in Europe and Korea.

The three Peterborough men, who are all serving in Europe will arrive today in Halifax. They are expected to arrive in Toronto Union Station Tuesday evening or early Wednesday morning.

Pte. H. A. Flagler is one of the Peterborough soldiers. He is the husband of Mrs. Audrey Flagler, 516 Elm St., and son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Flagler, 894 Western Ave.

Gnr. F. L. Coltman, 360 Stewart St. will be spending Christmas with his wife at their home, 360 Stewart St. The third soldier on leave is Pte. L. J. Hicks, who is also married. His home is at 114 Dufferin St.

The following are men from the district who are home on rotation leave from Europe: S./Sgt. C. W. Miles, Havelock; Pte. O. J. Mack, Lindsay; Pte. C. D. Blatherwick, Bannockburn; Rfn. J. M. Hooper, Bowmanville; Gnr. A. Lamont, Lindsay.

L./Cpl. R. L. Bowins, Coboconk; Pte. G. S. Palmer, Haileybury; Pte. E. D. Payne, Lakefield; Cpl. H. R. Cassalman and Pte. R. L. Dunkley, both of Trenton, are all starting leave after serving in Korea.

Contract Raises Wages 10 Cents

An agreement has been reached between the union and management at the National Grocers Co. giving the 16 employees a wage increase of 10 cents an hour.

Local 414, Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union (CIO-CCL), are the bargaining agents.

Besides the 10 cents an hour the employees got their work week reduced from 47 to 45 hours; a job reclassification; a half day off every week, and other contract changes.

This gives warehouse workers $1.10 an hour, drivers $1.13 and shippers and receivers $1.15.

The contract will be retroactive to Nov. 15. It is the third annual contract agreed upon between the company and the union.

President Ambrose Garvey headed the union's negotiating committee.

DECEMBER DANDELION

Peterborough has moved into the banana belt, or at least the dandelion belt. Today Mrs. N. M. Manley, 206 Lansdowne Street, reported that a neighbor coming to call picked a dandelion just starting to bloom on her front lawn.

X-Ray Survey Nets 16,207 In City Drive

Findings Reported Later; 9,000 Short of Objective

Peterborough's third mass x-ray survey came to a close Friday with 16,207 people x-rayed in the city.

The survey started Nov. 3 and Steve Evans, clinic chairman of the Peterborough Tuberculosis X-ray Council, was the last person to be x-rayed Friday night.

During the survey 325 canvassers were kept busy interviewing and making appointments and more than 100 volunteers were on duty as clerical workers at the clinics.

The city was divided into five sections for the survey. The sections and the number x-rayed were as follows: Industry and Collegiates, 9,766; East Zone (Mark St. United Church), 1,113; South Zone (St. James' United Church), 1,633; North Zone (George St. United Church), 2,203; Central Zone (Knox United Church), 1,492.

The survey was organized by the Peterborough Junior Chamber of Commerce and sponsored by the Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association.

Truck Clipped Rolls Into Ditch

A dump truck received $500 damage Saturday when it turned over in the ditch, three miles west of Nogies Creek on Highway 36.

The driver, Herbert Pluard, 36, of Buckhorn, was uninjured. He told OPP Constable Gordon Gray that the box of his three-ton dump truck was struck by the blade of a bulldozer, mounted on the trailer of a truck going in the opposite direction. The truck kept on going after the accident, he said.

Pluard said he was driving to Bobcaygeon and was going up a hill when he met the oncoming transport. Though he swung to the right the edge of the bulldozer blade caught the box of the truck causing it to swing out of control.

John Alton Re-elected Head Of Victoria PCs

LINDSAY —(ENS) —Victoria-Haliburton-North Ontario Progressive Conservatives Friday returned their entire slate of officers for 1953, at the association's annual meeting held in the Legion Hall in Lindsay.

The meeting also heard speeches by several members of the party including three MPs and the premier of the province, Leslie M. Frost.

President John Alton of the riding, greeted the large crowd that attended the meeting and introduced the chairman for the rest of the day, Gordon Fraser MP for Peterborough, and president of the East Centre District Association.

Mr. Fraser punctuated his conduct of the meeting with fighting talk about the coming federal election, and commenting on the large crowd, said, "People are getting fed up with the Grit government in Ottawa. That's why, today, they're turning out all over the country, to Progressive Conservative meetings such as this."

The annual election of officers was then held, and President John Alton was returned in a standing vote, followed by the re-election of Neil Ferguson, as first vice-president, Mrs. H. N. Rogers of Lindsay, as second vice-president; Hilliard Murphy of Bobcaygeon, as third vice-president; Allan Currans as Fourth vice-president; and J. M. Prentice, of West Guilford, as 5th vice-president. In addition, Les McMullen of Sunderland was elected as 6th vice-president, representing North Ontario County, a new post in the executive. S. R. Pitts, of Lindsay was acclaimed as secretary, and John R. Kelsey, of Woodville, was returned as treasurer.

Clayton Hodgson MP for the riding, introduced the guest speaker of the afternoon, Howard Green, MP of Vancouver. Mr. Hodgson referred to the fact that Mr. Green is known in the house as "Pipeline" Green, since he was one of the driving forces in the acquiring of an all-Canadian pipeline to the east from the western oil and gas region.

Mr. Green paid tribute to Leslie M. and Cecil Frost, both of whom he knew in his law-school days. In having both Mr. Hodgson and the Premier as its representatives, he said, the riding was the "most fortunate in Canada."

In commenting on the present government in Ottawa, Mr. Green stated that it had been in power too long. He mentioned the continued extension of wartime controls, and stated that "the parliament will never again gain control of the government under the Whigs." In his main address, the MP mentioned several factors which needed changing in the present government.

HAMPERING DEVELOPMENT

The first was taxation, which, he states, was too high, and was showing, through surpluses, the lack of government planning. It is also hampering the development both of the individual and our natural resources," he said.

With regard to trade, Mr. Green said, the government's policy of making the U.S. the main market should be altered, since the rest of the Commonwealth needed Canadian dollars. He stated that Canada is now dependent on the United States for its trade to an extent never known before.

Natural resources, said Mr. Green, should be preserved for Canadians. Instead of trying to integrate the policies, as the Liberals are, of the United States and Canada with regard to natural resources, Mr. Green advocated giving Canada the first chance to develop her natural resources and to use them in growth of her own industries.

In external affairs, the speaker added, the present interest ranges from the NATO at the top, through the UN to the Commonwealth. The order should be reversed, he said, since the Commonwealth is still the finest working League of Nations in modern times. In concluding, the member stated that all the policies of the government cried out for a change. The Progressive Conservative party, he claimed, is the only one capable of making those changes.

Premier Frost spoke briefly to the gathering and pointed out the record of the party in keeping its promises in Ontario. He mentioned the St. Lawrence Seaway power agreement, the Niagara power project, the pension schemes introduced, the highway program, put through on the lowest tax rate in Canada, the fiscal arrangement with the federal government the basis of a financial policy in the future and the assistance to municipal governments through the granting of the right to tax provincial property. He called on the federal government to extend the same arrangement to Crown lands throughout the country as it is in some housing agreements. The attendance was one of the largest in recent years at a party annual meeting.

High-Ranking Reds Up To Ears In Graft Charges

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Crime wage or purge?

If what the Soviet press says about its Communist officials in industry and trade is true, there are graft, embezzlement and corruption on a monumental scale in Russia today. High-ranking Communists are up to their ears in the public trough.

It seems likely that the corruption affects every Soviet republic and every organization, including the secret police.

But the announced clean-up—dictated by Georgi M. Malenkov at the 19th all-union party congress in October—has other aspects, too. The scent of a broad purge of party ranks is inescapable. It seems particularly fierce in the Ukraine, Azerbaijan, Uzbekistan, Kazakhastan and other southern areas of the U.S.S.R.

STRENGTHENS IMPRESSION

The Dec. 1 edition of Pravda strengthens the impression that the current Kremlin campaign to clean up the party is aimed both at a fantastic wave of embezzlement and at laxity in party ranks.

Across the page are three columns written by V. Samyedov, secretary of the Azerbaijan party central committee. This tells of the "stern punishment" of a number of party officials in Azerbaijan (adjacent to Iran) for unacceptable attitudes toward "self-criticism and criticism from below." The article tells of the expulsion from party ranks and trial of a number of functionaries on vague charges concerning "big mistakes and criminal anti-state activities."

"Party organizations," declares Pravda, "are obliged to unmask and punish such leaders." It adds that the party must always keep in mind Malenkov's admonition of equal discipline for all party members, regardless of position.

There has been a wave of reports in the party press of crime—mostly embezzlement and swindling—in the Soviet Ukraine. Much of it may be connected with the never-say-die Ukrainian underground, which has worried Moscow ever since the Ukraine was absorbed three decades ago.

The tone of the Soviet press about crime—and such crime is nothing new—has taken on a note of frenzy. The strong political overtones of the accusations point to the drive on crime as a handy weapon to get rid of many party members now considered dangerous.

Up to a relatively-short time ago the Soviet press rarely printed crime news. Crime was a state secret. But since the October party congress the reports come daily.

In communism's double-talk, it all adds up to the same thing: the party must get tougher. It was going soft.

Letter Tips Police Man's Car Impounded

LINDSAY (ENS) —An anoymous letter, sent to Provincial Police Officer John Williams, at Fenelon Falls, resulted Friday in the impounding in magistrate's court, of the car of Daniel Steele of that village, for three months on a charge of driving while his licenses were under suspension.

An additional fine of $10 and costs of $18:50 were levied by Magistrate E. A. Gee, who told crown counsel Lore Jordan that "the suspension seems to be penalty enough but we can't get out of it".

Steele was convicted over a year ago of careless driving. Since that time, his wife had been driving the car to Lindsay ,where they are both employed. He protested bitterly, when his car was impounded, since he claims it was the only one driving down from Fenelon Falls every day. Commented crown counsel Jordon, "You should have thought of that when you decided to drive while your license was suspended".

Miss M. Shaughnessy

Funeral services for Miss Mary Ellen Shaughnessy were held Saturday from her home on Albert St., Hastings, to Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church in Hastings for requiem mass at 9 a.m.

The Rev. J. J. Garvey said mass and the graveside prayers. Miss Shaughnessy died Wednesday. Burial was in Our Lady of Mount Carmel cemetery.

Pallbearers were William McFadden, Fred Cleary, Frank Daley, Ed Forrestell, Gus O'Shea and James Faux.

Would Merge Colonies

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (Reuters) —The Capricon African Society today proposed federation of six British colonies in central and west Africa into one self-governing country. The six are Northern and Southern Rhodesia, Nyasaland, Kenya, Uganda and Tanganyika, with a population of 26,000,000 and a total land area of 1,000,000 square miles.

Drew Demands Proper Inquiry Into Accounting

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, says the government has turned down opposition requests time and again to have a "proper inquiry" into the whole system of government accounting and organization.

In a speech prepared for representatives of the southwestern Ontario constituencies meeting here Saturday, Mr. Drew said the government shows "disrespect for Parliament and for the people of Canada." Parliament "is treated as though it should be satisfied with any crumbs of information the government cares to give."

Mr. Drew said that opposition claims that the government is overtaxing the Canadian people and their request that something be done about loss of British markets is termed "nonsense"

COLOSSAL WASTE

He said there have been instances of colossal waste and extravagance in government expenditures. As an example he said they had bought a million and a half pairs of boots, more than a million ties, 15,000 greatcoats for the Canadian Women's Army Corps—although there are only eight in the active force—29,630 aluminum teapots and numerous other items of a similar nature.

He said the defence orders indicate "a breakdown of supervision which has been responsible for the loss of equipment and theft of stores across Canada."

Five Die In Fire

RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP)—Five U.S. Air Force officers died early Sunday when fire swept through a two-storey barrack at the Rapid City air force base. Six others were treated in hospital. One was in critical condition.

Demand Cigarettes Sell At 30 Cents

ALLISTON (CP)—A 30-cent price on Canadian cigarets was demanded by 200 southern Ontario tobacco growers at a meeting here.

A resolution passed Saturday night said it would be economically unsound for growers to cut their acreage by one-third this year while sales of smuggled and low-grade American cigarets are increasing.

J. D. Bowerman, chairman, said the Canadian tobacco crop could be almost doubled if the package price of cigarets was reduced to 30 cents by tax cuts. The government tax revenue would not be lowered and growers, workers and consumers would benefit, he said.

Julian Ferguson, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Simcoe North, said that land now available could produce about the amount of tobacco required if the price was 30 cents.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mrs. Basil D. Hall, representing the Silver Cross Chapter, was a tea pourer at the tea last Thursday given by the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mrs. Anne Nelson returned home Sunday from hospital and is convalescing from a fall in which she fractured her arm at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Bernard Hamlin, 165 Princess St.

✧ ✧ ✧

The Misses Ruth Floyd, Beverly Martyn, Anita Mason and Norma Bond were in Toronto for the weekend to attend an AYPA Council meeting held at the Church of the Redeemer.

✧ ✧ ✧

Friday Night Supper Club meeting at the YWCA was attended by 48 members. After a box lunch and business session, the girls enjoyed a talk on effective nair styling by Mrs. Jo. Donoghue who gave special beauty hints of interest as well.

✧ ✧ ✧

Miss Jean McIntyre and Miss Marion Foster were the local YWCA representaitves at a conference in Toronto Saturday to plan for the 1952 regional conference. It was decided to hold it in Oshawa in February. More than 20 planners attended the meeting held in East Toronto branch of the Y.

✧ ✧ ✧

Little Women's Club opened the meeting Saturday afternoon with roll call and the reading of minutes. The coming Chrsitmas party on December 13 was discussed and the members received slips of paper with instructions as to what to bring in the way of refreshments and also saying that 25 cents should be spent on gifts for the party. The girls then played games before going home.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mrs. Maurice Holt was in Toronto to attend the National Campaign Conference of the Canadian Cancer Society held Friday and Saturday in the Royal York Hotel. Mrs. Holt is a member of the Ontario Division campaign committee as well as president of Peterborough branch of the Cancer Society. Delegates to the conference were from every province of Canada, including Newfoundland.

Plan Formal Dance

Mothers' Auxiliary of St. Peter's High School met at the school last Thursday evening Mrs. J. L. Paquette presiding. Reports were read by Mrs. L. Sullivan, treasurer, and Mrs. R. Gravelle, convener of card parties. As there will be no January meeting, it was decided to carry on the card parties until the February meeting. It was planned to hold a formal dance for the students of the High School in February, making it a Valentine dance. The program arrangement for the meeting was the playing of the Christopher records for parents which give expert instruction for dealing with high school age boys and girls.

Largest Attendance

Largest attendance at the Twenty Plus Club's Saturday evening dances was on Saturday when more than 100 enjoyed the sociability and program. Miss Norma Elcombe and Earl Guthrie were the masters of ceremonies. A balloon dance was won by Miss Dorothy Harle and Ralph Dorsey and a spot dance by Miss Verde Dickinson and Jim Hope. Supper servers were Miss Pauline O'Brien and Gerry Forisburg, Miss Tine Kylstra and Bob Summerville. From the club's Friday evening bowling the prizewinners were: Gordon Lupton on blind score, Don Endicott for high score and Jim Kennedy for low score.

Newcomers Party

About 30 recent newcomers to Peterborough got together last week for a Christmas party. The party was organized by Mrs. May Thompson, the Welcome Wagon hostess in the city. It was a preliminary to the parties and get-togethers planned when a Newcomers' Club is organized in the new year with "newcomers" of longer standing included. Among those attending were ladies from Hungary, Lithuania, Wales, Ireland, United States and England and one of the contests planned to bring about new friendships was to find out who came the farthest west or east, north or south. Decorations for the occasion included a Christmas tree with gifts for everyone.

Hopkins-Franz

First Calvary Baptist Church, Toronto, was scene of a pretty wedding Friday when Elaine, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Franz, was united in marriage to John Wellington Hopkins, only son of Rev. and Mrs. John Wesley Hopkins, all of Toronto.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Stewart Bemer, cousin of the bride. White and yellow 'mums decorated the church. Mrs. Stewart Bemer played the wedding music and during the signing of the register. Mrs. Sidney Davis of Kitchener sang "Oh Promise Me."

Given in marriage by Mr. Herbert McKay of Peterborough, the bride wore a street-length blue taffeta dress and had a corsage of white roses.

The reception was held at the Arlington Club, where Mrs. Franz, attired in black crepe with a corsage of pink and white gardenias, received the guests, assisted by the groom's mother, wearing green crepe and a corsage of white and pink 'mums, also Mrs. Herbert McKay, wearing blue velvet and corsage of yellow 'mums.

Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins will live at 1496 King St., Toronto, on their return.

Marmora Bazaar In Parish Hall

MARMORA (ENS)—The bazaar and other attractions sponsored by St. Paul's Ladies' Guild and held in the newly renovated parish hall in spite of the inclement weather, brought out a large patronage on Friday afternoon and evening. Receiving at the door were Mesdames J. M. Brownlie, D. Robertson and T. Pearce, wives of the rector and wardens. The many artistic tables in a gaily decorated hall were staffed as follows:

Home cooking: Mrs. E. Hewitt, Mrs. C. Cronkright and Miss M. Robinson; candy table: Mrs. W. Deering; bazaar table: Mrs. W. Leonard, Mrs. A. Eggleton, Mrs. C. Neal and Mrs. J. Davidson; parcel post: Mrs. Gus Leonard and Mrs. Claud Nichol; apron table: Mrs. R. G. Winters and Mrs. Clayton Bedore; girls' auxiliary table: Misses Annette Provost, Patricia Spry, Anne Bedore, Jean Provost and Madeline Frost; fish pond: Misses Sandra Neath, Josephine Price, Eva Keating, Dorothy Phillips and Ruth Spry; Deloro table: Mrs. C. HASTINGS — Presentation of a statue of the blessed virgin was a statue of the Blessed Virgin was made at the December meeting of the Hastings subdivision of the Catholic Women's League to Mrs. T. Daly. The presentation was made by Mrs. Joseph Powers.

Mrs. Joseph Collins, the president, read an address expressing appreciation of Mrs. Daly's activities in the parish during her residence in Hastings. Mrs. Daly leaves shortly for her new home in Kitchener.

The children of Grades 7 and 8 in the parish were asked to take part in a speaking contest at the January meeting. The winner from each subdivision is to speak at a final competition in Peterborough at the quarterly Diocesan meeting on January 17th. Mrs. Joseph Smith of Campbellford, the Dioceson President, is donating a prize for the winner.

Warsaw Societies Meet Together

WARSAW (ENS)—The Christmas meeting of the Women's Missionary Society and the Women's Association were held in the Sunday School room on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Dyson, president of the WMS, presided. Scripture passages were read by Mrs. Harold Ray, Miss McCracken, Mrs. William Darling and Mrs. C. Parcels. The roll call was answered with a Christmas verse. The program consisted of readings given by Mrs. Harold Ray, Mrs. Dyson and Mrs. William Darling. Christmas carols were enjoyed by all with Mrs. Ida Darling presiding at the piano.

The tables were beautifully decorated with lace tablecloths, holly and red candles in silver holders for the occasion. A delicious lunch was served consisting of tea, sandwiches, cookies, Christmas cakes, home-made candy, nuts and grapes and a social half hour spent.

Install Officers LOBA 525 Lodge

Officers of the Eastern Star LOBA 525 were installed in a ceremony at the Orange Hall with RW Sister Edith Benton, grand deputy mistress of Ontario East, presiding. She was assisted by RW Sister Rose Sexsmith, grand junior deputy mistress of Ontario East; Sister V. Youngs, Sister K. Benton, Sister F. Edmison and Sister M. Gillespie Sister Moynes of Star of Bethlehem Lodge No. 650. The immediate past mistress Sister Sarah Deyman was brought forward and presented with her jewel.

Firth; pianist, Sister Clarke; inner guard, Sister May Caird; outer guard, Sister Olive Price; second committee, Sister M. Clee; third committee, Sister G. Hill; sick and visiting committee, Sisters Olive Price, Gertrude Hill and Flossie Hotston.

GLAMOR IN CHRISTMAS GIFTS is expressed in these new lingerie designs. Gown-and-peignoir (left) are in black nylon with the peignoir lined in pale pink to relieve the inky look of the black. Yoke and collar of the robe are in nylon lace; huge puffed sleeves are worn pushed up into airy circles. Bodice and hem of the fitted gown are in the same lace used for the robe. The dress-length ensemble (right) comes into its own in this robe of imported basket weave wool over nylon gown. Both are in pale blue. The robe buttons nearly to the hem; has cotton eyelet lace trim at neck, cuffs and on pocket. Fitted gown is trimmed with nylon eyelet lace.

St. Anne's P-TA Hold First Tea

A very successful Christmas tea was held Sunday afternoon by the St. Anne's Separate School Parent-Teacher Association at the school. It was the first tea held by this organization.

The tea room decorations were highlighted by a colorfully decorated tree and the small tea tables were attractive with Christmas centrepieces. Red tapers in black candelabra decorated the tea table.

Mrs. W. C. Smith was tea convener and she received the guests with Mrs. Joseph Paquette, president.

Mrs. R. E. Macdonald and Mrs. Frank McCormick poured tea. The servers were Mrs. E. Foley, Mrs. Joseph Collins, Mrs. B. MacNamara, Mrs. T. Brioux, Mrs. Stanley Lucas and Mrs. Alfred Smethurst. Mrs. Charles Hartnett and Mrs. Frank Hickey replenished the plates.

The tea room was decorated by Mr. E. Boland, Mr. Gordon Burns and Mr. Leonard O'Connor.

The members of the WMS of the United Church held a very successful bazaar in the township hall on Saturday afternoon.

14 Tea Guests Are Winners In New Bazaar Attraction

Blue and silver were the predominating themes of the very beautiful Christmas decorations in the Green Room of the YWCA for the Christmas tea and bazaar held by the Peter Robinson Chapter IODE on Saturday afternoon.

Blue tapers, silver boughs and Christmas trees were most attractively aranged everywhere in the tea room with highlights in the effective lighting on silver and colored balls. The tea table, covered with a Quaker lace cloth was decorated with a charming silver and blue Christmas centerpiece. Sets of blue tapers were in silver candlebra and silver tea services complemented the color theme.

The many ladies who attend were received by vice regent Mrs. John Johnston and the regent Mrs. P. C. Sanders.

Pouring tea were Miss Mary Medd, Miss Rachael Young, Mrs. Stanley Braund and Mrs. W. L. Hardwicke. Mrs. L. H. Ingram was tea convenor and Mrs. Harold Baker was hostess. Mrs. G. Coleman Jr. and Mrs. W. Lang were conveners of the tea table.

The servers were Mrs. Gordon Hancock, Mrs. H. R. Scott, Mrs. L. R. Mitchell, Mrs. R. Gamble, Mrs. Gordon Hill, Mrs. James Heffernan, Mrs. F. H. Jobbitt, Mrs. Stanley Warne and Mrs. I Harland Keefer. Mrs. J. R. Jobe, Mrs. S. J. Graham, Mrs. C. S. Browne and Mrs. M. G. Hardill replenished plates and tea pots on the tea table. Other assistants were Mrs. E. L. Sackville Mrs. R. Roper, Mrs. C. C. McIntyre and Miss M. Bailey.

PENNY SALE FEATURE

The big, new feature of this tea tea was a "miniature penny sale" which offered 14 lovely prizes. Each prize was displayed on a silver lace doily and the patrons dropped their penny tickets in the ticket box beside the one they wanted. Tickets were sold only at the tea but the proceeds brought a nice profit to the chapter treasury, proving this was quite an attraction.

Miss Rose Mulholland and Mrs. A. L. Malby were in charge of the sale and the following are the lucky winners:

Miss. Verna Burgess, a five pound box of biscuits; Mrs. F. H. Jobbitt, an angel food cake; Mrs. J. Bell, a Christmas cake; Mrs. M. G. Hardill, pearls and earrings; Mrs. J. C. Adams, box of Christmas cards; Mrs. F. E. Hooper, Pyrex ware; Mrs. W. Turner and Miss M. Lunn, each a table centre; Mrs. A. Dryland, cup and saucer; Miss E. Anderson, a table centre; Miss Mary Greer, a lamp; Miss M. Hunter, a pie server; Miss Adele Milburn, nylon hose; Mrs. F. Revoy, a towel and wash cloth.

The novelty table also made a substantial sum at the tea. Some new novelties that sold well were Christmas hostess aprons in organdy with Christmas bouquets on the pockets, the square type candles covered with icing set with sequins and containers for small Christmas gifts, such as perfume or other toiletries, that were made like little girls' muffs of white cotton covered with red netting and finished with netting frills and a strap to go around the neck. Miss Mary Greer and Mrs. D. Hunter were in charge of the table and had assistance in selling from Miss Doris Burgess, Mrs. W. Jeffries, Mrs. J. Cuthbert, Mrs. N. Hamley and Mrs. E. McBrien.

Home baking also sold well, as usual. The table was convened by Mrs. W. Fitzgerald and Mrs. J. A. Hill and assistants were Mrs. Roy Lewis, Mrs. H. Chown, Mrs. H. Buller, Mrs. H. Steggles, Mrs. W. Hines, Mrs. D. Ketcheson, Mrs. W. L. Derry and Mrs. C. Clarke.

Parcel post parcels were dispensed by Mrs. F. E. Hooper and Miss H. Cameron, though the convener of this feature was Mrs. John Johnson.

The decorations for this tea came really into their own at dusk and guests leaving the tea after five o'clock mostly all paused for a second look. They were the skilful work of Mrs. Wm. Jeffries, Mrs. C. L. Upper and Mrs. W. L. Hardwicke. Mrs. Upper also acted as ticket taker for the afternoon.

Norwood Ladies Hold Bazaar

NORWOOD (ENS)—The WMS Afternoon and Evening Auxiliaries of the United Church held a very successful bazaar in the dining hall of the church. The decorations were in keeping with Christmas. The small tables were attractive with white cloths, with small snowman, holly and evergreens.

Those receiving were: Mrs. Hugh Robb, Mrs. Arthur Brethen, Mrs. Edward Scott, Mrs. John Marks, Mrs. John Starke.

The tea tables were in charge of Mrs. Ross Irwin, Mrs. Allan McNab, Mrs. Donald Paxton, Mrs. H. Gyde, Mrs. Earl Hamblin and Mrs. John J. Stewart. The plates were replenished by Mrs. Stanley Flett, Mrs. Gordon Manley, Mrs. John McConnell, Miss Pauline Weir and tea was made by Mrs. Fred Gardner.

The different booths were convened by: The "home market" vegetables and plants, Mrs. Robert Leeper, Mrs. Elsworth Hogg, Miss M. A. Carter; home baking, Mrs. Armar Weir, Mrs. Fred Patterson, Mrs. Lewis Freeburn; aprons, Mrs. S. S. Brechon, Mrs. Robert Girven; fancy work and knitted goods, Mrs. A. R. Atkinson, Mrs. Harold K. Wright; fish pond, Mrs. Donald Audas, Miss Ruth Avery; mystery booth, Miss Maysie Buck; candy, Mrs. W. H. Hudson; and Mrs. Clare Telford and some members of the Mission Band.

WMS MEETS

A well attended meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church was held Thursday afternoon in the Sunday School room. The Christmas spirit was carried through with appropriate hymns and decorations.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. John Starke, who read the poem "God's Candles." A hymn was sung in memory of a late member, Mrs. James Long, who had been a faithful worker for many years. Mrs. Harold K. Wright led in prayer.

The printed Christmas worship service in the missionary monthly was used and consisted of Christmas hymns, prayers and scripture readings. Miss Maysie Buck was in charge, assisted by Mrs. Fred Gardner, Miss M. A. Carter, Mrs. Elsworth Hogg and Mrs. Robert Girven.

In the absence of Mrs. Rork Ferguson, Miss Pauline Weir was pianist for the meeting.

Lions Sponsor Variety Show

MILLBROOK (ENS)—"Shooting Stars," a variety show with a large local cast, sponsored by the Lions Club, was presented in the town hall Thursday and Friday nights. It took the form of a "television show" with many different acts.

Those in the opening chorus, with Ron Palmer impersonating Milton Berle as conductor, were: Marion Kennedy, Judy Hobbs, Laureen Guthrie, Gayle Gibbs, Donna Murney, Janet Hobbs, Pat Peebles, Frances Elson, Joan Gilbert, Marilyn Sanders, Carol Hawkins, Lenore Ouellette, Carol Ridge, Ada Olan, Muriel Elliott.

Taking part in the square dances for which Wes Cummings called off and which had the following orchestra: Percy Hamilton, banjo; Bob Todd, violin, and Herb Scott, guitar, were: Helen Fallis, Arlynne MacPherson, Jessie Lunn, Luella Kellett, Fraser Carr, Donald Spicer, Paul Elson, Earl Agnew, Paul Sanders. The group was introduced by Percy Hamilton. Homer Ouellette was accompanist for the evening.

Mrs. G. A. Spicer conducted the "Jubilee Singers," who sang Negro spirituals. They were: Mesdames W. W. Kennedy, P. Hamilton, S. Snelgrove, D. Sheppard, A. R. Payne, H. Kerr, W. C. Moore, Reg. Fallis, J. Pilkington, Ted Gray, J. McMaster, Vic Last, R. Palmer.

Luella Kellett was soloist in a group of girl singers in evening gowns, seated one at each end of teeter-totters. Others in this number were: Anne Dawson, Marilyn Palmer, Helen Fallis, Arlynne MacPherson, the Rev. A. M. Butler impersonating Fred Waring, introducing this group.

Doing a comedy song number in costume in which they impersonated babies were: Ted Gray, Ed. Bredin, Stewart Snelgrove, Jack Pilkington.

Special features were the baby popularity and "Queen for a Day" contests. Winners of cups in the former were Nancy Kidd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Kidd of Bailieboro, and Michael Sinclair, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Sinclair, also of Bailieboro. Winner of the "Queen for a Day" contest on Thursday night was Mrs. Buck, who makes her home with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Northey. She received a rolling pin, tickets for dinner and the theatre, a piece of costume jewellery, a certificate for a free shampoo and fingerwave, and a silex coffe-maker. Others whose numbers were drawn and who received red rose corsages were Mrs. John Edgar and Mrs. Bruce Ingham.

On Friday night Mrs. Charles Sanderson was "Queen for a Day" and received a similar list of presents. Receiving corsages of gardenias were Mrs. Herbert Yarr of Bailieboro and Miss Anna Fair. Percy Hamilton conducted the contest, assisted by pages Frances Elson and Marion Kennedy.

The entire cast was on stage for the final chorus.

Mrs. G. A. Spicer presented Miss Doralyn Ezell, the directress of the show, with a gift from the cast.

DOROTHY DIX

Girl Was Hastily Married Now Wants Quick Way Out

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 22 years old. Fifteen months ago, I met and married a soldier whom I had known but two months. Immediately following our marriage he was shipped overseas, and has been gone since. At the time, we were quite sure of our love, but, with the passing months, I find the state of my affections very uncertain.

For Jim's sake I was willing to await his return and talk over the situation, but yesterday I received a letter saying his service overseas has been extended nine months.

During his absence, I have been working as a stenographer. One of the men in the office has become interested in me—and I in him. Each day I find it more difficult to turn down his requests for dates. I feel that were I still single, I would prefer Bob to my husband, but I do not wish to hurt Jim. Would it be wise, in your estimation, to date Bob as a friend and not tell my husband about it?

ANSWER: You have managed to crowd into fifteen months just about all possible mistakes of marriage to servicemen, and I earnestly hope your plight may be a warning to other girls contemplating similar marriages.

Your premarital acquaintance with Jim certainly was not long enough; the wedding was hasty; Jim's sudden departure gave you no time to make an adjustment, so here you are in the anomalous position of being a wife while your husband has become a distant shadowy figure. Certainly you can't feel much obligation to a man you've known only two months. The fact, however, remains that you are married and had better begin to think like a married woman rather than a single girl.

MARRIAGE IS SERIOUS

The marriage contract is a serious and binding one; it is not to be shelved for a mere whim. Of course, it should not be made as a whim, either, which is about what you and Jim did. However, at 21 you certainly had some idea of the responsibilities ahead, and should have given a little more forethought to what should be the most solemn act of your life.

Now, of course, it is the present rather than the past, that interests you. So for what they are worth to you, here are my conclusions. It would most definitely not be wise to date Bob. Word would be bound to get to Jim through third parties and news of that kind comes hard, especially when one is thousands of miles from home. Respect your marriage vows until Jim comes home, then discuss the situation with him and arrive at your own solution.

Going dateless for nine months is preferable to compromising with your own honor. You are faced with a clear-cut case of right and wrong and you know it. You also know what the right thing is; don't do anything else. Give Jim a chance, don't be a defeatist about your marriage and it's quite likely that, when you see your husband again, all doubts about it will disappear. I hope so.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 17 and interested in a boy who works in our neighborhood drug store. Although I have been out with him in a crowd, and he singles me out at a dance, he hasn't asked for a date. He is 20 and in his second year at college. How can I get him to ask me out for a date without appearing too forward?

MARY A.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Since the boy is undoubtedly interested in you, Mary I can only suggest a reason or two why he hasn't tried to date you, and urge you to be patient. Circumstances would indicate that he is working his way through college, a task that leaves little money or time for dating. Also, with two years of college ahead of him (more, in fact, if he has a profession in view), he probably doesn't want to become interested in one particular girl. Be content with your friendship on its present basis, perhaps inviting him to your house for an occasional evening with the gang as a supplement. Don't appear overanxious; if he likes you, you'll find it out soon enough.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a common-law wife, 30 years old. My husband is the some age. I have been separated from my first husband for six years and have tried to get a divorce but unsuccessfully. I feel I shouldn't waste any more money on it. My real problem is, we can't have any family and we woulud love to adopt a baby. Can you tell us whether we can adopt one, even though we aren't married?

HOPEFUL HOPE.

ANSWER: Since gilt-edged couples with authentic marriage certificates find it difficult to adopt a child, your chances are quite hopeless.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Put Waffle Iron To Work

There is more than one good thing about waffles, and one of them is that waffle recipes may be cut down to serve only two and there is no waste.

Cooking for two people poses problems that a cook for a family of six does not understand. I am constantly asked for help from young brides who are at their wits' end for variety in their meals.

Since Mrs. Roy Y. is hopefully watching for some waffle talk we'll combine the two requests today.

Dear old Pete—he is loaded with responsibility for so many things that I suppose he can shoulder our waffle department too. He makes 'em. He has some recipes that are beauties. His talent came from one of his fraternity brothers. (He keeps correcting me on the "brother" stuff — he is just a "pledge".) Last Sunday morning three of us solemnly sat around the breakfast table, eating waffles as fast as the waffle iron would produce them, yet trying to look like epicures that were merely sampling impartially something new. In this sampling process Pete consumed six. Dainty little me had a mere three.

I'll give you this glamor recipe first, then further on an everyday one.

SOUR CREAM WAFFLES (by Pete)

Grumblingly sift some flour — better use cake, and measure 3 cups; sling it back in the sifter with 1½ teaspoon salt, 4½ teaspoons baking powedr ("the kind in that red can"), and 1 tablespoon sugar. (One satisfactory thing about the dear kid is that he never balks at measuring accurately.) Separate 3 eggs. (He cunningly does this by placing 3 eggs about one foot apart on the counter!) You know enough to separate the whites from the yolks. Beat the heck out of the yolks and add 1 pint (2½ cups) heavy sour cream bought for the purpose—it's much cheaper than souring sweet cream. You must have heavy sour cream to obtain its butter fat. Sift the dry ingredients over this and stir until just blended. Wind the egg whites up like fury until they are stiff and fold them in. Need I add that this is done with flourishes that threaten to spread the batter all over the kitchen? Have waffle iron heated to exact point indicated for "bake" on the dial. This batter is a little stiff so spread it evenly not quite to edge. Bake to crisp gold. Now lay to, with a goodly supply of butter and maple syrup, not forgetting to keep the waffle iron working overtime.

EVERYDAY WAFFLES (by practical me)

Sift cake flour and measure 1.. cups. Resift it with 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar. Beat 3 egg yolks until very light and add to them anywhere from 2 to 6 tablespoons melted butter or cooking oil. Make a well in the centre of the sifted dry ingredients. Pour the liquid ingredients in this well and combine with a few swift strokes. Beat until stiff but not dry the egg whites—3. Fold into batter until barely blended. Bake in preheated waffle iron. Honey stirred into melted butter is an excellent sauce. OR serve with a sort of hard sauce made by creaming together 3 tablespoons butter, ½ cup icing sugar and ¾ teaspoon cinnamon. Chill this before using.

APPLE CINNAMON WAFFLES (dessert)

To recipe for Everyday Waffles add 1 or 2 cups finely chopped raw pared apples, 1½ teaspoons cinnamon and 2 tablespoons sugar. Use for dessert. Anybody with a wisp of imagination can see how wonderful they would be topped with ice cream.

CHEESE WAFFLES (Supper)

Here's where your waffle iron proves a friend in need. If unexpected company descends on you make cheese waffles and top them with a creamed mixture of curried eggs or a vegetable such as quick-cooked frozen peas or creamed ham or chicken or salmon. Merely add 1 cup grated cheddar or finely shredded process cheese to Everyday Waffles.

"Canadian Scene" originated and carried on.

Following closing exercises, Mrs. Arthur Spring and Mrs. Arthur Bitten were hostesses for tea served.

HS Society Re-elects Officers

MARMORA (ENS)—All officers of the Holy Name Society were re-elected at the annual meeting held in the Sacred Heart Parish Hall on Wednesday evening.

Charles Lajoie, who presided, in giving his report, showed that 1952 had been a successful year both spiritually and materially.

The election returned to office honorary presidnet, the Rev. J. A. O'Neill; president, Charles Lajoie; vice-president, Carl Johnston; secretary, Michael Forestell; assistant secretary, Donald Shannon, Jr.; treasurer, Morris Lynch; marshal, H. A. McNally.

The Harmonicats (Martin Nicholson, Omer Houle and Tommy Byrnes) gave some numbers after which the meeting adjourned.

Norwood IODE Holds Meeting

NORWOOD (ENS)—Mrs. W. H. Giffen, vice-regent presided for a well-attended meeting of the IODE chapter Thursday.

Correspondence included several thank you letters. Two letters from overseas, praised very highly the food parcels received and sent by the chapter. It was decided to continue sending the monthly parcels.

Mrs. A. A. Waddell in her treasurer's report, stated that the recent Poppy tea had been a success.

Ten dollars for prizes were voted to Norwod High School and the same to the Norwood Public School. A sum of money was also voted to the Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association.

It was decided to make a canvass for old gold among chapter members and friends and money received from sale of it to be used for chapter's welfare work.

It was decided to have a euchre party the second week in December. Committees were named to look after Christmas cards and boxes for shut-ins.

Mrs. Charles McMillan gave a very interesting paper on how the

6—In Memoriam

DUNFORD—In loving memory of our dear Grandma, Mrs. Joseph Dunford, dead 8 years Dec. 9th.
We lost one with a heart of gold
How much we miss her can never be told.
Dearer to us than words can tell
Is the Grandma we lost and loved so well.
—Never to be forgotten by Grandchildren, Art, Garnet, Roxie Downer.

7—Card of Thanks

I wish to thank the nurses and staff and attending doctors, the clergymen of Norwood, also kind friends who called and for cards and fruit received during my illness in Civic Hospital.—Mrs. Robert Carter.

I wish to extend my sincere thanks to the Sisters and nurses of St. Joseph's Hospital, attending doctors, Father McEacheran, friends and neighbors who sent flowers, cards, fruit and for any act of kindness shown during my recent illness.—Mrs. Wilbert Bever.

I wish to thank all my friends very much for the votes they gave me, helping me to win the popularity contest sponsored by the Millbrook Lions Club.—Nancy Kidd.

The family of the late Mrs. James Wood, Havelock, wish to extend their sincere thanks to the attending doctors, Rev. R. G. Newman, and all kind friends, neighbours and relatives who called, sent cards and flowers and for kind words of sympathy during our sad bereavement of a dear wife and mother.

Stores Ignore Church Holiday

MONTREAL (CP) — A record number of Montreal stores opened for business today, Feast of the Immaculate Conception, despite a city bylaw requiring them to remain closed on certain Roman Catholic holy days, police reported.

More stores than ever will end the day with summonses to appear in court, police said. About 115 police officers were on duty handing out summonses.

A survey showed that most establishments in the midtown area were open and business was reported "normal."

"We are going to make more cases than ever before," Capt. Marius Belec, head of the police commercial squad said. "on the last religious holy day, Nov. 1, All Saints Day, we made 460 cases and last year on Immaculate Conception about 450."

The bylaw was declared ultra vires last summer when seven large stores which have been leading a legal battle against it contested the constitutionality of the regulation in Superior Court. An appeal by the city is pending.

Gordon W. Jones Bancroft Leader

North Hastings recently lost a highly esteemed resident in the death of Gordon Wilfred Jones. Born in Port Perry, Ontario, November 19, 1892, he spent his boyhood there. His schooling was completed in Toronto and his early employment began with the Canadian Bank of Commerce, followed by a period of employment with the City of Toronto.

In 1910, Mr. Jones joined his father, the late Charles W. Jones, who had come to Harcourt, Ontario, in 1909 to establish a pulpwood and lumber business. In 1913, after a short period of residence at Baptiste Lake, the family moved to Bancroft. Mr. Jones, with his father, pioneered the development of the pulpwood industry in Central and Eastern Ontario, at the same time conducting a lumber business. From 1933 to the time of his death, Mr. Jones' activities were confined to the pulpwood industry.

Mr. Jones foresaw, and worked untiringly toward, the development of this country. His files reveal years of effort on his part toward projects which have now become realities. Well known for his charitable traits, his kindly and understanding assistance to those in need or suffering misfortune, he will be long remembered by the people of this county.

A life member of Bancroft Masonic Lodge No. 482, a Noble of Rameses Temple of the Shrine, one of six to attain 25-year membership of Court No. 83, Royal Order of Jesters, Mr. Jones was also a member of the local Lions Club.

Surviving are his widow, Arlene Marie Jones, two sons, Douglas Gordon and Donald Ross, also three sisters, Ida E. Hunt, New York, Hazel L. Stackhouse, Ottawa, Eudora H. Jones, Bancroft, and one brother, Robert Grant, New York.

Travel Around World On $1,500 Each

TORONTO (CP) — Two bearded young men who girdled the world in a car drove into Toronto to end 16 months of travelling in 66 countries.

Warren and Doug Wilkins, University of Toronto graduates, set out to discover whether the world was really like what they had been told at school. They decided that for the most part it is, but "Canada's best," said Warren as they came home Saturday.

They made their trip on less than $1,500 each and returned with more than 10,000 feet of colored film and a diary.

Escalator Jumble

LONDON (Reuters)—A man riding up a London subway escalator fell over backwards Sunday night and bowled over nine other persons. The toppled tenpins piled up in a heap at the bottom. All were treated for minor injuries except the man who started it all. Red-faced with embarrassment, he ran out into the fog.

MILAN, Italy (AP)—For the first time in its history television invaded famed La Scala Theatre Sunday night at the opening of the opera season with a performance of Verdi's "Macbeth."

OBITUARIES

MRS. CATHERINE O'TOOLE

A lifelong resident of Peterborough, Mrs. Catherine O'Toole, of 24 Aylmer St. S., died today in hospital following a short illness. She was born in Douro township, daughter of the late Peter McCauley and Catherine Foley. Her husband, James O'Toole, predeceased her.

She leaves four daughters, Mrs. Richard Field (Ann) and Miss Clothilde O'Toole, both of New York City, Miss Agnes O'Toole, of Toronto, and Mrs. Rupert Miller (Margaret) and one son Earle, both of this city.

Mrs. O'Toole was a member of Sacred Heart Church and of its Catholic Women's League, Altar Society and League of the Sacred Heart.

The body is resting at the residence and will be taken to the Sacred Heart Church on Wednesday where requiem mass will be said at 9 a.m. Burial will be at St. Peter's cemetery.

WILLIAM WALLACE GRIEVES

WARKWORTH —(ENS)— William Wallace Grieves, 74, formerly of Warkworth, died suddenly Saturday at the home of his son, Bruce Grieves, 70 Shuter St., Toronto.

Mr. Grieves was born in Scotland and was the adopted son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Grieves, Hastings. He has lived in Toronto since February of this year and formerly lived in Warkworth and Rochester, New York.

He leaves one son, Bruce, Toronto; one stepson, John Partridge and one brother-in-law Dave Grieves, Warkworth. His wife predeceased him in February of this year and two sons, James and Oswald also predeceased him.

The body will arrive in Warkworth today by motor for funeral from the Allen Funeral home Tuesday at 2 p.m. The Rev. A. L. Sisco of St. Paul's United Church, Warkworth will conduct the service. Burial will be in Trent Valley cemetery.

MRS. GEORGE HOGGARTH

LAKEFIELD (ENS) — A resident of Burleigh Falls for the past 30 years, Mrs. George Hoggarth, 53, died today in hospital following a sudden illness. She was born at Curve Lake, Louisa, daughter of the late Abraham Taylor and Nellie Blaker, and lived there for a number of years before moving to Burleigh.

She leaves her husband, two daughters and five sons, Helen at home, and Mrs. Arthur Repath (Jean) of Toronto; Harold, George, Donald, Jack and Clifford, at home; three sisters also survive, Mrs. Ernest Brown (Margaret), Mrs. A. Boast (Daisy) and Mrs. F. Mountenay (Bessie), and one brother, Roy Taylor, all of Burleigh Falls.

The body is resting at the Church on the Rock, Burleigh, where Mrs. Hoggarth was a member, and funeral service will be held there on Wednesday at 2 p.m. The Rev. Willard B. Day will officiate and burial will be at Curve Lake cemetery.

Third Man Held In Welland Holdup

WELLAND (CP) — Police today issued a warrant for the arrest of Harry Jallep, 25, of Niagara Falls Ont., in connection with the $7,000 armed robbery Friday of the Caisse Populaire, a Credit Union branch here.

Already charged with the robbery are Edward Sorokowski, 25, and John Raciot, 26, both of Niagara Falls. They have been remanded until Dec. 12.

Jallep, a former northern Ontario miner, is believed by police to have been the driver of the escape car. The men dropped about $1,400 in their haste to escape. Some of the money, in small bills, was found in the car a few blocks from the bank.

Mrs. G. W. Harper

Funeral service for a former resident of Peterborough, Mrs George W. Harper, of 100 John's Boulevard, Waterloo, was held today in that city. Burial was at Woodlawn Cemetery. She died on Friday in Kitchener-Waterloo Hospital.

Mrs. Harper was born at Kincardine, Verna, daughter of the late William Stalker and Alexandria MacKenzie. She was well known in Peterborough when her husband worked here for six years with the Bell Telephone Company from 1932 to 1938 as plant supervisor.

In Waterloo she was a member of Trinity United Church, of the Rotary Anns, past vice-regent of the Queen Anne Chapter of the IODE, and the Women's Association of Trinity Church.

Miners Revolt

HONG KONG (AP)—The independent newspaper Wah Kiu Yat Po reported Sunday that more than 1,000 coal miners in central Kwangsi province of Communist China revolted recently because of Communist wage policies. The newspaper said the miners disarmed a platoon of soldiers guarding the Hoishan mines, kidnapped key Communist personnel and fled to nearby guerrilla hideouts.

Nehru Presents 5-Year Plan

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru presented to Parliament today India's formalized five-year plan, designed to raise the country's national income 11 per cent by 1955-56.

The 2,000-page report, over which a planning commission has labored since 1950, recommends expenditure of 20,687,800,000 rupees ($4,344,400,000).

Final recommendations for India's national development are sharply increased over the draft outline released in July, 1951, which showed expenditures of 14,929,200,000 rupees ($3,135,000,000).

The five-year plan, central objective of which is set out as "to raise the standard of living of India's people and open to them opportunities for a richer and more varied life," covers almost every phase of the country's industrial, commercial and agricultural life, as well as recommendations for expansion of the communications, health and education programs.

Crew Abandons Sinking Vessel

HALIFAX (CP) — A sinking coastal vessel was abandoned today off the Cape Breton coast and its crew was rescued by the 126-ton coaster Norsya, en route for Port Aux Basques, Nfld.

The vessel was identified only as No. 64, an ex-Fairmile loaded with 120 tons of cement and coal. She was believed to have a crew of four or five.

The Norsya was the first of three vessels to reach the scene, some 60 miles northeast of Sydney.

Search and rescue officials said the unidentified captain of the No. 64 radioed that his ship was sinking at 9 p.m. last night. They abandoned her five hours later in well-provisioned dories.

Radio Script Writer Wins Literary Prize

PARIS (Reuters)—Jean Dutourd, a radio script writer, was today awarded France's fourth major literary prize of the year, the Prix Interaillie, for his novel "Au Bon Beurre."

Subtitled "Ten Years in the Life of a Dairyman," the prize-winning book is a satire on wartime profiteers.

The two biggest prizes went this year to women — the Goncourt award to Beatrice Beck and the Femina prize to Dominique Rollin. A man, Jacques Peri, got the Renaudot prize.

Teapot Ends Argument Over Cup Of Coffee

A cook and a waitress in a downtown restaurant Saturday night argued over a cup of coffee. But when tempers reached the breaking point, a teapot finished the argument.

According to city police, who were called to the restaurant by the cook, Maximmo Alvarez, the fracas started when he asked the waitress, Mrs. Theresa Joslin, Park St., for a cup of coffee.

Words passed between the two and tempers grew hotter until finally a teapot was thrown, hitting and cutting Alvarez above the right eye which is artificial. He was taken to the Civic Hospital where seven stitches were required to close the gash.

Revive Old Privilege

VATICAN CITY (AP)—An ancient privilege enjoyed by the heads of only five countries will be revived next month for the first time in years. Papal nuncios to France, Portugal and Spain, newly-designated as cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church, will receive their red hats from the heads of their states. Only the rulers of those three states, plus Poland and old Austria-Hungary, had the privilege of placing the red hat on apostolic nuncios in their countries when they were made cardinals.

24 Fatalities Over Week-end, Eight By Fire

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fire caused the death of eight persons in Eastern Canada during the week-end. They were among 24 who died violently.

Ontario's toll was 17, Quebec's five — all by fire — and Nova Scotia's two.

Four members of a Berthierville, Que., family lost their lives when fire destroyed their house. They were J. Alfred Dumont, 44, his wife 39, and two of their sons, Robert, 9, and Gilles, 3. Another Quebecer, Camille Marchand, 70, died in a fire which started in a back shed in central Montreal.

In Trenton, victims of a fire which gutted a basement apartment were LAC Joseph Louis Clifford Savage, 23, his wife, June, 18, and their 10-month-old son, Michael Roberts.

Two triple-death accidents were reported. Francis Reid, 17, of Holloway, Arthur Crossley, 31, of Belleville, and Robert Jones, 22, of Shannonville were killed when two cars smashed head-on near Tweed, 23 miles north of Belleville.

Three Lancaster men, William Arnott, Morris Collette and another identified as a Mr. Leroux, were fatally injured when their car went off the road 24 miles east of Cornwall.

OTHER TRAFFIC DEATHS

Other Ontario traffic deaths: Henry Witzel, 76, of Kitchener, knocked down by a car; Pte. Frank Hamilton, 39, of Camp Borden, in a car that skidded and crashed into a hydro pole 20 miles west of Ottawa; Frederick Henry Forward, 56, of Sudbury, injured when struck by a truck on the city's outskirts; John Slott, 11, by an auto while riding a bicycle at Guelph; John Hockin, 75, of Brantford, struck by a car; Donald Kozits, 17, when a car went out of control near London.

Barbara Barnard, 4, of Sudbury, died of a crushed skull when she leaned out of a rising elevator. William Arnold Jack, 10, was drowned in Larder Lake while playing with other children on thin ice.

At Sydney, N. S., Barbara Myatt, 6, and Remato Moeller, 7, were drowned while sliding on thin ice.

Air Service Suspended

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (Reuters) —International air services through Iceland were suspended Sunday when the week-long strike of transportation workers spread to Keflavik airport. About 15,000 workers now are demanding a wage increase of 15 per cent. Keflavik airport is normally used by Pan American and Trans-Canada Airlines, but will be bypassed until the dispute ends.

Robbers Beware

KENILWORTH, Eng. (AP) — Warning to Christmas turkey rustlers: steer clear of here. John Hibbert has several hundred beautiful birds wandering around his place. But to reach them you first have to get through his outer perimeter — a seven-foot-high electric fence regularly patrolled by men with shotguns. Then, for 1,000-pound pedigree bulls just rarin' to get at strangers.

Church Must Advance With Times To Better Future

The Place of the Church in the Changing World, was the theme of the sermon given by the Rev. W. G. Berry, associate secretary of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church of Canada at Knox United Church Sunday morning.

Knox United Church celebrated the 42nd year of its founding Sunday and Mr. Berry was the guest minister at both anniversary services.

"We live in a changing world," Mr. Berry said. "This is nothing new for the law of change is the only unchanging law in life."

He explained that the promises proclaimed for the new century in 1900 had not been fulfilled, nor had the promises of the First World War—the war to end all wars and to make the world safe for democracy—come true. The Second World has brought disillusionment. People are not sure of their God, their church, their faith nor of the future of the world.

"At present people are not even sure that the world is to have a future at all. What place has the church in this changing scene?"

FOLLOWERS OF MOSES

Mr. Berry answered this question by drawing parallels between the three types of people that followed Moses from Egypt into the wilderness and the same three types of people in the world today.

"The people of Israel were the beginning of the Christian church," he said. "As we look at what they did, we learn what we should do."

One group of people wanted to go back to Egypt where they were secure from the danger of starvation which faced them in the wilderness.

Mr. Berry explained that there are many people today that want to go back to "the good old days" when there was belief in the Bible and the churches were filled. The result of this is that many join the sects.

"We can never go back, because of the law of change. The religion of today must come from the culture and faith that belongs to the 20th century."

The second type of people were those that liked the wilderness and believed that they had found their own God. They made and knelt down to worship the golden calf which symbolized worldly wealth and earthly appetites.

Today the parallel is found in the types of people that are interested only in material things. They put all their faith in machines and believe the church doesn't matter.

"Man can't be happy this way," Mr. Berry said. "The more people try to satisfy earthly appetites, the more they become dissatisfied. Men no longer believe in themselves let alone God."

SAW A FUTURE

The final group of people who followed Moses were those who didn't want to go back because they saw the promise of a new day. Nor were they satisfied to stay in the wilderness but pushed forward to the promised land—where there would be peace and good will and where all the great needs of man would be met.

"Today there are a group of people in the church who are like this," Mr. Berry said. "They don't want to look back and they are not satisfied with the status quo. They believe in the world to be and work towards it."

"We can't go back and we can't stay where we are," Mr. Berry concluded. "We must go forward. We must take the best of our heritage from the past, add to it the best we have and pass it on as a contribution to the future. In this way we will follow the example set by the saving remnant of Israel."

The guest soloist for the two services was John Moore of Reaboro. Special music was also provided by the choir under the direction of William R. Potter, musical director and organist.

Press Freedom Pernicious Evil

SEVILLA, SPAIN—(AP)— Pedro Cardinal Segura y Sanez, Archbishop of Sevilla, Saturday issued a pastoral letter calling freedom of the press one of the "most universal, most pernicious, and most seductive" of modern evils.

The Roman Catholic prelate made his atack on press freedom in a renewal of his campaign against General Franco's Falange regime. The Cardinal specifically lambasted the local Falange party newspaper for an article which he said cast doubt on the saintliness of Joan of Arc, France's national heroine and a Catholic saint.

The Cardinal said "liberty of the press, proclaimed by the impious as one of their most precious conquests, is a very grave error, hated and condemned many times by the Holy Church."

He warned the Falange newspaper that if it did not publish a retraction of the Joan of Arc article and abstain from "publishing doctrines contrary to our holy faith, we shall proceed to condemn it for a mortal sin, with possible further sanctions if necessary."

The article in question quoted a French professor as denying that Joan of Arc was burned at the stake in Rouen, France in the 15th century as history records. Instead, the professor said, she married and lived in Luxembourg. According to the professor, instead of being a peasant girl, Joan was the illegitimate daughter of the Duke of Orleans and Elizabeth of Bavaria.

Simultaneously with the pastoral letter, a handbill without signature was distributed urging Catholics to take direct action against Spanish Protestants.

Will Be Baptized

IPSWICH, Eng. (AP)—Mrs. Katie Berritt, 90, will be baptized by total immersion at Bethseda Baptist church here next Sunday. The church's baptismal pool will be warmed for the occasion to make sure the ceremony does not chill her.

Italy Celebrates

ROME (Reuters)—Italy celebrated the feast of the Immaculate Conception of the Holy Virgin today with all government offices and schools closed. The Pope will tonight recite the rosary in his private chapel in the Vatican palace. Vatican radio will broadcast the service.

Begin Campaign To Reduce Traffic Deaths

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Junior Chamber of Commerce today launched a campaign to reduce the number of traffic accidents and fatalities.

A 50-page manual entitled "How to Promote Traffic Safety" has been released to 270 junior chambers across the country to assist in co-ordinating activities at local, provincial and national levels.

President J. Roger Fluerfelt of Calgary said the manual is based on a proven program of education, engineering and enforcement

Specific sections of the manual deal with adult and teen-age drivers, school children and bicycles, pedestrians and the establishment of "inspection lanes" to check conditions and maintenance of motor vehicles.

Mr. Flumerfelt announced appointment of G. Payne of Vancouver as national traffic safety chairman and stressed the willingness of the junior chamber to lend full assistance to other groups in the field of traffic safety.

Briton Given Atomic Job

LONDON — The post of chief theoretical physicist at the Harwell atomic research station, vacant since Klaus Fuchs was arrested in February, 1950, for betraying secrets to the Soviet, will be filled by a 28-year-old Briton.

He is Dr. Brian Flowers, one of the many senior scientific officers at Harwell, Britain's main atomic research establishment.

His new post, one to which the most stringent security precautions apply, carries a salary of about £1,700 ($4,760) a year.

The post has had something of a hoodoo quality since the German-born Fuchs went to jail for 14 years for treason.

At least half a dozen physicists have been interviewed for the job and were either rejected or themselves turned down the offer on various grounds such as the responsibility and the limitation on freedom it imposed.

Dr. Flowers recently completed a two-year graduate course for his science doctorate at Birmingham University under Prof. Rudolph Peierls, one of Britain's top atomic experts. His thesis was on an aspect of the movement of radioactive atoms.

As an under-graduate at the outbreak of war, Flowers was a very junior member of the brilliant team of physicists at the Cavendish Laboratories in Cambridge.

Within 18 months, at the age of 18, he was working at the Montreal and Chalk River projects. Thereafter he devoted himself to fundamental research into the structure of the atom.

2 Labor Groups Urge Mediation

OTTAWA (CP) — Two major Canadian labor organizations urged that Canada support proposals for a United Nations commission to mediate in the dispute between France and Tunisia.

In a joint statement deecribing the assassination last Friday of Farhat Hached, Tunisian trade union leader, as a great blow to democracy, the 525,000 - member Trades and Labor Congress and the 370,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor said Sunday:

"Mr. Hached's untimely death highlights the prevailing state of political tension in Tunisia and clearly points up the need for international action to remove this threat to world peace.

"The Canadian labor movement strongly urges the Canadian government to support the proposals now being discussed in the United Nations for setting up a 'good offices' commission to conciliate the Franco-Tunisian dispute."

Bomb In Mail Box

EDINBURGH (Reuters)—A home made bomb the size of an egg was planted Sunday night in the first Scottish mail box to be marked with the royal cypher of the Queen. Police said they believe the bomb was set by Scottish nationalists who have been protesting because the new sovereign is described as Queen Elizabeth II of Scotland. Queen Elizabeth I back in the sixteenth century did not rule Scotland, the nationalists claim. An unidentified man telephoned post officials warning them about the bomb.

Becomes Millionaire

ROME (Reuters)—Reclus Monari, chauffeur-bodyguard of Italy's communist chieftain, Sunday night became a lire multi-millionaire by winning a football pool. Monari will receive about 80,000,000 lire (almost $150,000) from the government-run lottery. It was not known whether Monari would remain in the service of Communist leader Palmiro Togliatti.

Nine Spies Executed

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Nine more alleged Chinese Communist spies were executed in Taipah Sunday, bringing the announced number put to death since Nov. 26 to 38.

Admits Dropping Germs

TOKYO (AP)—Peiping radio Sunday night broadcast a recorded message attributed to a United States Air Force officer, Lieut. Floyd B. O'Neil. The Reds said he admitted that he dropped germs over North Korea.

$1,000,000 DAMAGE — Damage was estimated at $1,000,000 as the biggest fire in its history swept Corner Brook, Nwld. Fifteen stores were destroyed in the town's west business section. Firemen were hampered by lack of water pressure. Work was being done on the town's water mains on the day fire struck and pressure was low.

UN Raiders Surprise Communists In Trenches

By BILL BOSS

WEST SECTOR, Korea (CP)—United Nations troops defending Curved Ridge, known as "the Hook," killed or wounded an estimated 20 Chinese during weekend patrolling. A 27-man party went out in near-zero weather on Friday night and reached a Communist slit-trench outpost, achieving full tactical surprise for the first time in months in this sector.

A corporal leading one section said: "The Chinese were so surprised when we appeared we could see their mouths dropping in the moonlight."

Five of the eight Communists there were killed or wounded at close range. Three escaped.

Another section pushed on and mowed down two more Chinese as they were about to fire.

Saturday night, a three-man reconnaissance patrol sent out from the Hook to check enemy activity reported 14 Chinese approaching. The battalion's artillery and mortars three times were called down on the enemy party. All were believed to have been casualties.

A communique by the United States Eighth Army Saturday night said raiders from its forces operating north of the village of Korangpo killed four Chinese and wounded three in a brief skirmish.

Korangpo is near the Imjin river which flows to the sea at Munsan, some 10 miles to the southwest. It is west of Little Gibraltar, the rocky hill which for more than a year has been identified with the position of parts of the 25th Canadian brigade.

Paper Predicts Bitter Reaction

NEW YORK (CP) — The New York Times says today there will be a "bitter reaction" from Canada if the U.S. federal power commission refuses a licence for the St. Lawrence hydro-electric development.

An editorial notes that tomorrow the commission in Washington begins hearing on application of the New York state power authority to join Ontario in construction of the development in the International Rapids of the St. Lawrence.

The U.S. has turned down the St. Lawrence seaway program and Canada intends to complete it alone but the development in the International Rapids must be a joint Canadian-American undertaking.

The Times says that the power from the hydro-electric development is needed and that Ontario and the whole northeast corner of the U.S. is clamoring for more power.

Charge 2nd Man With Robbery In Welland

WELLAND (CP)—Police charged a second man with armed robbery in the holdup of the Caisse Populaire and continued the hunt for a third. The holdup men fled with between $5,500 and $7,000.

John Racicot, 26, of Niagara Falls, who was taken into custody Friday night in a Niagara Falls hotel and brought here for questioning, was charged Saturday. The holdup was on Friday.

Earlier Edward Sorokowski, 25, of Niagara Falls, was similarly charged after being arrested in a bus terminal restaurant. Police said he had almost $1,000 in bills in his pocket. He was remanded Saturday to Dec. 12.

A warrant for the arrest of a third man has been issued.

Police said two bandits entered the savings institution in Welland's French-Canadian section while a third waited outside in a getaway car.

Robbed of $14,000

CARLSBAD, . M. (AP) — A night-club owner was kidnapped and robbed in Odessa, Tex., Saturday afternoon and released late Sunday near Malaga, N. M. Joe Thompson, 40, told police the kidnappers took between $14,000 and $16,000 from him after driving him around in two cars all night.

Seven Climbers Reach Summit It's Wrong Hill

VANCOUVER (CP) — Seven Vancouverites—six men and a girl —failed by just 75 feet in their bid to top the nearest unconquered 10,000 foot mountain north of the U.S. borders.

Leader of the party was Dr. Neal Carter, chairman of the Vancouver section of the Alpine Club of Canada. Other members were Alfreda Pigou, Alan Melville, Ian Kay, Fred Rogers, Tom Marsden and David Young.

To get to 10,200-foot Mount Gilbert, 120 miles from here, they chartered a plane to the head of Bute Inlet, and after trucking six miles to a logging station began the grim hike up Southgate River, each carrying two heavily loaded packsacks.

The mountain was 15 miles inland, said Carter, and "it was terrible. We had to fight our way through for hours at a time.

"That 15 miles took us a week."

To reach the summit they broke camp before dawn. They climbed all day and it was 5.30 p.m. when they reached the snow-dome that seemed to top Mount Gilbert.

"We were bitterly disappointed," said Carter. "We found the summit was 25 feet below the main one, and separated from it by 500 yards of knife-edged pinnacles. It would have taken us a day to cross."

The climbers had run out of time and decided to turn back to civilization.

Killed By Own Car

STAATSBURG, N. Y. (AP)—A 64-year-old motorist was run over and killed Sunday by the car he was driving, police reported. Police said John Eigeldinger's car apparently hit a soft shoulder and slid into an embankment. The impact tossed Elgeldinger in front of the car, which kept going and ran over him.

Has Best Photo

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—A news photo of Bob Wendlinger of the New York Daily Mirror was picked Sunday as the best picture of the show at the annual contest of the New York State Associated Press Association. Wendlinger's picture was entitled "Hands Above Life, Face of Death." It showed a young Negro, his face etched in agony, plunging from the George Washington bridge into the Hudson river. Visible on the bridge were the hands of a policeman and a priest who had pleaded with him not to jump.

HATS FOR NEW CARDINALS — Fernando Berbiconi, ecclesiastical hatter, puts the finishing touches on one of the hats which will be presented to the 24 Cardinals-designate, recently chosen by Pope Pius XII. Each new Cardinal will receive one of the black hats, above, banded with a gilded cord. Each will also receive one traditional red hat, for wear when performing ecclesiastical duties. The Berbiconi family have been hatters to the Vatican since 1825.

Warming Halls Opened For Berliners

By VINCENT BUIST

BERLIN (Reuters) — Ragged Berliners too poor to buy coal are spending hours huddled in almost bare "warming halls" thrown open to them by the city government.

While the temperature drops below freezing outside, old folks sit about a few tables and broken-down chairs knitting and gossiping.

No one knows how long the "warming halls" have been in existence. "Certainly longer than anyone now alive can remember," a city official said, "certainly they were there before the turn of the century and we started them again after the war as soon as we had enough coal."

Admission to the halls is free and many oldsters from Soviet Berlin slip across the boundary to get warm.

WON'T GET RADIOS

Each district has three or four and can open more should the need arise. They can accommodate from 50 to 200 persons and attempts are now being made to provide each hall with a radio.

But authorities fear there will not be enough halls this winter because of the huge number of refugees added to the city's population in the last year.

Life for the city's aged is extremely hard in the winter, with coke costing about $1.40 per hundredweight and brown coal approximately 98 cents for the same amount.

Car Out Of Control Three Men Killed

CORNWALL (CP)—Three men were killed when their car went out of control on No. 2 Highway 24 miles east of here and crashed into a tree.

Victims were identified as William Edward Arnott, 39, and Morris A. Collette, 28, both of Lancaster; Victor Leroux, 23, of Montreal and Lancaster. Lancaster is 12 miles east of Cornwall.

Police said the car was westbound with Arnott at the wheel when the vehicle skidded on the icy highway a few yards west of the Ontario-Quebec border and went out of control.

Woman City Editor Retires From Paper

FREDERICTON (CP) — Mrs. A. E. (Annie) Mathewson, one of the few women city editors in Canadian journalism, retired Saturday after 50 years of service on the staff of the Daily Gleaner.

Mrs. Mathews started her career running errands and feeding paper into the manually-operated press when the Gleaner was a tri-weekly.

She became a member of the editorial department after the late James H. Crockett, then the Gleaner's publisher, needed a reporter to cover a city council meeting. He gave her the job

Homing Duck

GUNTON, England (CP)—One of 70 ducks hatched in an incubator by Mrs. E. Chapman was sold and taken to a farm three miles away. A week later, bedraggled and mud-covered, the duck fluttered back into her yard.

Vanessa Brown Enjoys Broadway Role

NEW YORK (AP)—A comely, brown-haired beauty whose cultural talents almost belie her youth, Vanessa Brown is making her second stage appearance on Broadway with happy results.

She plays a romantic young girl in "The Seven Year Itch," a comedy-fantasy about a middle-aged husband who is doing a bit of philandering while his wife is out of town for the summer.

Vienna-born Miss Brown, who has played leading roles in many movies, is a young woman of intellect.

When and if "The Seven Year Itch" ends its run, she is planning to return to Paris to play on the French stage—and in French, for she is an accomplished linguist, speaking a half-dozen languages fluently.

Miss Brown, 24, got her co-starring role with Tom Ewell in "The Seven Year Itch" through a combination of unrelated circumstances. She used to be one of the all-wise moppets on the "Quiz Kid" broadcast.

OFFERED ROLE

Broadway producer Herman Shumlin offered her the role of a 10-year-old Viennese girl in his production of Lillian Hellman's play "Watch on the Rhine" in 1941.

Since she came back to Broadway from Hollywood she has been doing guest appearances on a number of radio and television programs, and one of these was on the TV program, "Twenty Questions." It so happened Courney Burr was in a tavern watching the program.

"He sent for me and said he thought I was perfect for the young girl in 'The Seven Year Itch'," she explained. "However, he said I would have to convince his producing partner, Elliott Nugent. . .

"I found myself at a loss for words. I did the only thing I could think of at the moment. I offered Mr. Nugent a stick of chewing gum. I don't say a stick of chewing gum will always open the door to a Broadway hit but it certainly worked in getting me into 'The Seven Year Itch.'"

TURNCOAT? — Pte. Carl T. Blake, of the U.S. Army, has been charged with asking Reds to give him a home in East Germany. Blake's mother, in Covington, Ky., tearfully denied that her son would do such a thing. The Army dropped Blake from its rolls in August for being away without leave.

Find Battered City Of Seoul Struggles On Depite Wounds

By BILL SHINN

SEOUL (AP)—This battered shell of former Oriental splendor is a city that refused to die.

Twice captured by the Communists and twice freed by the Allies since the start of the Korean war, the ancient capital of kings has suffered staggering blows.

Seoul is a city where broad boulevards lead to a burned-out Capitol building once the pride of the republic. Markets flourish in dank, dirty alleys and littered back streets.

Black marketing is big business.

Entry of civilians into Seoul has long been prohibited unless for official business. But hundreds sneak in at night by any one of a dozen routes. Refugees have swollen the population enormously.

The Korean monetary unit, the won, has suffered a severe inflation. The legal rate of exchange is 6,000 won for $10. However, the popular rate is 15,000 won to the dollar.

BIG CHANGE

Before the war 100 pounds of rice sold for about 6,000 won. Now the same amount costs around 90,000 won.

Mayor Kim Tai Sun estimates that in the first year of fighting, 1,421 persons starved to death in Seoul.

More than 800 factories were destroyed. About 214 factories now are operating of 522 still standing.

The Republic of Korea government has restored the water works and power plants almost to pre-war levels. About 60 per cent of the factory damage has been cleaned up.

Schools are trying to make a comeback. About 60 per cent of the school buildings were destroyed.

Montrealers Want Attend Consistory

MONTREAL (CP) — Thousands of Montrealers want to go to Rome to attend the consistory of cardinals at which Msgr. Paul Emile Leger, Roman Catholic archbishop of Montreal, will be elevated to cardinal's rank.

Since the papal announcement last week-end of his appointment, the Italian consulate and Italian state tourist bureau here have been flooded with inquiries about the five-day religious pageant of the consistory.

Approximately 750,000 tourists from all parts of the world are expected to attend the pageant.

India's Proposal Forms Basis For Truce Talks

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson says India's United Nations resolution on the key prisoner-of-war issue may lead to an armistice in Korea. Then again it may not. "I would not like to give odds on one side of the question," he said in the Commons Monday in an hour-long speech covering the high spots of recent international events. It was the minister's first appearance in the Commons since his appointment as president of the UN general assembly.

In any event, said Mr. Pearson, the Indian resolution had been of great value. Supported by all non-Communist countries, it now would form the basis for any resumption of armistice negotiations. And having been accepted by Washington, it had become the policy of the unified command in Korea.

In his capacity as UN assembly president, he had sent it to the North Korean and Red Chinese governments with a letter appealing for them to accept the proposal as the basis for an "armistice and eventual peace" in Korea. He could not guess the result.

The Indian resolution would set up a four-power repatriation commission to handle Red prisoners-of-war once they were released, and to arbitrate any disputes on the question

Mr. Pearson said the UN has reached a "very difficult" stage in its development, one that may prove a critical "turning point." There was uneasiness and low morale among international civil servants working for UN And the fact some have-not countries lined up against the West posed a problem which might be as great a threat to peace as Korea itself.

UN A MIRROR

But this was no time to weaken support of "this indispensable piece of international machinery merely because it has falsified some of the illusions we may have held when the charter was drafted." UN simply was a mirror reflecting the split world of today.

In his verbal tour of the international scene, the minister made these other observations:

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization buildup in Europe has been solid and this strength has eased international tension. Though there is nothing to warrant a rest on the oars yet, "as we settle down for the long pull. . .we may decide to strike a somewhat slower rate."

Russia is devoting more of her military budget to developing equipment to strengthen her forces. There has been no change of policy in the Kremlin. It seeks to stop Western rearmament and co-operation by dividing the NATO powers and sowing distrust of the United States.

TO LIMIT TV

Revenue Minister McCann said the government has decided to limit Canadian radio television stations, whether publicly or privately-owned, to one for each area.

It would be government policy to make national television available to as many Canadians as possible through "co - operation between private and public enter-

Jail Two Girls After Cafe Robbed Of $400

BRONTE (CP) — Three young thugs brandishing toy pistols held up the owner of a restaurant early today, slugged him on the head and robbed him of $100 in cash and $300 in tobacco and cigarets, police said.

Before escaping in a car parked outside they also raided the living quarters of Sidigero Yamamoto, taking with them a fur coat, several dresses and a radio.

Two girls are being held for questioning in the case. They were picked up a few hours later 15 miles from here at Cooksville. They were caught at gunpoint after roadblocks were set up following the holdup of the Riverside Lunch close to this town five miles east of Hamilton.

Police said one of the girls was found crouched in a field with her coat pulled over her head. The other was nabbed when she crawled into the cab of a parked transport truck.

Police are questioning the girls, one of whom said she came from Toronto and the other from Hamilton, about the men who slugged the 39-year-old Mr. Yamamoto and tied him up before robbing him.

Mrs. Nadu Tobato, 38, who works in the restaurant, also was tied up by the three men.

Police said three youths and two girls jumped from a rented automobile when it was cornered by police at Cooksville. Fur coats, dresses, a radio and other articles stolen from a bedroom at the rear of the restaurant were found in the car.

Mr. Yamamoto said the three men walked into the restaurant and ordered hamburgers which they ate in the waiting car. When other customers left they came in again and asked for gum. He was slugged from behind when he turned to get the gum.

Credit UK Pilot With MiG Kill

SEOUL (AP). — Allied pilots tangled with Communist MiG-15 jets deep in North Korea today, and the U.S. Fifth Air Force said one MiG was destroyed.

Credit for the MiG kill went to a British exchange pilot, Flt.-Lt. Graham H. Huse of Hanley, Staffordshire, England. Huse and three other Sabre pilots fought it out with two MiGs, but one of the Red planes escaped back across the Yalu River.

Truck-busting B-26 Invaders racked up their biggest score in two weeks of continual attacks on Communist supply lines in North Korea.

A Red China broadcast, heard in Tokyo, claimed that Red troops from October 6 to November 18 inflicted 352 casualties on the Britons, 231 on the Canadians, 42 on the Dutch, 348 on the French, and 400 on the Ethiopians.

The Communist claim of Canadian casualties is grossly exaggerated. It apparently is in reference to a battle on Little Gibraltar Hill. Instead of 231 casualties, the Canadians suffered about 75 and they were in three units — not just the Princess Patricias. The casualty figures were reported during October by the department of national defence.

Dutch Join U.K., Refuse Records

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands (Reuters) — The Dutch government today joined Britain in refusing to allow its oil companies' records to be submitted to a United States grand jury investigating an alleged international oil cartel.

"The government has expressed its concern in Washington and stated that it will not allow the documents involved to be sent to the United States," a foreign ministry announcement said

An American grand jury is investigating the business ramifications of 18 oil companies, mainly American, but including the Royal Dutch Shell Group and Britain's Anglo-Iranian.

The purpose of the probe is to establish whether the United States anti-trust law has been violated.

The foreign ministry said "the Dutch view is that legal action against the American shareholders cannot justify a demand to see Dutch archives."

The British government has taken a similar stand, pleading security reasons to bar access to certain Anglo-Iranian Oil Company records.

See Hint of Wider Trade As Conference Nears End

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—Finance Minister Douglas Abbott of Canada said today the present Commonwealth economic conference is the "most satisfactory" of all the post-war parleys he has attended in international capitals. The Canadian minister gave this verdict in a guarded statement to reporters. He ducked direct questions on whether conference decisions may lead ultimately to increased sterling-area buying from Canada, but it was assumed the minister's satisfaction with the talks is based on a fairly confident expectation of wider world trade. "Of all the conferences I have attended since the war, this has been the most satisfactory," he said. "I am moderately optimistic about the direction the talks have taken."

He said he hopes for some early relaxation of trade restrictions rather than any further discrimination.

In a written statement, Abbott confirmed that the present two-week conference, expected to end Wednesday or Thursday, is a prelude to wider talks with Western Europe and the United States. He said:

"Since it is desired to establish the conditions for expanding trade on the widest possible basis, the countries of the Commonwealth will wish to seek the co-operation of other like-minded governments. It is hoped that concrete steps will result from these wider discussions. The co-operative and constructive spirit in which the groundwork is being laid during the present conference is encouraging."

NATO Chiefs Get New Report On Red Strength

PARIS (Reuters)—The 13 chiefs of staff forming the military committee of the Atlantic Pact today received a report assesing the military strength of Russia and her satellites.

They will consider it as they settle down to the task of preparing their own report on the progress of the western military build-up this year.

The military committee, meeting for the first time since February, is expected to approve plans for integrating the forces of Greece and Turkey into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Goals set by the committee at its last conference in Lisbon for the build-up of 25 active and 25 reserve land divisions in Europe this year are expected to be reached.

But many of the formations, especially the reserves, will be below strength and there will be a short fall in the target of 4,000 operational aircraft.

The military committee will also consider developments in the search for a standard rifle for the alliance.

Chiefs of staffs attending today's meeting include Gen. Lawton Collins of the U. S. and Lt.-Gen. Charles Foulkes of Canada, the retiring chairman.

Pinay Taunts Reds As "Rope" Salesmen

PARIS (AP) — Premier Antoine Pinay taunted Communist deputies today as sellers of hangman's ropes. The deputies yelled in rage and set off a brief uproar in the National Assembly.

Pinay was defending his 1953 budget of more than $11,000,000,000 on which he is seeking a vote of confidence.

"Tell us about hides," another Communist yelled.

"Everyone earns a living as he can," Pinay retorted angrily. "I sell hides — you sell ropes."

This was an obvious reference to the purge trial in Prague, where 11 former top Czech Reds were sentenced to be hanged for treason.

File Of Love Letters Traps Aging Russian Don Juan

MOSCOW (AP) — Don Juan won a measure of immortality as a breaker of female hearts and it seems that Peter Petrovich Kokushkin is doing pretty well along that line himself. But Peter still is a long way from the Don's record 1,05 conquests.

The journal discovered that Peter Petrovich has 19 different fiancees all eagerly awaiting his embraces in 19 different cities of Russia, that he has one official wife in Leningrad and, in addition, maintains a residence with his ex-wife in Moscow.

Who is this gay Lothario? It seems he is a 51-year-old senior inspector of the central accounting office of the Soviet ministry of higher education. His neighbors and co-workers esteem him as a respectable gentleman.

Kokushkin travels 11 months out of the year in order, ostensibly, to verify accounts of the Soviet Union's universities. On his travels he carries with him a carefully-kept file of his love letters. He also takes along a map on which he indicates cities where he has fiancees with circles and cities which it is inadvisable for him to visit.

How did he come a cropper? It seems one of his fiancees discovered his file of love letters, his map and his address book and forwarded them to the Literary Gazette.

RCAF Reports First Casualty In Korean War

OTTAWA —(CP)— Air Force headquarters reports that one of its top fighter pilots, Sqdn. Ldr. A. R. Andy MacKenzie of Montreal, is missing on operations in Korea.

This was the first RCAF casualty of the Korean war.

Sdn. Ldr. MacKenzie a 32-year-old veteran who won the Distinguished Flying Cross piloting Spitfires in the Second World War, is the officer commanding No. 441 fighter squadron, one of three Canadian squadrons stationed at North Luffenham, England

He left this post temporarily this fall, going to Korea in October on exchange duty with the United States Air Force to gain combat experience. He is the 13th Canadian pilot to fight in Korea with the USAF. Five others are still on operations in the theatre.

GIVE NO DETAILS

RCAF headquarters received no details of the operation in which Sdn. Ldr. MacKenzie was missing. A cable said simply he is "missing as a result of flying operations in Korea."

Both in England and in Korea, Sqdn. Ldr. MacKenzie flew the speedy F-86 Sabre jet aircraft. In the Second World War he flew Spitfires with No. 421 and 403 suadrons in 1943 and 1944 and was credited with 8½ "kills." He returned to Canada in 1944 and since then has been stationed at Patricia Bay, B.C., Goose Bay, Labrador, and at Air Defence Command.

"Crazy" Bandit Shoots Jeweller

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Donald Hurd, about 45, a downtown jeweler was shot to death today and two employees were badly beaten when three armed men held up Hurd's store. Police said the men apparently escaped with a small bag filled with diamonds.

Injured were Fred Voelker, a clerk, and Fred Bartsch, a watch repairman. They suffered severe head injuries.

Hurd's wife, Doris, in the store when the holdup men entered about 10:20 a. m. EST, suffered only shock.

Salvatore Cassata, 31, a bookkeeper, told police he saw one of the men shoot Hurd down coldly and without comment.

"It was horrible," Cassata said. "The one man, a blond, appeared crazy He shot Mr. Hurd. He never gave him a chance."

Police headed by Commissioner Michael Noeppel began scouring the city in search of the men.

Cassata said he was in the store when the men entered. He said they forced him into Hurd's office, where the shooting occurred. Then, he said he was forced into an adjoining office and was bound up on the floor.

He said he could hear the cries of pain as Voelker and Bartsch were attacked.

Fire Damage $750,000

MANILA (AP)—A six-hour fire today burned out a large section of Butuan city on Mindanao Island. It left about 2,000 homeless and caused damage unofficially estimated at $750,000. Police said they were investigating the possibility of arson.

Hearing Open On Seaway Power Bid

N.Y. Hydro Chairman Sees Savings Topping $95 Million

WASHINGTON (AP)— The federal power commission opens hearing today on the New York state power authority's application to join Canada in constructing an estimated $450,000,000 power project on the St. Lawrence river.

A total of 39 parties have asked and been granted FPC permission to intervene. Some support the authority's application for a licence while others oppose it.

The authority seeks permission to join the province of Ontario in the hydro-electric project, which is calculated to develop 12,600,000,000 kilowatt hours of energy a year.

It would be built on the international Rapids section of the St. Lawrence between Massena, N.Y., and Cornwall, Ont.

$95,000,000 SAVING

John E. Burton, chairman of the power authority of New York, told reporters an annual saving of $95,000,000 to New York users of electricity will result if the state is permitted to construct power developments on the St. Lawrence and Niagara rivers.

Burton said he would so testify at the hearing. He was scheduled as the first witness. The hearing probably will require three days.

The Niagara proposal is not before the commission in the present case. It is, however, a part of the authority's long-range program.

1. Some $32,000,000 by using water rather than fuel for generating purposes at both sites.

2. Public development, instead of private, would contribute an additional $40,500,000 in savings. In both cases, he said, the economy would be guaranteed by contract for the resale of power.

3. An integrated transmission system, operating under rates set by the New York public service commission, would provide a further saving of $22,500,000.

Driver's Permits Increased By 50c

TORONTO (CP)—Highways Minister Doucett says drivers' permits will cost $2 next year.

Speaking on a CBC provincial affairs broadcast Monday night, Mr. Doucett said the contribution to the unsatisfied judgments fund will be doubled from 50 cents to $1.

The highways department annual report shows that revenue from the fund during the last fiscal year was $790,000 while payments amounted to $982,000. The extra $200,000 was taken from the consolidated revenue fund.

The fund was established to pay accident claims where victims are unable to collect from the defendants in a traffic accident case. It also provides for claims in accidents where the guilty driver is not apprehended.

Mr. Doucett said more than 1,500 careless, lawbreaking or inefficient drivers are being removed from the highways each month.

Fly Legionnaires To Prevent Fresh Outbreaks

CASABLANCA, Morocco (CP)—Police today began a large-scale evacuation of French and other European residents from native-populated quarters of this nationalist-troubled North African metropolis after bloody rioting killed 50 persons. The evacuees were moved to safer residential quarters. Latest police figures indicated 50 persons including eight Europeans had been killed in the wide-spread rioting Sunday and Monday and that 74 persons had been wounded including seven Europeans.

Reuters placed the wounded figure at more than 200 and said 60 were in hospitals. The news agency reported eight Europeans were killed and 12 were wounded.

To prevent new outbreaks of rioting the French flew 400 foreign Legion troops to this city of 600,000.

The Legionnaires were brought in four planes from Agadir, 270 miles from this city. Tanks and armored cars patrolled the streets and tightly ringed the Arab quarter where the rioting first broke out Sunday.

TORN TO PIECES

Some of the Europeans were so brutally attacked that even their sex could not be determined. Others were torn to pieces and burned.

The mobs, whipped up by leaders' protests against the murder last week of a labor leader in the adjoining protectorate of Tunisia, grabbed any weapon available.

They wielded razor blades fixed on sticks, shoehorns sharpened to dagger-keenness, and swung heavy iron balls on chains to crack skulls. Others grabbed bricks and knuckle dusters.

Three labor leaders who yesterday demanded the murder of "traitors" to the Moroccan independence movement were among about 140 natives arrested by the police.

SYMPATHY RIOTS

The disorders, which reached nearly revolutionary proportions, broke in sympathy with Tunisian workers whose leader, Farhat Hached, was machine-gunned and beaten to death last week.

Nationalist newspapers called for a demonstration and police found copies of hand bills demanding the murder of "traitors" who failed to respond to the independence movement.

Demonstrators attacked a European couple and their three small children today as they drove in a truck along a street. The woman was hurt on the head and her

Red Premier Suspends Two For Food Frauds

BERLIN (Reuters) — Premier Otto Grotewohl of East Germany today announced the suspension of two high Communist officials and linked their disgrace with acute food shortages which have developed.

Supply Minister Karl Hamann and his undersecretary, Rudolf Albrecht, were ousted from their jobs. Hamann, 49, has been under criticism for poor food supplies ever since he became minister three years ago.

Grotewohl also disclosed that a margarine shortage exists in East Germany. For this he blamed Fritz Hantke, former departmental chief in the supply ministry who fled to West Germany last month.

Ottawa To Set Locations For Private TV

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government, in a move aimed at extending television to all parts of the country as quickly as possible, has decided to control the location of both publicly and privately-owned stations.

Each area will be limited to one station until all or most parts of the country are receiving television programs.

"No two stations will be licensed at present to serve the same area," Revenue Minister McCann told the Commons Monday. "It is desirable to have one station in as many areas as possible before there are two in any one area."

The government's objective, he said, is to make "national television service available to as many Canadians as possible through co-operation between private and public enterprise."

ASKS RECONSIDERATION

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, asked for reconsideration of the government's policy. He said the CBC originally was established to provide services in areas where private stations might not find it financially attractive to operate.

Three Doctors Fined For Fraud

KENORA (CP)—Three doctors in this northwestern Ontario town were fined a total of $5,500 and one was sentenced to three months in jail when they pleaded guilty to obtaining $44 by fraud.

The three, members of the Lake of the Woods clinic here, were charged after investigations into a health insurance plan for employees of the Ontario-Minnesota Pulp and Paper Company. The case was heard in police court Monday before Magistrate J. A Cox of Dryden.

Sentenced was Dr. Peter F. Playfair who pleaded guilty to five charges of obtaining money by false pretences. He also was fined $500 and cost on each of the five charges with the alternative of another three months in jail.

Dr. Earl S. Bryngelson and Dr. Allan M. Torrie pleaded guilty to three similar charges and were fined $1,500 each with the alternative of three months in jail

The charges were laid by L. A. Tolle, chief Canadian agent for the Benefit Association of Railway Employees which provides the medical health scheme for the paper company. The doctors were convicted of forging fictitious calls on patients' claims for payment.

The amount of money obtained fraudulently on each charge was $4.

From The Horse's Mouth

Reporter Flabbergasted By 'Talking Horse'

By PAUL DUKE

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—So you're skeptical about Lady Wonder, Richmond's incredible "talking" horse?

So was this reporter when he went out to "interview" her.

A horse that can predict the future and reel off facts like a child prodigy? Bunk, I thought.

But after a half-hour's "chat" with Lady I came away from her stall wondering whether there isn't more fact than fiction to horse sense.

Lots of other folk are wondering the same thing now that Lady has been credited with providing the "tip" that led to discovery of the body of Danny Matson, a four-year-old child missing from his Quincy, Mass., home for nearly two years.

Since Sunday, Lady's mistress, Claudia Fonda, has been deluged with calls from persons who want the 27-year-old horse quizzed on everything from stolen bicycles to wildcat oil wells.

Mrs. Fonda won't take the requests by telephone, declaring that Lady is not at her best unless the questioner is on hand to get the answer straight from the horse's mouth.

Lady flabbergasted me when she correctly answered most of the 15 questions I fired at her.

She does her 'answering by poking her chin at levers extending out from tiny slides containing numbers and letters. When she touches the levers, the numbers and letters shoot up, spelling out her answers.

Mrs. Fonda stood beside Lady, repeating the questions into the mare's ear.

Lady started out perfectly by pecking out my name. When I asked her where I was born, she spelled out Bethlehem, Pa.—the right answer. When I asked her how much money I make weekly, she gave the exact dollars-and-cents figure.

She flubbed it when I asked her where I went to school. But two questions later, she named the school in a delayed-action reply.

Lady has been playing this question-and-answer game for more than 20 years. The folks who visit her at Mrs. Fonda's small frame house on the edge of town get three questions for $1.

In 1928, two Duke University psychology professors tested her and concluded:

"There appear to be no loopholes, no reasonable possibility for signalling, either of a conscious or unconscious character."

I thought about a tipoff system between Lady and her mistress. But she has answered questions when Mrs. Fonda wasn't nearby. How does Lady do it?

I asked Lady that.

She slowly spelled out "m-i-n-d."

I asked her if she'd like to be a human.

"Yes," came the answer.

Sees Imitations Crippling Dairy Industry

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's $750,000,000-a-year domestic dairy industry could be crippled by imitation products, two officials of the national dairy council told the Ontario Association of Ice Cream Manufacturers.

J. J. Creighton, president of the council and J. H. Duplan, a past president, said Monday that the dairy industry could be replaced by one based in the main on imported oils.

"A few gigantic corporations with Canada-wide distribution facilities and huge advertising budgets . . .could ultimately dominate the market leaving hundreds of dairy plants, as well as thousands of dairy farmers strewn by the roadside," said Mr. Duplan.

He warned of imitation products already with firm footholds in the American market and of a vegetable oil imitation whipping cream being sold in Ontario. Mr. Duplan advocated legislation by the provincial and federal governments to protect the Canadian industry.

Mr. Creighton said the dairy cow provides for the livelihood of more than 2,000,000 Canadians and 450,000 farmers alone depend on dairying receipts for income.

Prices Continue Weak In Toronto Trading

TORONTO (CP) — Prices continued weak in early afternoon stock market trading today.

Industrials and golds showed small losses on the exchange's indexes. Base metals were mixed but western oils lost strength.

Volume for the first three hours totalled 566,000 shares.

Senior golds and secondary issues weakened, with most losses in junior producers. Delnite, Sullivan and Macleod slipped while Campbell added pennies. Price changes in prospects were small as Gunnar and Lake Wasa gained and Croinor and Queenston slipped. Holding companies continued weak.

Base metals balanced a narrow list of gains and losses as Cassiar, United Keno and Cons. Smelters gained and East Sullivan, Barvue and Noranda slipped.

Western oils losses ranged to about 15 cents and gains to 25 cents. Canadian Atlantic, Gridoil and Royalite rose while Bailey Selburn, Britalta, New Superior and Home Oil slipped.

W. E. GRIFFITH, a veteran of 44 years in municipal politics, was returned Monday as reeve of Belmont-Methuen townships. He replaces Norris Whitney, who won over Mr. Griffith last year. Mr. Griffith was reeve before Mr. Whitney. Only one poll, at Lasswade, is not yet reported, and it cannot change the results, having only a dozen votes in it.

Griffith Returned Belmont Reeve

The eight polling subdivisions gave Mr. Griffith a majority of 108 vote of a total of 556 cast.

It is the first upset of the season in county elections. Last year Mr. Whitney defeated Mr. Griffith by 26 votes but Mr. Griffith made his comeback this year after a short campaign.

Alex Buchanan and Frank Wrightley were elected trustees for School Area No. 1. Mr. Buchanan polled 123 votes and Mr. Wrightley got 82, just one more than Randal Anderson. Fred Taylor was fourth with 40 votes.

For the first time in 60 years Belmont-Methuen have a deputy reeve. He is George Newton, councillor for 13 years. He was acclaimed as were the three councillors: Robert Wrightley, Gardner Gawley and Burrell Keating.

Trustees of School Area No. 2 were also returned by acclamation. They are Harold Russell and Stuart Barrons.

Mr. Griffith won four of the eight polling subdivisions and tied in another. His biggest majority was at Cordova Mines where he got 78 votes to Mr. Whitney's 12. Here are the results:

Old Havelock — Griffith, 87, Whitney 91.

Township Hall — Griffith 96, Whitney 45.

Carman Ellis' House—13 votes each.

Rush Point—Griffith 33, Whitney 47.

Oak Lake—Griffith 7, Whitney 10.

Cordova Mines — Griffith 78, Whitney 12.

Lasswade—Griffith 9, Whitney 2.

South Lake—Griffith 9, Whitney 4.

Elsewhere during the debate W. J. Browne (PC—St. John's West) suggested government steps to aid the Newfoundland salt codfish industry, and Tom Goode (L—Burnaby - Richmond) said something must be done for the west-coast salmon industry, now faced with a heavy surplus of canned salmon.

Victor Quelch (SC — Acadia) urged the government to encourage greater food production. He also said farmers should be allowed to deduct at least part of the expenses of a housekeeper for their income tax.

J. J. Smith (L—Moose Mountain) said any national health insurance plan should be built on "foundations that will last."

Harry Cavers (L—Lincoln) urged removal of the means test for pensions of $40 a month paid needy blind persons 21 and over.

Provinces Buck Freight Increase

OTTAWA (CP)—A new freight rate increase sought by the railways to meet expected higher wage costs will be opposed by a group of provincial governments on two main grounds.

These are:

1. That the railways' application to the board of transport commissioners for a nine-per-cent rate boost is premature.

2. That any increase should not be on a flat percentage basis across the board but should allow exceptions for certain types of traffic.

All provinces except Ontario and Quebec—the group generally associated in rate cases—will oppose the increase, which the railways applied for Nov. 28 on accepting the majority report of a conciliation board recommending a 16-cents-an-hour wage increase for their 14,000 non-operating employees.

The provinces will open fire on the $42,000,000-a-year rate application when hearings start before the transport board next Monday.

Preliminary submissions filed by some of them indicate that their "premature" argument will be based on the fact that the railways and their unions have not yet signed a wage agreement to replace the one that expired last Sept. 1.

UK Vows Legal Action If Iranian Oil Sold

LONDON (AP) — Britain has served notice she will take legal action against any American oil companies which try to buy or sell Iranian oil.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the House of Commons Monday: "The British government continues to regard the products of the oil industry in South Persia (Iran) as the property of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company."

He said the government will stand by its "full legal rights" until Iran and Britain agree on compensation for AIOC properties nationalized by Iran 20 months ago.

Private stations, he said, should be allowed to operate, without public expense, in the large areas. The CBC could provide television in areas where "the ordinary financial returns will not justify private investment."

Dr. McCann, expanding on the television policy announced at the opening of the session, said the government will consider applications for licences for private stations in areas not served or to be served by the publicly-owned CBC. The CBC has stations in Montreal and Toronto and plans stations in Ottawa, Vancouver, Winnipeg and Halifax.

AREAS NOT NAMED

The areas from which applications for private stations will be considered were not named by Dr. McCann. It was learned authoritatively that they must come from areas where existing or planned CBC service cannot be received.

An application from Hamilton, for instance, might be ruled out on the grounds that Hamilton already was served by the CBC station in Toronto. Similarly, an application from New Westminster, B. C., might be rejected because the city would be covered by the CBC station in Vancouver.

Applications from Edmonton, Regina, Quebec City, Fredericton and St. John's, Nfld., might be rejected on the grounds that the CBC plans stations in each of the provincial capitals.

One source said each application would be considered on an individual basis. Surveys would be made to see if a proposed station would duplicate coverage of another station.

Dr. McCann said the private stations granted licences will have to undertake to carry CBC national programs in addition to their own.

He recalled that the Massey commission on arts and sciences had said television should be directed and controlled to prevent Canadian stations from becoming mere channels for broadcasting material from outside Canada.

Mr. Drew suggested competition between publicly-owned and privately-owned stations would improve programs.

ALTERNATE PLAN

Burton said if private utilities are willing and able to build transmission lines "in such a way that all the people may benefit," New York would not compete in this respect with the private interests.

Burton, in reviewing the background of New York's plan to develop the St. Lawrence, said recent changes in the law creating the power authority clarify and guarantee that states adjoining New York will receive an equitable share of the yield. It is estimated at 6,300,000,000 kilowatt hours a year on the American side of the international river.

An equal yield will be produced on the Canadian side. The Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission has already been designated the Canadian partner.

CCF Youth Criticizes Obscene Books Ban

OTTAWA (CP)—The CCF Youth Movement said today proposals to ban "so-called obscene literature" are both negative and extremely dangerous and urged the government to spend from the public treasury to make good literature available to Canadian youth.

A statement said the movement deplores suggestions arising from Senate hearings that a bill should be presented to Parliament to oust obscene writings. This skirted the real problem of providing good reading and it ignored the social conditions which daily produced corrupted minds.

The movement called for a program of scholarships and awards to encourage the writing of good books for the young, subsidies for books for the young so their prices can be kept down, and federal aid to libraries to make more good books available.

Royal Family Prepares For Norfolk Christmas

LONDON (Reuters) — The royal family is preparing for its usual Christmas party at Sandringham, the Queen's Norfolk estate, court circles said today.

It will be the Queen's first Christmas since her accession last February. She will follow the family tradition by broadcasting to the people of the Commonwealth Christmas Day.

The Queen's two children, Prince Charles, 4, and Princess Anne, 2, will have two young cousins with them at Sandringham, Prince William, 11, and Prince Richard, 8, sons of the Duke of Gloucester.

The family party will also include Queen Mother Elizabeth, Princess Margaret, Queen Mary, who has recovered from a cold which confined her to her home for a month, and the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester.

HINT RED INFLUENCE

Police laid virtual siege to headquarters of the General Labor Federation, reported to be Communist-controlled, where several hundred demonstrators took refuge when Moroccan soldiers charged them Monday.

The riot broke out as the independence demands of France's North African protectorates are being debated in the United Nations. The Casablanca Labor Union promptly sent a cable to the UN asking its quick intervention here.

Meanwhile, in Tunis, the other trouble spot of French North Africa the French authorities lifted the 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew established Dec. 5 when Hached's death was announced.

The French also named nationalists they had arrested and hustled to internment camps. They included Mahmoud Messadi, Hached's successor as leader of the Tunisian Labor Federation; Abdallah Farhat, of the federation's administrative committee; Mohammed Er-Ray, head of the dockers' union, and Sadok Mokaddem, nominal leader of the Neo-Destour (Independence) party.

7 Whites Jailed In South Africa

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—White South Africans, including the son of a former governor-general, for the first time have joined in the native-led campaign of defiance against Prime Minister Daniel F. Malan's white supremacy and racial segregation laws.

Seven whites were arrested Monday for entering a nearby Negro settlement without permits and holding a meeting. Police also jailed 18 Indians — including a son of the late Mohandas K. Gandhi — and 14 Negroes who joined in the meeting.

The group of protesting whites was led by Patrick Duncan, son of a former governor-general, who walked on crutches into the settlement. Duncan broke his leg in a recent meeting.

He was accompanied by Manilal Gandhi, second son of famed Indian leader and a resident of Durban. Duncan's wife, daughter of the Bank of England director, Sir Patrick Ashley Cooper, watched as the group entered the settlement, where Duncan addressed a crowd of about 1,000. The police arrested Duncan, Gandhi and the others as they started to leave the settlement.

All were to appear in court today. They face maximum penalties of £300 fines or three years in jail.

ON BRASS TACKS

Questions by reporters about the "brass tacks" of the conference — sterling convertibility, a possible increase in the price of gold, the possibility of greater borrowing powers for the international monetary fund, the general agreement on tariffs and trade — drew noncommittal replies. The minister said he could not anticipate the communique expected to be issued Wednesday or Thursday.

In regard to development plans within the sterling area, Abbott said he thought it possible that some of the capital equipment needed might come from Canada.

Meanwhile, the Commonwealth leaders were reported to have plotted a three - point program which they hope will get the sterling area off the financial hook. They also are planning talks with other Western countries aimed at smoothing world economic difficulties.

REPORT SETTLEMENT

The top statesmen of the nine-country family also are reported to have agreed on suggested changes in various world and monetary policies which the United States will be asked to approve.

Quarters close to the conference said the Commonwealth leaders have agreed that Prime Minister Churchill should go to Washington early next year to outline the sterling area's plan for expanding world trade.

Churchill will seek a meeting some time between March and May with U. S. President-elect Eisenhower's new Republican administration.

The Commonwealth statesmen are not expected to accompany Churchill but Britain's foreign secretary, Anthony Eden, and Richard Butler, her treasury chief, will go with the Prime Minister.

THREE-POINT PLAN

The decisions on immediate Commonwealth economic problems are reported to be:

1. All Commonwealth members should live within their means and should fight inflation by slashing luxury imports and spending.

2. The group should go in for a long-term program of developing production of food and raw materials now imported from the dollar area and should encourage any project that shows signs of earning dollars in trade.

3. The group should dovetail individual development programs, thus, for example, scarce, expensive equipment could be spread around among the Commonwealth.

These decisions probably will be included in the communique to be published at the end of the conference.

SEEK CONVERTIBILITY

This statement also will reaffirm that the Commonwealth wants a convertible pound — one that can be exchanged for other currencies and transferred freely. It probably will add, however, that this can be done only when the sterling area's gold and dollar reserves are much bigger and when world trade is freer.

A second document reported before the Commonwealth prime ministers lists the proposed steps on which U. S. agreement will be sought in the talks with the incoming Eisenhower administration as well as with West European leaders. The meeting hopes these talks will develop in stages into a world economic conference aimed at freeing trade.

Officials said the conference envisions international talks on trade and money controls, raw material production, prices and relations between the dollar and the non-dollar world.

Reuters reported an approach to the U.S. would be made for help in raising the price of gold, now pegged at the 1934 rate of $35 a fine ounce.

The prime ministers also have agreed on a formula for the style and titles which the Queen should adopt when she is crowned next June.

Youths Best Police

LONDON (CP)—Police officials asked East End youth clubs to withdraw courses in ju-jitsu wrestling from their activities. The lessons have proved so effective that in some cases the police have come off second-best in side-street encounters.

Roseneath YPU To Buy Club Pins

ROSENEATH (ENS).— "Faith and Evangelism" was the topic presented by Beverley Robins at the YPU meeting on Monday night. Other members presenting articles on the same subject were George Linton, Perry Lean, and Bruce Davidson.

The meeting was held in the Township Hall with the president, Miss Doris Robins, presiding, with Mary Skuce, secretary, and Rev. J. R. Wheeler as pianist.

The important items of business were: Planning to purchase YPU pins and the YPU program manual. It was decided to discontinue YPU meetings until after Christmas. Meetings will then be held in the homes of members. The next meeting on January 5 will be held at the parsonage, with the Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Wheeler as host and hostess.

The program included a piano sool by Betty Carew, a humorous reading "Starch" by Donald Robins. Mr. Wheeler was in charge of the recreational period and donated prizes.

Hint Ike May Meet MacArthur On Korea Plan

Washington (CP)—A close friend of Dwight Eisenhower today indicated that the president-elect may confer with Gen. MacArthur about MacArthur's claim that he has a plan for solving the Korean conflict.

The friend, who declined to be quoted by name, said in an interview he doesn't think Eisenhower will ignore MacArthur's apparent offer of advice.

MacArthur, who refrained from endorsing Eisenhower during the recent election campaign, said Friday in New York he has a plan for "a clear and definite solution of the Korean conflict" without involving unduly heavy Allied casualties. MacArthur, addressing the National Association of Manufacturers, said that for security reasons he would not disclose the plan publicly.

Eisenhower's friend also said he expects Eisenhower will keep U.S. allies in Korea advised of his own thinking.

"Eisenhower does not stand on ceremony and it would be very typical for him to move with speed and quiet informality to let his views be known to our allies without waiting until the official change of administration (Jan. 20)," he said, "I believe that will be done."

Eisenhower already has indicated that he might confer with MacArthur on Far Eastern affairs. At a press conference in Abilene, Kas., June 5, Eisenhower was asked:

"There's been speculation about differences between you and Gen. MacArthur. Would you make use of Gen. MacArthur's military capabilities if you were president?"

Eisenhower replied:

"I could not have served any man, first, indirectly for nine years, as I did Gen. MacArthur, without gaining a tremendous respect for his intellectual and professional capacity.

"If I had to have any position of great responsibility in this country there is nothing that I would allow to bar me from seeking access to the finest brains and experience that I could find on any subject of importance to us and if anyone with his knowledge of the Far East were available I should certainly want to know what he thinks about it."

Norwood School Plans Commencement

The anual commencement exercises of Norwood District High School will be held two nights this year because of the enlarged district from which the parents, friends and students will come. These programs will be given in the auditorium of the new school, which will hold approximately 500 people.

The program will consist of choruses by the Glee Club, gymnastics by both boys and girls, rhythmics by the girls, a classical fashion show, a one-act play, and other numbers.

On Thursday evening, Mr. E. T. Buck, chairman of the High School Board, will act as chairman. That evening, the awards for cadet inspection and field day and also the intermediate certificates will be presented.

On Friday evening, Mr. Earl Hamblin, vice-chairman of the board, will be chairman. The IODE prizes, the graduation diplomas and the honor graduation diplomas will be presented.

Council Holds Final Meeting, Two Retiring

CAMPBELLFORD— (ENS) — The final meeting of the 1952 town council was held in the council chambers Monday evening, with all members present and retiring Mayor W. A. Kingston in the chair.

A variety of matters were discussed, ranging from manhole covers to the passing of bylaws.

Council agreed to pay 50 per cent of the cost of chipping pavement away from around a manhole giving access to underground cables of the Bell Telephone Company. It was thought the manhole would have to be raised to the level of the new pavement, but Bell workmen levelled the pavement off to the level of the cover, which proved more economical.

The sum of $25 was voted to the East Northumberland Christmas Seal Committee, and a letter from the Sick Children's Hospital, asking for a donation, was received.

Clerk J. F. McGregor opened tenders for the municipally owned weigh scales. Only two tenders were received, one of $144 from P. J. Sarginson, payable $12 monthly, and one from Ralph Quigg at $60 per year. The tender of Mr. Sarginson was accepted, and he will commence his duties at the town scales next year. The town owns the scales, but leases them each year to an individual, who operates the scales at whatever profit he can.

A portion of the old railway right of way adjoining the property of the Water and Light Commission building on Front Street was offered for sale at a price of $25. The land was offered at the request of a prospective property owner, who contemplates the purchase of a house adjoining the water and light property. The wedge shaped piece of land the council offered for sale will square out both lots.

The dangerous corner at the top of the Public School hill was discussed, and councillor A. F. Collette, chairman of the Police Committee, reported that his committee had purchased danger signs, which will be erected at the corner. Councillor Collette and Mayor Kingston asked council to consider making Centre St. a stop street at the intersection of Bridge St. This would eliminate the danger of the corner to a great extent, and leaves only one street at the five corner intersection as a through street. This is Bridge St., where traffic travelling up the hill is proceeding east.

A great deal of discussion regarding a Hawker's and Peddler's bylaw, resulted in the clerk being instructed to write to the Department of Municipal Affairs, asking permission to increase the license fees mentioned in the bylaw. Under the new Revised Statutes of Ontario, the present bylaw covering hawkers and peddlers is obsolete.

TAXES COLLECTED

J. C. Birmingham, tax collector, announced the taxes collected for 1952 were slightly lower for the same date in 1951. Of a total of $111,396.70 on the tax roll, a total of about $102,000 had been collected.

Deputy Reeve Oscar Mason said that his committee had been able to procure Christmas trees to decorate the streets of the town at a price of 35 cents each. These would be placed on the main streets this week. He also said that he thought the practice of throwing the trees away after Christmas was a waste, and that they should be given to anyone who wants them, after they had served their purpose of decorating the town. The trees will be kept until Dec. 20, after which, it is believed the town will give the trees to residents who want them for their homes at Christmas time.

Retiring councillor A. F. Collette, who did not run for re-election in 1953, thanked council for the co-operation they had given him as chairman of the police committee during 1952. He wished council success in 1953.

A bylaw re-appointing Arthur K. Loucks as a trustee representing Campbellford on the East Northumberland District High School Area Board was passed.

On motion of Councillor George H. Free, Mayor W. A. Kingston was asked to officially proclaim Friday, Dec. 26 as a civic holiday in the town.

Mayor W. A. Kingston, who did not run for any munipical office on the 1953 ballot, thanked council for their co-operation during the year. He said that council had conducted the business of the town efficiently, and had put a great deal of time and effort into their jobs. "The electors should be well pleased with the job you have done," he said. He said also that he might, in some future election, run for public office, but that in the meantime he would be in close touch with town affairs by sitting at the press table during council meetings, to report them for his newspaper, the Campbellford Herald.

Chief Constable George H. Hardy was granted a further six weeks sick leave, to January 15, 1953.

After passing the pay sheet, council and town officials retired to a restaurant, on the invitation of Mayor Kingston, where a lunch had been arranged.

Profitable Kick

Pope Hints Reds Return To Church

ROME (Reuters) — The Pope said today that many people who strayed from the Church to seek answers to their problems elsewhere are "already preparing to return to the house of the father."

The Pontiff was speaking to members of the Charitable Association of Catholic Artisans in Rome. He received them in audience in the Vatican Palace on the occasion of the 80th anniversary of the founding of their society.

"Who does not feel the anxious invocation of men who have tried to solve their problems without God or even by fighting God, and who have now tasted disheartening defeat because of the frailty of the structures in which they live and the precariousness of the institutions on which they lean?" the Pope asked.

The Pope did not mention any people or movements by name. Some who read his address thought of the recent case of an Italian Communist member of Parliament who resigned from his party after becoming a Roman Catholic.

Two Cars Collide On Fenelon Bridge

LINDSAY (ENS) — An eight-year-old West Guildford girl, Karen Sims, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sims, was released from the Ross Memorial Hospital after one day's treatment for a fractured nose and concussion, following a serious Saturday accident on the Rosedale bridge near Fenelon Falls.

Constable John Williams, OPP, of Fenelon Falls, investigated the accident and reported that a car driven by Russell Clarke, of Toronto, and carrying his wife, Rose, was proceeding north on No. 35 Highway, when it entered the bridge and collided with a car driven by Sims, proceeding south. Extensive damage was done to both cars. Mrs. Clarke, with a broken nose; Mr. Sims, with facial injuries and chest wounds; Mrs. Sims with facial lacerations, and Mr. Clarke with bruises were all treated by Dr. Gratton Graham, of Fenelon Falls, and Dr. Jamieson, of Coboconk.

10 Boys Charged Milk Bottle Thefts

LINDSAY (ENS) — A ring of juvenile milk bottle thieves will appear in court here Wednesday charged with an epidemic of thefts from bottles and causing other damage.

Chief Constable John Hunter said today that summonses had been served on the ten boys charged, following two to three months investigation on the part of local police.

The chief said the thefts were apparently organized and were committed in every section of the town. One boy is charged with breaking aerials from cars. None of the boys are over 16.

Postmaster Oscar Phillips No Time Off In 32 Years

WARKWORTH (ENS)—Sixty-seven-year-old Oscar B. Phillips, postmaster at the village of Warkworth for the past 32 years, weighed his last parcel and handed his last letter through the wicket of the post office on Monday afternoon. Mr. Phillips is retiring to live in the community which he has served since 1921.

During his lengthy service, "Oscar," as he is known to almost everyone in the village, built up an enviable record. He has never lost a day through sickness, and has never had a holiday except Sunday, in all the 32 years. "I couldn't have done it without my wife though," he told The Examiner on Monday. The post office job has been a man-and-wife task. Annie Phillips, his wife, will stay on at the post office for a while to assist the new postmaster.

The new postmaster will be Fred W. Riesberry, formerly of Toronto. He will be assisted by his wife, Ethel.

BORN IN WARKWORTH

Mr. Phillips was born in Warkworth 67 years ago. He was the son of the late Abraham and Elizabeth Phillips. In his early life he worked for the CPR in the engineering department, doing construction work in the White River district, and later put in four years working on the double-track Toronto-to-Sudbury line. He left the CPR late in 1914 and joined the army in 1915, where he served overseas three and a half years with the 4th CMR. He took over the duties of postmaster in 1921 from the orinal postmaster at Warkworth, I. A. Humphries.

Mr. Phillips is a member of the Warkworth Masonic Lodge No. 161, and the Masonic Chapter 110. He is a past master of the Blue Lodge. He is "just going to take things easy for a while," before deciding what he is going to do next.

Lindsay Junior Club In Financial Trouble

LINDSAY (ENS) — Lindsay junior hockey club, faced with falling gate receipts and heavy expenses for away trips, will go to the Lindsay Arena Commission this week to seek a lower price of admission to home games, in an attempt to attract larger crowds. The executive of the club met last night at the arena, and were faced with a dreary financial statement. The intermediate Muskies have consistenly outdrawn the juniors, because of their league-leading standing, and the juniors are still in the group cellar. Several suggestions were put forward, designated to raise the attendance and receipts of the club. Among them was the idea of selling advance or "booster" tickets. The arena commission would have to give its official sanction to such a move.

Appeal Dismissed In Howell Case

LINDSAY (ENS)—The appeal against the conviction of Clarence Howell, of Mariposa, on a charge of careless driving, following an accident last September, was dismissed Monday. Howell, it was charged, fell asleep at the wheel of his car on the morning of September 8 and crashed into the ditch, two miles south of Coboconk. Howell admitted before Judge J. A. McGibbon that he knew his car was leaking carbon monoxide gas, and that he was driving with the windows closed and the heater on.

Commented Judge McGibbon: "If that isn't gross carelessness, I don't know what is."

Mrs. Lilian Richards Heads Polls In Cobourg Election

COBOURG (ENS) — About 60 per cent of the voters turned out Monday to cast their votes in the municipal elections. Although expected to be well up on the list, Mrs. Lilian Richards headed the polls, putting Councillor Otto Curtis in second place.

Curtis was seeking re-election but it was Mrs. Richards' first venture into the Cobourg municipal field. It was evident from the pre-election activities that Mrs. Richards had a large contingent from her own sex out working for her.

Women have always fared well in their bids for municipal office here. Mrs. Donald MacDonald was the first woman reeve of Cobourg back around 1930. The late Mrs. H. Delaney was the next woman to be elected and was a councillor some years back. More rencently, Mrs. Rhena Stephens headed the polls for council and the latest woman to win municipal honors was Mrs. Richards.

Seeking re-election, John Erskine was returned as reeve, winning 1,305 votes, defeating William Wenn. Charles Johnson moved up from council to deputy reeve with 1,361 votes to the 767 polled by newcomer Raymond Bowens. The only members of the 1952 council who ran again, Curtis, McKinnon and Richardson, were successful. The newcomers elected were Mrs. Richards, Louis Caine, Jeff Rolph. Following was the vote for council, six to be elected:

Mrs. Lillian Richards, 1,489; Otto Curtis, 1,466; Alex McKinnon, 1,147; Jeff Rolph, 1,072; Harold Richardson, 1,054; Louis Caine, 974; Dr. J. Crabbe, 859; Pierre Sauve, 642; James Miskelly, 627; Douglas Glenn, 452.

In the election for school board in the west ward, Clare Wakelin defeated Mrs. C. Gaiger by a majority of 20 votes.

Lindsay Recount Before Judge

LINDSAY (ENS)—Council met Monday night, its last official meeting, with the exception of the statutory final meeting on December 15.

Various committee chairmen made their reports.

An extremely quiet atmosphere prevailed and several of the council members expressed, since they were leaving, appreciation for being able to serve.

Neither Ald. Lloyd Burrows, defeated mayoral candidate, nor Mayor Lamb, who won the civic election by seven votes over Ald. Burrows, had anything to say.

They were apparently waiting until the official recount, before County Judge J. A. McGibbon. The recount, which has been asked for by several citizens, will be conducted by Town Clerk W. R. Allely, before the judge, Wednesday morning. Only the two candidates involved and their agents may attend.

Obituary

MRS. RICHARD H. WALSH

Mrs. Richard Henry Walsh, the former Bertha Kitney, 69, of 712 Ross St., died in hospital Monday following a short illness.

Mrs. Walsh was born in Rainham, Kent, England, daughter of the late Walter Kitney and Eliza Kitney. She had lived in Peterborough since 1905, coming here from England.

She was a member of George St. United Church.

She leaves her husband, Richard Henry Walsh, three daughters, Mrs. J. Thompson (Louisa), and Mrs. W. Swanger (Elsie), both of Peterborough; and Mrs. C. A. Praud (Rose), Port Credit; three sons, Richard, Harry and Ernest, all of Peterborough; two sisters, Mrs. Agnes James and Mrs. Mary Whitnell, both of Peterborough; two brothers, George and Samuel, both of Rainham, Kent, England; 14 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The funeral will be held Thursday, at 1.30 p.m., from the Comstock funeral home. The Rev. E. W. Rowland, of George St. United Church, will conduct the service. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

South Africa Racial Problem Outlined By I. G. Pollock

The Racial Problem in South Africa was the topic of an address given by the Rev. I. G. Pollock, of Grace United Church, at the Rotary luncheon Monday.

Before coming to Peterborough this summer, Mr. Pollock was minister of a Congregational church in the Cape province and also of a large native church in Langa township.

"There are two points of view in present day South Africa," the speaker said. "There is the more liberal view found in the Cape province to the south. But in the north, which is predominantly Afrikaner (whites of Dutch origin) there is a reactionary and illiberal view against the non-whites."

Mr. Pollock explained that the population of South Africa is made up of 11 million natives, one million colored or of mixed blood and three million whites.

THREE REASONS

"The recent hardening of the attitude of whites towards non-whites has been caused by three factors," he said. "First, there is the natural antipathy of white towards black—the desire for the whites to maintain their position of supremacy and superiority. The second factor is the reactionary and illiberal forces which are finding their spearhead in one of the largest Christian churches in South Africa—the Dutch Reform Church. These people stand solidly on the superiority of whites as backed by Divine law and tradition.

"Finally there is the growing consciousness of the non-whites that they form a necessary and integral part of the life and the economy of South Africa. Among them is growing a sense of nationalism and a feeling that they belong as co-workers in the prosperity of the country."

Mr. Pollock explained that this growing racial strife has found expression in the legislation of the present government. He outlined the Group Areas Act passed four years ago which forcibly brought about residential segregation. Many non-whites were forced to abandon their property with little or no compensation.

The second piece of legislation which caused so much strife was the Colored Voters Representation Act passed in 1951.

NO VOTE

"The non-whites have never had a parliamentary vote as we think of it," he said. Before this act they were represented by four whites in parliament and colored people in the Cape province were on the common roll. The act removed colored voters from the roll.

Mr. Pollock explained that although this act had been called illegal by the Appeal Court of South Africa, the people of the Cape are seething as never before because they are afraid of more repression.

The Pass Laws have made it impossible for colored people to move freely from one part of the province to another. This law rules that non-whites can't travel without passes issued by local magistrates. As a result, South African jails are filled with people who have forgotten passes or have mislaid them.

"These are just a few of the pin-pricking repressive measures that have roused in the South African non-white a desire to resist. Since the beginning of June, approximately 6,000 have been imprisoned and flogging has been recommended for the younger offenders."

In his concluding remarks, Mr. Pollock said that the solution to this intense racial strife was still out of sight. But he quoted the words of the former prime minister of South Africa, the late Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts, as a possible solution—the realization that the whole is always greater than the sum of all its parts.

"There must be a reconciliation of these parts to end this seething chaos," he said. "It is the labor of the natives on which the economy of the country depends. The natives must come into life, economy and society as equal partners to the whites to whom they are indispensable and who are indispensable to them."

Mr. Pollock was introduced by Frank Paterson and thanked by S. J. Black.

Fire Escapes Not Adequate

LINDSAY (ENS)—The Victoria County grand jury, making its report following inspection of the various county buildings, following the recent sitting of the court of general sessions, recommended that adequate fire escapes and a fire alarm system be installed in the Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay.

The jury also recommended that an auxiliary power plant be installed at the hospital, in case of emergencies, and that ventilation system in the kitchen be renovated.

Lighting came in for consideration with regard to the county court house and the jail, with recommendations that the corridors and entrance to the court house be redecorated and more brightly lighted, and that the wiring and lighting in the jail be renovated and brought up to date.

The jury also recommended that the men's cell at the jail be equipped with a shower, and that the plaster on the ceiling of the women's cell be done over. There was no criticism of the County Home for the Aged.

New TB Treatment

DURBAN, South Africa (CP)—Dr. J. J. Le Roux, health secretary, says a new treatment developed in hospitals here shows promising results for tuberculosis cases where both lungs are affected. Affected cavities are filled with hydrogenated fats to which an antibiotic is added.

Finds Fast Way To Relieve SCIATIC PAIN

"For a long time I was just about useless from sharp sciatic pain in my right hip and thigh," writes Mr. Kenneth Dauphinee, 32 Atlantic Ave., Halifax, N.S. "Despite all the things I tried, I showed no improvement. Then my wife got me some T-R-C's and from the first dose I got longed-for relief. After taking T-R-C's for a short time, I no longer needed them and have not had an attack for years."

PLYMOUTH

the Car with the Balanced Ride

*BALANCED AGAINST PITCH *BALANCED AGAINST ROLL *BALANCED AGAINST JOUNCE

Your new Plymouth is here . . . with scores of new and surprising features!

Cars as illustrated include certain extra equipment items. Check with your local dealer for information on standard equipment.

SURPRISING NEW COMFORT

The sensational new Plymouth BALANCED RIDE is by far the softest, smoothest ride you will find in any car of comparable price. The new Plymouth is balanced against pitch—against roll—and against jounce. Nothing like it has been offered before—even by Plymouth. And among the 21 new comfort features you will also find luxurious new interiors with 8-inch wider back seats—a huge luggage compartment with 30% more space for your travelling comfort—more legroom to stretch out, front and rear...and a host more.

SURPRISING NEW STYLE AND BEAUTY

Here again the new Plymouth is the car of happy surprises! 34 new style features to delight your eyes—longer, lower lines—air-streamed styling of the graceful fenders—newly designed grille and massive bumpers—new, smart instrument panel with centre glove compartment for easy access—broad, continental-type rear deck—rich new colours and beautiful roomy interiors make Plymouth an outstanding style leader in any company.

SURPRISING NEW PERFORMANCE AND SAFETY

38 new features in performance and safety alone. Many you can see — like the new one-piece optically designed windshield, which minimizes reflections—the full vision rear window—15.7% greater total glass area in all—the broad, low hood giving you wonderful road view. Many more you will feel the moment you take the wheel and drive . . . the amazing new ease in handling . . . wonderful road-hugging balance on curves . . . perfect control and highway safety. But you must drive the surprise car of '53 to realize how far ahead it really is in beauty, fine engineering and downright comfort.

Unlimited Iron

The mountains of Labrador and Quebec hold iron. That fact has been overwhelmingly proved by the discovery on the border north of Seven Islands; the deposits are about to be mined by a company which has poured millions of dollars into mine structure and railway and harbour development from the St. Lawrence into the interior where the ore is. It is not logical to think that all the iron in Quebec and Labrador is in this one belt, or that other industrialists would let the chance of other discoveries pass them by.

* * *

One of the United States' noted financiers and industrialists, Cyrus Eaton of Cleveland (a Nova Scotian by birth), announced last week in Quebec City the discovery of very large tonnages of iron ore near Ungava Bay, more than a thousand miles north of Quebec City. Mr. Eaton said that Canadian geologists hired by him had made the discovery in Ungava, and that the ore, of medium and low grades, was situated so that water transportation to Europe would be probable and possible.

* * *

What does this discovery mean, other than as additional proof that the Laurentian Shield is rich in iron? Unless there is a sudden new need for iron, it is not likely that the Ungava deposits will be mined immediately. Before they can be exploited commercially, extensive power facilities and elaborate processing equipment have to be installed near the deposits. Only if this ore (which is not of the highest grade) can be processed on the spot and made ready for the blast furnaces of Britain and continental Europe, will the Ungava discovery be a new source of Canadian wealth and power. However, American iron and steel firms are now spending hundreds of millions of dollars to develop a commercially practicable method of processing lower grade ore; a way will be found to deal with the "unlimited" Ungava deposits.

Faster Than The Road Allows

Not all highway accidents are caused by young, careless or inefficient drivers. In facts, as compiled by the Motor Vehicles Branch of the Ontario Department of Highways, most car accidents in the Province are caused by, or involve, drivers aged between 25 and 40 who have had more than five years' experience. For instance, between January and September of this year, 29,247 of the drivers involved in the 41,021 accidents which occurred in Ontario during those nine months were aged between 25 and 40, and 49,932 of the drivers had at least five years' experience. It seems that most accidents are caused by people who consider themselves to be good drivers. But the good drivers have a common failing: they believe that they can drive safely at whatever speed they think safe, and not the speed the law sets.

Professor Oscar Martin of Queen's University, an international authority on motor highways, has stated a basic fact which even the most skilled drivers should heed. He says that every driver in Ontario is taking a chance who travels more than 50 miles an hour on the highways, because Ontario's highways are not engineered for speeds in excess of 50 miles an hour. (The new four-lane highways are an exception; they are built—road width, curves, grades, surfaces—for higher speeds.)

Professor Martin said nothing about the ability, experience or health of the drivers, nor about the condition of the cars; he made only this point: that highways are built to accommodate automobiles going at certain speeds. Beyond these speeds, the highways are dangerous. And Ontario's highways, except for the four-lane routes, are built for cars going up to, but not beyond, 50 miles an hour. Motorists who measure safety by their own skill, or the power and condition of their cars, should remember this primary fact about Ontario's highways when their speedometer needles go beyond 50.

Professor Martin added another point: that a car travelling at 60 needs four times as long to stop as a car going 30. The Motor Vehicles Branch of the Ontario Department of Highways has found that of the 9,879 persons driving improperly and causing an accident thereby during the first nine months of this year, 2,715 were driving at a speed too fast for road or traffic conditions. Classifying accidents according to the actions of the drivers, the statisticians have found that speeding drivers are more numerous than any others who cause violence and bloodshed on our highways.

Conspicuous By Their Absence

Two important series of international discussions have been going on during the last week in the absence of the most important party to them. The conference of Commonwealth Prime Ministers in London has been most concerned with the dollar-pound problem; they want to make the sterling more easily convertible and it is reported that, in order to accomplish this, they want the United States to raise the price of gold. The United States is the biggest buyer of gold, is the custodian of the dollar empire to which the sterling empire is now subsidiary; yet the United States was not asked to attend the Commonwealth conference. The rules prevent it; the United States is not yet a Commonwealth country.

In New York, the United Nations have been most concerned with Korea, and the Indian proposal which might end the war in Korea. Whether peace will issue from the Indian resolution, approved by all but a few U.N. members, depends on China—Red China. But Red China is not a member of U.N. and has neither voice nor seat in the Assembly. The rules of U.N. do not allow China a seat; or rather, they still permit the discredited Chiang Kai-shek government, which no longer governs, to occupy China's place.

We wonder that success can result from resolutions and proposals made at conferences to which a principal agent, if not the chief party to the question, has not been invited. Shot-gun weddings, the patriarchial system and endogamy are disappearing from domestic life, but internationally, the ancient Greek practice still lingers of arranging the wedding without consulting the bride, and then conducting her to the bridegroom's house in a chariot drawn by a pair of mules.

Church Attendance As Punishment

A Goderich jury dealt with a case of perjury on December 2, and acquitted the accused man; however, they added a rider to their verdict that "we, the jury, recommend that the accused attend church regularly for one year".

This appears to us to be an impudent and unwarranted suggestion; first, it suggests that although they have acquitted the accused, the jury still has its doubts about him—surely a libellous implication, and we do not see why a jury should not be guilty of libel; next, it implies that church attendance is a form of corrective treatment, rather than an act of worship; last, it attempts to extend the jury's power in a direction in which it has no power.

It is the second item on our list which is most far-reaching and truly shocking. To go to church is useless, unless one goes in the right spirit. Is a man who attends church because he has been told to go there in a courtroom in that proper frame of mind? And what of the pastor and the other worshippers? Are they to have their place of worship converted into an annex of the House of Correction? In Puritan days there were laws enforcing church attendance, but there are no such laws now, for we believe that a man should go to church of his own free will, or refrain from going through the same agency.

From time to time courts and juries recommend this church treatment for people who appear before them. We think that the churches might fittingly protest against such nonsense.

Oil In Canada For The Machines Of Russia

There is a possibility that vast deposits of petroleum oils lie in the Arctic archipelago of Canada, in the vicinity of Cornwallis Island. Two young Canadian Government geologists have discovered geodesic indications of oil where the R.C.A.F. now has a small detachment, midway between U.S. Arctic defence bases in Alaska and Greenland. If oil is discovered there, it will have implications of great military importance to this continent.

The Vancouver Province thinks that oil in the Arctic, developed reasonably soon, can fill "a dangerous gap in the North American Arctic defences". Yes; if oil for the engines of war can be had on the spot, that supply will be very useful. There is another implication which we think is equally important. If the Canadian Arctic is rich in oil, and it can be made available, will the near-neighbour of the Canadian Arctic, Russia, not covet it as avidly as she covets the oil in Iraq, Persia and North America? A vast store of oil in our north could be extremely dangerous to Canada. It would fill a gap—in our oil supply for northern defence—but it would make even more yawning the void—the gap impossible for Canada ever to bridge in her sprawling north—in defence installations and men and airstrips.

NOTES AND COMMENT

Patent office records show that husbands are more inventive than bachelors. They have to be.

Recently some pinhead mailed a package of matches, which caught fire in Montreal and destroyed 50 mailbags filled with letters and parcels. There is no act so stupid that somebody doesn't try it every week or so.

PARIS LETTER

Passion With A Fifth Bullet

By DENNIS BLOODWORTH

A FEW DAYS AGO the doors of the grim French prison of La Roquette creaked open and a condemned murderess, pale and blinking, stepped out a free person. There had been no miscarriage of justice, no remission of sentence for good behaviour, no new extenuating law or amnesty. The condemned had merely filed an appeal curiously reminiscent of the querulous outcry of a small child: "If she can do it, why can't I?"

She was referring to Madame Yvonne Chevallier who, like herself, had taken the law into her hands and summarily executed an unfaithful husband in a fit of jealous passion, but who had walked out of a Rheims courthouse on November 7 after an all-male jury had pronounced her "not guilty."

✧ ✧ ✧

BETRAYED, humiliated and brutally neglected, Madame Chevallier put four bullets into the husband whom she so passionately loved, left him lying in his own blood and, after having taken her child downstairs to the concierge, returned to despatch the dying man with a fifth bullet, fired at point-blank range.

While the trial was on, Parisians took their usual morbid interest in this latest "crime passionel," following in the newspapers the familiar Latin cycle through love, suspicion, jealousy and frenzy, to murder. Although there was much discussion over the fifth bullet, delivered in circumstances that made the crime appear cold-blooded and therefore oddly foreign, the public was prepared to regard the affair as the sensation of the week—a suitable subject for discussion over a strictly limited period.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT WHEN THE JURY gave its verdict, it was as if a brick had shattered a window in Paris and suddenly let in the sound of a violent altercation in the street outside. The quiet academical discussions ended and bitter arguments flared up throughout the city. Stamping the rain-misted winter streets, swallowing scalding coffee in a neon-lit bistro, or sitting self-consciously at their fiercely formal dinner parties, Frenchmen, more ill-tempered and dogmatic than I have ever seen them, have for the past month been throwing themselves into loud-voiced quarrels over what has become the most important and dangerous topic of the year.

Only last week a fight broke out at my corner cafe over it, and yesterday, at a staid little evening party where nearly all were strangers to one another, I saw a vicious exchange ended with a young woman's hysterical appeal for Yvonne Chevallier, followed by a flood of tears.

✧ ✧ ✧

ONE-HALF of the town defends the wronged woman, while the other accuses, but it is the deper significance of the verdict that explains why this case still makes news. Happily not expected to reply, I listened to my North African dentist express it today in succinct terms: "Not guilty?" he said, as much menace in his voice as in his hands, "Not guilty? A woman puts five bullets into a man, and she is innocent of his killing? What kind of a legal precedent does that set? We might as well tear up the Code Napoleon and take to stone axes again."

His question had already been answered when the doors of La Roquette swung open last week and the first beneficiary under the new precedent emerged, guilty as when she was condemned, but now scot-free.

BUT TO GIVE the Paris atmosphere in terms of the emotions of Parisians, the beady-eyed concierges and the frenetic traffic police, is to ignore the other Paris—capital of the international organisations of the western world. Living an ivory tower existence, tens of thousands of foreigners work in this city, pay three times the normal rent for their flats, run cars they could never afford at home, eat, sleep, breed, sometimes even die, and sometimes—but this is more rarely — wake up to the fact that they are in France.

These are the international civil servants, who do not merge with Paris life but thread an insulated steam-heated path through it, work for an impersonal but conveniently-arranged set of initials, and have an almost reptilian disregard for the warm Gallic life that goes on around them. For every national monument there is a UNESCO (umpteen national flags drooping in the rain), a NATO, an OEEC, a SHAPE, and MSA. *

(* UNESCO: United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization; NATO, North Atlantic Treaty Organization; OEEC, Organization for European Economic Cooperation. SHAPE: Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers in Europe. MSA, The American Mutual Security Agency.)

IN THIS CIRCLE Yvonne Chevallier means little, but there is considerable argument over the lessons to be drawn from the latest exercise of General Ridgway, the Supreme Commander of SHAPE, which may be termed "Operation Cocktail." The Supreme Commander, wishing to meet his subordinates in an informal atmosphere, decided to throw two cocktail parties to each of which 250 officers from three of the six divisions of SHAPE would be invited with their wives. The result was an outstanding example of impeccable staff work. Officers of each division received invitations together with certain administrative orders: the first division would report for drinks at 1730 hours and leave at 1800 hours. The third would come at 1845 hours and leave at 1915 hours. And no nonsense.

My well-informed Military Source (a major) drove with his wife to the General's residence some distance outside Paris, and was met at the gate by a sergeant of the United States Military Police in full regalia who handed him a plastic token, turned him out of his car, and had it driven to an unknown destination. They then passed through the hands of several similar sergeant for proper screening.

AT THE ENTRANCE, the major and his wife deposited their coats and hats in exchange for another plastic token and then queued to shake hands with the General and Mrs. Ridgway. Having done so they were guided to an upper chamber where drinks were not served, but drawn up for the taking in a column of four on well-appointed tables.

With twenty-five minutes in hand, the guests pursued a variety of tactics. Some are known to have left as dry as they came. On the other hand, it is recorded that one bold spirit neutralised eight dry martinis in the time available. After a time my major was addressed by one of the ubiquitous aides-de-camp in these terms: "There seems to be a general drift towards the door." Looking around him, he observed no general drift, but he did see ten other ADCs telling ten other guests that there was "a general drift towards the door." A glance at his watch told him that there certainly must be a drift, even if it were not evident to the naked eye, and he made his exit rapidly, accompanied by his wife, but unencumbered by an opportunity to say good-bye to his host, who had remained discreetly out of sight.

HE HAD TO WAIT twenty minutes for his car. It appears that another guest, similarly placed with time on his hands, attempted to hand his car-token in for his hat, and vice-versa, in the hope of obtaining a mink coat for his wife and a 1952 Cadillac for himself. He was frustrated, however, by the fact that the tokens were of different colours. They had thought of everything.

The jollifications over, my friend drove back to Paris through the rain. Many admitted the party was exceptionally well organised, but when, afterwards, I proposed to a group of military friends that I should throw one on similar lines, I noticed a general drift towards the door. . . .

New Plan For East-West Trade

By SUSAN STRANGE

AN IMPORTANT suggestion with interesting possibilities for Britain and other sterling countries has been made by officials of the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe.

It is that trade with the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe—at present carried on by a primitive system of barter between pairs of countries on either side of the Iron Curtain—could in future be increase by the use of "triangular" payments arrangements.

The suggestion forms part of a very full anayisis of East-West trade in Europe over the past two years, and an assessment of prospects for the future, contained in the current Economic Bulletin issued tonight by the ECE Secretariat in Geneva.

At present, the flow of East-West trade is not only far below its pre-war levels, it is also only eighty-five per cent. of the flow in 1949—the peak post-war year. Since before the war, too, the shrinkage has not been even in both directions; Eastern Europe's exports to the West have fallen further, to a quarter of their pre-war level, while Western Europe's exports eastwards have fallen to only two-thirds of the pre-war level.

However, although the trend is still downwards, the ECE apparently believe there may be something in the various announcements made at the Moscow Economic Conference in April this year, claiming that East European countries would substantially increase their exportable surpluses during the next few years.

As the Bulletin points out, this has a direct bearing on the dollar problems facing Western European governments. The main exports of Eastern Europe are coal (from Poland and Czechoslovakia), timber and grain. If these exports could be raised even to their fairly modest pre-war levels, Western Europe could be saved a corresponding expenditure on coal, timber and grain from North America and other dollar sources, amounting to about three hundred million dollars a year.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE AUTHORS of the Bulletin are prepared to admit—as Mr. Gunnar Myrdal, the Secretary-General of ECE has admitted all along—that the real obstacle to East-West trade at the moment is political, and that no amount of trade negotiation will be effective without a foundation of political understanding. However, given such understanding, even of a cool and cautious nature, the authors seem to think that the trends of economic development may bring about a new pattern of East-West trade of a kind which would be greatly facilitated by an improvement on the present barter system.

In particular, they point out that the Soviet Union expects to increase the volume of its trade with the free world about fourfold in the next three years, compared with an increase of only sixty per cent. or so by the satellite states.

Most of this increase will be necessitated by the Soviet Union's increasing need for industrial raw materials—rubber, tin, lead, other non-ferrous metals, and also, perhaps, wool. These it can buy very largely from the overseas sterling countries — Australia, Malaya, East and West Africa—and from the overseas dependencies of Western Europe. If Rumania, for example, really achieves the tremendous increase in exportable grain supplies that were declared possible in Moscow earlier this year; if Poland can increase coal exports from ten to eighteen million tons; and if Hungary can raise sugar exports four times higher than their present level—then there might be a natural basis for a new pattern of triangular—or even quadrilateral—trade to the greater benefit of all involved.

In any case, whether these rather dramatic changes are ever brought about or not, the authors believe that certain minor obstacles to the exchange of goods between the two halves of Europe can be removed by triangular payments arrangements. They point out that under the barter system, trade is liable suddenly to be cut off when one partner runs out of credit with the other, and the exchange is restricted, in effect, to the lowest common denominator of need between the two parties. Unconsidered Trifles

Five-year-old Willie had been taught that Sunday is not a day for play. One Sunday morning his mother found him sailing his toy boat in the bathtub.

"Willie," she said, "don't you know it's wicked to sail boats on Sunday?"

"There's no need to get excited mother," he replied calmly. "This isn't a pleasure trip. This is missionary boat going to Africa."

The buxom woman was applying for a separation from her small spouse.

"Your Lordship," she said, "he broke every dish in the house over my head, and treated me cruelly."

"Did your husband apologize or express any regret for his actions at the time?" asked the judge patiently.

"No, your lordship. The ambulance took him away before he could speak to me."

A Scotsman was bound for London on a slow train, and at each stop he left his compartment and hurried into the station, only to rush back to his seat before the train started.

After this performance had been repeated many times, a fellow passenger asked the reason.

"It's because of my heart," the Scotsman explained. "The doctor says I may drop off at any time, and I'm buying tickets from station to station."

Letter To The Editor

COMMENT ON AMBULANCE SERVICE

Sir,—In regard to the letter on ambulance service on Dec. 6, I would like to say this: As far as R. R. Findlay's suggestion goes, about the only thing that would probably work is that the police get a "station wagon" that is easily converted into an ambulance which would be manned by police trained in first aid.

As for what Mr. Cobb had to say, even one city ambulance in Peterborough would never begin to pay under the present conditions. The police don't get enough of those kind of accidents to make one pay. (When I say pay I don't mean it in price or revenue, I mean in value.)

About a fireman trained in first aid: I think at least one-third of the city firemen are fully trained and qualified first-aiders. I do not know all the rules or regulations of St. John's, so I can't say anything about a man (or woman) wearing the uniform all the time.

Putting an electric bell on an ambulance wouldn't be any better than a siren, I don't think. Because it would be the same case as the siren. The privilege of the use of one is abused sometimes by some ambulances and used to be by the fire department for calls during the night (but not now).

Therefore, 75 per cent. of the motorists don't pay any attention to one, 10 per cent. don't know what the sound of one means, and 15 per cent. will probably do what they should do—pull over to the right side of the road and stop.

The private ambulances in Peterborough wouldn't likely give up their ambulance service and let the city take over. Therefore there would be competition. So far as red lights on the top of an ambulance goes (I stand for correction), I hear that there is a bylaw saying that only police and ambulances are allowed a flash beam and fire trucks a steady beam, which is not the case in this city. For even some tow-trucks have a flash beamed red light on them and therefore nobody will pay any attention to them.

You are absolutely right when you say no casualty should be moved until a trained person was on hand. It would cost the city quite a bit to keep up an ambulance and employ people to run them. It would probably be impossible to rent one.

Urges Canadians Seek Wider World Markets

TORONTO (CP)—Canada should seek wider markets in which to sell her goods, James Stewart, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, said today at the bank's annual meeting.

Perhaps initially this might be "at some cost to ourselves," he added, but the longer-run advantages "are obvious."

He saw possible future problems in the growing proportion of Canadian goods being sold in the United States, and the decreased proportion being sold in the United Kingdom.

A strong and widely-acceptable sterling currency, he stated, seems essential.

"It seems equally necessary that Britain clarify the sterling position, for it is from that source that trade revival can most effectively spring."

Business, said Mr. Stewart, is entering a period of increasing risk.

"Nevertheless, there is no need for pessimism, providing the utmost efficiency is exercised in the conduct of our affairs in this fast-changing world."

He noted an abatement of inflationary pressures and urged review of anti-inflation measures "which, under present-day conditions, have lost their usefulness," and particularly urged review in the fields of direct and indirect taxation.

"Onerous taxes can dampen incentive, deter production and restrict consumption," he said.

Concerning social security and welfare measures, Mr. Stewart commented:

"Many of the measures that we have accepted up to this time are perhaps justified in their social and economic effects." However:

"To those who envisage a further widening of welfare services it cannot be too often emphasized that the possibilities of increasing welfare by the expansion of output far exceed the possibilities of increasing it by redistribution" (of income through taxation).

Mr. Stewart said Canada's national gross production this year is estimated to be in the neighborhood of $23,000,000,000, an increase of seven per cent over last year, partly due to expanded production, price increases and heavy agricultural harvests.

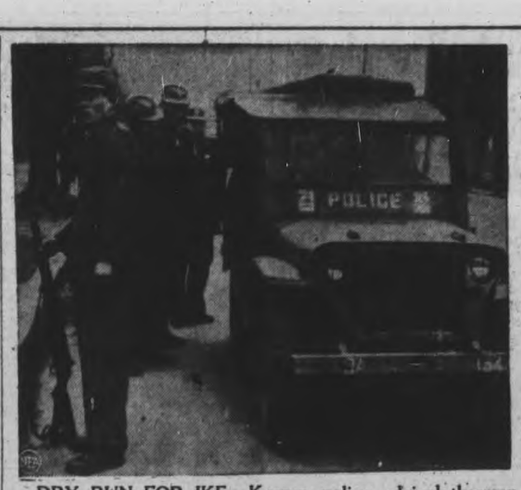
The general business picture, he said, continues favorable, but "certain industries are operating below capacity because of lack of sales, and other industries are absorbing inventory losses due to falling sales.

"The gold-mining industry is probably the best example of depression conditions in this period of generally high productivity and high prices."

In regard to livestock and dairy farmers, he said:

"The recent loss of two main export markets through the termination of the food contracts with the United Kingdom and the closing of the united States market to animal and meat products has resulted in a train of difficulties touching nearly every aspect of agriculture. . .

"The situation calls for an imaginative approach and a readiness to seek out new markets, and perhaps new marketing methods may be necessary."



DRY RUN FOR IKE—Korean police, plainclothesmen and security men line the streets along the road to Seoul's airfield. Citizens thought the President-elect had already arrived. But this was only a rehearsal.

Macfarlane Company Building New Highway

CAVAN (ENS). — The Macfarlane Construction Co. have rented five acres of land on the farm of Robert McInnis, one mile south of Cavan village, for a camp site while they are constructing the highway link between 28 and 35.

The members of the PLQ Club, Cavan, who attended the dinner at the McGillis Hotel, Peterborough, on Thursday evening, were Mrs. H. Dawson, Mrs. T. Douglas, Mrs. Lloyd Sutton, Mrs. Ira Gillis, Mrs. M. Challice, Mrs. E. Fallis, Mrs. R. Vance, Mrs. Donald Lang, Mrs. James Nelson, Mrs. C. Petterson, Mrs. A. Coyte, Mrs. L. McNeil, Mrs. J. H. McKnight, Mrs. J. D. Armstrong, and Mrs. H. C. Argue.

The members of the South Cavan Area School Board and Mr. W. H. Carlton, Cobourg, met at the home of Mr. Donald Lang on Thursday evening. The chairman of the board, Mr. Ernest Brackenridge, presided. After the business discussion, lunch was served.

Brig. Walsh Leaves Command At Hannover

HANNOVER, Germany (CP)—Brig. Geoffrey Walsh, CBE, DSO, handed over command of Canada's 27th brigade to his successor and said "leaving this brigade feels like losing a part of my heart."

The St. Catharines, Ont., officer brought the brigade to Germany in November last year and was succeeded by Brig. J. E. C. Pangman, DSO, of Toronto.

In his final action with the brigade Monday, Brig. Walsh briefed commanding officers on the operational role of the 27th. He said that "as an operational group it must always be aware that it could be required to fight at any time on short notice."

Brig. Walsh and Mrs. Walsh left by train for southern Europe for a three-week holiday. He returns to Canada early next year to take up his new duties as director-general of military training at defence headquarters, Ottawa.

Salaries In Doubt

SARNIA (CP) — Unless city council pays promptly the $35,000 lopped off the board of education appropriation last spring, teachers salaries will go unpaid at Christmas time, William Rogers, director of education, said Monday night. Mayor W. C. Nelson replied the city could assure $30,000, but wanted the board to try and take care of the remaining $5,000 themselves.

Workman's Fall Fatal

OAKVILLE (CP)—Charles E. Thompson, 47, of Victoria Harbor was killed Monday when he fell 20 feet from a scaffolding at the new Ford of Canada assembly plant here. Thompson, an employee of the Canadian Bridge Company, was found unconscious on the ground. No one saw him fall.

Heads School Board

TORONTO (CP)—Syl Apps, former star with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, Monday night became another retired hockey player successful in politics. Syl led the polls for election to the school board in suburban Scarborough township's area three. He received 531 votes, 109 more than his closest rival.

Five Pounds Of Atoms Future's Power Source

MONTREAL (CP)—Future atomic energy reactors may produce energy equal to 60,000,000 tons of coal or 57,000,000,000 kilowatt hours from only five pounds of atoms, Dr. D. A. Keys, director of Chalk River, Ont., atomic energy project, said here.

Addressing the young men's section of the Montreal Board of Trade Dr. Keys said Monday night the possibilities are limitless for obtaining power from atomic energy for industrial and domestic purposes.

Atomic furnaces could produce heat through nuclear reaction and, used to produce steam, could operate conventional generators. The best that can be done at present is to obtain one tenth of one per cent of the possible energy from natural uranium 235.

Even this amount was tremendous, being equivalent in theory to the labor of more than 53,000 men for a year.

Clerks Play Detective

KITCHENER (CP)—Two store clerks playing detective Monday foiled the efforts of a man to cash an $80 postal order stolen from Tara post office in September, 1951. While one clerk wrapped two small articles the other rushed to check the note at the post office. The man became suspicious and left the store.

Granted Wage Increase

KITCHENER (CP)—About 60 employees of the Rumpel Felt Company Ltd., have been granted a wage increase of seven cents an hour, retroactive to Nov 17. A contract signed between the company and the United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America (CIO-CCL) brings the average rate to about $1.30 an hour. The work week is being reduced from 48 to 45 hours. It is the first union contract signed by the company.

It's HARD to realize that less than one hundred years ago aluminum was a precious metal, priced at $17 an ounce. In fact, Queen's University at Kingston, Ont., presented the first graduate from its chemistry course with an aluminum medal in 1858.

Nowadays the price of aluminum is 18c a pound. How is it that a dollar buys as much aluminum today as it did before the war, while it buys so much less of most other things? One big reason is the increasing use of aluminum — ten times that of 15 years ago. Volume production keeps production costs down. Aluminum is not only light and strong — it is low in price too. Diplomat Drunk, Carrying Secret Papers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The state department said Monday that Foy D. Kohler, 44-year-old diplomat, had two secret documents with him when he was arrested for drunkenness last week-end.

A department spokesman said Kohler violated security regulations by failing to safeguard classified material "in a manner commensure with its classification." Kohler formerly directed the Voice of American.

Kohler and his wife, Phyllis, 40, were taken into custody Saturday after a car Mrs. Kohler was driving crashed into a tree in adjacent Arlington, Va.

PAYS FINE

A fine of $8.25 was paid by Kohler when he was charged with public intoxication. Mrs. Kohler was released in $500 bail pending a hearing on charges of drunken driving.

The state department said Kohler is a member of State Secretary Dean Acheson's policy planning board.

The documents he had in the car dealt with research on the political situation in Morocco, the scene of bloody violence over the week-end, and with Tunisia.

The department meantime kept open what disciplinary action it might take. Kohler conferred with officials at the department today.

Sabres For Britain Complete First Lap

OTTAWA (CP)—The first group of more than 300 jet fighters being built in Canada for Britain completed the first lap of a flight to England, landing at Goose Bay, Labrador.

Air Force headquarters said the nine F-86 Sabres and their RAF pilots will wait at Goose Bay for another five Sabres to join them from Bagotville, Que., where the first nine started their flight.

The 14 jets then will head across the Atlantic over the same route used earlier this year by four squadrons of RCAF Sabres which flew overseas. They will stop at Bluie West, Greenland; Keflavik, Iceland; and Prestwick, Scotland.

62 Men Of Opposition Walk Out On Debate

NEW DELHI (AP) — A walkout by 62 deputies of Communist and other opposition parties Monday failed to shake the government's opposition to revamping Indian state boundaries along language lines.

The walkout followed a ruling by A. A. Ayyangar, the speaker, barring discussion of a motion dealing with the issue.

The Communists are supporting the move because it would give them virtual domination in the proposed state of Andrha in southern India. The Communists have won the biggest share of their election victories in this area.

P. Spriramulu, a leader in Madras state, is in the 16th day of a fast undertaken to call attention to demands for carving Andrha state out of the present states of Madras and Hyderabad.

Blasts Planning Lack For Slow Development

OTTAWA (CP)—Julian Ferguson (PC—Simcoe North) says he is "sick and tired of watching this country creep along."

"This country is creeping along because of lack of planning by the government," said Mr. Ferguson Monday in the Commons.

As a result of a lack of planning there were shortages of population and houses and mortgage money for houses.

The government was trying to claim all credit for developments. No credit was given to private enterprise, to the provinces or others.

"This country has grown despite the government," said Mr. Ferguson.

Plane Hits House

STETTLER, Alta. (CP)—Five persons, one an infant, escaped injury at the week-end when a light plane crashed into the side of a Stettler home after attempting to take off from a highway just west of the town, 100 miles southeast of Edmonton. The house of Mr. and Mrs. D. Kistner was badly damaged, a wall being caved in by the impact. But the couple and their baby were unhurt. Pilot Roy E. Burmaster of Edmonton and an unidentified passenger climbed unscathed from the aircraft, also badly wrecked.

Ex-Missionary Gloomily Sees Free World's End

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Representative Walter Judd (Rep. Minn.), a onetime missionary in China, says the odds are against the survival of free society.

He told a group of churchmen Monday night: "We are in a crucial moment of history when the odds are against us—from the standpoint of survival of our kind of society."

At a dinner of United Churchmen of the National Council of Churches, he said: "All civilization has been put on the defensive and communism is on the march."

Judd said there is "no hope for Korea," and "the Koreans all know it." He said one of the reasons for such a situation is that the United States is following an old habit of "trying to make a deal" with the enemy.

Some 400 laymen from 29 denominations heard the congressman describe Christian religion as "the only hope." It gives hope because it offers the possibility that men can be changed, he said.

Looking over conditions in the Far East, Judd said: "People talk about Japan being a bastion against communism. They'd like it to be but it can't."

Economic conditions are putting Japan on the ropes and forcing her to look toward Red China for trade; the Philippines is "a dead duck," and Indo-China is tottering, he said.

"There was never any chance to save it," he contended, "once Communists had consolidated power in China."

Judd said the Americans may be having tough going in Korea, but, "it's worse in Indo-China — and they'll be there."

There has been a "terrible contraction of the places where men are free, and an expansion of where they are enslaved."

"We've been at war for 30 years, and don't know it," he said. "That's why we're losing.

In the Philippines the U. S. has sacrificed 50 years of democratic teachings and leadership, but "there's no way for the Philippines" to remain independent if the Communists rule on the mainland.

Quinte Juniors Capture Win Over The Links For Firmer Grip On Top

Belleville Hawklets tightened their hold on first place in the OHA junior "B" group standing here last night with a decisive 12-4 victory over the local Oddfellows. They rolled to a 3-0 lead in the first frame and built it to a 7-1 margin going into the more even third stanza. Play was quite fast most of the way but pretty disorganized at times, and Referee Doug Calhoun of Oshawa handed out 24 penalties, 15 going to the visitors. They included majors to Don Clapper and Goalie Don Barclay for fighting, and a misconduct to Pete Green for pushing the ref once.

BELOW FORM

A slim crowd saw the Links turn in a reversal of form to the class they showed here the previous game in beating Kingston. Doug Mortimer's lads tried hard enough but didn't click up to their peak, lacking combination and not getting the checking, defensive work or goaltending of that other tilt. Belleville, on the other hand, came up with a fine two-way hustling display to earn the duke handily, though hardly by that margin. It should have been about an 8-4 game on the play. Two of the visitors' goals were deflected in by home defenders.

Two goals each for Hawklets were counted by Ray Herminston, Ron Halstead, Henri Therrien, Doug Hull and Davey Jones, as Pete Green and George Jackson got the others. Jones helped on a pair, single assists going to Green, Halstead, Herminston, Hull and Perlini. Barclay turned in a smart showing in the Quinte cage.

LOOKED GOOD

Roger Smith and Paul Doris looked good for the losers in banging home two goals apiece, and Bob Gardner helped on two fine ones. Don Clapper, Bud McDougall, Gary Kearns and Murray Byrne each earned an assist.

Dick McCracken twice had to leave the game with a charley-horse and he was missed. So was Red Robinson, out sick. Penalties hurt both sides, but Belleville drew most of them and the Oddfellows failed to cash in. Both teams were inclined to be chippy all through but the only fight came late in the last period when Goalie Barclay and Don Clapper swapped blows furiously for several seconds before being parted.

Teams:

Belleville: Goal, Barclay; defence, Green and Stocco; centre, Jones; wings, Gilmour and Therrien; alts., Perlini, Jackson, Halstead, Herminston, Hull, Casey and Goyer.

IOOF: Goal, Delahaye; defence, Wilson and Clapper, centre, Kearns; wings, Smith and McDougall, alts., Twist, Coyle, Ferguson, McCracken, Doris, Gardner, Byrne and Sullivan.

Referee, D. Calhoun; linesman, B. Kingdon.

Summary:

First Period

Belleville—Herminston 6:50
Belleville—Halstead 11:15
Belleville—Green 15:28

Good Time Voted Best Harness Horse

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—For the second time in five years the U.S. turf writers voted Good Time, son of Hal Dale-On Time, harness racing horse of the year.

Holder of the single season all-time money winning record of $110,299, Good Time received 909 points on a 10-7-5-3-1 basis from 99 horse writers. He was the choice of 80 writers for first place.

Winner of the $25,000 National Pacing Derby and nine other events worth $10,000 or more, Good Time boosted his lifetime earnings to $318,792, a peak for standardbred horses.

Habs Buy Stewart For $7,500 Waiver

MONTREAL (CP)—Frank Selke, general manager of Montreal Canadiens of the National League, announces the purchase of Gaye Stewart, veteran left winger of New York Rangers, for the waiver price of $7,500.

Stewart is expected to join the Montreal team in Toronto Wednesday night for a game against the Leafs.

The Canadiens hope Stewart, a Fort William product, will add scoring punch to the team which has lost five and tied four games in their last nine starts.

Luckless Tigers Still Seek Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The luckless Hamilton Tigers of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series are still looking for a victory.

They got another dose of washday blues Monday night as Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen pulled into third place by defeating the Tabbies 5-3 in Hamilton. The only bright spot for the home-towners was the work of Al Bennett in the nets.

In dropping their 19th game of the season without a win or tie, Hamilton managed to score once each period. Billy Hammond got two for Tigers and Johnny Ritchie singled.

Kitchener scoring was by Don Rope, Al Oliver, Ott Heller, Jack Buchanan and Bill Lee.

Chatham Maroons have an opportunity to retie the knot for third place tonight when they visit Brantford Redmen. The Chatham club surprised the league-leading Stratford Indians Saturday by trouncing them 4-1.

Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians meet Sudbury Wolves at Sudbury in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association tonight.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Hub Macey, who played for the Petes when stationed here in the army in the early 40s, is coach of Glace Bay Miners in the Maritime puck setup. He is but one of two dozen former New York Rangers presently coaching hockey clubs, and Dave Kerr of this city did some tutoring for a time at Varsity Arena after doffing his goalpads with Rangers. We don't believe Havelock's gift to the New Yorkers, Doug Brennan, ever went in for coaching after hanging up his gear. Bill Cook and Lynn Patrick are still in the NHL, though through as players some time ago. Besides this record of 24 former players coaching, Rangers can boast of three hockey managers active now, two arena managers and Carl Voss, NHL referee-in-chief.

OHA crowds have been down here so far this season, but quite a few other centres complain of this problem, too. We note where the attendance at Hamilton Tigers' senior "A" tilts has skidded to some 150 a game, and that's pretty bad even for a losing club in a city that size. Bun Morganson writes of the Toronto amateur picture: "What's wrong with senior commercial hockey? Has the depression-born baby for hockey misfits who are too old for junior and not good enough for pro run its course? Weekly crowds of 2,000 and better have dwindled to 500 and less as the senior leagues fight off bankruptcy at Lakeshore, Varsity, Leaside, East York and Scarboro arenas."

* * * * * *

What Can the Matter Be?

He says some promoters blame hefty football interest up to now, mild weather and TV in thousands of homes. But Bunny thinks many teams are organized without much thought of playing talent, schedules dragged out from mid-October to late March to eliminate one or two clubs, and then certain clubs put the snatch on most of the top talent. Whatever the cause, the honeymoon appears over for amateur sports. You've got to give fans first-class athletic competition to get 'em out in goodly numbers. However, we do firmly believe that hockey interest will pick up considerably here after Christmas. It is the big sport then and folks have finished worrying about Christmas shopping, so they'll settle back and see the Petes and Oddfellows stage a drive for group playoffs through January and February.

* * * * * *

The Hawklets from Belleville flew at Civic Arena last eve to tuck away a 12-4 junior puck win o'er the Oddfellows before a slim gallery. Local lads looked below form this trip, playing an individual brand and not up to par defensively. At that the score should have been closer, but Belleville certainly deserved the duke on the night's play. It put 'em further in front of the pack, but the IOOF-ers are pretty well up yet in the standing and should do better next time out. They play in Cobourg on Saturday in a two-point tussle. Pick of the pack for the Mortimer men last p.m. on the attack were Rog Smith, Paul Doris and Bob Gardner. Rest of 'em labored lustily, but appeared disorganized over a good portion of the contest. Hawklets showed a lot of class.

* * * * * *

A Couple More Signed Up

Petes have signed up Doug Hunter of Lakefield and Lorne Eakins, who has been performing for Havelock after playing around this borough previously. Both should prove handy guys. A check into the local club scoring lists after 10 senior "B" tilts shows that Toodie Greenlaw and Chum Fryia are tied atop with 11 points each at present, and these chaps led the Eagles and Petes in sniping last semester with the same totals, Toodie coming over to the Petes this year. Gus Leonard is next with nine points, and he will be moved up to the front line now that Jim Ellis has signed Buck Legrow and Keith Montgomery for defence. The scoring figures are in elsewhere.

* * * * * *

The badminton win of Maurice Charlton and Verna Rose of this city in Toronto o'er the week-end should not pass unnoticed. While it was a "B" tourney, not open to "A" players, the local lasses captured the Ontario ladies' doubles against stiff opposition from Toronto, Oshawa and Bowmanville. That puts them up into an "A" classification now for future engagements, making them Peterborough's only "A" badminton players. The club here lost in Fort Hope last start in inter-club matches, but will have a layff now till after the Christmas festivities, resuming inter-club competition then.

Slingin' Sammy Baugh Retires On Week-end

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sammy Baugh, possibly the greatest passer in football history, announces he will retire Sunday after Washington Redskins' game with Philadelphia Eagles.

This is his 16th year in the National Football League.

He has thrown the most passes, led the league the most often, completed the most passes, gained the most yards, thrown the most touchdown passes and had the biggest percentage of completions of any pro football player.

Baugh, who made the announcement Monday, began playing football in junior high school, and became widely known as a passer at Texas Christian University. He has played with the Redskins since 1937.

TO DEFEND CROWN

LONDON (AP)—World flyweight champion Yoshio Shirai of Japan will defend his title against Terry Allen, British 112-pound king, in Tokyo in May, it was announced here Monday. The exact date was not given. Allen, former world flyweight champion, lost the crown to Dado Marino who in turn was beaten by Shirai. Shirai defeated Marino in a return title bout in Tokyo Nov. 15.

Fryia-Greenlaw Tied Atop Petes' Scorers

The two senior "B" forwards who led Petes and Eagles respectively in scoring last season, Chum Fryia and Toodie Greenlaw, are tied for top scoring honors so far this season. With 10 OHA games played, each has scored 11 points. Fryia has eight goals and three assists, while Greenlaw has five markers and six assists. Gus Leonard is close behind with nine points, though playing on defence, while Curly Mason and Don Floyd have eight each. The figures:

	P.	G.	A.	Pts.
Fryia	10	8	3	11
Greenlaw	10	5	6	11
Leonard	10	3	6	9

City Carpetball

The schedule for the week of December 15 is: Glens 1 v. Legion 7, Red Patch 11 v. Fire Hall 4, Legion 10 v. Legion 5, Legion 12 v. SOE 8, Orphans 2 v. Legion 3, Fire Hall 9 v LOL 6. These will be the last schedule games until the week of January 5.

Results of last week's play: At the Legion Hall the leaders fell before the attack of Legion 10. The first game was 9-4 over Fire Hall 4, and the second game was tied four times, the last time going into the final frame. No. 10's lead planted one square on the kitty and the final score was 13-9, both games going to Legion 10. Also at the Legion Hall, Red Patch 11 and Glens 1 met. The first was tied four times with No. 11 coming from behind to tie it at 8-all in the final end. The second game was the Patches' all the way and they finished ahead 14-4.

Fire Hall 9 captured the first game 16-2 from the Orphans 2. The second game saw Orphans jump into the lead and, while No. 4 finished strong, No. 2 had sufficient to finish ahead by a 12-9 score. At the SOE Hall, the Sons and LOL 6 met. No. 6 started off strongly, but the Sons started to click and the final score was 10-8 in favor of No. 8. LOL 6 captured the first five ends by singles in the second match, and continued to get the odd single and, while No. 8 finished strongly, the final score was 8-6 in LOL favor. Two close games.

At the Legion Hall, Legion 3 and Legion 12 were the opponents. The first game was tied 5-all in the sixth frame, but from there on it was No. 3 game, and the final score was 13-6. No. 3 started strongly, but Legion 12 tied it at 3-all in the fifth frame and went on to win 11-4. Also the Legion Hall saw two more Legion teams meeting in a scheduled match. They were No. 7 and 5. The first game went to No. 5 by a 16-4 score, and the second was a very close affair resulting in a 7-all game.

As mentioned above there will be no schedule games for weeks of December 22 and 29.

Entry fees have not been paid by the Legion teams and LOL.

Standings to December 6:

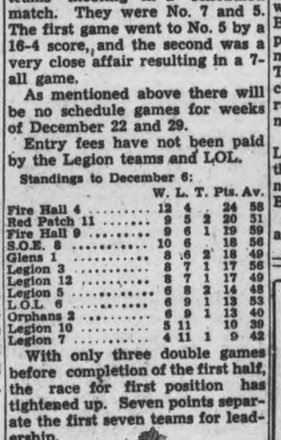
	W.	L.	T.	Pts.	Av.
Fire Hall 4	12	4		24	58
Red Patch 11	9	5	2	20	31
Fire Hall 9	9	6	1	19	59
S.O.E. 8	10	6		18	56
Glens 1	8	6	2	18	49
Legion 3	8	7	1	17	56
Legion 12	8	7	1	17	49
Legion 5	6	8	2	14	48
L.O.L. 6	6	9	1	13	53
Orphans 2	6	9	1	13	40
Legion 10	5	11		10	39
Legion 7	4	11	1	9	42

With only three double games before completion of the first half, the race for first position has tightened up. Seven points separate the first seven teams for leadership.

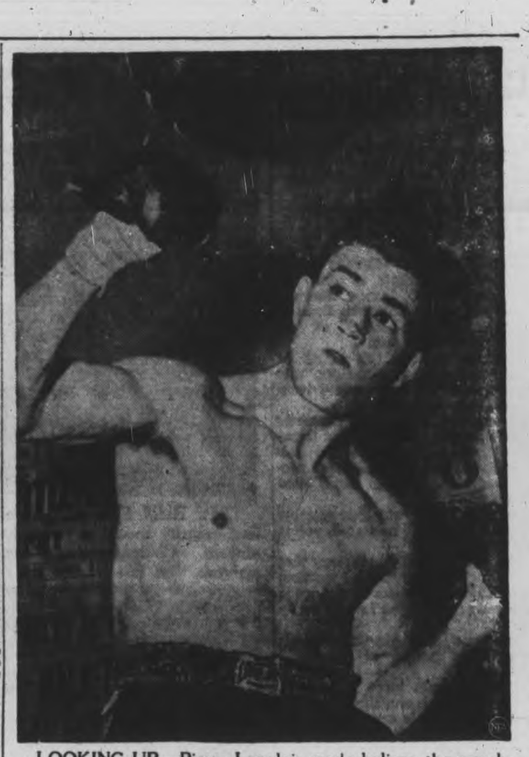
Remember When—

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

New York Rangers traded defenceman Walter (Babe) Pratt to Toronto Maple Leafs for Hank Goldup and Dudley (Red) Garrett 10 years ago today. Sparkplug of Toronto teams for several years, Pratt won the Hart trophy as the NHL's most valuable player in 1944.



OUT OF ACTION—Big Jake Wade, Peterborough's hockey gift—along with Arn Dugan—to Brantford's senior "A" squad this year, is out of action with a shoulder separation and is not expected to play again for several weeks. He played junior "B" here years ago, later seeing action at Hershey and with Boston Bruins, then going to the Maritimes, and finally returning to the Petes for the past few seasons before moving to Brantford. He plays defence now.



LOOKING UP—Pierre Langlois made believe the punching bag was Harold Green, veteran middleweight, whom the former French welter champion was scheduled to box 10 rounds at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway Arena.

Badminton Crown Taken By Peterborough Ladies

Maurice Charlton and Verna Rose of Peterborough captured the Ontario open "B" badminton ladies' doubles championship in Toronto last weekend over a large entry. It was the first provincial badminton title brought here, and the local pair had to win over three seeded teams. They were first-round winners by 3-2 games over K. Hopkins and J. Walker of Oshawa. The second round was taken over D. Hunt and B. Langtry of the Carlton Club—sponsoring the tourney—15-1 and 15-2, this team being seeded third in the competition. S. Naylor and B. Morley of the Carlton Club fell next by 2-1 games, and this pair were seeded second. This was in semi-finals.

TOOK THE FINAL

In the finals, the Peterborough pair defeated the fourth seeded duo of R. Thompson and D. Reddick of Bowmanville by scores of 15-11 and 15-8.

Winners of the "B" tournament move up to an "A" classification, and M. Charlton and V. Rose are now Peterborough's only "A" badminton players. M. Charlton is Peterborough singles lady champion of 1952 as well as a mixed doubles champion and finalist in ladies' doubles here. V. Rose is a finalist in the club championships in ladies' doubles of 1952. Last year they were finalists in the Central Ontario badminotn tournament.

Flanagan And Big Heart Oppose Plummer And Raines In Team Go

The Texas State champions, Lou Plummer and Dick Raines will have their work cut out for them Wednesday at the Brock when they tackle Pat Flanagan and Chief Big Heart in a tag team wrestling match.

Flanagan is one of the best exponents of team wrestling, specializing in this type of grappling. He will be a good partner for Chief Big Heart who is a powerful grappler, but who needs a running-mate of Flanagan's experience. This duo stand a better than even-chance of whipping the Texas ruffians, who are wily tag team matmen.

Johnny Barend meets up with Lee Henning in the semi-final and this should be a real battle. Henning is rugged and canny while Barend is the fast, scientific type.

Joe Christie and Bull Montana are in the opener.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

One of the most interesting developments Canadian sport has known in the last few years is Little League baseball, now a coast to coast affair, and growing tremendously every year.

Few civic enterprises have made a more permanent contribution to the community. Through careful planning and able leadership this worthwhile activity has been made available to thousands of boys all over North America. Tailored to meet the special needs of boys in the 8 to 12 age group, Little League baseball has gained widespread popularity.

Under the leadership of various civic organizations and public-spirited citizens, teams have been organized, equipment purchased, and in some cases special regulation size Little League parks constructed.

Only about 4 years ago there were 94 Little League leagues of from 4 to 6 teams in existence. Today there are 1788 registered Little Leagues comprising 7,538 teams in the United States, its possessions and Canada. Approximately 150,000 players are registered from the ages of 12 down.

In Canada, there are 6 Leagues in the Province of Quebec; 4 on the Island of Montreal, 1 in St. Johns and 1 in St. Eustache. The Province of Manitoba has 25 full-fledged Little Leagues operating and British Columbia has 10.

Progress has been made in Little League baseball in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. There are leagues in Moncton, Saint John, Halifax and Sydney. There are fully equipped regulation Little League Parks in Manitoba and British Columbia. These add color, incentive and pride. Williamsport, Pa., with a population of 50,000 has fifteen fully equipped Little League baseball parks.

It is estimated that over 20,000,000 people witnessed Little League baseball this year in the United States and Canada. There were 7,000 games going every week, and as the season is 10 weeks long this would give you 70,000 games played per season.

The most significant thing about Little League is the way it gets these boys in their formative years, giving them a chance to learn good sportsmanship, team play and proper submission to constituted authority. It gives the boys something constructive to do. It gives them a standing among their own age group and gives them a place in the community. It helps the boys overcome self-consciousness. Among the important lessons it teaches are good sportsmanship, fair play, team play, and how to get along with others. On top of this, it provides wholesome recreational activity.

Bilts Split Two In Quebec Loop

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Guelph Biltmores of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series finished a two-game interlocking schedule tour of Quebec with a victory and a defeat.

Gue'ph dropped an 8-4 decision to Quebec Citadelles Monday night. They trimmed Three Rivers Reds 4-2 Sunday.

Toronto Marlboros start a Quebec tour tonight. The Marlies view the prospects with some doubt. Four players will miss the trip because of their studies. George Stoyan, Dave Jackson and Dave Reid are at University of Toronto facing Christmas exams while John Macdonald has the same trouble at Brampton High School.

The Dukes will promote defenceman Red Sanderson and centre Charles Burns from Weston Dukes Junior B team for the series which starts tonight with Montreal Canadiens.

Citadelles scored four in the third period for their win. Raymond Cyr and Camille Henri notched two each. Other Quebec goals went to Roland Leclerc, Jacques Pichette, Adolph Kukulowicz and Cignac. Chuck Henderson scored twice for Bilts. Singles went to Bill McCreary and Danny Blair.

Barrie travels to Windsor in tonight's action while Oshawa is at St. Catharines and Toronto St. Michael's at Kitchener. A Windsor win and a Kitchener loss could pull the Spits out of the cellar for the first time this season.

SENATORS SELL RAPP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington Senators Monday announced the sale of outfielder Earl Rapp to San Diego of the Pacific Coast League. Rapp, 31, was obtained by the Senators on June 10 from St. Louis Browns. He ended the 1952 season with a .224 batting average.

Wings Tied With Chi-Hawks As Half-Way Mark Nears

MONTREAL (CP)—Detroit Red Wings, league and Stanley Cup champions, are in a first-place tie with Chicago Black Hawks in the National Hockey League race. The Wings, beginning to show the form of defending champions as the 70-game schedule nears the half-way mark, last week scored two wins and a tie to share the top rung in the standing. Chicago had only one win in four games.

The NHL statistics show four Detroit sharp-shooters among the six leaders in the individual scoring race.

The Wings have won 12 games; lost seven and tied six for 30 points, while Chicago has won 12, lost nine and tied six for the same total.

A close battle is also being fought for third spot. Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs are deadlocked with 27 points apiece. Fifth are Montreal Canadiens, winless in their last nine starts, and three points behind Boston and Toronto. New York Rangers are last with 14 points.

Gordie Howe of Detroit continues to lead the league in points and goals with 14 goals and 13 assists for a 27-point total. Wally Hergesheimer of New York with 12 goals and 12 assists and Ted Lindsay of Detroit with 12 and 13 are tied for second.

Maurice (Rocket) Richard is next with 10 goals and 14 assists for a total of 24 points with Toronto's Ted Kennedy one point behind with 10 goals and 13 assists.

Detroit's Alex Delvecchio is sixth and is the league's leading playmaker with five goals and 17 assists to pace the pack. Metro Prystai of the Wings is seventh with a 7-13-20 total.

Toronto continues to be the most penalized team, its players spending 383 minutes in the penalty box. Boston's Sugar Jim Henry is tops in the nets with a 1.92 average, scored against 46 times in 24 games.

HONORS DIVIDED

TORONTO (CP)—Eddie Mac Jr., owned by Fawm Bros. of Mitchell and driven by Joe Hodgins, and Cheerful Lad, owned by C. Hess of Morrisburg and driven by Percy Robillard, each scored a heat victory in the sixth and featured harness event at Dufferin Park Monday.

Norval G., owned and driven by Lorne Ryan of Toronto, won both heats in the fifth and secondary feature. Tom C. Grattan placed second and Stewart Proximity third in each heat.

Name Kesselring Top Ont. Amateur

The 23-year-old Kitchener player Monday was awarded the same rating by the Ontario Golf Association's ranking committee as in 1951 when he displaced 34-year-old Nick Weslock of Windsor Essex. Weslock is again in the No. 2 spot this year. Phil Farley, veteran from the Toronto Scarboro club, stands third.

Others listed among Ontario's top 12, in order of ranking:

Keith Kirkpatrick, London Highlands; Bruce Castator, Toronto Islington; Gordon Ball, Kitchener Westmount; Doug McKellar, Toronto Scarboro, George Eluck, Windsor Lakewood Ernie Bentley, Toronto, Weston; Jerry Knechtel, Kitchener Rockway; Jim Neale, Hamilton Glendale, and Emerson Creed, London Hunt.

Kesselring won the 1952 Ontario open and amateur championships, the second amateur to win both provincial titles in the same year. Farley took both in 1945.

In Willingdon Cup interprovincial play, won by British Columbia, the tall, lean Kesselring scored 138 for 36 holes to tie the record held jointly by Jim Robertson of Vancouver and Weslock.

In America's Cup matches at Seattle, he defeated Harvie Ward, Jr., British amateur champion from Tarboro, N.C., at the 38th hole and downed Fernando Gonsalez of Mexico 11 and 9

Barrie Winger Leads OHA Race

TORONTO (CP)—Skip Teal of Barrie Flyers still leads in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A scoring race but two players are at his heels.

Statistics released by the OHA including games of Dec. 7 show Don McKenney, also of Barrie, and Murray Costello of Toronto St. Michael's within one point of the flashy Barrie forward.

Teal has 23 goals and 21 assists for 4 points in 25 games. Costello has 22 goals and 21 assists in 23 games and McKenney, who has run second only to Teal most of the season, has 23 goals and 20 assists in 25 games.

Jim McBurney of Galt Black Hawks has scored the most goals. He notched seven in two games during the week-end to bring his total to 28. He is in fifth place with 13 assists in 27 games for a total of 41 points. Wally Maxwell of Toronto Marlboros is fourth with 42 points, followed by McBurney.

John Henderson of Toronto Marlboros maintained his goal-tending leadership with 57 scored against him in 23 games for an average of 2.49. Dennis Riggin of the last-place Windsor Spitfires was next with 2.95.

Hildebrand Tops In AHL Scoring

NEW YORK (AP)—Ike Hildebrand, little right winger for Cleveland's high-flying Barons, tops the American Hockey League in scoring and goal-getting today.

Hildebrand has amassed 28 points comprised of 16 goals and 12 assists. Marcel Bonin and Guyle Fielder of St. Louis Flyers, last week's co-leaders, and George Sullivan of Hershey, are tied for second place at 27 points each. Sullivan also is the league's top playmaker with 22 assists.

Goalie Johnny Bower of the pacesetting Barons continues to lead in the battle for net-minding honors. Bower sports a 2.30 goals-against mark and is tied with Syracuse's Gordie Bell for most shut-outs, three.

"Rocket" Calls Fans Bandits In Column

QUEBEC (CP)—A hornet's nest has been stirred up here by a column signed by Maurice Richard of the National Hockey League Montreal Canadiens which said that part of the crowds attending hockey games at the Quebec Coliseum act like "bandits."

The column appeared over the NHL star's signature in the Montreal week-end paper Samedi-Dimanche last week-end.

Protests have been voiced by members of the city council, local sports writers and fans. Pro-mayor Gaston Flibotte suggested that a "provincial sports commission" be set up.

The article was described as "insulting" to Quebec City by alderman Joseph Matte.

It said Quebec hockey fans throw coins, marbles and bottles at players on the ice and that there was no control over the crowds.

California Girls Win Victoria Net Doubles

MELBOURNE (AP) — Little Maureen Connolly of San Diego, Calif., who seems to win a championship every time she picks up her tennis racquet, added another title to her list today when she teamed with Julie Sampson to win the women's doubles crown in the Victoria tournament.

The California 'teen-agers trimmed the top-seeded Australian pair of Mary Hawton and Beryl Penrose 6-2, 6-4 in the finals.

The Aussies' crack doubles team of Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor whipped Ken Rosewall and Lewis Hoad 6-4, 10-8, 3-6, 6-3, in an all-Australian final of the men's doubles.

Shuffle Shakespeare For Stratford Show

STRATFORD (CP)—Plays to be presented next summer in Stratford's initial Shakespearian festival were reshuffled here by members of the festival foundation.

They agreed Monday night to substitute the production of "Richard the Third" and "All's Well That Ends Well" for the originally planned "Hamlet" and "Julius Caesar."

The switch, said Tyrone Guthrie, who will direct the plays, was suggested by Alex Guinness, who is slated for lead roles in them.

Great Fog Blows Away At London

LONDON (AP) — The great fog that gripped London by the throat for four choking days began blowing away this morning.

A cold wind came happily out of the southwest and the 9,000,000 prisoners of London's worst mist of modern times began to breathe more easily.

Air ministry weather experts said the fog should clear completely during the day.

This morning, however, there still were thick patches in some sections. Even these were lightening rapidly as the sun crashed through the smog overcast.

At the city's London and Northolt airports, visibility increased to 660 yards.

Central London, which only a few hours before dawn was a blind jungle of dampness, could boast 500 yards of visibility by 6 a. m. Conditions improved steadily as the morning progressed.

A weather expert said "the southwest wind is getting up and as it increases, the force of it will blow the fog away."

The Automobile Association, however, warned drivers to be careful of icy patches on all roads.

The fog was a break for burglars. More than 100 thefts were reported.

Officials estimated that the soot-laden mist had cost from £14,000,000 to £28,000,000 in smoke damage, loss of business and accidents.

Says Child Sale Not His Business

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration Minister Harris says he probably would be told it is none of the government's business if he investigated a report that an immigrant couple tried to sell their six-year-old son for $1,000.

Mr. Harris was replying in the Commons Monday to G. K. Fraser (PC — Peterborough West) who asked if the immigration department had investigated a report that an immigrant couple from Germany had tried to sell their child.

Mr. Harris replied that his knowledge of the case was limited to a newspaper report. The report quoted Col. C. S. Woodrow of Sarnia, judge of Lambton county family court, as saying he had issued an interim order giving the child temporarily to the Sarnia Children's Aid Society.

Mr. Harris said he probably could investigate.

"I would think I would get the answer that it is her (the mother's) business and not the government's."

Mr. Fraser said there should be an investigation. If the report was true the immigrants should be deported.

Charge Dismissed

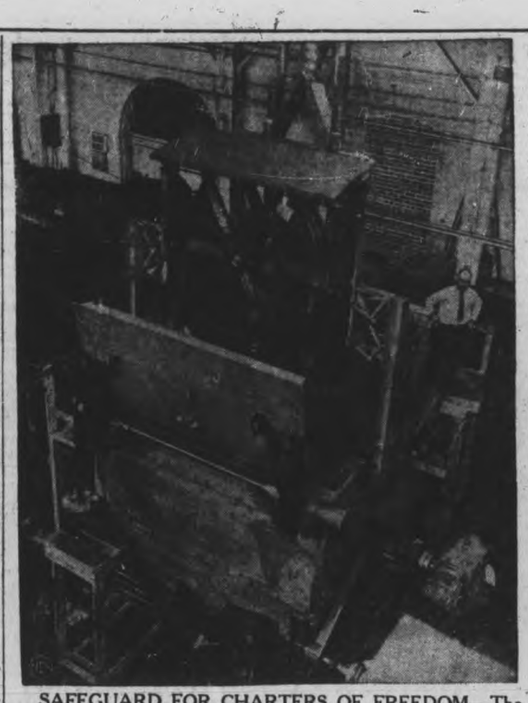
TORONTO (CP)—A charge of dangerous driving against John McConnell, 23, of Toronto was dismissed Monday for lack of evidence. McConnell was charged after an accident Nov. 22 in which Charles Harden, 77, and his 75-year-old wife, Anne, were struck by a car and killed.

Remanded One Week

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—George Harold Clampitt, 18, in city court Monday was remanded until Dec. 15 on a charge of dangerous driving. Police said he was the driver of a car that hit a tree here late Sunday, killing Donald Kozits, 17, and injured five of its 'teen-age occupants.

Tried For Bank Theft

HAMILTON (CP)—Twelve witnesses testified for the crown Monday at the trial of Franklin Brewer, 23, charged with robbing the Freelton branch of the Bank of Toronto of $1,500 Oct. 24. He pleaded innocent. Police charged that Brewer, with two other men, entered the bank, jumped on a counter and brandished a revolver. The bandits escaped in a car with the money from the bank. Freelton is 12 miles northwest of here. The trial is expected to end today.



SAFEGUARD FOR CHARTERS OF FREEDOM—The huge combination elevator-safe, above, is being installed at National Archives Building in Washington, D.C., to protect the nation's most precious documents. The Bill of Rights, the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence, sealed in airtight transparent envelopes will rest in a helium-filled case on the table of the elevator. The table can be lowered from viewing position in approximately one minute, and sealed behind the massive five-ton doors of the 50-ton bomb, fire, burglary and water-resistant safe. The huge device was manufactured by a safe company in Hamilton, Ohio, and will be first put to use on December 15, the 161st anniversary of the ratification of the Bill of Rights.

Spend $500,000 For Research

TORONTO (CP) — With the idea of helping Canadians detect cancer in its early stages, the Canadian Cancer Society will spend $500,000 next year on research and professional training.

Dr. Ethlyn Trapp of Vancouver told a week-end meeting of the society and its subsidiary National Cancer Institute the greatest hope of solving the cancer problem lies in finding out more about it. She is president of the institute.

F. G. Butterfield, cancer society president, said the society is forming new units to spread information about cancer's warning signals.

The institute is sponsoring 74 cancer research projects at 13 Canadian universities and is financing advanced training for promising young Canadian medical graduates specializing in cancer.

NOTICE TO ONTARIO MOTORISTS

Re Unsatisfied Judgment Fund Fee

Notice is hereby given, that pursuant to the Highway Traffic Act and effective with the issue of 1953 motor vehicle operators' and chauffeurs' licenses, an Unsatisfied Judgment Fund Fee of $1.00 will be collected from each person to whom is issued a 1953 license.

This increase in fee is required in view of the fact that the 50 cent fee heretofore collected has proven to be inadequate to meet the demands for payments out of the fund. Since 1947 when the fund was created payments out have exceeded $3,000,000. During the current year it has been necessary to obtain an advance of $300,000 from the Treasury Department in order to make the payments required. A further advance will be required to meet the payments anticipated before the end of the fiscal year (March 31, 1953).

A detailed statement of the Fund may be obtained by writing to the Registrar of Motor Vehicles, Parliament Buildings, Toronto 2, Ont.

Pearson Denies Part In Firing

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson says that neither he nor any official of his department had any connection with the retirement of Brig. Alan B. Connelly, 44, former head of the Canadian military mission in Tokyo.

He gave this denial in the Commons Monday during participation in the throne speech debate. Mr. Pearson was attending Parliament for the first time since he assumed presidency of the current general assembly of the United Nations in New York.

Last Dec. 1 Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, (PC—Nanaimo) referred to the retirement of Brig. Connelly which became known last October when the defence department explained that the brigadier was on retirement leave.

The department's explanation was to the effect that reason for the retirement was that there was no further suitable employment for him. It was widely reported, however, that the retirement followed failure of Brig. Connelly promptly to report the movement of a Canadian company to help quell prisoner-of-war riots on Koje Island.

Cancel Registration Of Brokerage Firm

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario securities commission has cancelled the registration of E. W. Dobson and Company as a broker-dealer for four breaches of Ontario securities regulations.

The commission said: "Dobson may be fairly classified with many other registrants who never had any intention of complying with the requirements of current securities legislation founded on the principle of full disclosure." An appeal against the cancellation was dismissed.

The commission said that Dobson failed to disclose that he owned most of the shares in the Ni-ag-co Mines Limited which he was promoting and that he delivered his own shares under an agreement calling for treasury shares. He continued to make a public offering of shares after the mine closed down and also engaged in primary distribution after qualification of the issue lapsed.

Reuther Prepared To Resign For Unity

DETROIT (AP)—Walter Reuther said Monday he would be willing to give up the CIO presidency for a lesser office if this could help toward "effective" AFL-CIO unity.

The newly-elected CIO chief made the statement in a five-minute nationally-televised interview on his return from the CIO's Atlantic City convention.

In the interview Reuther repeated that he would not let personal advantage stand in the way of merger.

George Meany, the AFL's new president, made a similar statement last night.

Convicted of Theft

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Mrs. Helen Blanche Schmidt, 41, of Windsor, Ont., was convicted in county judge's criminal court Monday of theft of a $195 coat from Wolf Bros. Ltd. A saleswoman testified that Mrs. Schmidt on Oct. 14 took the coat to the shop door, then kept on walking. Judge J. F. MacMillan of St. Thomas remanded Mrs. Schmidt until Friday for sentence.

Committed For Trial

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Vendel Nadasdi Monday was committed for trial by a higher court on a charge of manslaughter arising from the death of Laszlo Elles. Elles died in hospital Nov. 2 of pneumonia and head injuries. In a statement read by police, Nadasdi said he and Elles got into an argument. Elles struck him with a piece of iron and he in turn hit Elles with it.

J. E. Weir, Silverwood's Dairies was named as one of the directors of the Ontario Association of Ice-Cream Manufacturers. J. M. Hartwick of Wellington was re-elected at the annual meeting in Toronto. Some of the other directors were J. L. Beaton of Oshawa and Gordon Base of Belleville.

COLLISION IN FOG

A rear end collision in the fog Monday afternoon on Highway 7, four miles east of Fowler's Corners, caused about $50 damage. Herb. Ayotte of Young's Point was driving in a funeral procession, and was unable to stop in time when the car ahead, driven by Arthur Bauer of Toronto, suddenly slowed. Slight damage was caused to the front of the Ayotte car and to the rear of the Bauer car. OPP Constable John Cawood investigated.

COLLEGIATE GIRLS for the first time in the history of the Peterborough Curling Club have an organized curling schedule. This year the girls from PCVS and Kenner Collegiate formed a curling club, after the pattern of the boys which was formed last year. Twice a week the girls curl with help from members of the senior club's women's section. Bev Gall (top left, right) signals for an outturn while opponent, Shirley Peryer watches. Skip Bev Brooks (bottom left, left) shows Jane McIntyre and Joanne Watson the method of scoring. Instruction on cleaning a stone is given Joan Metcalfe (top right) by Mrs. Jack Fanning, president of the women's section.—(Examiner Staff Photos)

High School Girls Learn Ancient Sport Of Curling

High school girls in Peterborough this year are curling—not their hair. This is something new for them. It's not devising new hair styles either. For they're ice curling twice a week at the Peterborough Curling Club, rapidly learning Canada's largest winter sport. Curling is the latest addition to sports for collegiate girls and is providing the Peterborough Club with another first; for it's the first time that the club has emphasized the sport among the younger girls.

With the attitude, "Whatever the boys can do, we can do—and perhaps better," the girls in the high schools last year attempted to start a collegiate curling club. But ice time at the curling club, combined with a shortage of girls desiring to learn the sport, caused the project to fall through.

STARTED IN EARNEST

But early this year the girls set out in earnest to form a collegiate curling club. With the help of senior women members of the Peterborough club, the girls organized a club and are now curling twice a week.

About a month ago the girls had their first lesson. Mrs. Jack Fanning, president of the women's section, assisted by Mrs. Tom Doughty, Mrs. Gord Tollington and Mrs. McCartney, have spent the last four weeks teaching the girls the delivery, outturns, inturns, the various signals and how to sweep.

Basing their decisions on how the girls were picking up the sport the rinks, skips, vices, seconds and leads were chosen in preparation for the first half of the schedule. They began competition Monday and will continue Mondays and Thursdays until the first half ends in late January.

Students from PCVS and Kenner collegiates form four rinks under skips, Shirley Peryer (who is also club president), Beverley Gall, Sally Poole (club secretary-treasurer), and Beverley Brooks.

TEACHERS RINK

But there is a fifth rink and for the students that fifth rink provides extra fun. It also is improving teacher-student relations because the rink is entirely teachers. From curling families, Miss Helen McGregor, Miss Mildred Bailey, Miss Kay Macdougall and Miss Margaret White, all PCVS teachers, form the fifth rink.

Mrs. Fanning said that the girls are "picking curling up very well, but are having trouble with the sweeping."

Oddly enough sweeping should be one of the sports' positions which the girls should know how to do—that's what they thought too. But the double shift or sweep to draw a stone has presented one of the more difficult problems.

When the students learn how to sweep properly in curling, mothers will be able to take advantage of this knowledge for work around the home. Besides, girls, it'll give you practice.

Council Denies Request To Repair Roads

The last division of the council Monday night defeated a motion to do some repair work on the west end of Weller Street as requested by a Wallis Drive deputation.

The request was made by David Schellenberg, Haig Kelly, and George Roper, who said that most of the people on Wallis Drive motored into the city along Weller Street.

"We spent considerable money on it ourselves," Mr. Kelly said, "but it couldn't stand up under the truck traffic when the city was building the hospital. All that has been done on this road was a few loads of gravel were put on it by North Monaghan and the city graded it twice."

City Engineer Chalmers mentioned that this road on the north front of Civic Hospital was a boundary road between the city and North Monaghan. "And we have no agreements on boundary roads."

AGREEMENT

"Couldn't we make an agreement with Monaghan," Ald. J. A. Dewart suggested. "I think we have an obligation to the people represented by the delegation. Their homes are on Wallis Drive, but they pay taxes on business properties in the city, and it is a convenience to them to drive to and from their homes."

Ald. Rehill asked how traffic would be able to get across the 50-foot stretch which has been retained by Hugh Stewart. "Is there any arrangement with the owner for the right to use it?"

City Clerk Outram informed the council that the city had received a deed of that extension of Weller Street except the extreme westerly 50 feet which "the owner still controls."

Ald. Rehill said there was little use in repairing the road except the 50 feet "unless we get some agreement with the owner."

Ald. T. D. Miller said that link was in fair condition. The worst part was somewhat further to the east, and approaching the undeeded gap.

Ald. Dewart's motion to try to meet the needs of the Wallis Drive residents failed to get enough support.

DRAINAGE

Ald. Rehill said he could not see any use in spending money on a road that goes so far, and "then find ourselves in the position where we might not be allowed to use it."

Ald. J. E. Gillespie said that maintenance of the stretch of Weller Street mentioned by Mr. Ropes would involve providing drainage, "and it would cost quite a sum before the road was fixed."

"In my motion I assumed that we would naturally call the attention of North Monaghan to the condition of this road. They would probably go along with us, and that some solution would be arrived at," Ald. Dewart said. However, the division was in council, and it went against the deputation.

Sprouting Season

The city hall lawn and lamp posts downtown are sprouting new spruce trees these days. And vines of colored lights are strung across George St. from post to post. All the activity is for the Christmas season which is only a little more than two weeks away in spite of the fact that the temperature today was a mild 44. The trees are being fastened on the posts some height above the sidewalks. A fine big Christmas tree was put up Monday beside the city hall flag pole.

Two Civil Suits From 1 Accident Given Hearing

An involved motor accident case—actually two civil suits being tried at once—started today at the non-jury sittings of the Supreme Court. The Hon. Mr. Justice Danis is presiding.

Wallace Shearer, of 246-B Antrim St., and Mrs. Rose Galvin, of 181 Hazlitt St., are plaintiffs in an action against Benjamin Caldwell, of Bridgenorth, and Gerald Willis, 19, of 400 Wolsley St.

Then Caldwell and his wife Elizabeth are suing Willis in what was originally a separate action.

THREE DRIVERS

Shearer, Caldwell and Willis were the drivers of three cars involved in the accident at Wolsley St. and the Chemong Road, shortly before 8 p.m. on December 1, 1951.

Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell and Mrs. Galvin were all taken to hospital and Shearer received outpatient treatment.

The Caldwell car is said to have collided with the rear of Willis' vehicle and then veered across the road and collided with the northbound car of Shearer.

The impact was so great that a tow truck was required to pull the two cars apart.

Most seriously injured was Mrs. Galvin who received a fractured left thigh bone, double fracture of the jaw and broken ribs. She was in hospital for four weeks.

The case is continuing.

Library Praised For Redecoration

The recently redecorated exterior of the Peterborough Public Library brought compliments from Angus Mowat, director of Public Library Service of Ontario, today.

Mr. Mowat was in Peterborough for a short inspection call at the library.

The visitor also noted the improved lighting and heating facilities in the library but expressed the hope that interior renovation of the building would be carried out as soon as possible. He said that, with the present facilities, the public is not receiving what they should. This is particularly true in regard to the shelving and arrangement of departments.

2 Aldermen Thanked By Mayor

Last Regular Meeting For Council Completes Year

To Ald. Herbert N. Young and Ald. J. E. Gillespie who are retiring from the civic administration at the end of the year, Mayor Waddell expressed the thanks of the citizens just before the adjournment of the council Monday night.

"This is the last regular meeting of the year," His Worship said. "There is usually some change in the membership of the council from year to year, and in that respect this occasion is no exception. Ald. Young and Ald. Gillespie are approaching the end of their terms. Together they have served the city ten years, Ald. Young six years and Ald Gillespie four.

"During that time, Ald. Young has been chairman of the parks committee and is chairman of the board of works, and was previously its vice-chairman. He was also chairman of five other standing committees. On behalf of the people of Peterborough, I wish to thank them for the time and thought and effort they have given in the performance of their duties."

"I am sure that it will be a source of satisfaction to them to look back on these years in the council in the knowledge that they had received the confidence of the citizens, and to feel that they made a contribution that was worth while in helping the progress of Peterborough."

Ald. Gillespie thanked Mayor Waddell for his kind remarks. "I have realized that it is an honor to be elected to the city council, and also a responsibility. I think that I felt this honor more deeply as a native son of Peterborough. I wish to thank Mayor Waddell and all the members of the council for the co-operation I have received from them, and that appreciation included the city officials and its employees generaly.

"I have had the best co-operation in everything I tried to do. I hope that the council will carry on the administration with success in the future that will make Peterborough even a better place to live in."

Ald. Young recalled that in his six years he had served under three Mayors, the late Wm. J. Ovens, Max Swanston and Mayor Waddell. The council tried to reach unanimity in its decisions, "and I think that is all to the good of the city." There had been some disagreements, but that was bound to happen. The city council fulfilled the principle of majority rule, "and I know that the members I have been associated with have all had the interests of Peterborough at heart.

"It has been a pleasure to work with you gentlemen. I shall follow the affairs of the council with a greater interest than ever before, and I wish the incoming council all success in its work."

Council At Work

Boxing Day To Be Named Public Holiday

Friday, December 26 (Boxing Day) will be proclaimed a public holiday by Mayor Waddell on the authority he received from the council Monday night in a motion by Ald. H. T. Rehill, seconded by Ald. W. J. Beggs.

Request for official sanction was from Ford Warren, manager of the Bank of Montreal, writing for the Peterborough Clearing House, and was supported by the Chamber of Commerce who reported that 100 per cent of the merchants were in favor of the extra holiday. It could not be extended to the banks and their staffs without Mayor Waddell's declaration. Mr. Warren wrote that most of the industries and down town stores were planning to add Boxing Day to the Christmas vacation, and the Clearing House, representing the banks, also desired official proclamation of the holiday on the day after Christmas.

For some offices which regularly close on Saturday, the Christmas vacation will be parallel with the factories, from 5 p.m. Wednesday, the 24th, to the morning of Monday, December 29.

COUNCIL'S DECISIONS

A largely signed petition from residents of Elm Street requested the council Monday night to change its name to Hopkins Avenue. One of the old streets in the west-end, Elm Street extends from Park Street to Monaghan Road, and Hopkins Avenue, a comparatively new street, is virtually the continuance of Elm Street. The petition was referred to the finance committee.

Passed Bylaw 5086 appointing J. Ralph Leonard of London, Ont., Chief of the Fire Department, beginning January 1. His salary for 1953 is $4,500, with an increase of $166.66 a year until $5,000 is reached. Salary includes cost-of-living bonus. The bylaw was introduced by Ald. A. B. Burrows, chairman of the fire, water and light committee.

Appointed Mayor Waddell, Ald. Burrows and City Clerk Outram to confer with Mr. Leonard "to settle all matters connected with his appointment as Fire Chief."

Requested Acting Fire Chief Foster to attend a special meeting of the fire, water and light committee "to consider all matters touching the operation of the Fire Department."

Endorsed Board of Works recommendation "that a permit be not granted to Goodwin Metal Products Ltd., 298 Edinburgh Street, to erect an additional building for garage purposes on the company's property on Rubidge Street."

Authorized City Engineer Chalmers to issue a building permit to Shell Oil Co. to build a service station at the southwest corner of Parkhill Road and Water Street.

Turned down the application of Milford W. Payne for permission to install a gasoline pump and tank at 295 McFarlane Avenue.

Passed a Miller-Black motion that tenders be invited for an issue of $80,000 debentures as requested by the Board of Education for the new public school in Ashburnham.

Gave permission to T. K. Bleakley to set up a parking lot north of the Colonial Weaving Co. building on Rubidge Street, at Rink Street. The company tried to control parking of cars on their property, but with unsatisfactory results. Mr. Bleakley operates a service station on the opposite side of Rubidge Street at the tip of the Park Street gore.

Decided "that no decision be made at this time regarding the application of Percy Harrison for a mobile lunch wagon, and that the usual procedure be followed in considering his application for a licence."

Asked City Engineer Chalmers to recommend procedure that should be adopted for laying a sewer in the Western Avenue-Lansdowne Street area.

Adopted the Hydro-Electric Power Commission plan for 12 lights on the city parking lot, Water and Simcoe Streets, at an estimated cost of $400 a year. Two plans were considered, and this one was recommended by the property committee in the report by Ald. H. S. Longhurst.

Authorized City Clerk Outram to have a small office built in the entrance to the market hall building at a cost of about $110. Seven feet by nine feet, it will be an accommodation for the parking supervisor.

Cat Can Stay

WINNIPEG (CP)—The stray cat that a Winnipeg woman took in her house has a good home for life now. The woman was awakened by the cat's crying at 5 a.m. to find a blaze had started in the bedroom from a cigaret. She was able to put out the flames.

FIRST SITTINGS HERE

The Hon. Mr. Justice Danis was welcomed to Peterborough today by Crown Attorney John Bradshaw, QC, on behalf of the Bar Association. Mr. Justice Danis is presiding at the non-jury sitting of the Supreme Court. He said it was the first time he had presided at a Peterborough sittings since he was appointed to the Bench. Every courtesy had been shown here since he had arrived, he said in court today, and he added that he would endeavour to dispense justice to the people of this province "in the way they have come to expect from the incumbents of the Bench."

IKE ON IWO JIMA—President-elect Dwight Eisenhower and his Defence Secretary-designate Charles E. Wilson walk down a road while talking, during their stop at Iwo Jima on the way to Korea. The General planned to stop off at Wake Island on the way home for three days of talks with key men.

CBC Position Vague On Coronation TV

TORONTO (CP)—CBC spokesmen say plans are still not drawn up for television coverage of the Coronation next year, although they will take advantage of the decision to allow TV cameras inside Westminster Abbey.

They were commenting Monday on an announcement from London that telecasting of the long ceremony will be allowed. Previously the Coronation committee decided only the parade could be telecast.

Program director Stuart Griffiths of CBC-TV said:

"It's good news that TV cameras will be allowed in the abbey, and our plans will take that into consideration."

Reds Soft-Pedal Terror Tactics To Woo Natives

SINGAPORE (AP) — Commissioner General Malcolm MacDonald told newspaper men today that Britain's diplomats in Eastern Asia think Soviet Russia is soft-pedalling terror tactics in Malaya, Burma and the Philippines in order to woo local populations to communism.

He said one of the main topics of the secret conference of British governors, ambassadors and service chiefs in East Asia, just concluded here, was the decline of terrorism in some Southeast Asia countries after four years of violence.

MacDonald, who presided at the five-day meeting declined however to make known the British view on the present situation in Indo-China.

INFILTRATE UNIONS

The former British high commissioner to Canada said delegates thought elsewhere the Reds might now concentrate their efforts on infiltrating into trade unions and youth organizations, and promoting "peace" and trade promotion campaigns.

"The situation is as dangerous as ever and might be even more dangerous," he cautioned, adding that plans have been made to cope with any situation, and recommendations forwarded to London.

The conference considered ways of keeping Japan, the only Asian country outside the Communist orbit, free of communism, MacDonald said.

"If Japan is to remain outside the Communist orbit, the Japanese people must have a better standard of living, better wages and contentment," he added.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Cancer Society said today it will spend a record $4,125,000 next year for research.

PORKER "MODEL II" TAKES THE PRIZE — The Poland China hog, above, was selected as Grand Champion Barrow of the 1952 International Livestock Exposition at Chicago. "Purdue Model II," owned by Purdue University, is exhibited by veteran herdsman Cliff Breede, who seems very proud of the award. "Model II" seems unimpressed. It is the second time that a Purdue porker has "brought home the bacon" for the university.

Ike Near Hawaii For New Talks

ABOARD USS HELENA (AP)—President-elect Eisenhower and his party crossed the international dateline tonight and faced another day of full discussions on various aspects of problems in the Far East.

The Helena cut through the dateline at 8 p. m. Tuesday. That set the clock and calendar back to Monday.

The ship is due at Pearl Harbor Thursday.

Top-level discussions continued Monday, but there was no announcement or report to indicate their trend. Eisenhower and his advisers met first as a unit, then broke up into smaller groups.

The president-elect and members of his "brain trust" took time out from weighty world problems to do some skeet-shooting on the Helena's fantail.

Eisenhower, Gen. Lucius Clay and Treasury Secretary-designate George M. Humphrey shared top honors. They shot for 30 minutes and did not miss once.

When the Helena reaches Pearl Harbor at the end of its 3,300-mile trip from Guam, the group will confer for possibly three more days with military leaders and advisers now gathered there.

Then the general will fly back to his headquarters in New York.

Quebec Writer Wins $3,000 Fiction Contest

TORONTO (CP) — Maclean's Magazine announces the winners of its $3,000 fiction contest for Canadian writers. The three successful contestants, one a woman, have all had previous stories printed by Maclean's.

The $1,500 first prize went to Colin McDougall of Westmount, Que. Second prize of $1,000 was won by David MacDonald, 25, of Halifax and the $500 third prize was captured by Vera Johnson of Vancouver, who won third prize in the contest in 1950. The stories will appear in the first three issues of 1953.

McDougall, a placement director at McGill University, submitted a story about the Canadian Army in Italy, where he served as company commander during the Second World War.

Urge Coffee Offer As "One For Road"

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tavern owners here will be urged to offer holiday tipplers "one for the road" —a free cup of coffee.

The boss will be asked to see that a way home is supplied everyone who takes on too much liquor at the office Christmas party.

The idea was developed yesterday at a conference of Washington and Maryland traffic leaders and members of the liquor industry.

The object: to cut down the Christmas traffic death rate. The plan is local but the problem is country-wide. December is the worst month for traffic accidents.

The conference was told 10,000 letters will go to employers next week. Tavern keepers and liquor dealers will hear about the coffee idea at a trade meeting next week, when they also will get this suggestion:

Take the car keys from anyone who isn't in shape to drive, even if he didn't do his drinking at your place, and see that he gets home safely.

Drilling For Iron Ore Continues In Norfolk

SIMCOE (CP)—Drilling for iron ore in South Norfolk is continuing with the rig on Harry Lawrence's farm being moved to the Harry Gundry farm, half a mile away along the lakefront.

The drill went down more than one mile on the Lawrence farm before operations ceased there. On the John Kelp farm, south of Simcoe on No. 24 Highway drill No. 2 has bored a mile into the ground and remains in operation. All cores removed from the earth are examined by geologists. Results of the exploration have not been made known.

The ore search is being carried out for United States Steel.

Euchre Party

BETHANY (ENS)—The Ladies Good Luck Orange Lodge held a progressive euchre party in the Orange Hall on Friday evening with a good attendance. It was a lucky night for Mrs. William Phillips who won the specialty prize as well as the prize for ladies high score.

George Smith won the gentlemen's first prize with Neil Finney and Mrs. T. Malcomson receiving the consolation prizes. The door prize as won by Mrs. Douglas Smelt.

Owing to the Christmas festivities there will be no further parties until January 9 when the ladies expect to continue their social evenings every two weeks.

Guards Kill PoW

PUSAN, Korea (AP) — A North Korean prisoner of war was shot and killed and another was critically wounded by UN guards on Koje Island Sunday, the prisoner-of-war command said today. The command's announcement said the prisoner killed was trying to escape. The other POW was shot when he ignored orders to get out of a restricted area.

Import Russ Food

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain imported £34,700,000 worth of Russian food and fodder in the first nine months of 1952 out of total imports from the Soviet Union of $47,800,000. Charles Hill, food undersecretary, gave the figures yesterday in the House of Commons.

Manpower Body Meets

OTTAWA (CP)—The national advisory manpower council will meet here Wednesday and Thursday. The council was appointed by the government early last year to advise on manpower problems and meets periodically. Transport Minister Chevrier will address the council on the opening day on the St. Lawrence seaway.

Confesses Slaying

GREENVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Cecil R. Rhodd, 41, who claims he was a prisoner in his own home, pleaded guilty yesterday of fatally stabbing his wife, Arene, 40, last Sept. 13. Rhodd told Judge George H. Rowley: "I killed my wife deliberately because I felt I was a prisoner in my own home and couldn't do anything I wanted to." Judge Rowley delayed sentence.

Danger Of Don Fire Passes, Say Officials

TORONTO (CP)—The danger that the Don river might turn into a blazing torch has passed.

Officials said Monday there was little chance of fire or explosion in 20,000 gallons of red gasoline which poured out of a leak in a pipeline in suburban North York township Sunday night. Much of the high-octane fuel coursed down ditches emptying into the sluggish river that runs through eastern Toronto.

But a large quantity was recovered and pumped into tank trucks. The leak has been plugged.

Reeve Nelson Boylen of North York said he will propose a meeting with the Toronto council and officials of the pipeline company to discuss greater safety measures in built-up areas through which the pipeline passes.

The reeve said he is not satisfied that the maximum test had been given the line before it was put into operation.

Busman Takes Chance, His Last

CHICAGO (AP) — W. E. Jackson, 30, a streetcar motorman for four months, got his chance to drive a bus yesterday.

His tour of duty as a bus driver was hectic, speedy and brief.

He was in the Loop at the height of the evening rush. Traffic was snarled. Package-laden Christmas shoppers jam-packed his bus before he slammed the doors and took off for the 10-mile express trip to the southwest side.

He didn't make a single stop to take on or let off a passenger. He drove his howling passengers all the way to the bus barn, jumped from the bus and walked into the superintendent's office.

"I'm through," Jackson said as he threw his identification badge onto a desk. "I spent 10 years in the army but I can't take this."

A relief driver was summoned to take some 50 distraught passengers to their proper destination.

A spokesman for the Chicago transit authority said Jackson had quit.

"He can't do that," the spokesman said. "We'll fire him."

Movies Come To Stay In Lonely Hebrides

BERNERA, Outer Hebrides, Scotland (AP)—Talking pictures finally have come to stay on this tiny, lonely island northwest of the Scottish mainland.

Postmistress Chrissie McLeod informed the world by telephone today how the first talkies were put on this week in a school hall. The power was generated by an engine from a fishing boat.

Many of Bernera's 350 inhabitants had never bothered to see silent films before, so "you can imagine what a sensation talkies were," said the postmistress.

It's the 'KNOW HOW' that Counts!

HANDBALL: OVERHAND STROKES AND THE SERVE

Bent-Arm Overhand Stroke: Bend arm at a right angle, cock hand behind ear. Face front wall in walking position. Ball is hit at slightly above shoulder level, with left foot stepping forward. Control and speed comes from straightening arm and snapping wrist.

Full-Arm Overhand Stroke: Arm is fully extended here and ball is hit at full arm's length over the head and slightly back of the player. Body bends back at the waist and weight starts from the right leg. Left leg steps forward in direction of shot.

The Serve: Face side wall. Rest weight evenly on both legs. Body bends well forward. Ball is held in left hand and dropped from about knee height. Keep head turned slightly to rear — this allows server to observe opponent's actions.

Yes, it's "know-how" that counts in handball as in every sport — "know-how" that sets one performer above another. Learn the correct form — the "know-how" — then practise until you have mastered it and you'll get more fun and enjoyment out of your sports and game.

Overseas Market Provides Future

AULTSVILLE (CP)—CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell says the future of Canada's dairy industry depends on obtaining long-term and stable markets overseas.

In an address Monday night before a men's service club here, Mr. Coldwell said dependency on United States markets as outlets for Canadian agricultural surpluses has proven unwise.

The United States had imposed quotas on Canadian dairy products "in contravention of the Geneva trade agreements" and "will only accept our surpluses when their domestic production falls short of their domestic requirements."

Mr. Coldwell said the decisions of the present Commonwealth conference in London "may havqe an important bearing on the disposition of our present and prospective agricultural surpluses."

The problem was one of Britain's inability to earn sufficient dollars in Canada to buy goods here.

One step to help solve this problem would be to defer payments on the $1,200,000,000 loan without interest and make the amount due Canada this year available for purchase of agricultural and dairy products, he said.

Limited Offensive Possible Britain Believes

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON

LONDON (AP) — A ranking government source indicated Monday Britain considers a limited Allied offensive in Korea is militarily and politically feasible—if it stops at the Korean narrows below the 40th parallel.

He said, however, such a push nearly 150 miles north of the 38th parallel would need more divisions than the United Nations now has in the embattled country.

And Britain, he stressed, could send another fighting division to Korea only by pulling one out of Germany. British military resources are stretched to the limit throughout the world and in fact there are no regular army formation based at home at this time, he added.

The source gave it as his considered view that there is no way open to UN to gain a "clearcut military decision" in Korea.

It would be possible to push the front line up from the 38th parallel, which divides North from South Korea, to the "narrows" nearly 150 miles northward, he said This would not mean a military victory but it would shorten the front line for the UN about one-third, to approximately 100 miles.

The informant said Britain believes that in such a situation it would be possible to hand over defence of that line more and more to the troops of the Republic of Korea, thus relieving pressure on U. S. manpower.

He said an amphibious operation, combined with the use of airborne troops, would make it possible for UN forces to push forward past its present lines. But he named these disadvantages:

Many more troops would be needed, and few nations are in a position to send more men.

MORE CASUALTIES

More casualties would be sustained "and no one wants that."

The informant, who is in touch with the nation's top policymakers, ruled out as far as Britain is concerned any UN actions in Korea involving:

1. Allied forces "sitting on" the Yalu river border with China and on the Soviet frontier. The Chinese Reds, he said, simply would open a new front with the considerable forces they have assembled in Manchuria. Besides such a policy would be "politically unacceptable" to the British people.

2. Allied bombing of mainland China because destruction of the Communists' industries and communications near Korea would not basically affect Red China's Korean war effort. That, he said, is because Red China does not depend on them for her supplies. He meant, presumably, supplies would continue to come from Russia.

UN Creaking Under Strain Of New, Varied Pressures

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y (CP)—The United Nations structure is creaking under the opposing pressures of national sovereignty and international actions.

France is boycotting a heated discussion of demands that its protectorate of Tunisia be given independence. South Africa has refused to co-operate with a proposed international commission to investigate racial conflict in the union. Britain and other colonial powers are at least annoyed at those members in the UN who have no experience in the field trying to advise on how they should run their colonial territories.

These fights revolve largely on this question: When does a national problem become one for international action?

France and South Africa have taken the stand that the respective questions of Tunisia and racial conflict are strictly their own affair and that the UN charter rules out any UN discussion, let alone UN action, on the matters.

They base their arguments on the section of the charter which forbids interference in domestic affairs of member countries.

But their opponents cite another section of the charter which makes UN action imperative on any question that threatens international peace.

A group of Asian-Arab countries with some Latin-American support have pushed Tunisia and racial conflict into the UN limelight as threats to international peace despite the fears of some countries that they spell trouble for the UN.

Strict Bed Rest Necessary Cases Of Virus Pneumonia

A letter received some weeks ago serves as such an excellent introduction to the subject of virus pneumonia that it shall be quoted at some length.

"When I came down with virus pneumonia," writes Mrs. T., "I had been over the worst part of my cold for two weeks; then I started with a gradually rising temperature, and after a few hours I began to break out all around my lips with fever blisters. The same night my temperature went very high, and then I broke out into severe sweating and chills.

"The next few days were the same. At the time we were broke and didn't have money for a doctor, and not knowing what was wrong I let it go for four days. But after I started coughing up blood I made up my mind that money or no money, I better find out what was wrong with me. Now, after several months, I still have to be careful and not strain too much, and I feel tired all the time."

The letter quoted brings up several important things about virus, or atypical pneumonia. This disease, like most colds and influenza, is caused by a virus, which is a tiny living organism too small to see under the microscope. As in Mrs. T's case, it often starts like an ordinary cold with cough, running eyes and nose, and perhaps some fever which may not be noticed at first.

Neglect is a dangerous thing, and Mrs. T. is lucky that the effects were not even worse. Certainly strict bed rest from the beginning is most desirable, and this is particularly true since treatment with drugs is of somewhat questionable value, though one of the relatives of penicillin—sureomycin — has been claimed by some to be useful.

LONG RECOVERY PERIOD

One of the most annoying things about virus pneumonia is the fact that complete recovery takes so long. It is true that very few victims of the disease die from it, but an X-ray film of the lungs taken weeks after the end of the acute illness will often show some changes still present.

This probably accounts for the usual story given by those who had it that they do not feel "right" for weeks or months. Since this is the case, those who have had pneumonia should realize that convalescence is a long-drawn-out process and they should not expect to regain their usual vigor and feeling of well-being for a very long time.

Titanic Officer Dies In England

TWICKENHAM, Eng. (Reuters)—Cmdr. Charles Herbert Lightoller died here at the age of 78, still haunted by the memory of one of the greatest tragedies of the sea.

For Cmdr. Lightoller, who died Monday in this Middlesex town, was the only officer to survive the sinking of the Titanic.

The "unsinkable" Titanic hit an iceberg off Newfoundland April 14, 1912, and went down with a loss of over 1,500 lives.

Lightoller was second officer of the liner at the time of the disaster. He retired with his rank of commander in 1923.

But he came back to the sea briefly during the Second World War. With his 60-foot launch he evacuated 130 men from the beaches at Dunkerque in 1940 under constant enemy bombing and strafing.

Describing the sinking of the 46,000-ton Titanic later, he said there was little panic.

When the ship began to plunge, he leaped off a deckhouse into the icy water below, filled with struggling men and women. A wave washed him clear of the suction vortex of the sinking ship.

He clambered on an overturned boat and hung on until the SS Carpathia, summoned by the frantic SOS flashes of the radioman, arrived and picked up the survivors.

Of the 2,200 persons who sailed on the Titanic, only 711 survived the sinking.

Canada Asks U.S. For Longer Shipping

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government has asked the United States to keep open the U.S. locks at Sault Ste. Marie to Dec. 20 instead of closing them Dec. 15 as scheduled, says R. W. Milner, transport controller.

A reply from Washington is expected today.

Extension of the closing date would help in movement east of Canada's record grain crop, and it is considered feasible because of mild weather. Mr. Milner said Monday an extension might mean Canada could move an extra 8,000,000 or 9,000,000 bushels of grain out of the lakehead in the five-day period.

Even if the locks close as scheduled Dec. 15, Canada will still have moved between 215,000,000 and 220,000,000 bushels east via the lake route by that time, Mr. Milner said.

Meanwhile, the St. Lawrence river shipping season closed Monday, with the last grain shipments clearing from all river ports except Quebec.

Grandmother Acts As Midwife

It took Mrs. Mary Natale 15 minutes to deliver her twin granddaughters. The first weighed six pounds, 14 ounces. The second weighed six pounds, two ounces.

The babies arrived five minutes apart and were delivered without anaesthetic, rubber gloves, sterilization or any of the usual medical facilities.

COULDN'T GET DOCTOR

Mrs. Natale said she was just leaving to go to church when her daughter said she should get to the hospital.

"My son tried to get the doctor but that took time and things were happening," said Mrs. Natale. "So I rolled up my sleeves and made decisions as they came along.

"I was spanking the first baby and trying to make it cry when the other one started coming. All the time my daughter was encouraging me. She was conscious through everything."

Walks Into Propellor Kenora Man Dies

KENORA (CP) — Walter Whiting of Kenora died in hospital Sunday from injuries suffered Saturday night when he walked into the whirling propellor of an amphibian boat.

The craft was being prepared for a lake cruise. Mr. Whiting was walking on the ice beside the boat when the motor started. The propellor struck him on the head.

Then Santa came to distribute gifts to each child. They in turn gave their mite boxes with donations for children of other countries.

Enroll 17 Girls In Guide Co. At St. Alban's

St. Alban's 7th Peterborough Girl Guide Company, which received its charter in June, held the first enrolment at the Mission Friday afternoon. In a beautiful and impressive candlelight ceremony, 17 girls and five leaders were enrolled into the Sisterhood of Guides.

Captain Mrs. Dorothy Woods greeted the parents and friends attending and opened the meeting with the traditional camp-fire. Commissioner Mrs. J. R. Epping was welcomed to the company by Dorothy Collins and Diane Weidner. Lieut. Foster ordered the company to fall-in and the horseshoe was formed with Irene Hall of All Saints' Guides and Sylvia Adams of St. Alban's as flag-bearers.

Capt. Woods, explaining the law and promise the leaders and girls were to make together, thanked Lieut. Foster for putting back into guilding today what she had taken out as a young girl. Lieut. Foster presented Mrs. Woods to the commissioner who first enrolled her as a tenderfoot and then presented her with her captain's badge.

Commended highly for her splendid work in organizing the company by Commissioner Epping Capt. Woods gave her salute, first to her commissioner, next to the colors, then to her company. Mrs. Mildred Hill followed and after receiving her tenderfoot was presented with her lieutenant's pin.

Lieut. Foster then presented Mrs. Nellie Maskell who, after receiving her tenderfoot, was praised highly by Commissioner Epping for her work as Brown Owl of the 7th Peterborough Brownie Pack.

Mrs. Lou Bowler and Miss Marie Bowler, Brown Owl's assistants, were presented and received their tenderfoot pins. Lieut. Foster then presented the company's patrol leaders, Roberta Todd, Barbara Bowler and Diane Weidner to their captain who enrolled her first girls.

Roberta Todd of the Forget-Me-Not patrol, presented Jeannette Kettle, Sylvia Post, Anne Merritt, Noreen Davey and Shirley Robinson for enrolment.

Barbara Bowler of the Daffodil Patrol presented Jean Burnett, Nona Sanders, Sadie Hatton, Linda Thompson, Kay Sibley and Mary Debatista.

Each girl was given a tall white lighted candle in birch bark holder and on completion of the enrolment the horseshoe was entirely ringed in candlelight.

With well-chosen words to each girl Capt. Woods spoke of the splendid cooperation and satisfaction she had received from the girls in reaching their first step in guiding and with the earnest hope that they continue for their second class together.

Sylvia Post on behalf of the company, presented a small gift to Commissioner Epping who called on the girls for three cheers for their leaders. The Mothers Auxiliary, who had given the Guide flag to the company, served lunch.

Seek Better Understanding By Nations Through Books

MONTREAL (CP)—Better understanding among the Western democracies through books is the aim of Henri Jegu, 72-year-old French visitor to Canada and the United States.

Mr. Jegu, a former newspaper man, is vice-president of an organization called the American Library in Paris, founded on a small scale during the First World War for the benefit of American soldiers in France.

Two years ago the library celebrated its 30th anniversary after operating all through the Second World War without interference from German occupation forces.

Mr. Jegu visited Montreal and Toronto and goes on to the United States looking for financial support for the library which now has branches in five French provincial cities. There are plans for new branches and enlarging its correspondence service.

"At this critical hour in the history of the Western world," says Mr. [illegible] is important for the great democracies to display their solidarity and to achieve this their peoples must increase their knowledge of one another.

Cassan-Hart Havelock Rites

White and yellow 'mums decorated the Havelock United Church for the marriage Saturday afternoon of Lois Yvonne, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hart, and Donald Cassan, only son of Mrs. and Mrs. Alfred Cassan, all of Havelock. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. G. Newman. Wedding music was played by Mr. Donald Pollock. The soloist was Mrs. John Beatty who sang "I Love You Truly" prior to the ceremony and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

Given in mariage by her father the bride wore a gown of white nylon over white satin with an over dress of Chantilly lace caught up in drapes with rhinestones. Her finger-tip veil of embroidered tulle illusion was caught to a tiara headdress of pearls and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of red roses with white satin streamers and rosebuds.

The attendants were Miss Mary O'dette of Peterborough as bridesmaid and Mrs. Ralph Alley and Mrs. Keith Hart of Havelock as matrons of honor. Flower girl was Miss Fern Ingram of Campbellford.

The bridesmaid was in an orchid taffeta gown with an overskirt of nylon. She wore a matching headdress and mittens and carried yellow and mauve 'mums. Mrs. Alley and Mrs. Hart wore gowns fashioned on a similar design. The former had a pink brocade bodice and pink nylon skirt over taffeta, matching headdress and mittens. The latter wore pale blue. Each carired a bouquet of mauve and yellow 'mums. The flower girl was daintily attired in a long gown of yellow and mauve taffeta, with matching headdress and she carried a nosegay of yellow 'mums.

Groomsman was Mr. William Braden of Keene and the ushers were Clare Ingram and Ralph Ellis of Campbellford.

A reception was held in the church parlors to 80 guests. The bride's mother received in an orchid lace and silk dress with black accessories and wore a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother assisted, wearing a navy lace and silk gown with black accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Later the bride and groom left for Toronto and points west. The bride wore for travelling a light blue gabardine suit, navy feather hat and navy accessories with a corsage of pink roses. She carried a blue topcoat of Elysian wool.

They will live in Havelock on return.

MISS GLADYS LOUISE O'Brien, of Windsor, granddaughter of Mrs. W. E. O'Brien, of 204 Wolsley St., Peterborough, whose engagement to Mr. Warren Spencer Fullerton, Jr., of Riverside, Ontario, has just been announced. Their marriage is to be solemnized January 3 at 11 a.m. at Our Lady of Guadalupe Church, Windsor. The bride-elect is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Stanley O'Brien, Raymo Road, Windsor.

See Increase In Demand For Fox Furs

MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—Signs of a reviving demand for fox furs could mean much to New Brunswick, where fox ranching thrived before the Second World War.

United States fur dealers have reported that fashion designers are swinging back to fox, featuring furs in natural shades and also dyed a variety of colors, including pastels. Interest in these furs is reported more enthusiastic than at any time since the industry slumped 14 years ago. All shades of fox are among new fur styles by Paris designers.

Within the last half century fox ranching became a vital link in the economy of New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. A 25-mile radius around Moncton had more foxes than any comparable area in the world. Salisbury was transformed from a hamlet to a bustling village and a nearby fox ranch produced 3,000 to 4,000 silver blacks annually.

EXPENSIVE STOCK

At first, tremendous prices were demanded for breeding stock. One farmer bought a pair of silver blacks for $18,000. Another paid $30,000 for three pairs. As supply became more plentiful, prices naturally declined. A pelt which formerly would have cost $2,500 came within the scope of the average woman's purse.

The industry nevertheless stabilized itself for years, with an output of up to 40,000 pelts a year from about 2,000 New Brunswick fox farms, and many more from Prince Edward Island. New types, such as platinums, were evolved and commanded fancier prices.

The depression years, plus changing styles in women's wear, struck hard blows at the industry and the Second World War almost finished it. Since then many fox farms have been abandoned.

But if the industry recovers, those who maintained partial ranches will be in position to take advantage of the rising market.

Peasant Costumes Add Color To Carol Program

The Christmas musicale by the Music Study Club of the Women's Art Association on Monday afternoon, was another outstanding presentation of the lesser known Christmas carols. Members of the Association brought their friends for this special occasion and they filled the recreation room at the YWCA.

President Mrs. Ford Turner asked the ladies to remember that the festive season is "primarily to celebrate the birth of the Christ Child," and that "it was His story that gave us to love of our fellow men." She introduced Mrs. Cyril Crowe, convener of the Music Study Club, and Mrs. Crowe explained the colorful, and becoming, costumes they were wearing by intimating that the program consisted of the carols originating with the peasant people of the European countries who celebrate the nativity by singing and dancing. Each of the singers was in native peasant garb, some having authentic jacket and accessories owned by Europeans or desendants now living in the city.

Mrs. Charles Carson, arranger of the program, gave an introduction and explanation of each of four groups of songs. Sixteen singers comprised the chorus and Mrs. G. Wilson Craw was piano accompanist with Mrs. Percy Hooper assisting on the violin in several numbers. Mrs. Craw and Mrs. R. R. Baker played a fantasia from Green Sleeves as a prelude.

The costumed singers made an effective entrance singing "Deck the Halls", carrying candelabra with candles to decorate the stage. This well known song of Welsh origin, was followed by two Polish carols "Infant Holy" and "Born is Little Jesus," the latter a duet by Mrs. Crowe and Mrs. G. H. Cutmore. Then, a Czecho-Slovakian carol was presented by a sextet, followed by an Austrian carol "As lately we watched" by Mrs. Carson, Mrs. Crowe and Mrs. James Goldie.

A group of four French carols, the merriest of all, included "Bring a Torch Isabella," "Ding Dong Merrily Little Bell," "Patty Pitty Pan" and the much better known "First Noel." German carols are more subdued and of this group the favorite was "Silent Night."

"A little child on the earth has been born" is a Flemish carol and it was sung beautifully by a sextet. Then, by request, Mrs. Carson and Mrs. Goldie sang "Holy Night." To close, the entire group sang "Angels we have heard on high" which was originaly French but is now known as a Westminster carol because of its use in England.

The audience was invited to join in each of the familiar carols but the majority refrained in order to enjoy to the full the blending of lovelier voices.

After the musicale there was afternoon tea in the Green Room served by members of the Guild of Arts and Crafts. Their table was centred with a bouquet of beautiful red carnations and Mrs. N. D. Seaton and Mrs. J. E. R. Munro, both past presidents of the Association, presided.

Bazaar And Tea Held In Apsley

APSLEY (ENS). — The Ladies' Guild of St. George's Anglican Church held a very successful bazaar, afternoon tea and sale of home baking in St. George's Hall on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Charles Smith and Mrs. B. McIlmoyl were in charge of the fancy work table, Mrs. Martin Reddick and Mrs. W. McIlmoyl the home baking table, and Miss M. Jones the parcel post sale. Mrs. R. Hales supervised the tables, while Misses Ruth Graham, Beverly Alphy, and Rose Everett served afternoon tea from tables decorated in Christmas colors and designs. The beautiful centrepiece on each table had been made by Mrs. W. Jeff. Mesdames W. Jeff, H. McColl, V. McFadden, O. Montgomery attended to replenishing plates for tables.

The members had made a quilt and sold tickets on it. The lucky ticket was drawn during the afternoon and Mrs. T. H. Lean was the winner.

On Sunday evening Mrs. Clarence Bell, president of the United Church WA for Bay of Quinte Conference, was guest speaker in Trinity United Church. A large congregation was in attendance. Mrs. Theo Post conducted the service, Miss Winnifred Robinson read the Scripture lesson, Miss Elizabeth Infurnari led in the prayers. Mrs. F. McFadden and Mrs. Lily Stephens acted as ushers and received the offering.

The choir sang an anthem "My Song," and Miss D. Balter sang a Polish carol, "Infant Holy."

Before the service started the congregation, led by the choir, sang Christmas carols. Mrs. Bell also was guest speaker at St. John's at Paudash in the afternoon.

Mrs. Bell and Mr. Robb were guests of Mr. and Mrs. N. Wilson at the supper hour.

Home and School Association News

KING EDWARD SCHOOL

The Christmas story "Even Unto Bethlehem" told by candlelight by Miss Marion Mutton was the highlight of the meeting Monday evening of King Edward Home and School Association. An illuminated Bethlehem scene made an impressive setting. Two duets: "Gentle Mary Laid her Child" and "White Christmas" were sung by Misses Doreen and Phyllis Hutchinson, accompanied by Mrs. P. King at the piano. Murray Manders and Paul DeCarlo rendered several numbers on their accordions, commencing with "O Come all ye Faithful" and "Silent Night," followed by "I Went to your wedding" and several lively tunes.

President Mrs. J. Dunkerley presided for business, opening with singing of "Silent Night" followed by the Lord's Prayer.

Presentation of a blanket for the nurses'-room was made to principal Mr. Jack Telford by Mrs. Gerald MacMillan. Mrs. MacMillan then invited inspection of the teachers' kitchen where new plastic curtains and tablecloths have recently been placed by the Association.

Mr. Telford in expressing thanks on behalf of the teachers, pointed out these things help in the making of a good school.

Those taking part in the program were thanked by Mrs. C. Hobbs.

A period of carol singing was led by Mr. Telford, assisted by a student choir, and was much enjoyed.

Christmas wishes were extended by the president who also relayed season's greetings from Council president, Mrs. Clare Collins.

Refreshments were served by the grade mothers.

A TRIBUTE TO MRS. R. PARNALL

The following tribute to the late Mrs. Richard Parnall, one of the charter members and a life member of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association, has been written by one of those who worked closely with her in the early days of the Home and School movement in Peterborough, Mrs. Ernest Telford, and was contributed to The Examiner by Mrs. A. W. Nelson, a vice-president of the Ontario Federation of Home and School, of which Mrs. Parnall was a member of the board of directors:

"A good woman, a good citizen, a good Christian.

"Announcement of the death of Mrs. Richard Parnall was received by all Home and School workers in Peterborough with a deep sense of loss.

"Mrs. Parnall's work, in the not too easy days of pioneering in the organization of Home and School work in Peterborough, was outstanding. She gave of her time and talent willingly, and every association in the city benefitted from her intelligent, kindly, understanding guidance.

"She had a wide knowledge of people and a keen interest in their welfare. Coupled with a graciousness of manner and a saving sense of humor, her unswerving devotion to her ideals made her a leader respected and loved by associates.

"Although in recent years she was not engaged in the active work, she never lost interest in or her connection with Home and School work. Fellow-workers are grateful for the foundations she so truly laid, and cherish the memory of her warm, friendly personality."

Apsley Institute Meets In Library

APSLEY (ENS)—The Woman's Institute met in the library with a good attendance. The roll call was answered by presenting a Christmas card to be sent later to sick and shut-ins. Final plans were made for formal dance to be held in Legion Hall, December 12. It was decided to co-operate with Ladies Auxiliary to Canadian Legion in having a community Christmas tree at a date to be set later. A committee was named to make arrangements. The usual exchange of Christmas gifts was enjoyed.

Mrs. T. H. Lean extended an invitation to the members to hold the January meeting at her home. The invitation was heartily accepted. Lunch brought the evening to a close.

Tanner-Brackin

APSLEY (ENS)—A wedding of local interest took place in St. James' Anglican Church, Orillia, when Esta Daniels, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brackin, of Maynesburg, Ohio, became the bride of Frederic Carl Tanner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tanner, of Apsley.

The Rev. R. Simmons, rector of St. James', performed the double ring ceremony. The bride was attired in a beige wool dress with black accessories and had a corsage of bronze roses.

Matron of honor Mrs. Don Carpenter, sister of the groom, wore a brown crepe dress, brown accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. The groom was attended by his brother, Kenneth Tanner, of Oshawa.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Carpenter, Orillia. Following a trip to Maynesburg, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Tanner will live at Apsley.

OES Honors Mrs. Wheeler Elected To Grand Chapter

Regular meeting Monday evening of the Peterborough Chapter 161, Order of the Eastern Star, became a special meeting to pay honor to Mrs. W. H. Wheeler who was elected to the Grand Benevolent Chapter, Toronto, in September.

Mrs. Wheeler is a past matron of the local chapter, and in her honor, the officers of her year, 1947, were present in an honorary capacity. They included Mr. Wheeler who was the Worthy Patron, Mrs. Marie Green, Mr. Walter Terrace, Mrs. Eva Ward, Mrs. Betty Newton, Mrs. A. Munro, Mrs. Madola Windrim, Mrs. Jean Lashbrook, Mrs. Pearl Baird Mrs. Grace Northey, Mrs. Olive Maiby, Mrs. Grace Webb, Mrs. Jean Keeting, Mrs. eParl Harris, Mrs. Richard Rose.

Also present was Mrs. Anne Solomon from Brighton, who is Grand Ada this year, and guests from Port Hope, Cobourg, Colborne, Brighton and Lindsay. DDGM Mrs. Evelyn Hadley of Trenton and Belleville members telephoned regrets at being unable to make the trip.

Mrs. Wheeler was dressed in a coronation model of eggshell corded silk and wore a corsage of red roses sent to her by nieces in Dearborn, Michigan.

In recognition of the honor brought to Peterborough Chapter members, a brass plaque was presented to Mrs. Wheeler by Mrs. Keith Armstrong. A gift from her officers of five years ago was presented by Mrs. Green. Port Hope and Lindsay Chapters also presented gifts and she received many personal gifts as well.

Mrs. Al Spencely sang "Where He Leads me I will follow" which was the theme hymn of Mrs. Wheeler's year.

In her reply to the honors bestowed Mrs. Wheeler said she had been most happy to serve and paid tribute to inspiration she had received from the late Alma Beavis.

Receiving with the guest of honor were her two sisters, Mrs. Lashbrook of Peterborough and Mrs. A. S. Jones of Australia. Worthy Matron Mrs. A. J. Newton presided for the meeting.

A short program included vocal solos by Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Rachel Rose, reading by Mr. Robert Hendry and Mrs. Anna Solomon and community singing led by Mr. Hendry with Mrs. L. M. Greenslade at the piano.

Dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Muriel Hewitt and her committee. Tables were decorated in the sixth color of the eastern star, purple, with purple violets. Mrs. Evelyn Hutton was responsible for this charming effect.

Teen-Ager Resents Parents' Inquiries

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 15 years old, but Mom and Dad treat me as if I were 5. When I go out they want to know where I'm going, and who I'll be seeing. I realize they worry about me, as all fathers and mothers do, but I think they go to extremes. When I go to a dance or party, I come home to a cross-examination about the boy who brought me home. Another complaint I have is that I'm not allowed to go in a car with a boy. JUNE R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You asked for a personal reply, June, then neglected to give me your name and address, so this is the best I can do for you.

While in some respects your letter is typical of so many I receive from teen-agers, it varies greatly in theme. You resent the interest your parents show in your activities, while not giving them credit for permitting you these same activities. You go to dances and parties, apparently without restriction. Don't you think your folks are pretty liberal in permitting so much liberty? In return, all they ask is an account of your evening, which is certainly the least they should expect. They would be very much remiss if they allowed you to go your merry way with no questions asked. No 15-year-old has the judgment to run her life without supervision.

BE GRATEFUL

You should be grateful that you have parents who are concerned with your welfare, and at the same time wise enough to give you a certain amount of freedom. Your attitude is so ungracious that you deserve to have dating privileges considerably curtailed.

Car riding with young boys is one of the privileges that should not be granted. A careful perusal of your daily paper will disclose a sufficient number of motor accidents involving young folk to justify your parents' stand on this problem.

Stop bewailing your fate, and enjoy the fun you're having; be willing—nay, anxious—to share it with your parents and give them the peace of mind that comes from having a daughter's confidence.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Mine is a neighborhood problem. We have a beautiful girl of 12 near us who is liked by everyone on the block. Her mother is always willing to have children in the house, feeds them cake and cookies, gives parties for any occasion and is always home to greet the youngsters after school. Her one fault is that she permits the child to go to the movies with a boy friend. The parents take the girl and her friend to the show, then pick them up afterwards. I think the mother is wrong to permit the child to go, and wonder if I should tell her so.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your intentions may be fine, but I'm sure you would never be thanked for them. Any mother who has the intelligence and patience to keep open house for her daughter's friends certainly needs no advice from the neighbors. In fact, I think she could give some. While the child is certainly young to go to a movie with a boy, the parents' solicitude in taking her there and calling for her later indicates no slackness in their care. No, Nan, I wish all mothers were as wise; fewer youngsters would tend to stray from the family hearth.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My daughter, who is an unmarried mother, plans on getting married soon. She wishes to wear a long white, or powder blue, gown with a veil. Her sister and I both think this is not proper under the circumstances. Would it be better for her to wear a ballerina-length dress or would a suit do? They will be married at the Air Force Chapel. L. A.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Since a white gown and veil are traditionally the symbol of virginity, they would be most unsuitable in your daughter's case. To avoid undesirable criticism, her best outfit would be a suit or tailored dress.

THE MOVIE COLUMN:

Fred Astaire Dislikes Singing Voice

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Fred Astaire's singing is the object of one of the biggest projects in phonograph record history But he admits that he has never cared to hear himself sing.

Recently issued was a big album of 40 songs, most of them hits introduced by Astaire in his long career. Designed as a collector's item, the album features his singing, plus a few numbers in which he ad libs some dance steps. Only 1,300 of the sets have been issued.

"I must admit I wasn't too hot on the idea," said the dancer. "But Norman Granz, the man who puts on Jazz at the Philharmonic, was eager to do it, so I agreed . . ."

DON'T LIKE VOICE

"The truth is that I have never cared for my singing voice I know there are some people who think that it fits the sort of thing I do. But I just don't like my own singing.

"People seem to expect a dancer to sing, too. So I've always had to oblige them. But I'd much rather be dancing, and I try to keep the singing down to a minimum.

"As a result, I'm only singing nine numbers in this picture!" ("The Band Wagon").

Whether he likes it or not, Astaire's voice will doubtless be heard in movies for a long time.

After "The Band Wagon," he is set to go right into "White Christmas," an Irving Berlin opus with Bing Crosby.

India produces about 55,000,000 pounds of wool each year, of which about two-thirds is exported.

Sound Asleep, As Water Six Feet Deep

MONTREAL (CP) — The Hamel brothers were sleeping peacefully in their basement bedroom early Monday when—swoosh!—they found themselves in six feet of water.

It came from a broken water main two blocks away which sent a rising tide of water downhill until it burst into the Hamel basement. The brothers—Fernand, 20, Marcel, 18, Aubert, 15, and Jacques 11—scrambled upstairs.

Aubert said the water was knee high when he awakened and aroused his brothers. Within minutes, it rose to six feet. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Hamel, were sleeping in an upstairs bedroom in the suburban Ahuntsic home and were unaware of the flood.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Slim Waistline Reward Of Strong Will

If anybody labels me a "spoil sport" for this I'll just quietly fold my tent and steal away and hide.

But if you don't want a waistline like a tree trunk come mid-January now is the time to decide exactly how much Christmas baking you are going to consume.

You and all of your friends are in a frenzy baking rich cakes, puddings, cookies, candies, and you teem with plans for the finest Christmas dinner ever. What with all of the tasting and nibbling you are inevitably going to do have you given thought to their calorie content?

Is it going to be worth it to discover that you have gained anywhere from five to ten pounds from your Christmas gorging?

I'll answer that. IT IS NOT.

Five or ten pounds are torture to take off especially in winter when you do not exercise out of doors. In the summer time you garden or walk or you play golf or swim. In the summer too the bulk of our meals is from fresh fruit and vegetables.

I hate being foreminded. I hate warnings. But—I do love a slim waistline.

If you could argue back at this piece of paper you might fondly ask me how I avoid eating the lovely cookies and cakes my hostesses so proudly pass. I simply smile and murmur "No, thank you". Unless of course, she is young and proud of her first efforts. Then I take the smallest cookie on the plate and make it last until my second cup of tea is finished.

Stay with your calorie routine girls—come Fruit Cake, Shortbread, Plum Pudding, and Roast Turkey. Let your calories and contours and conscience be your guide.

(1) Six ounces hot clear consomme; grilled cheese sandwich on whole wheat, no butter; ¼ head lettuce with ¼ cup cottage cheese; 1 apple; 8 oz. skim milk.

(2) Eight ounces vegetable soup; 1 hard-cooked egg on salad of 3 leaves lettuce, 1 sliced tomato; ¼ cup cottage cheese; 1 slice whole wheat bread or toast, 1 teaspoon butter; 1 whole orange, 8 oz. skim milk.

(3) Sandwich: 4 oz. broiled hamburger on whole wheat bread with mustard and slice tomato; 8 oz. skim milk; 1 medium ripe banana.

DINNERS FOR WEIGHT-WATCHERS

(1) One 1-inch thick pork chop including all fat; 4 oz. unbuttered green beans, ½ cup cooked brown rice with 1 teaspoon butter; 3 4-inch long celery stalks, 1 small carrot (raw); Emperor grapes or ripe dessert pear—about 6 ounces of either. Clear coffee.

(2) Six ounces clear consomme; 4 oz. broiled fish, lemon; spinach quick-cooked, with 1 teaspoon butter diced beets; cole slaw with 1 teaspoon mayonnaise slice fresh pineapple; clear coffee.

(3) Four ounces broiled liver brushed with 1 teaspoon butter; shredded carrots (cooked); small baked potato and jacket with 1 teaspoon butter: dessert fruit salad on lettuce: grape fruit and orange sections, apricot halves, ½ banana dipped in mayonnaise and nuts; coffee.

NOTE: Whole oranges contain protopectin, little is found in the juice. This complex carb[illegible] lessens intestinal fermentation and assists intestinal absorption of all nutrients without leading to weight gain. Take a hint, readers, eat 1 whole orange per day.

What's Right?

Your maid receives so many telephone calls that it is becoming a nuisance.

WRONG: Feel there is nothing you can do about the situation.

RIGHT: Ask her to tell her family and friends not to telephone her at work unless it is absolutely necessary.

6—In Memoriam

DOXSEE—In loving memory of Helen, who passed away Dec. 9, 1947.

Five years have passed, again December
As long as life lasts, we will remember.
—Ever remembered by Madelon and Howard.

DOXSEE—In loving memory of my dear mother, who died Dec. 9, 1947.

Please God, forgive a silent tear,
A fervent wish my mother was here.
There are others, yes, I know,
But she was mine and I loved her so.
Dear God, take a message
To my mother in heaven above,
Tell her how much I miss her,
And give her all my love.
—Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by her daughter Marlene.

DOXSEE—In loving memory of my dear daughter, Helen Ferguson, who passed away five years ago, Dec. 9, 1947.

I dream of you, dear loved one,
And see your smiling face,
And know that you are happy
In our Father's chosen place.
However long my life shall last,
Whatever lands I view,
Whatever joy and grief be mine,
I will always think of you.
The day will come, dear Helen,
We shall meet in that eternal home.
—Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by her mother.

DUNFORD—In loving memory of our dear Grandma, Mrs. Joseph Dunford, dead 6 years Dec. 9th.

We lost one with a heart of gold
How much we miss her can never be told.
Dearer to us than words can tell
Is the Grandma we lost and loved so well.
—Never to be forgotten by Grandchildren, Art, Garnet, Roxie Downer.

7—Card of Thanks

The brothers and sisters of the late Mary Shaughnessy wish to thank relatives and neighbors for the many kindnesses shown them in their recent bereavement. Special thanks to Rev. Fr. Garvey, Mr. and Mrs. Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. E. Smullens, attending doctor and Tommy Walker.

The family of the late Mrs. Albert J. Whetung wish to extend their thanks to Rev. W. B. Day and Mr. Kenneth Stewart, also the attending doctor, the Sisters and nurses of St. Joseph's Hospital and all kind friends, neighbors and relatives who called, sent cards and flowers and for kind words of sympathy during their recent sad bereavement in the loss of a dear wife and loving mother.

WAR CLAIMS COMMISSION
Notice
CLAIMS FOR LOSS OR DAMAGE ARISING OUT OF WORLD WAR II

THE WAR CLAIMS COMMISSION established to enquire into and report upon claims by Canadians arising out of World War II HEREBY GIVES NOTICE in respect of such claims as may be payable from the War Claims Fund:

1. Notice of claims in respect of maltreatment, personal injury, death or loss of property must be received by the Commission not later than December 31, 1953. Persons who have not already given notice of their claims to the War Claims Branch or to the Office of the Custodian of Enemy Property, Department of the Secretary of State, Ottawa, are required to forward such notice to THE WAR CLAIMS COMMISSION, OTTAWA, CANADA, prior to December 31, 1953. No claim will be considered unless notice thereof has been received by the Commission by that date.

2. Every notice of claim should contain:
(a) the full name and address of the claimant, and particulars of the claimant's national status or of service in World War II with the armed forces of Canada; and
(b) the nature and particulars of the claim and the date and circumstances of the loss, injury or maltreatment.

3. Notice of claim is required for the purpose of preliminary information only, and the War Claims Commission may require the filing of a formal claim, duly verified, before assigning any claim for adjudication.

Given at Ottawa this 24th day of November, 1952.

THANE A. CAMPBELL,
Chief War Claims Commissioner.

Grant Kelsey Appeal, Now Awaits Reprieve

WELLAND (CP) — An appeal against conviction has been granted James Alfred Kelsey, 29, sentenced to be hanged Jan. 6 for the murder of a Welland taxi driver.

Kelsey was convicted Sept. 18 of murdering Sam Delibasich Dec. 9, 1949. His counsel, W. S. Martin, Q. C., of Niagara Falls, and Sam Hughes of Welland, said the appeal likely would be heard by the Supreme Court of Canada in the latter part of January. A motion will be made for a reprieve.

Thieves Grab $15,000 From N.Y. Jeweller

NEW YORK (AP)—A Brooklyn diamond merchant was robbed of $15,000 jewelry early today by three men who met him outside his home and took his glasses to prevent him from identifying them.

Police said Jack Kastin, 48, was entering his automobile parked in front of his home at about midnight when two men approached him from behind.

One man who was reported armed grabbed Kastin's glasses before he could see the assailants. Then the two forced him to enter another automobile in which a third man was waiting.

The trio drove Kastin around for about 20 minutes before freeing him a few blocks from his home.

Admits Statement In Murder Hearing

SWEETSBURG, Que. (CP)—Mr. Justice L. P. Cliche admitted today as crown evidence a statement to police in which Kenneth C. Ford, 32-year-old textile company paymaster, told of a family quarrel which led to the death of his pregnant wife Feb. 7 last.

Ford, on trial on a charge of murder, said in the statement that he struck his wife, Norma, twice on the back of the head with an iron bar, that she fell full-length into the bathtub "and I got scared and turned on the water and ran upstairs, horrified at what I had done."

He returned a few minutes later "to see if I could help her" but "her head was in the water and she had stopped breathing."

Line Officials Welcome Talks

TORONTO (CP) — Officials of Trans-Northern Pipeline said today they welcomed a conference with Toronto and suburban North York authorities to discuss safety measures regarding oil pipelines.

"We not only agree to the North York reeve's suggestion, but we welcome it," President A. N. Horne said. "We will be able to get a lot of misconceptions straightened out."

Reeve Nelson Boylen Monday night proposed a conference following Sunday night's pipeline break which released large quantities of high-octane gasoline into the Don river.

Mr. Horne said "nothing like 20,000 or 40,000 gallons of gasoline," as reported earlier, escaped from the pipe. He said about 2,625 gallons escaped.

The break occurred during a test of a side section, built since the main pipeline. During the test a flaw, due to a faulty weld, was discovered. The main line had earlier been tested at 1,450-pounds pressure.

"We had men stationed at every gate valve and that's how we were able to turn off the flow so quickly, within a matter of a very few minutes."

He said the company will accept responsibility for damage done by the break. He did not discuss a suggestion by Mayor Lamport of Toronto that the company should be billed for equipment and manhours used in taking precautionary measures along the Don.

Civil Air Lines Hit Record Month In April

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's civilian air lines had record monthly revenues in April but their net operating revenues rose only slightly over the same month of 1952, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The carriers' gross, on both domestic and international services, was $7,066,000 compared with $5,278,000 a year earlier. But operating expenses also jumped 35 per cent to $6,907,000, and the net operating revenues rose only to $159,000 from about $152,000.

For the first four months of the year, there was an over-all loss on operating revenues of $91,000. Comparative figures for the same period last year were not available.

In April, the lines carried 125,990 passengers, compared with 103,856 a year before. Passenger-miles increased to 58,988,000 from 48,745,000.

Dynamite Blast—GEN

Dynamite Blast Wrecks Bus In Quebec Town

LOUISEVILLE, Que. (CP)—Provincial police headquarters in Montreal today dispatched 20 men to the little industrial town of Louiseville after a blast, believed to have been caused by dynamite, wrecked an unoccupied bus.

The bus was parked overnight on a street in Louiseville, 10 miles from Three Rivers, when the explosion smashed it at 2 a. m. The blast broke out 200 windows in nearby buildings.

Provincial police on the scene who started an investigation of the explosion said tension was growing in Louiseville where 500 textile workers have been on strike since March 10.

Wrecking of the bus was one in a series of incidents of violence that have occurred while the strike dragged on through the summer months. The latest followed an announcement Monday that recent talks aimed at settling the strike have failed.

Nine Still Stranded In Lighthouse By Storm

CRESCENT CITY, Calif. (AP)—Nine coast guard lighthouse men spent their 10th day of storm-imposed isolation on a bleak, wave-battered reef off the California-Oregon coast today as a new blow howled in from the North Pacific.

Three lightkeepers, a relief crew of three and three repairmen were stranded Nov. 30 on 140-foot high St. Georges Reef light.

Raging seas and high winds prevent them from lowering their boats and barred Coast Guard attempts to reach the reef, seven miles off the rocky coast northwest of here.

Relaxed winds offer some hope to the stranded men.

The new storm, due to hit the coast late today, is not expected to be as severe as the week-end blast, in which 14 persons lost their lives in California and Oregon.

Mrs. A. J. Whetung

LAKEFIELD —(ENS)—The funeral service for Mrs. Albert J. Whetung, the former Sarah Evelyn Franklin was held on Sunday afternoon from Curve Lake church and was largely attended.

Mrs. Whetung died Thursday in hospital following a short illness.

The service was conducted by the Rev. W. B. Day of The Church on The Rock, Burleigh Falls, assisted by Mr. Kenneth Stewart of Wesley United Church. Interment was in Lakefield cemetery.

Pall bearers were Ray and Fred Binnington, Fred and Percy Marsden, Clifford and Murray Whetung. Flower bearers, Wellington Irons, Donald Whetung, Larry Marsden, Arthur Whetung, Dalton Jacobs and George McCue.

ONLY COASTLINE CHARTED

The greater part of the coastline of Antarctica has been charted, but vast sections of the interior are unknown.

City Clerk 45 Years Alex McNaughton Dies

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Alex McNaughton, 86, municipal clerk here for 45 years, died Monday.

Born in Glengarry county, he came to the Lakehead in 1890. He taught school and worked in a post office before coming town clerk in 1900. He had served under 20 mayors before retiring in 1945.

Claim Sailor Admits Slaying Miami Woman

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Marine Corps air base reported today a sailor had confessed the torture slaying of a woman, still unidentified, whose nude body was found Sunday at a lonely spot north of Miami.

The provost marshal's office said the sailor is Wilbur J. Whaite, 20, of Coupeville, Wash.

Whaite was arrested Nov. 7 on a charge of hitting a Miami beach woman with a brick. He was at liberty on $2,000 bond in that case.

Toronto Traffic Toll Equals 1951's Total

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto's 1952 traffic toll today jumped to 57, equal to the number of traffic deaths in the city during the whole of 1951, with the death of Lawrence Liberty, 24.

The youth was killed when the wheels of the bicycle he was riding struck a curb, somersaulting him sideways so that his head went under the dual rear wheels of a tractor-trailer, police said.

Foundation Donates $3,000 For Centre

HAMILTON (CP) — The Atkinson Charitable Foundation has donated $3,000 to help disabled persons at the Amity Rehabilitation Centre, it was announced today.

A rehabilitation program was begun in 1950 at the centre with a $13,000 grant from the foundation. The new grant will assist in completing the work.

Police Seek Thieves Who Kidnapped Doe

MONTREAL (CP) — Police sought today thieves who kidnapped a young doe from an SPCA compound last week-end.

The doe was taken to the compound after society inspectors found it Nov. 27 last locked in the back seat of a hunter's car, already loaded with carcasses of dead deer.

An SPCA official said the theft was committed "out of spite simply because we seized the animal in the first place."

Sunday Sport Loses In Port Arthur Vote

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — Commercialized Sunday sport was defeated by 102 votes in Port Arthur's civic electiotn Monday.

Final tabulation early today showed 5,590 voters in favor of the proposal and 5,692 opposed. The balloting followed 1½ weeks of intensive campaigning.

The final count for the mayoralty gave Fred. O. Robinson a margin of more than 1,700 votes over Mayor Charles W. Cox. Mr. Robinson polled 5,583 votes to Mr. Cox's 3,866 and 2,248 for Alderman Mrs. Eunice M. Wishart.

Japanese Flag Raised Singapore Consulate

SINGAPORE (AP) — The Rising Sun of Japan was raised in Singapore today, the first time since Allied forces accepted the Japanese surrender in 1945.

But there was no bowing and shouts of "banzai" (long live) as the flag was raised over the newly opened Japanese consulate. Ken Ninomiya, consul - general, said: "Bowing is no longer a Japanese tradition and shouts of banzai are out now. The flag of the Rising Sun is a symbol of peace and goodwill to all nations."

U.S. Court To Rule On Segregation Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court of the United States today will be asked to settle the question of whether sending Negro and white children to separate public schools violates the constitution.

Such racial segregation is challenged in cases arising in four states and the District of Columbia. The final decision will affect 13 other states which maintain completely or partially segregated schools.

Arguments begin late this afternoon and may continue through Thursday.

Engines Sold

OSLO, Norway (CP)—Five auxiliary engines salvaged from the German pocket battleship Tirpitz, sunk by Allied bombers near Tromso in the Second World War, have been reconditioned and sold. One provides electricity for homes in the fishing port of Honningsvaag.

Salvage Rails

LONDON (CP)—London's change from street-cars to motor buses now is complete. In the next few months some 40,000 tons of steel will be recovered by removal of the abandoned tramway tracks.

Phone Service Links Snowplows

TORONTO (CP) — A two-way mobile telephone service between 108 snowplows and seven dispatchers of the Ontario traffic division was inaugurated today when Premier Frost received a call from Highways Minister Doucett who was stationed in a plow on the grounds of the University of Western Ontario in London.

The system, in operation in the Toronto division since 1948, today was extended to London, Stratford, Hamilton, Port Hope, Kingston and Ottawa. Next year Chatham and Owen Sound will be included.

The innovation will enable the speeding up of sanding in areas where glare ice develops. Where there is heavy snowfall the plows can begin moving the snow in minutes. The new service may prove an added safeguard for the public in ambulance service and medical aid in accidents.

Lifelong Friends Die On Same Day

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—Two lifelong friends who lived in the Lakefield district all their lives died on the same day, were buried the same day from the same funeral home and in the same cemetery.

Frederick Rosborough and Robert George Charlton died on Saturday and their funerals were held from the Hendren funeral home Monday. Mr. Charlton's funeral was at 2 p.m. and Mr. Rosborough's was at 3.30 p.m. They were both buried in Lakefield cemetery.

Both men were members of the same Orange Lodge, LOL 122 Lakefield, and more than 40 lodge members attended both funerals.

Beef Industry Boosts With Embargo News

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario beef industry has strengthened with the announcement the U.S. livestock embargo will be lifted next March 1, the provincial department of agriculture said today in its weekly crop report.

The department said that although beef producers realize U.S. prices have receded during the embargo period, the promise of a return to the export market has created a feeling of buoyancy. The embargo was imposed at the time of the foot-and-mouth disease outbreak in Saskatchewan last winter.

There will probably be a plentiful turkey supply for the Christmas market. Prices are expected to be down in northern and south-central areas.

A poor market for hogs is reported in all areas. Young pigs are difficult to sell and fall breeding of sows has been reduced.

Bonaventure Is Name For New Navy Carrier

OTTAWA (CP) — The navy said today the name Bonaventure has been chosen for the new aircraft carrier now being built for Canada at Belfast, Northern Ireland.

A statement said the name was chosen because of a double significance. The name has a rich British naval tradition and has been used by various ships over the centuries.

In addition, Bonaventure is the name of a widely-known Canadian bird sanctuary which offers refuge to jet planes.

The carrier will come into service in 1956, will cost about $20,000,000 and will be manned by 1,000 men.

Bonaventure Island is three miles off the famous Perce rock in Quebec's Gaspe peninsula.

Newfoundland Project "Biggest" Realty Deal

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Premier Joseph R. Smallwood says his government has reached an agreement with N. M. Rothschild and Sons for a development project which will bring "the biggest real estate deal on this continent in the present century."

Details of the plan, evolved during recent discussions in London with the internationally - known group of banking and financial concerns, were not announced, but were believed to include timber or mining development or possibly both.

Mr. Smallwood said Monday night field parties will start exploring in Newfoundland and Labrador as soon as the agreement is ratified.

William W. Grieves

WARKWORTH — (ENS) — The funeral for William Wallace Grieves, 70 Shuter St., Toronto, and formerly of Warkworth, who died Saturday, was held today from the St. Paul's United Church, Warkworth.

The Rev. A. L. Sisco of St. Paul's United Church conducted the service.

Pallbearers were George Partridge, Wallace Baker, Ambros English, Thomas Covert, Charles Osborne, Frank Bowen. Burial was in Trent Valley cemetery.

R. P. Borland

The funeral service was held Monday for Robert Percival Borland 748 Water St., at the Nesbitt funeral home. Mr. Borland died Friday.

The Rev. C. G. Boyd of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church officiated. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

Pallbearers were P. Harris, J. Ferren, J. Bosley, J. Boyle, K. Withers and H. Kendry.

High School Reports 93% Attendance

LAKEFIELD— (ENS)— Attendance at the Lakefield district high school for the month of November was 198 students and at Apsley 35, with percentage attendance 93.4. This was reported by principal J. E. Stephens, in his report to the board at the December meeting. Chairman G. N. McIlmoyle presided and all members were present.

Mr. Stephens also reported that three bus loads of pupils had attended the Royal Winter Fair and were shown through the Parliament buildings in Toronto. He also stated that the second soccer game with the Grove School resulted in a win for the High School of 5-1 score, and that the rent for the rink had been raised to 150. The examinations, he said, would be concluded the week of December 1st and reports would be out before Christmas holidays.

The resignation of Miss Gertrude Marion was received and accepted and the secretary asked to advertise for a teacher to fill the vacancy on the staff.

Frank Payne, insurance agent, addressed the board regarding insurance for the new school and as a result Mr. McIlmoyle and Erie Pearson will be a committee to confer with Mr. Payne regarding insurance and a policy will be taken out to include medical and liability insurance.

Sherman Pearson, school bus driver, addressed the board, following up his letter regarding two students he had been forced to refuse transportation on account of bad behaviour on the bus. The board advised that the parents of these students and also the principal be acquainted with the situation.

The proper type of coal will be purchased from the W. J. Charlton Estate and thirty desks will be bought at a cost of $24 each, freight extra from Toronto.

Carson Neill will be employed as caretaker as of December 1, 1952, and the contractor will be asked to have the heating, electrical and plumbing sub-contractors instruct Mr. Neill as to the complete installations of the above noted systems.

Rustees Chester Hamilton, Erie Pearson and N. A. Moore and caretaker Carson Neill will inspect the new Norwood high school and Kenner Collegiate re new equipment for the new Lakefield school.

Transportation costs were presented as follows, Roy Brown, $438.90; F. S. Coyle, $380; C. Dewdney, $72.; C. Hilker, $114.; M. Reddick, $325.; S. Pearson, $1007; T. S. A. Burleigh and Anstruther, $216.39, a total of $2553.29. Other accounts recommended for payment by the finance committee amounted to $341.63.

CALEB COON

Dinner Honors Caleb Coon . 95th Birthday

HAVELOCK (ENS). — Caleb Coon, Havelock's oldest resident, celebrated his 95th anniversary on Sunday when a family dinner marked the occasion. At a reception held in the afternoon, friends called to offer congratulations. Mr. Coon received many lovely gifts and cards.

Mr. Coon's recipe for long life is summed up in the advice which friends have heard him give on several occasions: "Keep calm; don't get excited over anything, and meet emergencies as they appear."

Relatives attending the dinner were his sister-in-law Miss Mary Seeney and his son Carman, who live with him, his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George Free of Campbellford, grandchildren, Mrs. Arden McLean of Port Credit, Douglas Free of Toronto, Mrs. Daniel MacEachern of Blenheim; three great-grandchildren, Margaret, Grant and Linda McLean of Port Credit; nieces and nephews, Mrs. Arthur Waters, Mr. and Mrs. L. Humphries and family of Hastings, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ireland, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hadley, Mr. Thomas Coon of Trenton, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Goodfellow of Belleville, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Seeney of Campbellford.

A grandson, Jack Free of Ottawa, was unable to be present.

During the reception Mrs. Roy Seeney of Campbellford poured tea at a lace-covered table which was centred with a large birthday cake flanked with white tapers in silver holders. A large bouquet of mums made an attractive floral decoration.

Mr. Coon has lived in Havelock for 62 years. When he came here he worked for a time in the sawmill owned by the late James Wiseman. Since then he has followed teaming as an occupation. It is just two years ago that he gave up snowplowing sidewalks.

He was born in the Castleton district, and is a son of the late William Coon and Elizabeth Tanner. His wife died in 1929.

FPC Allows 12 More To Lobby On Seaway

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal power commission formally allowed 12 more parties to represent their interests in a hearing on a joint international power project on the St. Lawrence river, scheduled to start today.

The power authority of the state of New York is seeking a licence to proceed with the American share of the development.

The 12 new parties granted permission Monday to state their cases are: the government of Canada; the states of Minnesota, New Hampshire and Wisconsin, individually; Connecticut state flood control and water policy commission; Connecticut state water commission; Rhode Island department of business regulation; American Public Power Association; Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Association; the Central Pennsylvania Coal Producers Association; the Anthracite Institute and United Mine Workers of America.

Rash Of Shed Fires Work Of Arsonist

MONTREAL (CP)—Fire authorities said today a rash of shed fires that have plagued the city's downtown district recently may have been the work of an arsonist.

Fire department officials said the fires, which have caused thousands of dollars damage, had the same general appearance, starting at the rear of a building and usually under a flight of stairs.

There have been about 10 fires in the district in the last 10 days.

John Palmer Elected To Head Orangemen

BETHANY (ENS)—The December meeting of the Bethany Loyal Orange Lodge No. 1022 was held in the Orange Hall and following the regular session officers for the coming year were elected as follows:

Worshipful master, Bro. John Palmer; deputy master, Bro. Creighton Carr; recording secretary, Bro. Charles Palmer; chaplain, Rev. Bro. Thomas S. Gault; first lecturer, Bro. Mervin Smith; second lecturer, Bro. George Smith; financial treasurer, Bro. Harold Phillips; tyler, Bro. John Bryce.

Plans were made for the annual Christmas dance to be held Dec. 20 in the town hall. Tickets have been sold on turkeys and the draw for the lucky winners will be made at this dance.

Campney Urges Liberals Beat Own Drums More

TORONTO (CP) — Solicitor-General Campney today called on Liberals to beat the publicity drums louder about the party's accomplishments.

"Away with o modesty!" he urged in an address prepared for delivery before the Liberal Business Men's Club here.

"Let us," he said, "be as noisy as the Tories, as repetitious as the CCF and as politically-immodest as the Social Crediters, but let us above all tell the people of this country what we have done."

If Canadians know the facts of the Liberal record, Mr. Campney said, the party need have no fear of the outcome of the next federal election.

The newly-named minister said the Progressive Conservative cry of "it's time for a change" is only an attempt to capitalize on the victory slogan of the Republicans in the United States election last month.

"The Progressive Conservatives, pretty hard up for a battle-cry and without any constructive policy worth mentioning, are seeking to derive some benefit from the recent election to the south.

"This would seem to be a rather sorry reflection on their lack of constructive policy in the interests of the Canadian people. . .

"If it is time for a change, perhaps. . .it's time that the Tories changed their leader and found a policy."

Negro Cleric, 67, Charges Beating

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—A 67-year-old Negro minister says he was beaten by two white men because he refused to sit in the rear of a Greyhound bus.

Rev. Amos H. Carnegie came to the office of the Chattanooga Times on arriving here from Atlanta, Ga., Sunday night, and displayed a severe head wound and swollen eyes.

He said that when he took a seat in the middle of the bus in Atlanta, the driver asked him to sit in the rear. When he refused, the driver called a policeman and again he refused.

Shortly out of Atlanta the two men, after conversations with the driver, pounced on him and beat him on the head and kicked him, the Negro added.

The driver did not stop the bus, he said, until it reached Acworth, Ga. There two policemen were called and the minister said he "was in such misery and pain I decided it would be better to resist no longer, so I went to the rear seat."

He added that the bus was held up at Acworth until a Greyhound official came from Atlanta.

"The official offered me medical aid, but I told him I would go on to Chattanooga," he said.

Honey, Do Bees Speak In Dialect?–Scientist

WASHINGTON (AP) — Do the bees buzz in Brooklynese?

The answer, it seems, is up to Karl von Frisch, a scientist who has applied for a Rockefeller Foundation grant to find out if possible whether bees talk to each other in "dialect."

The project was touched on briefly yesterday by Dean Rusk, president of the foundation, in testimony before a House of Representatives sub-committee. The congressmen are studying the activities of foundations.

It may seem amusing to study "a honey bee with a southern accent," Rusk said, but you can never tell where it will lead in the great pattern of communications research.

Means Test Removal Urged For Sightless

OTTAWA (CP)—Harry Cavers (L—Lincoln) says the means test should be removed from pensions paid to the blind.

Pensions of $40 a month now are paid to needy blind persons 21 and over.

Speaking in the Commons Monday, Mr. Cavers said blind persons are less able to earn their own livelihood than many persons 70 and over, who receive $40-a-month pensions regardless of means.

Break Crap Game

TORONTO (CP) — Police early today broke up what they described as a huge floating crap game and arrested 34 persons. John Argier, 36, was charged with keeping a common gaming house in the basement recreation room of his bungalow in suburban North York.

Seek Missing Girls

TORONTO (CP) — Police think two 14-year-old girls who disappeared from their suburban York township homes Monday may have gone to Kitchener. The girls are Frances Dean and Pauline Black. One of them left a note.

PILLOW RADIOS FOR PATIENTS on the surgical floor of the Civic Hospital were installed last week. The radios, situated at the head of the bed where patients can easily reach the speaker and dial, were placed on each bed. They were bought by the women's auxiliary and the hospital board which took its share from the trust funds. Receipts from the radios will repay the trust funds. Patient Donald Franks, R.R. 1, Omemee, inspects the radio speaker which can be placed beside the patient's ear, allowing him to hear programs and yet not disturb patients nearby.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

742 Students In Eye Survey Of Norwood Club

NORWOOD (ENS)—Dr. A. R. Atkinson, chairman of the eye survey committee of the Lions Club reported on the results of the completed project at the recent club meeting.

Dr. Atkinson said a total of 481 junior school pupils attending 10 public and separate schools in the Norwod district, and 261 students of the new Norwood District High School had been thorough by screened for defective vision. Results of the tests showed that approximately 25 per cent of the junior pupils and 14 per cent of the senior pupils required eye care.

The project was begun about a month ago using a new Sight Screener of which there is only one duplicate in the province. The machine was very capably operated by Mrs. Mary Knox, R.N.

The cards showing each pupils score on the test were turned over to L. E. Morrison, Peterborough, Optometrist and well-known member of the Peterborough Lions Club. Mr. Morrison studied each card and then volunteer workers, Norwood Lions and their wives, filled out and distributed letters to each child, telling of the findings of the test.

At the close of the survey Mr. Morrison sent a detailed report to the Norwood Club showing the types of eye-defect found in each school. He congratulated the Club, Mrs. Knox and the school boards participating on a job well-done.

The Lions Club is the "baby club" of the district having been chartered on January 30, 1952.

Rivera To Attend

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mural painter Diego Rivera, Mexico's in-and-out Communist, said today he would leave shortly for the Communist "peace conference" which opens Dec. 12 in Vienna. Rivera has been expelled from the Communist party but his application for re-admission is pending.

Send NATO Delegates

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States will send a 44-man delegation, headed by the secretaries of state, treasury and defence, to the Atlantic Pact council meeting in Paris Monday. The conference will review Western defence preparations, which call for 50 divisions by the end of the year.

14 Die In Collapse

BARLETTA, Italy (Reuters)—Fourteen Italians were killed and 13 were injured when two houses collapsed last night after two days of torrential rains.

Calm Returns To Pen As Convicts Isolated

SANTA FE, N. M. (AP) — Calm returned to the New Mexico state prison today with at least eight convicts in isolation after a vain effort to trade hostage guards for freedom.

Six more prisoners presumably were due the same punishment for taking part in a 20-hour rebellion. Warden Morris A. Abram said only that they probably were involved.

Governor Edwin L. Mechem said there would be an investigation.

The outbreak ended before noon Monday when eight captive guards —for whose release the convicts demanded a car to carry them through opened gates of the 69 year-old penitentiary — were freed by the 14 rebel prisoners

The guards emerged unharmed from the barricaded prison but refused to talk about their experiences. Abram said they were well treated.

Mechem and Abram described the attempted break as "a spontaneous proposition" led by Robert Euds, 22-year-old holdup man.

Mrs. R. B. Beavis Dies In Saskatoon

SASKATOON—Widow of a pioneer Presbyterian missionary who came to the Hanley district in 1905, and whose history of church work in the early days is on the shelves of the Saskatchewan archives, Mrs. R. B. Beavis died in a local hospital Wednesday on the eve of her 81st birthday.

Born in Peterborough, Ont., the former Christina, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edward Fitzgerald, went as a bride to the Bella Bella district of British Columbia, and there, and later in the Hanley district, shared the life of a preacher who travelled his circuit in the saddle and by buggy, his team often two unbroken bronchos.

The late Mr. Beavis, who was born in the Hastings district of Ontario, also figures in a history of the Conquest district published some years ago.

Mrs. Beavis, who was only ill ten days, was active in the congregation of Knox United Church, particularly in the Women's Missionary Society.

For the past 12 years she had lived in Saskatoon, latterly at the Crescent Apartments, Lorne Avenue and Eleventh Street.

She is survived by three sons, Maxwell, of Vancouver, and Ford and Douglas of Saskatoon.

A service was held at 8 o'clock Friday evening at McKagues, after which the body was taken for burial at Vancouver, where her husband was buried after his death in 1937.

Horse's Owner Is Baffled By Animal's Mental Feats

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Mrs. Claudia Fonda, owner of an animal that has come to be known as a talking horse, doesn't claim to understand how "Lady Wonder" does the phenomenal things she is credited with doing.

But she is more than a little disturbed about the flood of questions that has descended on her household since the recent publicity resulting from the discovery of a missing Massachusetts youngster through a clue given by Lady.

"I've often wished I understood," she said, when asked if she could explain Lady's unusual abilities.

Mrs. Fonda, who has been allowing people to question Lady for more than 20 years, said "I'm convinced that there is a strange link between the human and the animal mind, at least in Lady's case."

Lady will answer questions by pecking out the answers on a "spelling board," a simple gadget made by Mrs. Fonda's husband, a machinist. When Lady pushes a lever with her chin, the appropriate letter pops up.

Mrs. Fonda says she has exhibited Lady briefly, in Baltimore, Philadelphia, and Washington, among other places, but has never tried to make a "big thing" out of it.

She said she first suspected Lady was an unusual animal when she began to appear just before Mrs. Fonda could get the words out of her mouth, to call her.

Somebody suggested communicating with the animal by using spelling blocks, which worked fine. Then Fonda made the spelling board, which also worked fine.

Mrs. Fonda said Lady is no thoroughbred but the seller told her the colt was "seven-eights thoroughbred and one-eighth bronco."

Lady was bought as a colt 28 years ago, for use as a farm animal, but she "never has had a harness on." Mrs. Fonda said she raised her on a bottle.

The recent deluge of inquiries from all over the country does not please Mrs. Fonda. "I think it's unfair to ask her to locate people through such clues as the ones they furnish," she said, "although I'm sure she'd do her best."

Mrs. Fonda said she thinks Lady does much better when the questioner stands beside Lady, and anyway, "how would these people know whether the answers were mine or the horse's if they weren't right here?"

Farmers Charge Whitewashing By Grain Board

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Saskatchewan Farmers' Union has charged an agent of the Saskatchewan Co-op Producers' Limited with infractions of the Canada Grain Act and subsequent infractions and "whitewashing" by a member of the board of grain commissioners.

In a statement released today, Union President J. L. Phelps of Saskatoon said the board, asked last Friday for a public inquiry, agreed a hearing should be held.

No date was set. In a letter to the board, Mr. Phelps suggested any time between Dec. 15-17 at Kinistino, Sask.

Mr. Phelps said the incident concerns H. K. Kreutzweiser, a farmer from Crystal Springs, Sask.; the Saskatchewan wheat pool agent at Brancepeth, Sask., and John Rayner, assistant grain commissioner.

The statement said Kreutzweiser took 55 bushels of wheat to the Brancepeth elevator Nov. 13. The agent, who was not identified, refused to accept on the grounds no space was available and refused to issue an interim cash ticket.

Kreutzweiser was ordered out of the building when he persisted and a "tussle" followed.

Mr. Rayner later went to Brancepeth to investigate. His report said the agent graded Kreutzweiser's wheat at three northern. The farmer wasn't satisfied and asked a two northern grade. The agent declined to issue a ticket since no space was available to segregate the grain pending a check with Winnipeg.

If the grain was accepted it would have to be stored in a bin containing three northern.

"We contend the report is incorrect," said Mr. Phelps. "Officials of the union suspected this was a whitewashed report. There were only 55 bushels involved and Mr. Rayner says there was no room for it.

"Farmers from all over complain that elevator companies say they have no room for certain grades. You have two northern; they only have room for three or four northern. If it grades better, you lose."

Bethany Girls' Club Get Sewing Tips

BETHANY (ENS)—Ten members of the Glad I Canners junior homemakers' club were present at their Saturday meeting with Miss Marie Carr presiding.

Further instructions in sewing were given by Mrs. Clarence Page, who explanied to the girls how to take their own correct measurements for a pattern. Mrs. Mansell Finney demonstrated the proper method of making buttonholes. For home assignments the girls were to make several samples and complete a sewing chart with machine stitching. The next meeting will be held December 30 at the home of Miss Marie Finney.

Family Escapes Harm As Prop Hits House

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — A family of five escaped unharmed Monday night when a B-29 bomber propeller crashed down on their home in a Bakersfield residential section.

The blade sheared off a corner of the home, slashed through a bedroom and partially buried itself in the ground. Mr. and Mrs. George Cowle and their three children were at dinner in an adjoining room.

Mass. Cleric Becomes Sole RC Priest In USSR

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rev. Georges Bissonette has been issued a visa by the Soviet embassy permitting him to enter Russia and take over as the only Roman Catholic priest there.

Father Bissonette, now with the Assumption College at Worcester, Mass., will be admitted to Moscow under the treaty in which the United States recognized Russia's revolutionary government in 1933.

Today's Children May Take Trips To Moon

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Careful pop, don't kid your youngsier about his space suit and ray gun. He may run off — to the moon.

That's the word from Hubertus Strughold, doctor of space medicine at Randolph Air Force Base, San Antonio.

Strughold said children of today will see the time when they can take a 30-hour rocket trip to the moon.

The big problem, Strughold told a group of medical students Monday, is obtaining enough power for space travel. But he predicted that will be solved "in time for the younger generation to witness it."

Don't worry about people being able to take such a trip. The doctor said the science of space medicine, although only four years old, has succeeded to the point where space doctors can get passengers to their destinations alive if the rocket makers can get the ships there.

FASCINATING PICTURE

The moon and the planet Mars are barren wastes, he said. Mars experiences all the seasons in a single day.

The atmospheric condition on Mars approximates what airmen have encountered at about 6,000 feet above the earth — dry, rarified air.

Dr. Strughold discounts the idea of wierd-looking moon people and war-like Martians in space suits.

Actually, the space doctor believes, only certain kinds of bacteria or — at most — a low form of animal life exists on the planets.

Charge Woman, 29 As Female Fagin

NEWMARKET (CP)—A 29-year-old mother of five children and foster mother of two today was charged with coaching three of her little girls to be housebreakers, receiving stolen goods and breaking and entering.

Polife said Mrs. Alice Howe of nearby Keswick on Lake Simcoe told them more than two carloads of loot were taken from cottages and a store in the Indianola beach area. She said her husband, Alex Howse, a Toronto transport driver, home only once a week, knew nothing of the activities.

The loot, including alarm clocks, electric fans and radios, was valued at about $500.

The oldest girls, her foster children aged 13 and 11, will appear in juvenile court. The other girl, aged 8, is too young for the court.

Take Afternoon Off, Stall Murder Trial

WINCHESTER, England (AP)—An astounded judge adjourned a murder trial after he discovered the four defence witnesses had taken the afternoon off.

"I have never known such a thing to happen in my life in a murder trial," Justice Croom Johnson said Monday as he postponed the session to today.

The absence of the witnesses was disclosed when defence counsel summoned the first to the chair. A search disclosed that all four had gone home.

Counsel for Walter Percy Ansell, charged with killing the wife of a friend, said he told witnesses they might not be called Monday so after the luncheon recess all slipped away.

U.S. Takes Citizenship From N.Y. Racketeer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney-General James McGranery today ordered proceedings to strip American citizenship from Albert Anastasia, described by the justice department as a New York waterfront racketeer.

Anastasia, a native of Italy, is currently a leading figure in the New York state crime commission's investigation of alleged gangsterism in the world's largest dock area.

The justice department said it had allegations in its files that Anastasia, 50, living at Fort Lee, N.J., was one-time "Lord High Executioner of Murder, Inc."

The denaturalization proceeding, a first step looking toward deportation to Italy, will be filed in the federal district court at Newark, N.J., probably late today.

Man Fined $500

CORNWALL (CP) — Charged after a fatal accident last May, James Mitchell Jr., Monday was fined $500 for dangerous driving. Wendell Gotham of Colton, N.Y., was killed in the crash.

LEOPOLD SIMONEAU

Gifted Montreal Tenor To Sing

Leopold Simoneau, who is to sing at the Peterborough Collegiate auditorium on Wednesday evening, in the second Community Concert of this season, has been hailed by Francis Poulenac, France's great contemporary composer-pianist, in these words: "I could not give the young Canadian singer higher and more sincere praise."

Soloist with leading conductors, including Sir Thomas Beecham, Wilfred Pelletier and Efrem Kurtz; star of over 160 opera performances with such organizations as the New Orleans, Montreal and Central City Opera Companies; a radio and concert performer of exceptional artistry—such are the accomplishments of Leopold Simoneau, the brilliant new lyric tenor.

TRAINED AS PRIEST

Born in Montreal, Canada, of French-Canadian parents, young Leopold inherited a natural musical tradition from his father who was a professional singer. At 13 he decided to be a priest; but seven ensuing years of college training directed him towards the arts.

Once his professional work began, things moved swiftly. He won the Montreal Symphony soloist contest over 30 competitors; made an operatic debut with the Variete Lyrique of Montreal, singing the leading part in "Mignon" seven times in 11 days. He was engaged for the American premiere of Berlioz' "Te Deum" with Emile Cooper conducting and, under the same maestro, sang 14 "Martha's" with the Central City, Colorado, Opera Company. Sir Thomas Beecham engaged him for a Montreal production of Mozart's "Abduction from the Seraglio." When Simoneau and his charming coloratura soprano wife, Pierette Alarie, were guest soloists at the "Concerts Symphoniques de Montreal," Efrem Kurtz and Wilfred Pelletier shared the podium at alternate concerts.

MONTREAL BRIDE

Four years ago, in the studio of his Montreal singing teacher, he met his bride, the coloratura Pierette Alarie who made her debut at the Metropolitan in 1945. After a long courtship of working, acting, and singing together, they were married in their native Montreal on June 1, 1946.

Simoneau and Alarie both made their debuts recently at the Paris Opera—Leopold as Wilhelm Meister in "Mignon" and Pierrette in the title role of "Lakme."

Queen Elizabeth Of Serious Nature

Next June Queen Elizabeth dedicates herself anew to her people. This story, one of a series describes the coronation ceremony and some of the problems it poses for the young sovereign.

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Fifteen years ago a solemn young princess, tugging at her mother's sleeve, asked anxiously whether her six-year-old sister was wise enough in the ways of royalty to behave properly at a forthcoming ceremony.

"Poor Margaret!" fretted Elizabeth Alexandra Mary Windsor, herself barely 11. I do hope she won't disgrace us all by falling asleep in the middle! After all, she is so very young."

That was before the coronation of King George VI. Now the princess has become a queen. And next June, in Westminster Abbey where she saw her father crowned and wondered what her mischievous sister would do, Queen Elizabeth II, head of the Commonwealth, defender of the faith, will be the centre of the oldest state ritual in English history.

SCHOOLED FOR SERVICE

Resolute, a woman schooled for service, Elizabeth is certain to bring into the abbey the same solicitous spirit, the same quiet determination to do the proper thing, that prompted her girlish fears at the coronation of 1937.

The coronation ceremony, though it may be streamlined and shortened next year, exacts a high degree of nervous and physical strain. In the past it has lasted three hours or more.

Every movement, from breakfast to evening broadcast, is timed with stop-watch precision. The tension normally felt by the central figure in any great state event is sharpened almost beyond endurance in a setting of the highest solemnity. Within the abbey, a tremendously complicated pattern of action and gesture must be memorized and carried through in the knowledge that the smallest slip may be seen.

Even for a trained model, the coronation would be a severe test. For the queen there are four elaborate coronation robes, all different, which she must learn to change swiftly and without fluster.

CHANGES AT ABBEY

On arrival at Westminster Abbey the Queen will wear the familiar crimson velvet robes of estate, with cap of state. Beneath it she may wear a dress of white brocaded silk. Inside the church she will make her first change—into the colobium sindonis, a flowing white robe worn beneath a supertunica of cloth of gold.

Next comes the armilla, a stole of cloth of gold, and the dalmatic coronation robe of the same material. These she wears at the moment of anointing and crowning. Then, before leaving the abbey, she will change into the imperial purple velvet robes. These will be trimmed with ermine provided by Canada.

There have been reports that the Coronation, essentially a religious service, will be simplified. Whatever happens, the main burden of preparation and enactment will fall upon the queen. She has the ultimate responsibility for details of the ceremony, from the order of precedence to the number of invitations. One of the most intriguing will be her decision as to the position of her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh.

MAKES FIVE RESPONSES

In the ceremony itself, her role will be chiefly a miming one. The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, does most of the speaking with nearly 50 prayers and speeches compared with five responses, totalling only a few dozen words, for the Queen. But the Queen's task, which involves mastering an intricate series of movements, is infinitely more difficult.

The service starts with the "recognition," a ceremony dating from the days of the Witan, or grand council of the Anglo-Saxons, when the sovereign was elected instead of succeeding automatically by heredity. If the usual procedure is followed, Elizabeth will face first east, then south, west and north, as the archbishop proclaims:

"Sirs, I here present unto you, Elizabeth, your undoubted Queen. Wherefore all you who are come this day to do your homage and service, are you willing to do the same?"

TAKES OATH

The Queen then takes the oath to maintain the constitution, the service of holy communion begins and the sovereign is anointed, an act requiring careful rehearsal. In order, the next stages are the investment with royal robes and insignia, the crowning, the enthronement and the blessing.

Elizabeth must familiarize herself with all the trappings of majesty, formerly called the "ornaments" and now usually known as the regalia. These include two sceptres and an orb, a silver spoon used in the anointing, St. Edward's crown with its two arches encrusted with pearls, and four huge ornamented swords.

WILL CROWN QUEEN—The Most Rev. and Rt. Hon. Geoffrey Francis Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury, will preside next June at the coronation of Queen Elizabeth. The service, which lasts several hours, essentially is religious and includes nearly 50 prayers and speeches made by the Archbishop. Dr. Fisher was enthroned at 57 in bomb-scarred Canterbury Cathedral in April, 1945, as the 97th Archbishop of Canterbury. He comes from a long line of Midland country parsons and grew up in his father's rectory at Nuneaton where he was born.

ST. EDWARD'S CROWN—This is the Crown of England with which Queen Elizabeth will be crowned in the coronation service next June at Westminster Abbey. Called St. Edward's crown — with its two arches encrusted with pearls — all monarchs of England have been crowned with it since it was made in the time of Charles II. It was a copy of the ancient crown worn by Edward the Confessor in the 11th century.

CORONATION SERVICE — Fifteen years ago, Queen Elizabeth — then a solemn young princess — watched her father, King George VI, walk down this aisle in crowded Westminster Abbey following his coronation. Next June the young Queen herself will wear the Imperial purple velvet robes, trimmed with ermine, provided by Canada, and on her head she will wear St. Edward's crown, as did her regal predecessors. In the Abbey she will be crowned head of the Commonwealth, Defender of the Faith, in an elaborate ceremony lasting several hours.

RedChina Warns Thailand Gov't

LONDON (AP) — Communist China today warned Thailand to "stop undermining the interests of Chinese in Thailand immediately" or suffer "grave consequences."

Peiping radio quoted a statement by Ho Hsiang-ning, chairman of China's overseas affairs commission, protesting what it called the banning of two Chinese-language newspapers, Chuan Min Pao and Nan Chen Pao, by the Thai government.

Hsiang-ning charged this was part of the Thai government's consistent plan to undermine the interests of several million chinese residing in Thailand. Such acts, it added, are "intolerable to the Chinese."

It warned the Thai government to stop such measures at once, release all Chinese now "illegally detained" and lift the ban on the two newspapers.

25th Only 4½ Hours In Cold, Declares CO

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian troops waited nine hours for Gen. Eisenhower's arrival in Korea but they spent only about half of that time in the cold, the army says.

A telegram received from Brig. M. P. Bogert, commander of the 25th brigade, gave his version of the incident which got wide-spread publicity and which brought an apology from the general.

The telegram said the Canadians arrived at the airstrip at 6 a.m., had coffee in heated tents and went on parade at 8:30 a.m. and rehearsed with troops of other countries until 10:45 a.m.

Then they were taken to tents and had lunch at 11:30. At 1 p.m. they went on parade and remained there until the general's arrival at 3 p.m. and his departure half an hour later.

An army spokesman said this indicated that the soldiers were outside in near-zero weather about four hours and 45 minutes.

Rich in fine timber, the Andaman Islands are in the Bay of Bengal 800 miles east of Madras.

Hundreds Of Planes Batter Red Targets

The U.S. Fifth Air Force said F-86 Sabre jet pilots destroyed a Communist MiG-15 over Sinuiju. They bagged seven of the Red planes Sunday for the biggest single-day score in nearly three months. Any Allied losses would be announced at the week-end.

The U.S. Eighth Army reported another light day across the front. The evening summary listed only a few patrol clashes, mostly in the sensitive Sniper Ridge area on the central front. Temperatures hovered near zero.

Elect Ben-Zvi Israeli Head

JERUSALEM (Reuters) — Russian-born Yitzhak Ben-zvi, veteran Socialist-Zionist leader Monday was elected president of Israel.

The 68-year-old Ben-zvi who came to Palestine around the turn of the century succeeds Dr. Chaim Weizmann, Israel's first president, who died last month.

Ben-zvi was chosen by the Israeli Parliament and won with the support of the Labor Mapai party —largest in the House.

The president of Israel is largely a figurehead. He has the right to appoint diplomatic and consular officers but only on the advice of the government. He can intervene as a mediator in a government crisis.

Albert Einstein had been approached last month for the job but declined.

War Casualties

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United State defence department Monday identified 124 more Korean war casualties. Of the total 16 are dead, 100 wounded, eight injured in accidents.

Level-Crossing Smash

TORONTO (CP) — A level-crossing smash between an express train and an automobile in suburban Etobicoke township Monday killed Walter Harris, 75. He was a member of the advisory board of the Argonaut football club.

Biblical Authority Denies Revised Bible Detracts

DENVER, Col. (AP) — A top biblical authority says there is nothing to claims that the new revised standard version of the Bible detracts from the doctrine of the virgin birth of Christ.

"All the grounds that underlie the doctrine of the virgin birth are stated plainly and unequivocably in the new version," Dr. Luther A. Weigle, dean of Yale University divinity school, told a news conference Sunday. Anyone that says otherwise, he added, is misrepresenting the facts.

Weigle, head of a committee of 32 biblical scholars who worked 15 years preparing the new Bible, spoke out against attacks on it by some individual ministers and religious groups.

In Akron, Ohio, Rev. Bill Denton, superintendent of the Furnace street mission, yesterday used a blow torch to burn a copy of the new version. Previously, a Rocky Mount, N.C., pastor burned a page from the Bible.

The American Council of Christian Churches, an organization of small, separatist denominations, had announced plans for a rally here Tuesday night to protest the new Bible.

Chief grounds for their criticism has been that Isaiah 7:14, the word "virgin" is replaced by "young woman" in the new version. The King James version reads: "A virgin shall conceive and bear a son and shall call his name Emmanuel."

Weigle said the change was made because the original Hebrew manuscript used the word "almah" which means "young woman." The mistake, he said, was in Greek translations of the Hebrew, and it was carried over into the King James translation. At other points in the Old Testament, Weigle said, the Greeks correctly translated "almah" to mean "young woman."

He said theological grounds for the virgin birth, as contained in the 18th, 20th, and 23rd verses of Matthew 1, and in verses 26 to 38 of Luke 1, remain "absolutely as firm as ever" in the New Testament.

Weigle said the condemnations have come mostly from "extremists" and notoriety speakers connected with "splinter groups," and that they "do not represent any substantial segment of Protestantism."

WON'T FIRE JAIL GOVERNOR FOOTE SAYS

Doesn't Agree With Report From Judge

Many People At Fault, Don't Want To Make Good Man Scapegoat

TORONTO (CP) — Reforms Minister Foote indicated today that Thomas W. Brand may be kept on as Don jail governor, although a royal commission report recommend Mr. Brand's replacement.

"I think the decision as to whether he will be left as governor will rest with me," said Maj. Foote. "I now take the stand that much serious thought should be given to him remaining in his post.

"My feeling is that Brand is a good man. He went to the Don from Mimico reformatory, an entirely different institution, under the most difficult circumstances, in that he was not trained for such work. "He has now, I think, the necessary experience to handle the job and I feel certain in my mind that he could handle the task.

"I am not going to throw anyone to the wolves. I am convinced there was a pretty tough problem at the Don. We did not know about it either and I don't think we can put too much blame on Governor Brand.

"Myself, the deputy minister and the chief inspector all assumed things were in a normal state at the jail. Brand is no more to blame than I am."

Maj. Foote said Mr. Brand should have reasonably expected that Deputy Governor Alexander Noble, with 25 years' experience, would have carried out safety orders at the jail.

According to the evidence, however, he (Noble) left Brand behind the eight-ball when he ignored the warning signals from the listening device which had been placed in the prisoners' cell corridors. He further ignored the four dangerous prisoners in the jail for about three hours.

7 Men Shot In Gun Battle

NEW YORK (AP) — Seven men were shot down today as a swaggering Cleveland gunman fought a running gun battle with police through the Times Square area.

The gunman, Clarence O. Sims, finally fell to the pavement badly wounded. Three policemen were seriously wounded. Three passers-by, frantically hunting cover in the hail of bullets, were nicked.

Police said Sims has pulled dozens of holdups in the New York area during the past year. Cleveland police want him on an armed robbery charge. He told police here he heads the "Shotgun Gang" there.

One of his pals was arrested in the melee that made Eighth avenue as dangerous for a while as a rampaging frontier town on a Saturday night.

2 Eldorado Men Killed In Collision

ONTARIO CENTER, N.Y. (AP) —Two Canadians were killed Tuesday night when the auto in which they were riding and a truck collided head-on about a half-mile west of this Wayne county village.

They were Grant P. Sager, 22, and Kenneth J. Alexander Whiteman, 24, both of Eldorado, Hastings County, north of Madoc.

Sager's body was taken to the Howk and Metham funeral home in Ontario, N.Y. Whiteman's body was removed to the Monroe county morgue in Rochester.

Say Duke Of Windsor Not At Coronation

LONDON (CP) — The Daily Express says today it understands the Duke of Windsor will not take any part in the Coronation ceremony next June.

It quotes "good sources" as saying the Duke has made up his mind not to be in England for the ceremony.

The Express report is in line with a Canadian Press dispatch last Thursday, which said the Duke probably will not attend the Coronation unless the Duchess of Windsor is invited. It is understood the stumbling block is that the Duke insists on his wife being treated as a royal duchess.

Earlier, press speculation had suggested both the Windsors would be invited, thus completing a reconciliation between the royal family and the Duke and Duchess.

Ottawa Will Prosecute Six In Visa Fraud Racket

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government is preparing court action against a half-dozen persons involved in visa frauds through which hundreds of immigrants entered Canada illegally last year.

Immigration Minister Harris disclosed this in the Commons Tuesday in a brief reply to a question by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader.

Mr. Harris said charges will be lodged against "five or six persons" whom he did not identify. The charges now were being prepared by officers of the immigration and justice departments. They were expected to be placed within a month or so.

This government step is the latest action in a departmental and RCMP investigation which began last year with the discovery that between 200 and 300 immigrants from Italy and Germany had entered with fraudulent visas. The visas were said to have been obtained with the connivance of immigration department officials in Rome, Karlsruhe, Germany, and Montreal.

Many of the illegal immigrants have been tracked down and deported. Other developments to date include the dismissal of one official in Rome and another in Karlsruhe. Two employees of the immigration department's Montreal staff have resigned.

ITALIAN CASES FIRST

It was learned that the first series of charges will deal only with the Italian cases, which concerned the major racket. They may be charges of bribery under the Immigration Act or charges of conspiracy under the Criminal Code, both of which carry substantial penalties.

Mr. Drew entered the general throne speech debate at the night sitting to reiterate a demand for government reconsideration of its television policy. He continues his speech today.

He said the government would permit private stations only in economically unfavorable areas. But it was going to use the taxpayer's money to finance CBC operations in big centres such as Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa, Vancouver, Winnipeg and Halifax.

Extend Dragnet To Canada For Murderers

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — The biggest dragnet in 15 years was extended into Canada today as police tightened their efforts to capture three gunmen who killed a Main street jeweler and made off with about $10,000 worth of diamonds.

The trio, led by a cold, silent blond about 30 years old, Tuesday shot to death Donald F. Hurd, 45, and pistol-whipped two of his employees as they staged the mid-morning holdup.

Throngs of Christmas shoppers were passing the shop but none was aware of the robbery and killing.

BRITISH ACCENT

Detective Chief William T. Fitzgibbons, directing the manhunt, said Tuesday night his men had learned that one of the holdup men spoke with a British accent.

He said police are seeking a Canadian already wanted by Niagara Falls and Canadian police. Rogues' gallery photos from Canadian police were brought here to be viewed by witnesses to the holdup.

Mrs. Doris Hurd, widow of the jeweler, was in the shop when he was shot. She spent hours Tuesday shuffling through rogues' gallery photos, trying to identify the killers.

Also being run down was a tip from a Niagara Falls motel owner that a man had checked in Monday night, listing a Chase City, Va., address, and left early Tuesday apparently without having slept in his bed.

All Buffalo detectives were ordered on a seven-day week for the manhunt.

Liner, Tanker Collide 7 Seamen Drowned

ROTTERDAM (Reuters) —Seven seamen were believed drowned today when the Dutch liner Maasdam collided with a small German tanker in a canal here. The tanker capsized.

The tanker Ellen was heading out to sea when it crashed with the 15,204-ton Holland - America liner, which was carrying 600 New York-bound passengers.

Five crew members on the Ellen were saved by two tugs which rushed to the collision scene.

Passengers on the Maasdam escaped injury, a Holland-America spokesman said. The ship was expected to go on to New York this afternoon.

The collision took place in the Neiuwe Waterweg canal, linking Rotterdam with the North sea.

The 268-ton Ellen had just loaded coconut oil and had been under steam for five minutes when the accident occurred.

Judge Blames Brand For Escape

Says Poor Supervision Aided Boyd Gang To Get Out of Jail

TORONTO (CP)— Replacement of Thomas W. Brand as governor of Toronto's Don jail is suggested in a royal commission report on conditions at the jail.

The report, made public today by Attorney - General Porter, blamed Mr. Brand for circumstances which led to the escape of the Boyd gang last Sept. 8. It said neglect to keep the gang under constant supervision led to the escape.

Mr. Brand and several guards were suspended after the break.

The jail needs a governor of "sufficient executive ability, with full responsibility to clear up the present situation," the report said. The governor's salary, now $4,000 plus a house and utilities, "should be adequate to attract someone with the necessary qualifications."

URGES MORE GUARDS

Other recommendations: an increase in the number of guards, pay raises for the jail staff, construction of a new security wing for desperate prisoners, an administrative change to relieve the sheriff of all responsibilities connected with the jail, improvements in security measures, and a change in prison clothing from the present blue denims to a more distinctive garb.

Judge I. M. Macdonell, appointed as the one-man commission to investigate conditions at the jail, said in a 20,000-word report that although Governor Brand tried to do the best he could "under trying conditions," the failure to keep the four prisoners under constant supervision "must rest on his shoulders."

The report said Mr. Brand "did not have the executive ability nor experience to cope with the difficult situation with which he was faced, and which to a considerable extent still exists." The report added that "one must have sympathy" for Mr. Brand for if he had been provided with an adequate staff the escape might not have occurred.

NOT JUSTIFIED

Judge Macdonell said the testimony of Governor Brand which placed the blame for the escape on Deputy Governor Alexander Noble and the concurrence "in this to some extent" by Col. Hedley Basher, deputy minister of reforms institutions, was not justified.

French Legionnaires Patrol Casablanca

CASABLANCA, Morocco (Reuters) — A regiment of French Legionnaires arrived here today as Casablanca's stores, schools and offices closed for the funeral of eight Europeans killed in Monday's riots.

Officials estimated that more than 10,000 troops patrolled the city and its suburbs to prevent further anti-French outbreaks.

At least 1,000 arabs are in custody following the savage rioting which killed more than 50 persons, police reported.

Bodies of three Europeans were so badly mutilated they were still unidentified.

Tribesmen staged a fresh riot Tuesday night at Beni Mellal, 156 miles southwest of this city of 600,000. The angry mob, demanding the release of a prisoner, stoned and stabbed a Moroccan policeman to death. Police opened fire. Two were killed and seven were wounded.

Fumes Trap 12 Employees

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Trapped by sulphur dioxide fumes, a dozen employees of Kelvinator Ltd. hung their heads out of second-floor windows until firemen reached them with gas masks.

Four or five were given oxygen by the fire department, while one man, Edward Walden, was taken to hospital.

The fumes developed Tuesday when a 75-pound tank sprang a leak. The firemen donned masks, then carried additional masks for the trapped men.

Walden was kept in hospital for observation after receiving oxygen.

About 17 persons were on the second floor when the leak occurred. A number got down the stairs without help but the rest were unable to make their way through the fumes.

Baby Girl, 9 Months Old Dies In Flaming Cabin, 2nd Child In Family Killed

The nine-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Windover was burned to death Tuesday afternoon in their log cabin home on the Catchacoma road, 30 miles northwest of Peterborough, and a mile and a half north of Rockcroft. The baby girl was their second child. Their first, a son, died at the age of three months in March, 1950, when he fell from his crib and fractured his skull. He was dead before they could get him to a doctor in Bobcaygeon. The parents left Ethel Marlene in her crib while they went 300 yards to the home of Windover's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Windover. Windover, 33, went for a saw to cut some firewood and his wife, 32, was going to borrow some canned milk to make her first Christmas cake.

When they returned "in about five minutes" the house was ablaze with most of the fire apparently centred in the frame lean-to bedroom built last year to the rear of the log cabin. When they tried to enter, they were forced back by the flames.

Some time later the father found the charred remains of their child in the ruins of the bedroom.

Only one blanket, a hand-operated washing machine and a few of the baby's belongings which had been hanging outside on a clothesline were saved.

SEEMED ALL RIGHT

The Windovers said when they left their child there were only a few live coals in the oil drum stove in the bedroom, which contained their bed, the baby's crib and the stove, in an area of about 8 feet by 10 feet.

Earlier the couple had taken the youngster with them to the Rockcroft post office to collect some mail. Windover, who ordinarily works for Weller Taite cutting trees near Nogie's Creek, was off for the day because of the rain.

When they returned Mrs. Windover asked her husband to cut some wood. His saw was broken, so he decided to go over to borrow his father's. Mrs. Windover went along to borrow canned milk for baking.

Windover's father runs a small farm, but Tuesday was out on his trap line along Squaw Creek.

A bus driver, Joe Robson, driving past on his way to Buckhorn to pick up some school children, saw the fire shortly after the Windovers returned, and with the help of another motorist, Louis Miller, who lives nine miles north, managed to push Windover's car away from the blazing cabin. The keys were inside the cabin.

Windover said all his possessions were lost in the fire, including $100 worth of books and the only cash they had, 15 cents. When the fire ate through the log walls, they fell inside into a cellar and there smouldered for hours. The cabin was built two years ago.

Windover placed the body of his child in a wheelbarrow and waited for provincial police to arrive.

Until they can build another house, the Windovers will live with his parents.

Cpl. Aime Gaudry and Const. James Healey investigated.

Cause of the fire is now under investigation by Cpl. Aime Gaudry and Const. James Healey of the Provincial Police.

Unemployment To Be Lower During Winter

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment in Canada probably will be lower this winter than last, the national advisory council on manpower was told today.

A labor department report submitted to the 32-member council made a cautious prediction to this effect, noting that weather conditions could change the outlook.

Applications for jobs through national employment service hit a seasonal peak of about 375,000 late last winter. Figures submitted to the council today showed 148,000 looking for work at Oct. 30.

The council, created early last year to advise the government on manpower problems, was told in the report that the logging industry is a soft spot in the labor prospect for the winter. On both coasts and in northern Ontario and Quebec, it said, labor surpluses in that industry probably will be larger than a year ago.

ONLY WEAK SECTOR

"The logging industry constitutes the only significant weak sector, so far as employment is concerned," the report said. Sizeable inventories of logs and increasing world competition contributed to this situation.

For the near future, increasing employment could be looked for in the producer - goods industries, mainly because of activities in defence industry and in the development of resources.

Employment has been slow in resuming an upward movement in industries producing basic materials, but there were indications that the increasing need for such materials now was beginning to make itself felt.

In a discussion of the current manpower situation, Arthur MacNamara, deputy minister of labor and co-chairman of the council, said supply and demand of labor now are "pretty well in balance."

Council member Percy Bengough president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, said he is not taking an "optimistic view."

He expressed disatisfaction at the fact that the difference between the number of job applicants and the number of jobs available is about 100,000 at latest report.

Have Agreement On Sudan Area

CAIRO (Reuters)—Britain and Egypt have reached agreement on some points relating to the future of the Sudan. Settlement of the long-standing dispute between the two countries now is in sight, it was reported in diplomatic circles.

Premier Mohamed Naguib and ambassador Sir Ralph Stevenson had a three-hour meeting Tuesday.

A joint statement issued afterwards said the session covered "discussions about the Sudan with a view to concluding them as quickly as possible in order that elections may be held with the minimum of delay."

It said agreement has been reached on some points of difference and others are being considered. A further meeting will be held.

Rail Union Officials Meet In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Railway and union officials met for 1½ hours today in resumed negotiations on their lingering wage dispute and scheduled another session for Thursday afternoon.

No statement was issued by either side after today's meeting, but the atmosphere was reported to be friendly. Neither side would indicate how long the talks may last.

Two Freights Collide On Rail Bridge

MONTREAL (CP) — Two slowly-moving freight trains bumped nose to nose today on a Canadian Pacific Railway bridge at the north-end suburb of Bordeaux but damage was comparatively light and no one was injured.

Several wheels of one locomotive were derailed as the engines came together at 9:45 a. m., blocking the double track and holding up passenger trains heading off the Island of Montreal. Railway officials said the lines soon would be cleared.

The accident occurred on a narrow CPR bridge spanning Riviere des Prairies, which separates the Island of Montreal and Ile Jesus, big island to the north of the city.

The collision was between a freight coming into Montreal from Three Rivers, Que., and one leaving Montreal Island for the Laurentian town of Ste. Therese.

The Ste. Therese freight was backing from the "out" track on to the "in" track to make way for other traffic when it was hit by the Three Rivers train, approaching on the "in" track.

However, both freights were moving slowly and in the same direction—the Ste. Therese freight backing and the Three Rivers freight approaching it — and the impact was not heavy enough to cause serious derailment.

The front ends of both engines were badly dented.

The line is the main CPR route for trains going to Quebec and Ottawa on the north shores of the St. Lawrence and Ottawa rivers and also serves trains bound for the Laurentian mountains.

Planes Smash 4 Rail Targets

SEOUL (AP)—U.S. Navy planes smashed four big Communist rail and supply targets on the doorstep of Manchuria in the biggest seaborne raid of the Korean war.

One of the strikes carried American planes on their northernmost raid of the war, to the limits of a Korean strip that juts into Manchuria and is surrounded on three sides by that Chinese Red Province.

It also carried the navy planes within 12 miles of Soviet Siberia and almost as far north of the Russian port of Vladivostok which lies to the east.

Targets of the Tuesday raids were Honyung, Musan, Najin and Hyesanjin.

Find Baby Strangled

LINDSAY —(ENS)— Sixteen-months-old Deborah Grozelle was found strangled to death in her crib early this afternoon. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Grozelle, she was found by her mother with her head and shoulders outside the bars of the crib and an article of the bedclothes tight around her neck. Mrs. Grozelle called Dr. W. C. Blackwell, who brought in Coroner Dr. W. R. Crowe. The coroner declared the death accidental. No inquest is expecetd.

Commonwealth Agreement

Churchill Will Place Plan Before Ike

LONDON (Reuters) — Premier Winston Churchill will go to the United States early next year to place before President Eisenhower a Commonwealth plan for world economic recovery.

The plan has been hammered out in 10 days of meetings here between Commonwealth prime ministers and other statesmen and is aimed at curing post-war trade and financial ailments.

The ministers have agreed on a formula for the style and titles which Queen Elizabeth will be recommended to adopt for her Coronation next June. This will be the subject of a separate announcement.

KEY POINTS

The broad pattern of agreement reached by the visiting statesmen includes the following key points:

1. All the Commonwealth sterling countries will make a determined effort to live within their individual means. This was one of the cardinal decisions, expected to bring the sterling area as a whole into favorable trade balance. This implies anti-inflationary measures, more exports, less imports.

2. An approach, first to Europe and then to the U. S., for co-operation in carrying out the Commonwealth plan for strengthening the pound sterling and working towards free international trade.

3. Progressive steps toward convertibility of the pound sterling into other currencies, including the dollar, with European and U. S. co-operation.

4. Steps to increase Commonwealth production and to raise the living standards of its under-developed territories.

5. Large-scale Commonwealth agricultural and industrial development plans, especially for increased food production.

6. Greater finance for Commonwealth development from the sterling area itself, especially Britain.

Canada's finance minister, Douglas Abbott, told reporters in London today that he thought the conference was the "most satisfactory" of the many post-war conferences he has attended.

Although he ducked direct questions on whether Commonwealth conference decisions may lead ultimately to increased sterling-area buying from Canada, it was assumed his satisfaction with the talks was based on a fairly confident expectation of wider world trade.

In a written statement, Abbott confirmed the conference is a preliminary to wider talks with Western Europe and the United States.

Ike Prepared To Hear MacArthur

Willing To Study General's Proposals On Korea

By DON WHITEHEAD

ABOARD USS HELENA — (AP) — President-elect Eisenhower is willing to hear any plan his old commander, Gen. MacArthur, may have for ending the Korean war.

An exchange of messages, announced Tuesday aboard this heavy cruiser carrying the President-elect and members of his projected administration to Hawaii en route to the United States, cleared the way for a meeting between Eisenhower and MacArthur.

It also appeared to dissipate whatever coolness had developed between the two former chiefs of staff during the presidential campaign.

"I am looking forward to informal meetings in which my associates and I may obtain the full benefit of your thinking and experience" on Korea and the Far East, Eisenhower radioed MacArthur Sunday.

GRATEFUL FOR INTEREST

MacArthur replied Monday:

"I am grateful for your interest in my view.

"A successful solution might well become the key to peace in the world."

The exchange followed MacArthur's speech in New York Friday, when he said "there is a clear and definite solution to the Korean conflict" without unduly increasing casualties or furthering the risk of world war.

MacArthur implied then a willingness to present his views to Eisenhower.

Eisenhower made it known that he wanted MacArthur's views.

MacArthur had been cool to Eisenhower's candidacy for the presidency, favoring the nomination of Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

DIPLOMATIC MOVE

But this exchange of messages appeared to be more than the President-elect asking for MacArthur's Korean peace plan. It seemed aboard this ship that it was a diplomatic move by Eisenhower to heal the breach and give his administration the benefit of MacArthur's long experience in dealing with Far East matters.

Twenty months ago MacArthur said his proposals to bring a final solution in Korea included bombing Red Chinese bases in Manchuria, blockading the Red China coast and amphibious landings on the China mainland by Nationalist forces from Formosa.

But MacArthur indicated Friday that changed conditions called for a revised plan. He said public disclosure or discussion now would be improper.

In Washington, a high defence department official said it was MacArthur's duty as a soldier to present the plan through army channels "without further ado and without making a speech about it."

U.S. Dollar At Discount

MONTREAL (CP) — The American dollar was at a discount of 3 3-16 in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Tuesday's noon rate was 96 11-16 cents. The pound sterling was $2.71⅝, against $2.71⅛ Tuesday.

Judge Blames

The report said oral instructions issued by Col. Basher after three of the gang first escaped Nov. 4, 1951 had been disregarded, including an order to keep the prisoners under constant supervision.

Judge Macdonell, who heard evidence that totalled more than 3,250 pages in a 20-day hearing in October and November, said the reforms institution department decided the safest place in the jail for the gang was the No. 9 hospital wing. It contained four cells and had two doors, one solid and one grilled, so that guards could open the solid door and look through the locked grilled door into the cellblock.

The report said that if the solid door had been left open with a guard outside so the men could be under constant supervision, as Col. Basher had ordered, the escape would not have been possible.

DIDN'T FOLLOW ORDERS

"I cannot find that steps were taken by Mr. Brand to ensure this was done," said Judge Macdonell.

Judge Macdonell urged appointment of a governor with sufficient executive ability and with full responsibility to clear up the present situation and that the salary be adequate to attract hte man with the necessary qualifications.

He blamed low wages of guards as contributing to their poor morale and recommended an immediate review of salaries to raise them to those comparable with wage rates in the area and with persons doing similar duties and "earnest consideration" on the matter of pensions.

RECOMMENDATIONS

Other recommendations included:

1. Increasing the jail staff to approximately 95 custodial officers with 40 on the day shift, 28 on the afternoon shift, 22 on the night shift and five extra for emergencies. Present male staff totals 84, including 56 guards and four chief guards.
2. Establishing a system of training new guards.
3. Increasing inspection staff of the reforms institutions department to check on security measures.
4. Building without delay of a new security wing, capable of accommodating 250 of the more dangerous type of prisoners, and containing safety cell blocks and other modern security measures. The report said the new wing could be added to from time to time until ultimately the old building is superseded.
5. Construction of a hospital, possibly in the new wing, if arrangements cannot be made to handle mental patients somewhere else.
6. Improvements in security in the present 60-year-old jail building since it cannot efficiently be modernized.
7. Provision of adequate handling facilities to look after the huge turnover of prisoners.
8. Marking of prisoners' clothing to make it easily recognizable in escape cases.

Rural Hydro Rates To Rise By 14.9 Per Cent

TORONTO (CP)—Rural hydro rates in Ontario will be increased 14.9 per cent effective Jan. 1, Robert H. Saunders, chairman of the Ontario hydro-electric power commission, announces.

The increase affects 334,825 rural customers.

Mr. Saunders said in a broadcast Tuesday night that the standard farm customer will pay about 84 cents a month more for power under the new rate schedule.

A month ago he announced an increase of 14.8 per cent in the cost of power to municipalities and promised that the rural increase would be kept under 15 per cent.

REASONS FOR INCREASE

Reasons for the rural increase are the higher costs of steam power and of construction. Mr. Saunders said increased use of ejectricity on the farm—the number of customers has more than doubled in the last seven years—has led to a demand for a higher grade of service. This meant a higher standard of maintenance and rehabilitation.

Severe damage caused by sleet storms in rural areas has contributed to the increase, he said. Tree trimming costs are higher, 70 times higher in the rural areas than they were just seven years ago.

Mr. Saunders said, since preliminary announcement that farm rates would go up, he has received many letters urging that the increase be withheld. Farm groups have argued that farm products prices are coming down and that their future is uncertain.

To leave the rates at the 1952 level would be impossible, Mr. Saunders said, because hydro operates at cost and all costs must be paid. He reminded the rural consumers that they do not pay the full costs of their hydro service. Ontario government grants made in 1952 to aid in construction of rural lines amounted to $70,210,165.

Gold Owners Sue TCA On Robbery

TORONTO (CP) — A $220,000 damage suit over lost gold was launched against Trans-Canada Air Lines.

The action accuses the airline of gross carelessness in the loss of six boxes of gold bullion at nearby Malton airport Sept. 24.

Roy McMurtry, Toronto lawyer, instituted the action Tuesday on behalf of the Union Bank of Switzerland and the Johnson Matthey Company of London, assayers, joint owners of the gold shipment.

Police said at the time of the theft that 10 boxes of gold were taken to the airport for shipment to Europe by way of Montreal but only four reached Montreal.

In their writ, filed yesterday at Osgoode Hall, the Swiss bank and the London firm of assayers say their action is for "damages sustained by the plaintiffs by reason of defendant's failure to deliver to the plaintiffs, respectively, certain quantities of gold bullion, and for negligence in connection with the loss of the same gold bullion.

"The plaintiffs allege that the defendants did not take care of the said gold bars and did not safely and securely carry and deliver the same to the plaintiffs as aforesaid, whereby the same were lost to the plaintiffs," the statement of claim says.

Noble also picked the least experienced men to guard those four prisoners and he did not institute a thorough search of the cells.

"In any event, Brand will, I am sure, be a valuable man to my department."

FULLY JUSTIFIED

Mr. Noble himself, commenting on the report, said he thought it "fully justified" in recommending Mr. Brand's replacement.

Mr. Foote said there should be an immediate inquiry into the whole jail set-up and it should be decided whether the city or province should hold full authority.

He thought the 30 extra beds recommended for mentally-ill prisoners too many.

"That type of prisoner should be cleared right out of the jail. They simply do not belong in an ordinary jail."

The minister said he is prepared to recommend to the city that the starting pay for guards be raised from $2,240 to the $2,360 plus cost of living bonus that is the standard in Ontario institutions run by the department.

Mayor Allan Lamport of Toronto said the report did not answer the important question of how the Boyd gang escaped.

Mrs. C. O'Toole

Mrs. Catherine O'Toole of 24 Aylmer St. was buried today in St. Peter's cemetery after solemn requiem mass in Sacred Heart Church. The funeral was from her Aylmer St. home to Sacred Heart Church where celebrants of the mass were the Rev. G. F. Sullivan assisted by the Rev. J. Corkery and the Rev. G. Gaughan.

The Right Rev. P. P. Butler was in the sanctuary; so was the Rev. Chris McCarney. Graveside prayers were said by Father Gaughan, assisted by Fathers Corkery and McCarney.

Mrs. O'Toole, a lifelong resident of Peterborough, died Monday after a short illness.

Pallbearers were Joseph Nolan, Gerald O'Toole, Clem Galvin, Garrett McMurray, Neil Collins, and Gerald Howley.

Obituary

HENRY JAMES FAIRBAIRN

Henry James Fairbairn, 84, of Port Huron, Michigan, and formerly of Smith Township, died on Tuesday following a lengthy illness.

Mr. Fairbairn was born in Smith Township, son of the late John Fairbairn and Mary Gain. He has lived in Port Huron for the past 50 years, going there from Smith Township.

Previous to his retirement several years ago he was in the lumber business. He was a member of the Orange Lodge.

He leaves his wife, the former Amelia Hunter, two daughters, Edith and Mary, both of Port Huron, and two brothers Sydney and George, both of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held Thursday in Port Huron. Burial will also be in Port Huron.

Lone Gunman Loots Bank

MONTREAL (CP)—A lone gunman robbed a downtown branch of the Bank of Montreal of $5,000, but 11 employees and six customers were unaware of the holdup until a female teller fainted from shock. The men escaped.

Mary Hunter, teller at the branch of the Bank of Montreal in the International Aviation Building on University street, collapsed Tuesday after handing the money to a short, dark gunman, who is believed to be responsible for a robbery several weeks ago at a branch of the Royal Bank here.

The thug, holding a hait-hidden gun in his coat pocket, handed Miss Hunter a note which read: "This is a stick-up. I want $10,000."

Miss Hunter pushed a pile of bills across the counter, but he demanded more saying: "Ive shot before and I'll shoot again."

She handed him another pile of bills and fainted as he walked away.

Damaged Planes Remain Mystery

OTTAWA (CP)—The celebrated case of the "sabotaged" RCAF Lancasters has been written off as a mystery.

Defence officials said Tuesday the RCMP has informed the department that they have been unable, after five months of investigation, to find out who stuffed rags in the engine air intakes of nine RCAF planes at the Greenwood, N.S., base last summer.

The rags were discovered when one of the Lancasters—reconditioned wartime bombers now used in coastal and sea patrol work—took off and found one engine in trouble. It put back into Greenwood and a check disclosed that rags had been stuffed into the air intakes of that one and of eight other Lancasters.

Base Metals Lead General Stock Decline

TORONTO (CP) — Base metals took the lead in a general decline in early afternoon stock market trading today.

Volume for the first three hours totalled 898,000 shares.

Ascot, a base metal, was the most active stock, moving more than 100,000 shares for a loss of 14 cents. Eastern Metals, also a base metal, lost 11 cents in an 85,000-share turnover.

Refining oils and manufacturing companies led the industrials decline as most groups turned mixed. Foods showed strength.

Senior golds improved slightly after noon but continued weak while junior producers declined further with losses in Madsen, Campbell and Upper Canada. Prospects showed a majority of small losses led by Conwest and holding companies slipped.

Base metal losses outnumbered gains about three to one as higher-priced issues led downward. Dominion Asbestos and Steep Rock slipped.

Western oils balanced small gains and losses as Canadian Atlantic and Bailey Selburn gained and Central Explorers and Scurry slipped.

Man Committed For Trial In Higher Court

Joseph H. Redmond, 70 Hunter St., charged with breaking, entering and theft, was committed for trial by higher court today when Magistrate W. R. Philp ruled the Crown had presented sufficient evidence to send the case on. The charges were laid following a breakin November 9 at the General Medical Clinic on Romaine St.

Dr. Robert Young, director of the clinic, was the first Crown witness in the preliminary hearing. He told the court that he first learned the clinic was entered on November 9 at 6:30 a.m. He went there when called by city police.

Dr. Young said that he had known Redmond for "a number of years" and that "he had seen him three weeks before the breakin." At that time Redmond had visited Dr. Young for treatment.

Gordon Farquharson, defence lawyer, asked the privilege of communications between the doctor and the accused. It was granted.

CAPSULES MISSING

Fergus Cavanagh, clinic pharmacist, said that when he arrived at 7:45 a.m. he noticed a bottle pulled out an inch from the wall; this bottle contained sleeping capsules. He testified that 200 were missing; about 800 capsules being in the bottle the previous evening and only 600 that morning.

He said that authority to take the capsules was given by either Dr. Young or himself.

Besides these capsules Mr. Cavanagh said there was a quantity of other drugs taken, at a total value of $20. These included about 175 heroin capsules, 149 morphine capsules and 700 codeine capsules.

During cross-examined Mr. Cavanagh said that the drugs had been checked the previous Monday. When Mr. Farquharson suggested that the capsules could have been taken anytime that week, Mr. Cavanagh said he doubted it.

TRACKS IN GRASS

Constable Sherman Keliele, one of the first at the clinic, said he noticed two sets of tracks in the wet grass, leading from a basement window which was open. The centre pane had been broken in the window near the clasp.

A set of tracks, footprints, according to Constable Keliele led to the back steps and there he saw a mark on the door where someone had attempted to force it open. He then had Dr. Young called.

When inside Keliele said he went to the window where he saw a black mark on top of a refrigerator which was directly under the window. From there he went to the dispensary door and found it had been forced open.

Inside the dispensary he found a cabinet had been forced open, the right hand door of the cabinet broken, and on the floor four yellowish capsules, one whole and the others crushed.

BOTTLE HANDLED

Keliele said that he noticed one bottle in the cabinet had "obviously been handled." That bottle, he said, was dull in appearance and appeared finger-marked. The capsules looked the same as those on the floor.

Sgt. William Aggas, identification officer, said that he had finger-printed the bottle found by Keliele and also took Redmond's fingerprints. On December 4 along with fingerprints of Cavanagh, he took the fingerprints from the bottle and Redmond, to the RCMP identification branch in Ottawa.

RCMP Sgt. Joseph Vachon, for the past 10 years working in the RCMP identification bureau, said that he compared two impressions from the bottle with Redmond's prints, and found them to be "identical."

"All the impressions were made by the same person and no other," said Sgt. Vachon.

He presented a chart showing prints from the bottle and Redmond, and also enlargements; the prints were of the left thumb. Looking for comparisons, he said that he found 21 identical comparisons, but had marked only 10 on the charts.

In his argument Mr. Farquharson questioned the use of fingerprints as sufficient evidence to warrant sending the case on. He said that there was no evidence of theft, "or for that matter breaking and entering," beyond the fingerprints. He pointed out that the dispensary was often left unlocked close to a general lobby. He suggested that the opportunity was there "for many people to go in and lift the drugs."

But Magistrate Philp said, "There's quite sufficient evidence to send it on to trial."

CHICAGO GRAIN

Wheat started ⅜ to one cent lower, December $2.34; corn was ⅛ lower to ⅛ higher, December 1.66⅛, and oats were ⅛ lower to ¼ higher, December 85-85¼. Soybeans were unchanged to ¾ cent lower, January 3.04¾.

Naguib Tosses Constitution Into Ashcan

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt's reform premier, Maj.-Gen. Mohammed Naguib, today tossed his country's 1923 constitution into the ashcan as obsolete and said his government is writing a new national charter.

Until it is finished, he said in a country-wide broadcast, "my government will exercise constitutional power."

Chief among the problems facing the constitution writers is whether to do away with Egypt's 147-year-old monarchy and establish a republic. Popular revulsion has been rising steadily against the royal dynasty since Naguib and his army associates deposed King Farouk last July and began spotlighting "scandals" of his 16-year reign.

A government spokesman said Monday that the constitutional committee would decide whether the monarchy-versus-republic issue would be decided by constitutional amendment or by a popular referendum.

Under the old constitution, Naguib said in his broadcast Parliament was under the influence of the government instead of the government being responsible to Parliament. Constitutional change was inevitable if his army movement's aims were to be attained, the premier said.

Egyptian and foreign observers agree that if the monarchy's future is put to a public vote, it will mean the end of the dynasty established in 1805 by Mohammed Aly, an Albanian.

Egypt's present king is Fuad II, Farouk's 11-month-old son who was taken by his exiled father to Italy. A regent, Farouk's second cousin, represents the baby here

Lindsay Drubs Bowmanville Lopsided 13-1

LINDSAY — (ENS) — Lindsay Muskies rolled up one of the highest scores in the records of the OHA Intermediate A Lakeshore League here last night, shellacking the Bowmanville Barons, 13-1 in a contest marred by 22 penalties.

Wimp Parker scored the hat trick to lead the locals to their win, tallying in the first period to open the scoring and again with two in the third. He also garnered three assists.

The Muskies took a 3-1 lead in the first period on goals by Parker, and two by Hicks, with Harmon scoring the Barons only goal while the Muskies were short handed. In the second Lindsay added four more, scored by Lewis, Kelly, Mike Burns and Coombs. Ten minors were handed out by Ref. Herb Payne of Peterborough during this period, with McKean of the Barons drawing four of them. In the third, the Muskies really ran wild pouring six more gals behind Gearing, in the Barons net, who received no support all night. Parker scored two and Crawford, Coombs, Corley and Davis the others.

Of the 22 penalties meted out the Muskies received 14. The Muskies scored twice while they had the edge, and once in a while playing a man short.

Referee Payne called them close to the vest most of the night, but drew the ire of the fans in the second when he sent Corley off for tripping, despite the fact that Corley was on the seat of his pants at centre when penalty was called in the Muskies zone.

Bail Of $4,000 Set For Break-in Suspect

COBOURG (ENS). — Charged with breaking into an oil company depot here two weeks ago, John McIntyre of Hamilton was remanded for a week. Bail was set at $4,000. He was arrested at Hamilton following an investigation by local police into a break-in of an oil company office in which an attempt was made to batter open a safe.

Charged with carnal knowledge of a 13-year-old girl, Harold Landon, 40, of Cavan Township, was remanded for a week in custody. He was arrested by Provincial Constable Lyle Erskine of Cobourg.

Special Night To Help Lindsay Jr. Hockey

LINDSAY—(ENS)—In order to make the financial road a bit easier for the Lindsay Junior Hockey Club, the arena committee Tuesday okayed two plans that may help low home attendance. First, at Friday night's game with Oshawa the Kinsmen Club will set up boxes at the arena, and will collect toys for their Christmas toy drive. Any child bringing a toy and a parent will be admitted to the game free. Then the arena has approached the sale of "booster" tickets for next Tuesday's game with the Triple Links of Peterborough.

31 Cases Reported

COBOURG (ENS)—Thirty-one new cases of communicable disease were reported for the week ending December 6, to the Northumberland and Durham Counties Health Unit. Of these, 15 were chickenpox, seven cases of infectious jaundice, one of German measles and eight cases of mumps. One case of mumps in Cobourg was the only disease listed for that town.

Groceries Stolen

Presbytery Meets At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church here was the scene of a meeting of the Presbytery of Peterborough, governing body of the Presbyterian Church in the district.

About 25 elders and ministers from Bowmanville, Port Hope, Cobourg, Colborne, Norwood, Millbrook, Nestleton, Lakefield, Peterborough, Westwood and Keene. The Hastings-Warkworth charge is at present vacant and was not represented.

Moderator was the Rev. Horace B. Kaye of Lakefield. The Rev. Louis H. Fowler of Port Hope is clerk.

Three main topics of discussions were on the agenda. First was, "Is Jesus Christ Creator?" Second was, "The Extent of Christ's Lordship," and third, "May the Church Aid Rebellion?" Discussion centred around these three topics concerning the declaration of faith concerning church and nation.

A remit sent from Peterborough formed the basis of discussion, and the questions will be discussed more fully at a future meeting. James Dutton of Peterborough, chairman of the board of administration for the church, led in the various discussions.

Arangements for implementing the $2,600 minimum stipend were discussed, as was a minimum car allowance for ministers.

It was particularly noted during the meeting that the mission fields of Rockcroft, Buckhorn and Lakehurst have made exceptionally fine progress during the year. The churches at Rockcroft and Lakehurst have been renovated and considerable repairs to the buildings have been carried out.

Electricity has been installed in the Lakehurst church, and the lighting system is one of the finest to be found in a church of its kind. New pulpit steps and a new carpet were also added at Lakehurst. A new roof was placed on the Rockcroft church and considerable money had been spent inside the building.

The meeting started at 10 a.m., and adjourned at noon when ladies of the Seymour West Ladies' Aid provided dinner for the delegates. The delegates were loud in their praise of the turkey dinner provided by the ladies, who seemed to excell themselves on this particular occasion.

Reports were given by conveners of various committees. The Rev. A. E. Toombs of Campbellford, convener of missions, gave his report, and pointed out with particular emphasis the fine work of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Wilcox in the Harvey mission field.

W. Harold Huston of Millbrook reported as chairman of the evangelism and social action committee. Newton Reid of Colborne, convener of the stewardship and budget committee, also made a brief report.

The Peterborough Presbyterial district extends from Bowmanville on the west to Campbellford on the east. Centres east of Campbelford are in the Kingston Presbytery, and those west of Bowmanville are in Toronto district.

The meeting was the first held in Campbellford by the Presbytery in many years.

Canadian Heads Acclaimed On Surprise Visit

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent and other high-ranking Canadian representatives were enthusiastically acclaimed when they paid a surprise visit to the Nuffield recreation centre, off Trafalgar Square, where members of the Commonwealth forces were being entertained.

The prime minister took time out Tuesday night from his busy Commonwealth conference sessions to meet the large gathering of service men which included a group of Canadian soldiers and airmen on leave from their units stationed on the continent.

St. Laurent was accompanied by Defence Minister Brooke Claxton, Air Commodore Martin Costello, senior RCAF officer in the United Kingdom, and Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, chief of air staff, who earlier in the day had visited the Canadian air bases at North Luffenham in Rutland and Langar near Nottingham.

ARRIVE FOR PERFORMANCE

The Canadian visitors arrived at the recreation centre just as a troupe of British entertainers was about to begin a performance before a battery of television cameras.

The cameras were focussed on the Canadians while Claxton delivered an impromptu speech thanking the people of Britain for their generous hospitality to the Canadian forces.

After a tour of the centre, a number of Canadians were introduced to the prime minister and Claxton. Among them were Miss Lena McClure of Charlottetown, a hostess at the centre, LAC John Laprade of Halifax, LAC Steve Bosch of Calgary and LAC Bill Skinner of St. John's, Nfld.

Reiner Goes To Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Fritz Reiner of the New York Metropolitan Opera Company Tuesday was named musical director and conductor of the Chicago symphony orchestra. Reiner, who will be 64 next week, is to take over his new post with the opening of the 1953-54 season. He succeeds Rafael Kubelik, 38, whose contract expires next spring.

Robert G. Charlton

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—The funeral service for Robert George Charlton, who passed away suddenly at his residence, Caroline Street, on Saturday, was held from the Lakefield United Church, of which he was a member, on Monday afternoon. The Rev. W. H. Tonge officiated and interment was in Lakefield cemetery.

Mr. Charlton farmed in Douro township for more than 60 years and retired to the village nine years ago.

The funeral was largely attended and over 40 members of the Orange Lodge, of which Mr. Charlton was a member were present. Graveside rites were under the Orange Order and were conducted by Kenneth Stewart.

Pall bearers were Bruce Charlton, Ronald Frankish, Ernie Garbutt, Ted Rose, Jim Rose and Frank Hambly. Flower bearers were Walter Walker, Kenneth Morris, Donald Rose, Sherwood Payne, Percy McFadden and Roger Charlton.

Trinity House, headquarters of British lighthouse and piloting services, received a royal charter in 1514.

Cars Damaged On Hastings Rd.

CAMPBELLFORD— (ENS) — Considerable damage resulted to two cars on Tuesday evening, when they were in collision on the Hastings Road a few miles west of Campbellford.

A small station wagon of English make, driven by Kai Huycke of Campbellford was travelling north on a township road, approaching the intersection at the Hastings Road. A car driven by Fred Hendricks, also of Campbellford, was travelling east into Campbellford.

Mr. Huycke failed to see the Hendricks auto when he pulled out of the sideroad, and collided with the back left fender of the auto. The back end of the Hendricks car was damaged considerabley, as was the front of the small station wagon.

Provincial Constable George Rose, who investigated, said he did not believe any charges would be laid.

Cobourg C of C Meets On Rental Problems

COBOURG (ENS) — Panel discussion on rent controls will be part of the next general meeting of the Cobourg Chamber of Commerce, scheduled for January 15 at the recreational center. The Chamber of Commerce regards rent control as one of the major problems confronting a great many people to-day and while most people have given this subject serious consideration, they are still at a loss for a decision. When it comes up for discussion at the next general meeting two people will take the stand that the rental controls should be removed and two that the controls be left as they are.

How To Ruin Canadian Television

Since Canadian television began this autumn there has been quite a lot of unfavourable criticism of it, some of which originates, we find, with people who have seen very little of it. We, in common with the rest of the population of Peterborough, cannot see it at all, and so we have no opinion of its quality. However, we know of one quick and effective way to make it unbearable to people of ordinary taste and intelligence, and that is to surround it with moral taboos and unofficial censorship which will make it impossible for television to deal with adult subjects in an adult way.

* * *

We were sorry that a start was made on this scheme by Mr. George Drew, for we have always regarded Mr. Drew as a man of taste and intelligence. However, he has complained in the House of Commons about a telecast play called Hilda Morgan, shown on November 27, which he referred to as "that disgraceful program." We did not see the play, but we know it to be the work of Lister Sinclair, one of the ablest writers of plays in Canada, and a man whose work is far from disgraceful, and is on the contrary a credit to broadcasting in this country. The theme of the play was illegitimacy, and its heroine was an unmarried woman whose intended husband had been killed, and who found herself pregnant. The treatment of the theme was serious and sincere, and the problem appears to us to be one fully within the province of the playwright, and of interest to intelligent people. Apparently only three letters protesting against the play were received by the CBC, and the responsible Minister, Dr. J. J. McCann, said that the government had no intention of interfering in the matter. What, we wonder, induced Mr. Drew to make a fuss about it? He is too big a man to take any pleasure in posturing in the white nightgown of the moralist.

* * *

Forbid television to broadcast plays on serious themes; forbid television to discuss anything which is not fully acceptable to people of narrow outlook; forbid television to touch upon any topic which somebody might think unsuitable for children; forbid television to venture into any field which a dull or lazy section of the public might think highbrow: forbid all these natural and proper fields of creation to Canadian television, and you will destroy it. You will destroy it because it will be confined to the innocuous, the vulgar, the trivial, the stupid and the inconsequential. You will destroy it because you will sicken the public—not the highbrows, but the ordinary citizen of ordinary taste and intelligence—of television, and it will become the amusement of the mindless and the illiterate.

* * *

Every publicly owned medium of entertainment is a mark for fools and fogies. If we let them get a hold on Canadian television with a censorship which is either acknowledged or conducted by undercover means, we shall have ruined what is potentially a great acquisition to our country.

Canadian Troops' Morale Bad?

There have been charges that the morals of Canadian troops in Germany are not as good as they might be. The morals of soldiers anywhere at any time never are—judged by the strictest civilian standards. Much more serious charges, from a military point of view, are now being made that our troops' morale is bad. Some returning soldiers, no doubt egged on by reporters at ship side, themselves say that morale among the 27th Brigade soldiers is "rotten." What is the evidence?

"We had fish four times a week and they had enough nerve to ask if we wanted kippered herring on Sunday." Another Private said that the British rations provided one fresh egg a week, no sugar and fresh milk. "But there was a lot of that damn stew with leeks and Brussels sprouts." Other complaints concerned the amount and timing of leave granted. "The meanest trick of all was not allowing the married men to stay at home with their wives. We got two a.m. passes."

One of the privileges and old customs of soldiers is to grumble—"to beef." The oldest topics of the grumblers is food and furlough. Railing against chow and confinement to camp is not in itself evidence of low morale; it can be a sign of healthy spirits.

Some substance is given the grumbling about the food because the basic rations are British. Canada has only one brigade in Europe. It would be economically and militarily unsound to provision one brigade separately from others. It is too small a unit to set up a complete Canadian commissariat. So our troops in Europe perhaps get only one egg a week on the ration. (They can scrounge others.) It is as much and more as Canadian troops in Europe for six years got during the war. We can believe that a superfluity (to Canadian taste) of Brussels sprouts exists. We cannot believe that they get no sugar. Military officials generally prescribe too much sugar, because it gives quick energy. (A 'beef' of some troops during the last war was that they could not have their tea without sugar.) We note that the British ration provided the 27th Brigade is supplemented by as many as 26 Canadian items.

The matter of leave is always puzzling to authorities. The prime purpose of a military formation is that it be always in operating condition. For this, constant training is required; and full ranks. Only a limited amount of leave and passes can therefore be permitted. A break away from camp is essential to every man; it would be very good for his morale if he could go home every three months for a few days. This is not possible when troops are overseas. The alternative is a holiday in leave centres in Europe, and passes out of camp to towns near the garrison. The real problem with leave is where to draw the line between too much and too little, in the interests both of the service and of the morale (and morals) of the men.

At the basis of the charges of low morale may lie this condition: For the first time, Canadian troops are in foreign service for garrison duty. Formerly there was always this spur to action and support for the lively spirits of Canadian troops: a declared war and battle-fields inevitably ahead. In Europe now the troops are training and never may be called on to use their training. They are mounting guard, and against unknown enemies. In such circumstances and among troops whose history and nature does not fit them easily for garrison duties, it is not surprising that they create their own enemies: themselves and the local populace. Thus their morale can deteriorate.

We said above that the charge of low morale was more important than charges of poor morals. The reason is that if a unit's morale is good, nothing heinous can happen to its morals. We are inclined to side with those men, returning home in high spirits, who say conditions are not bad, and that the grumblers are malcontents, bad actors with bad conduct sheets. After all, the rations are supplemented by 26 Canadian articles, the men are overseas for only a year, and, in training and manoeuvres have given first class accounts of themselves. Maybe all that is wrong is slowness in adjusting themselves to the role of being garrison troops in a peaceful country among foreign civilians.

Paying The Doctor's Bill

There used to be a time when most people owed the tailor money, but now that ready-made clothes are so common this sort of debt is not so easy to incur. But it appears that there are still a lot of people who owe money to their doctors; this type of debt has not gone out of fashion. The figures which we have apply only to the State of Michigan, and we cribbed them from the Toronto Star, but we think that a survey in Canada might show very similar results. Apparently in the U.S. there are over 10,000,000 families who owe their doctors an average of $105. In Michigan we see how these debts are distributed:

Occupational group	Percent. of families with medical debts
Factory workers, other skilled workers	23
Farmers	23
Unskilled workers	21
Students, housewives, unemployed	21
Clerks and sales persons	19
Executives	16
Retired persons	13
Lawyers, doctors, other professional people	12
Self-employed persons	10

"Medical debts" in the above figures applies to hospital debts as well as debts to physicians. Some people think that these debts have a special significance, and that a scheme of socialized medicine would be one way of meeting it. Perhaps so, but we think it would be just as easy, and cheaper in the long run, to train people to pay their medical debts. To many people, a debt owed to a physician or a hospital is less pressing than a debt owed to a grocer or a garage. Once they have been restored to health they consider the matter of their illness closed, and the farther the illness recedes into the past, the more they resent attempts to collect the money.

Medical debts can be paid, however, on the installment plan. Few doctors are so proud that they will not accept a dollar a week paid on an old debt, and a dollar a week will whittle away a heavy bill, if it is faithfully presented. Too many people wait to pay a medical bill until they can do so without feeling the loss of the cash. That day is long in coming. An installment plan will pay for an appendectomy just as fast as it will pay for a chesterfield suite.

Soviet Scientists In The Pillory

By EDWARD CRANKSHAW

THE KREMLIN is preparing for another show-down with the scientists of the Soviet Union on the lines of the notorious Lysenko affair.

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR THE LAST six weeks there must have been deep apprehension in the scientist's ranks. In his massive report on the state of the Union to the 19th Party Congress, Malenkov (Secretary of the Communist Party) went out of his way to attack whole sections of Soviet science. He evoked the dire "discussions" on philosophy, biology, physiology, linguisitics and political economy which have already steam-rollered those particular sciences into total acquiescence to the Party line, and asked for more. "The Arakcheyev regime which existed in various sectors of the scientific front has been destroyed", he said, echoing Stalin's phrase at the time of the great philological revolution (Arakcheyev was a Tsarist official whose name became a by-word for tyrannical reaction); but there was still plenty more to be done.

✧ ✧ ✧

NOW PRAVDA gives more than a hint of what Malenkov had in mind. Since the Congress, its editorials have been taking up the points made in Malenkov's speech, steadily, one by one. Last week it got round to science. "In many branches of science," it wrote, "the monopoly of individual groups of scientists has not yet been liquidated. These groups struggle against the growing forces of enlightenment and shut themselves off from all criticism." That was a direct quotation from Malenkov, who also spoke of the need for the healthy "clash of opinions" if Soviet science was to lead the world.

✧ ✧ ✧

ON THE FACE OF IT, this sounds promising—until one asks what is meant by a clash of opinions in the Soviet Union, and what sort of scientists are being singled out for attack. Then it does not look so good. For the clash of opinion, according to Malenkov's own definition, does not mean constructive discussion, but simply the violent onslaught of politically orthodox scientists on the work of those who still regard scientific truth as an absolute to be laboriously attained, or sought, by infinite trial and error, regardless of political preconceptions. And the scientists singled out for attack are those men who, until now, and in spite of the atmosphere of the political witch-hunt first generated in the field of biology by Lysenko, have striven to keep aloof from the Stalinist strait-jacket and to remain loyal to scientific truth as they see it, even though it may cost them their livelihood under an all-too paternal State.

✧ ✧ ✧

ACCORDING TO PRAVDA, the Kremlin is most deeply concerned at the moment with the attitude of Soviet physicists, who include among their number some of the outstanding scientists of our age. Pravda gives no hint of what they have been doing wrong. It may be that Stalin is irritated by the way in which modern physics has soared beyond the comprehension of the layman, even so remarkable a layman as J. V. Stalin himself, so that its exponents can safely carry on in their horrible bourgeois ways simply because nobody but a physicist can really tell what they are doing. Or it may be that physics as a whole has come under a cloud because one branch of their "sector" has not got on so fast in the matter of atomic energy as Stalin requires; we do not know. Pravda for the moment limits itself to general terms—which are nevertheless clear enough to tell many conscientious scientists that they have stormy days in front of them.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE SITUATION in the field of physics, for example, cannot be regarded as normal", Pravda declares. "In this field we have groups of scientists who avoid discussion and ignore any attempt to criticise idealistic teachings in contemporary physics". It goes on to attack in particular "The Institute of Physics of the Ukrainian Academy of Sciences" and, collectively, the distinguished contributors to the recently published symposium "Philosophical Problems of Contemporary Physics".

✧ ✧ ✧

IT REMAINS to be seen whether this is simply a generalised pressure, or whether the Kremlin intends to put up a new Lysenko in the field of physics, who will turn the whole world of the physicists inside out in an attempt to fit it into the Marxist design as interpreted by Stalin.

✧ ✧ ✧

PHYSICISTS ARE NOT the only scientists now under attack. Pravda has a particularly sharp word for the soil scientists, who stubbornly cling to "the reactionary and anti-scientific theories which find their origin in the notorious theory of the diminishing fertility of the soil". Taking a wide sweep, it also touches on the "social sciences", on the educationists and the psychologists.

✧ ✧ ✧

AND IN A FINAL attack on the Scientific press for failing in its responsibility it expresses in characteristic phrases the unpleasant atmosphere behind this new threat to the integrity of science: "Criticism in science should be pointedly levelled at all kinds of manifestations of the bourgeois ideology and against all types of ideological distortions . . . It is the task of our Press ruthlessly to expose the putrid bourgeois ideology and the reactionary content of the contemporary works of the imperialist lackeys and warmongers' stooges".—i.e. the works of all Western scientists and of those Russian scientists who are perverse enough to believe that science knows no frontiers.

Unconsidered Trifles

"My wife and I had a bit of bother last night. I wanted to play darts and she wanted to go to the pictures."

"Were the pictures good?"

✧ ✧ ✧

Court—How old are you?

Accused—Eight and four score.

Court—You mean four-score and eight.

Accused—No, I don't. I was eight before I was four-score.

✧ ✧ ✧

"I wish I knew where George was," remarked the young wife.

"I presume, my dear," said her mother-in-law, "that you mean you wish you knew where he is?"

"Oh, no, I don't" was the firm reply. "I know where he is. He's in bed with a black eye and a headache. I want to know where he was."

The Children's Bibliomania

(A Review of Some Books Suitable For Children at Christmas)

WE RARELY INCLUDE BOOKS for children among those reviewed in our weekly book column, "Bibliomania"; it is lack of space, rather than lack of inclination, which guides us in this direction. But at this time of year, when Christmas is approaching, we are glad to publish brief notes on a few books for children which we think would make good Christmas presents, for we are firmly of the belief that a child who does not receive at least one book for Christmas is—in the cant of our day—"under-privileged".

It is said that a book written for children never receives a bad review. Not from us, certainly; we throw away children's books which appear to us to be worthless, or unsatisfactory. They should not be recommended, and it is fruitless to belabour the authors. All the books listed here are good—but some are better than others, as our notes will indicate.

It is impossible to say that all children in a certain group will like a particular book. Of two children of ten, one will be reading The Three Musketeers and the other will be groping through The Bobbsy Twins, moving its lips. The recommendations as to age which we have added to all these reviews must be taken therefore, as approximate guides only.

✧ ✧ ✧

CHARLOTTE'S WEB, by E. B. White, illustrated by Garth Williams (Musson)

IT IS NOT EVERY CHRISTMAS that a book of this quality for children appears. In the delightful Stuart Little E. B. White showed that he had the authentic touch of that rarest of creatures, a really good writer for children; Charlotte's Web will appear to many readers to be even better than that excellent book.

The principal characters of the book are a little girl named Fern, her pet pig Wilbur and Wilbur's friend Charlotte, who is a grey spider. There is also a well-characterized rat, named Templeton. For adult readers the quality of the book will lie chiefly in the fact that it is admirably written, and as they will certainly have to read its 184 pages aloud several times this is no small matter. Children will love it because it treats children and a child's world with seriousness; they will be able to live with Fern and Wilbur and Charlotte on terms fully acceptable to themselves.

Strongly recommended for children from 7 to 14.

THE ODYSSEY OF HOMER retold by Barbara Picard (Oxford University Press)

THE IMMORTAL STORY of the Odyssey is one of the imperishable treasures of the human race. In these days, when the study of Greek is at a low ebb, the classics are becoming more and more the restricted possession of an ever-decreasing band of classical scholars. This volume, though especially designed for the young, can be read with pleasure by people of all ages. No attempt is made to imitate the thunder-roll of the Greek hexameter or even the characteristic epithets and turns of phrase of the original; in my opinion this is a wise decision. A simple narrative style of great beauty has been adopted, and no attempt has been made to "talk down" to the youngsters. At the same time a child of ten can quite easily read the story and revel in the adventures of Ulysses with the Cyclops, Circe and the rest of them.

The book has been tastefully bound, and the printing is a joy to the eye. The illustrations, after the Greek manner and delightfully in keeping with the spirit of antiquity, are remarkably fine, and there are plenty of them. This is a book that will satisfy the longing of many a child for adventure stories much more satisfactorily than the ubiquitous "comics" and at the same time nurture his sense of beauty. I can scarcely think of a better Christmas present.

Recommended for children from 10 to 16.

LET'S LOOK AT THE SKY, by Marie Neurath (Clarke, Irwin)

NO PARENT NEEDS to be told that children are untiring askers of questions, and they ask just as many questions about the stars and the phenomena of the night sky as about anything else. This is an admirable book which will satisfy their curiosity, and will inform parents of a good many things which they never knew (but which they will tell their children that they have momentarily forgotten). It is brilliantly explained and handsomely printed, being chiefly large designs. Recommended for children from 4 to 14, though in the case of very small people some parental explanation will of course be needed.

NORTH FOR ADVENTURE, by Richard S. Lambert (McClelland and Stewart)

THIS ROUSING STORY of adventure by the author of Franklin of the Arctic, which won the Governor-General's award for juvenile books and the medal of the Canadian Association of Children's Librarians for Canadian Children's Books, is based on the true story of Samuel Hearne's journey to Coppermine River in 1771. This tale of dogged endurance is told throughout in a lively and breezy fashion. The author even introduces such colloquialisms as "poor sap", but in spite of these occasional lapses from strict historical authenticity the eighteenth century background is well suggested with a wealth of detail. At any rate we are spared from a pedantic insistence on obsolete turns of phrase.

This book serves two purposes. In the first place it is a grand story for boys; in the second place it gives a vivid picture of life in the Canadian North, that immense and little-known territory, and should quicken the interest of Canadian youth in the problems and the opportunities of that part of their country.

The narrative moves smoothly and evenly, and the illustrations are adequate without being in any way outstanding.

Recommended for boys from 10 to 16.

BLACK BASS ROCK, by Marianne Macdonald (Macmillan)

MISS MACDONALD IS NOW twenty, but she finished this book before she was eighteen. She is a Canadian, born in Kenora and is at present an undergraduate at McGill. It is curious to find a writer for children who is herself so young; this sort of authorship is commoner in middle age. But she has written a story about missing boys, missing sailboats, thieves and adventure which is all the better for the fact that the author is not too far in age from Allan, her hero, who is fifteen, and his sister Pam, who is fourteen.

Books of this sort, called "junior novels", are a welcome development in publishing; they meet the needs of intelligent young people, for they are well written, exciting and of substantial length (224 pages in this case), but they deal with a world between the fantasy books for children under twelve, and the romantic novels which attract older young men and women. This is a good example of the genre, and all the more attractive to us because of its Canadian setting.

Recommended for boys and girls from 12 to 16.

CARGOES ON THE GREAT LAKES, by Marie McPhedran (MacMillan of Canada)

THIS IS AN ACCOUNT, written in story form for young readers, of the many and varied cargoes that are carried to and fro across the Great Lakes. The importance of this vast complex world cannot be overestimated: ore from the north, coal from the South and grain from the West are continually flowing along the arteries of trade across these immense lakes during the navigation season. It is needless to point out the fact that the Seaway project, when completed, will benefit lake transport as much as sea cargoes by enabling ore and grain to be shipped in the large bulk carriers as far as Montreal and Quebec City.

This is a fascinating true story, and if shipping on the Great Lakes may lack a little of glamour of the high seas it is not without its risks and adventures. Mrs. McPhedran does not attempt to be a Conrad or a Melville; she keeps close to facts and figures held together by an account of an uneventful voyage of a boy and his mother on the Great Lakes. She manages to convey something of the flavour of life on these cargo vessels—the jars of pickles in the dining room, the idiosyncrasies of the ship's company, the frenzied activity at the ports. The illustrations are apposite and witty.

Recommended for children from 10 to 16.

✧ ✧ ✧

MARY POPPINS IN THE PARK, by P. L. Travers (McClellend and Stewart)

TO GREAT NUMBERS of children, Mary Poppins is an enchanted figure. If you do not know her, she is a nursemaid under whose care children are swept into remarkable adventures; as a nursemaid's job is to keep children from having adventures, this gives the book its piquancy for children, and grownups who have read it aloud will find that the stories bear repetition very well. There are six stories in this book, all well up to the high standard set in the previous three books about Mary Poppins.

Recommended for children from 5 to 10.

✧ ✧ ✧

FREDDY THE PILOT, by Walter R. Brooks (McClelland and Stewart

FREDDY THE DASHING PIG of Bean Farm is known to a great number of young readers, for he is the hero of nineteen books, of which this is the latest. Therefore it is unnecessary to recommend it to Freddy's fans. Briefly, it is about his adventures as an airplane pilot, which take him on a secret mission into enemy territory, disguised as Lorna, the Leopard Woman.

Recommended for children from 6 to 10.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE BELLS ON FINLAND STREET, by Lyn Cook. (MacMillan)

THE AUTHOR OF THIS BOOK is well known as a broadcaster of children's stories, and she has been a children's librarian in Sudbury. This very Canadian story is about Sudbury, about a "new Canadian" and it tells a few things (without pushing them too hard) about the nickel industry.

The heroine is a little girl who wants to be a figure-skater, but she has no money for skates or lessons. When she earns some money, there is family trouble and she has to give her money to help her parents. But at last her ambition is realized when her Grandfather—a champion figure-skater from Finland—arrives in Canada.

A good story, thoroughly Canadian, suitable for girls from 8 to 12.

RANGER'S ARCTIC PATROL, by Charles Strong (John C. Winston)

THIS STIRRING YARN tells the story of a race between shipping companies to provide the Canadian Government with a new supply ship to the Arctic. Ranger, a Samoyed dog in the service of the R.C.M.P., is the chief character in this book, and his intelligence and sagacity are invaluable in many tight spots. Drug traffickers, pirates, raiders and enemy agents are amongst the adversaries of the Mountie Corporal, the dog Ranger and his young master, Roger Carter. The story culminates in a thrilling shipboard battle amid the pack ice. This is just the book for an adventure-loving boy. One small criticism: a chart of the voyage North of the gallant ship Snowbird II would add an air of authenticity and help clear up the details in the mind of the reader.

Suitable for boys from 10 to 16.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Jesus went unto the mount of Olives. And early in the morning he came again into the temple, and all the people came unto him; and he sat down, and taught them . . .

Then spake Jesus again unto them, saying, I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life. The Pharisees therefore said unto him, Thou bearest record of thyself; thy record is not true.

Jesus answered and said unto them, Though I bear record of myself, yet my record is true: for I know whence I came, and whither I go; but ye cannot tell whence I come, and whither I go. Ye judge after the flesh; I judge no man. And yet if I judge, my judgement is true: for I am not alone, but I and the Father that sent me.

It is also written in your law, that the testimony of two men is true. I am one that bear witness of myself, and the Father that sent me beareth witness of me. Then said they unto him, Where is thy Father? Jesus answered, Ye neither know me, nor my Father: if ye had known me, ye should have known my Father also. (John 8: 1, 2, 12-19.)

Decline And Fall

(Ottawa Citizen)

A Saskatchewan publication, with evident but misplaced pride, displays a picture of a strip of road with some oddments of machinery. The significance of the picture seems to be that, for the first time in history, there is a blacktop highway between the important cities of Regina and Saskatoon.

Thus Saskatchewan finds itself engulfed in the march of progress. Those who knew the banner wheat province in the old days took a perverse delight in its roads, which showed that Saskatchewan had a sturdy individuality of its own. When the dust was blowing around a bit, the motorist drove with his lights on at high noon. When it rained he was apt to sink up to the axles in gumbo.

Here and there, it is true, were stretches of gravel, but they were intermittent. When the gravel ended abruptly and the dirt began, the experienced driver knew he was now leaving a constituency represented by a loyal supporter of the provincial government of the day, and was entering a territory where the ignorant inhabitants had voted for the opposition.

But Saskatchewan stands not where it did. It is blacktopping its highways. Next thing, it will be wanting television.

Red Delegates Hold Congress

VIENNA (AP) — Delegates to world communism's greatest effort to convince the world that Russia is the only big power wanting peace are converging on Vienna.

Communists and fellow travellers from about 30 countries Friday will open a new "congress of ... for peace" which undoubtedly will again call the Western countries warmongers and attempt to split them.

But as the first of 2,000 delegates were arriving, Western diplomatic reports reaching Vienna gave a completely different picture of Communist peace and what it has accomplished behind the Iron Curtain.

Diplomats visiting here from Iron Curtain capitals said communism in East Europe is creating a new generation of fanatically anti-Western, military-minded youths willing to die in the belief that Russia and Prime Minister Stalin are the only "great, glorious guardians of peace."

Red Press Unwittingly Reveals Grim Life

By HUBERT HARRISON

VIENNA (Reuters)—It is difficult to obtain a real view of what life is like behind the "Iron Curtain."

But every once in a while the Communist press — unwittingly—tips its hand just enough to show how grim things must be.

One of the latest examples is contained in an article on divorce in "Szabad Ifjusag," the Hungarian Communist youth journal.

Here then is the way a communist divorce court judge views the situation:

"Ilonka Kovacs met Joska Zalgar," the judge says, "just before Christmas. Joska was considered a very fine young fellow whose name appeared often on the board of honor at his factory."

Ilonka had worked as a bricklayer in the country before she became engaged to Joska. They met in a streetcar and married two weeks later.

WED 2 WEEKS LATER

"On the first day of their marriage," the judge continues, "they quarrelled. Joska got drunk. . .He disliked the dishes his wife prepared and wanted to eat meat every day.

"He also demanded a heated room by the time he got home from work, although Ilonka could not light a fire since she worked on an afternoon shift. Three months later Ilonka asked to be transferred to building operations in the provinces and they divorced."

MEAT RARE

This glimpse of the workers' life in Hungary shows several things. Obviously meat is still rare among Hungarian workers. The judge implies that Joska, a first-class worker, with his wife also working, was presumptuous in wanting to eat meat every day.

The judge continued: "You must not think this is an exceptional case. We could give you a long list of similar cases. I have had to deal with marriages which have lasted one to two days and one which lasted not more than a couple of hours."

The judge claimed that the divorce rate among the young people of Hungary is rising rapidly.

New house rules for life in Budapest indicated how regimented life has become.

PRAISE NEW RULES

The new rules were praised because they abolish a former rule that cleaning may be done only twice a week. Under the new decrees, cleaning may be done every day from 7 a.m. to 10 a.m. and for workers never at home at this time "they may clean even on Sundays."

Furthermore the tenants are allowed to shake out their dustmops and brooms every day from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m.

One of the new rules forbids the watering of window boxes except between the hours of 11 p.m. and 5 a.m. Only at dead of night may flowers be watered.

To Adjourn Power Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal power commission examiner has turned down a motion to adjourn hearings on New York's bid to join Canada in the St. Lawrence river power project.

Testimony on the state's bid for a federal licence continues today. John E. Burton, chairman of the New York state power authority, was to be questioned by Robert E. Lee Hall, counsel for the National Coal Association, an opponent of the project.

Tuesday Hall moved to adjourn the hearings, on the ground that the association's lawyers needed more time to "study the case." Examiner Glen R. Law denied the motion.

Also scheduled to testify today were the authority's two remaining witnesses, Franklin J. Leerburger, a consulting engineer, and Franklin F. McClintock of the New York city underwriting firm of Harriman, Ripley and Company.

TO DETAIL PLANS

Leerburger was to detail the authority's plans to generate and transmit power developed from the river. McClintock was to describe the plans to finance the project through the sale of revenue bonds.

Law denied Hall's motion after Willard Gaitchell, counsel for the FPC, and Charles M. Goetz, lawyer for the state power authority, had voiced objections.

"The coal people," Gaitchell said "have had more than ample opportunity to get ready for this hearing."

Orin C. Judd, special counsel to the state power authority, told reporters Hall "was trying to save jobs for an obsolete industry by trying to obstruct progress and to save the monopoly position of coal."

Arn Dugan Shows Up Well With Brantford Squad In Senior Hockey Grouping

Blond Arn Dugan, one of Peterborough's gifts this season to Brantford Redmen of the OHA senior "A" group, is going great guns lately. Last night he was in on five goals on home ice as Brantford turned back Chatham Maroons 7-3. Jake Wade is the other member of the 1952 Petes who went to Brantford this fall, but he is sidelined at present with a shoulder injury after playing a solid game on defence for the Redmen. Alan Rose, sports editor of the Brantford Expositor, wrote in his column the day of the 7-3 game: "Black Jack Stewart of Chatham Maroons likes Bernie Smith and Arn Dugan of Brantford as boys who muck in. Truth to tell neither is afraid. Dugan is very popular here. No master skater, he is a tough baby in the corners. Stewart will be looking for both Bernie and Arn this evening."

IN ON FIVE—Flashing fine form in Brantford last night, Arn Dugan was in on five goals as the Redmen turned back Chatham Maroons 7-3 in an OHA senior "A" game. Dugan and Jake Wade (who is out at present with an injury) left the Petes this fall to play for Brantford.

GOING IN RED

Another piece from the Expositor has this to say: "An announcement yesterday by the Redmen set at rest rumors that senior hockey in this city was in its death throes. Club officials felt it dealt a body blow to all the cynics who cried that sentiment in sport had ceased to exist. "In this age of strikes for more money and sham amateurism, it is refreshing indeed to read of athletes who volunteered to accept less money to keep the game alive. That actually happened in Brantford last night," a club spokesman said.

"It has been no secret that the present hockey executive was personally absorbing generous quantities of red ink to meet current expenses. The big question was when would it reach the saturation point."

The statement from the club, following a meeting with the players, was:

OFFICIALS PLEASED

"The executive of the senior hockel club desires to acknowledge publicly the generous cooperation of the players and coach in maintaining senior hockey in this city. At a joint meeting, the players of their own volition agreed to accept new financial arrangements. We felt it our duty to tell Brantford and district fans that the players are assisting us in every way to present a real contender. We sincerely believe that the faith of the players and the hard core of fans who have steadfastly supported the team will be justified comes playoff time."

When Jake Wade and Arn Dugan left here to play for Brantford, local rumors had it that they were being given jobs, aided in finding apartments, and would also be paid anywhere from $20 to $40 a game. However, the exact amount a game paid is not known for sure.

Dugan In On Five As Brantford Scores 7-3 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It was Sam Kennedy's game at Brantford as the sharp forward paced the Redmen to a 7-3 win over Chatham Maroons by contributing five of the goals

The victory Tuesday night moved the Redmen into fifth place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A loop, one point over the sixth-place Sarnia Sailors, and one point behind the Maroons.

In NOHA Senior A action Sudbury Wolves roared from behind to defeat the last-place Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians 5-1. The Wolves are two points behind the second-place North Bay Trappers.

Arn Dugan and Jack Taylor scored the other Redmen goals, Dugan picking up four assists. Ernie Dick accounted for all three of Chatham's.

MOVE FAST

Brantford splurged with five goals in the first seven minutes of play, three of them by Kennedy. They added two more in the second to Chatham's one.

In Sudbury Mauno Kauppi and Archer Flynn each came through with a goal and two assists for the Wolves. Tatter McClellan sank two markers and George Defelice notched the other.

Vip Palladino notched the Indians' lone goal.

M. Knights Leads

M. Knights hit high single of 326 and top triple of 801 this week in the Girls' City Bowling League. Cardinals led teams with 3,080 pinnage and Arcos had best single for teams with a 1,096 roll. A. Barnes' 650 won the blind score of 653. Arcos blanked Austin's as 2-1 wins went to Bassel's over Collis', Sevenaires over Aces, Cardinals against Curtin's, and Black's over Marines.

Neat singles included: H. Hunt, 316; M. Baringer, 307 and 268; M. Thompson, 297 and 252; J. Moore, 295; A. Dixon, 286; L. Vincent, 265; J. Brockley, 264; and P. Hawthorne, 258. Good threes were: M. Barringer, 789; M. Thompson, 766; J. Moore, 690; L. Vincent, 664; and A. Barnes, 650.

RACE VALUE DOUBLED

BALTIMORE (AP) — The new owners of the Maryland Jockey Club, less than a week after upping the purse of the Preakness Stakes to $100,000, announced Tuesday night the value of the Pimlico Special would be increased from $25,000 to $50,000. The special is a winner-take-all race designed to bring the best thoroughbreds together in the fall to choose a theoretical champion.

Predict Fred Haney Will Be New Manager Of Pirate Team

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Pittsburgh fans will give you odds today that Fred Haney will be the next Pirate manager. General Manager Branch Rickey says nothing's sure but he called Haney here for a talk tomorrow.

Haney, manager of Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League for the last four years, has been considered a strong contender for the post since Billy Meyer resigned at the end of last season.

"I can't honestly tell whether I will name him manager or not," Rickey said. "There are several things dependent on the decision, the main one being if he really wants to become the Pirate manager.

HEALTH ANGLE

"Another factor concerns his health. He must decide whether he is well enough to tangle with a difficult job."

The fans and Rickey alike agree that taking over the Pirates will have its dark days. The National League club finished seventh in 1951 and last this year.

Rickey has been recruiting young inexperienced ballplayers, but has promised the Pittsburgh fans a pennant contender within a few years. The fans will expect the new manager to come through on that promise.

Haney has piloted the Stars to two Pacific Coast League pennants—1949 and 1952. He headed St. Louis Browns from 1939 to mid-1941.

The Californian broke into major league baseball in 1922 as an infielder with Detroit Tigers.

Chief Big Heart, above, who will team up with the experienced and speedy Pat Flanagan tonight at the Brock against the Texas State champions, Lou Plummer and Dick Raines in a tag team bout. With Flanagan as his partner, the Chief should rack up a win against the villainous pair of Raines and Plummer. Johnny Barend and Lee Henning tangle in the semi-final, while Joe Christie and Bull Montana open this starry card.

HOT SUGAR—Although personal scoring and league standing figures change from game to game, Sugar Jim Henry, of the Boston Bruins, still has the lowest goal-against average. The starry backstop for the Beantown crew has had only 46 pucks put past him in 24 games. In the photo above, Sugar Jim slides out of his cage to block Bert Olmstead of the Montreal Canadiens in a recent game in the Metropolis. Boston won the game 2-1 solely on Henry's efforts as the Habs outshot and outplayed the Bruins by a considerable edge.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

S. J. Claus, Esq., General Delivery, Alaska Highway. Dear Sir—Remember this sports scribe, the one who dropped you a card from Vancouver last year, but plumb forgot you in the Winnipeg rush lately? How's Mrs. S. these days? Expect you're busy as a mail clerk as Christmas rushes on. Well, sir, I wish to say thanks for past favors and also for the sports gifts you gave our city the past year. Quite a few titles. Reminds one, though, that a sleeping bag might make a good gift for this writer. Can't just decide what to ask for this year. The budget is flatter than soup on a saucer and we need a raft of things. In fact, a couple of rafts.

* * * * * *

Things like shirts, sox, BVDs, hats, gloves, shoes, rubbers, shaving outfit, smokes, a new tire, tools and of course a lot of stuff for the house. Could add a PS and PPS or two, but you will have the general idea now. Like you, we have to give out gifts, too, and must soon start buying as merchants keep saying to do the Christmas shopping early. But that anemic wallet offers little aid or encouragement. Look, S.J., could you maybe just forget the above hints and send along—say a week early—a compact little package on pictures of our late King on engraved paper printed in Ottawa and with the magic word "Dix" decorating the corners? Think it over, please, thanks a thousand, and Merry Christmas to you. C.J.P.

Horses for Typists?

Someone is always knocking the fun out of life, and just the other day we read an AP dispatch from Richmond, Va., telling of a horse that could use a typewriter. First thing we'll have horses after our job, once they get around to founding an Equine School of Journalism. Read a fiction story once of a New York baseball writer sent to Florida to cover his team in spring practice. He was quite surprised to see a trained horse from Miama trying out for third base and making an excellent showing. Good field but no hit—and with no throwing arm. He wired the news to his home office and was promptly recalled and forced to join Alcoholics Anonymous. A sad tale.

* * * * * *

It reminded us of a youthful Sunday when we took a ball team out to Douro for a challange game. Upon arrival, it was discovered that the home team had but seven players and our side argued that a ball game must have two clubs of nine players. A young farmer—who is, no doubt, a successful man today—replied: "Well, the book just says nine players and we can field seven guys and those two horses out there in the field as players till two more of our fellows arrive." Darned if we didn't have to play for an inning against seven guys and two horses. To add injury to insult, one wise-cracking rustic remarked: "Two horses are a team, aren't they?" Fortunately, the nags weren't much as ball players and the city team won out.

That Negotiation List

Speaking of peculiar things, the NHL and pro hockey negotiation list is a believe-it-or-not bit of legislation. A pro club can sign a kid to this list, without the latter's knowledge, and no other club can ever touch him without the first team's consent. Kids are marked as promising material and often are unaware of this all their lives—since they later do not develop to the point where they are called up. For instance, a couple of Lakefield lads now playing junior "B" here are on Tacoma's list! Yea. Bill Twist and Gord Coyle. They may make pro company eventually, but chances are they don't even know they are on that list. Of course, pro clubs do drop names from time to time to make room for others on negotiation lists. Hm, quite a thing, eh?

* * * * * *

Elsewhere is an account of Arn Dugan and his progress since stepping up from senior "B" hockey here to the senior "A" brand in Brantford, along with Jake Wade, who is sidelined now with a shoulder injury. Blond Arn is doing okay for himself in rugged company, being in on five goals last eve against Chatham, which boasts Black Jack Stewart—former NHL basher—on defence. Scribe there says Arn is quite popular with Brantford fans, and we can well believe it. He was popular here in hockey, lacrosse and baseball, though he quit the gutted-stick game early last summer to play ball. Some athletes have that certain "it" which the fans love, and Arn is one of those guys.

Outboards Win Over Merchants

Outboard Marines walloped Merchants 78-55 at the YM last night in a City Basketball League game. It was the first tilt of the young season for Merchants and the first victory in two starts for Outboards. The latter just managed a 24-22 edge at the half but racked up a 27-21 lead in the third quarter and ran wild for a 27-12 margin in the last session of a wide-open, clean contest.

Leading sniper for the winners was Frise with 19 points, followed by Brown with 13, Edger 12, Smith 10, Gillespie and Cranfield seven each, MacDonald five, Ceresino three and Richardson two. Thompson notched 20 points for Merchants, Stewart getting 19, Ludgate seven, Hempstead six, Northcott three. The other players in the Merchants' lineup were Renwick and Dundas.

Rule Novel Obscene

TOKYO (Reuters) — The high court today ruled that D. H. Lawrence's novel "Lady Chatterley's Lover" was obscene and upheld a 250,000 yen ($700) fine imposed on the Japanese publisher by a lower court.

Fricano Posts Best Average

NEW YORK (CP)—Mario Fricano, obtained by Ottawa Athletics for a song, posted the best earned-run average in the 1952 International League season.

Final official statistics released Tuesday show Fricano wound up with a 2.26 earned-run average. To qualify a pitcher had to take part in 154 or more innings.

Fricano was obtained from St. Paul of the American Association by Ottawa on a "trial basis." Ottawa completed the deal shortly after the season began. He moved up to the parent Philadelphia Athletics late in the season

Fricano won 17 games and lost only eight for the seventh-place Ottawa club. He allowed 48 earned runs in 191 innings, walked 64 and fanned 68.

Bob Keegan of Syracuse Chiefs, purchased by Chicago White Sox at the end of the season, captured the majority of the remaining honors.

The veteran righthander was the league's only 20-game winner. Keegan also topped the circuit in innings pitched, 273; complete games 27 and shutouts, seven. Keegan placed seventh in the earned run race with a 2.64 mark.

TO REVAMP GREENSHIRTS

KITCHENER (CP) — Major changes are imminent in the lineup of Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League as a result of a meeting of club shareholders.

The group Tuesday upheld a recommendation of the directors to negotiate the sale of players Bill Harrington, goalie; Orv Tessier, left winger; Red Novak, defence man; and Graham Joyce, winger.

Club President Walter Weber announced that Curly Davis, recently-appointed coach of the team, will also take over the duties of team manager. He replaces H. M. Crosby.

SENICK STILL IN FRONT

SEATTLE (CP) — Leftwinger George Senick of Saskatoon Quakers boosted his Western Hockey League scoring lead to three points last week, league statistics show. For games up to and including Sunday, Senick has 40 points. Teammate Alex Kaleta holds down second spot with 37. Emile Francis still leads the goalkeepers with an average of 2.80 goals against per game.

Hasn't Permission Yet Take Team To Japan

SUDBURY (CP)—Max Silverman president and coach of Sudbury Wolves of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A southern group, says he has not yet received permission from the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to take a team to Japan for an exhibition series in January.

The Japanese Ice Skating Federation reported that a Sudbury Wolves team would arrive in Japan Jan. 7 to play 14 games.

Silverman said Tuesday that if the CAHA does sanction the trip, it will be the junior Wolves, coached by Charlie Taylor of Falconbridge, who will make the trip. Silverman said he will be too busy to go.

Teran Beats 2 Conquerors Umeda, Drugs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Little Keeny Teran has avenged two conquerors—Tommy Umeda, who beat him into a bloody knockout last summer, and the hypodermic needle.

Before 6,500 spectators, most of them pulling for the 19-year-old comeback kid, Teran won a unanimous verdict Tuesday night from Umeda.

Both Los Angeles boxers weighed 118.

Teran's last fight was June 24. He had won 16 of 17 pro bouts when he faced Umeda that night for the California bantamweight championship. Tommy beat him into submission and scored a seventh-round knockout.

That seemed to be the end for Teran. In a series of signed newspaper articles Keeny admitted he was a slave to heroin and his dreams of being a world champion gave way to his craving for the drug after his loss to Umeda.

IN PEAK CONDITION

But the youth has been making a valiant comeback, under constant care of friends and a physician, and in the last six weeks worked himself back into peak physical condition.

The Los Angeles Mirror in a copyright story said a reporter had found Teran 12 weeks ago pawning his wedding ring for $7.

"You don't want to help me," the Mirror quoted Teran. "I'm bad off. I'm a dope addict. I'm letting my mother, who is the most wonderful woman in the world, support me, my wife and baby. I'll never fight again.

"It would be better for everyone if I died. The fans don't want me anymore and I hate myself."

The Mirror said its reporter spent 10 weeks with the fighter and arranged counselling conferences with noted lawyer Jerry Giesler and others. Then the fighter went to a ranch for rehabilitation.

Tuesday night the baby-faced Teran was almost complete master of the hard-hitting Umeda Keeny had one bad moment: Umeda floored him in the sixth. That was the only round Umeda won.

Denies Quebec Fans "Bandits"

QUEBEC (CP)—Francis Boudreau (UN—St. Sauveur) in the Quebec legislature described as "an odious calumny" an article published in a Montreal weekly newspaper which said Quebec hockey fans are "bandits."

Rising on a question of privilege Tuesday, he said he had been informed the article in the French-language Samedi-Dimanche was written by a man he identified as Paul de St. George and not by Maurice Richard, Montreal Canadiens hockey star under whose name it appeared.

In Montreal, Richard couldn't be reached before he was due to leave with the team for Toronto where the Canadiens meet the Leafs tonight.

Managing Director Frank Selke of the Canadiens had no comment.

"Quebec sporting spirit has too often manifested itself to be the object of such low and vulgar attacks on the part of this unscrupulous journalist," said Boudreau.

Dandy Hanover, owned by E. Webb of Portland, Me., and Irish Lullaby, owned by the H. and B. Stable of Norwich, were heat winners in the fifth and secondary feature.

Davey, Pruden Stage Bout

CLEVELAND (AP) — Chuck Davey, one of the slickest fighters ever to come off a college campus, puts his fistic power on display again tonight in a televised bout with Canadian veteran Fitzie Pruden.

Although Davey is a top-heavy favorite, a sellout crowd of 13,000 is forecast for the contest heading a card of five 10-rounders on the Cleveland News toyshop fund show.

A southpaw who moves about continuously, the 26-year-old Davey expects to get a title bout early next year with welterweight champion Kid Gavilan. The fight probably will take place in Chicago in February.

Pruden, a slugger from St. Catharines, Ont., who now fights out of Paterson, N.J., boasts a record of 56 victories in 65 fights. Fitzie boasts one of the best left hands in the business.

Davey originally was scheduled to meet Del Flanagan, a St. Paul fancy dan. After the bout was announced, however, the Michigan State graduate protested Flanagan's style was too similar to his own and the bout would not be a crowd-pleaser.

Ed Bang, the Cleveland News sports editor who is promoting the fights, agreed to substitute Pruden.

Tonight's contest will be carried over CBS TV network at 10 p.m. EST.

Toronto Leafs Trying Out Youth In Tilt With Habs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs will try out youth, Montreal Canadiens experience, when the National Hockey League rivals meet in Toronto tonight. Youth is 18-year-old Dave Reid, Toronto Marlboros centre, who is going to help fill the breach caused by the loss of forwards Rudy Migay and Max Bentley. Both players are out for about a month.

Experience is in the form of 29-year-old Gaye Stewart, a 10-year veteran of the NHL, who has been purchased by the Canadiens from the New York Rangers for the $7,500 waiver price.

Coach Dick Irvin thinks Stewart can inject some life into the Habs' production department now suffering from an acute attack of inertia.

NEED WIN BADLY

The Canadiens need a win badly. They're now in the unfamiliar fifth spot, 10 points more than the cellar-dwelling Rangers, and three points behind Boston Bruins and the Leafs.

The Leafs wouldn't turn down a win either. A victory, plus a loss by the Bruins at New York tonight, would send Conn Smythe's boys into sole possession of third place, one point behind the league-leading Chicago Black Hawks and Detroit Red Wings.

But on the surface a Boston loss seems pretty unlikely. The Bruins currently are the hottest crew in the NHL, unbeaten in their last six games. They won five straight before holding the Red Wings to a tie in Detroit last Sunday.

Marciano Named Winner Of Plaque

NEW YORK (AP)—Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano has been named winner of the Edward J. Neil memorial plaque, awarded annually by the Boxing Writers Association to the fighter of the year.

The first heavyweight ever to attain the title without even a draw to blemish his record, the 28-year-old Brockton, Mass., blaster was chosen by acclamation. Not one other boxer was mentioned seriously as the writers paid tribute to the sport's most dynamic figure.

His dramatic come-from-behind knockout of Jersey Joe Walcott in the 13th round at Philadelphia last Sept. 23 was the most thrilling event of the year in boxing.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

Windsor Out Of Cellar, Clip Flyers 4-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

To quote an old saw from the boxing world: "It was a hard fight maw, but we won."

That's what Windsor Spitfires said Tuesday night after they pulled out of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A basement.

The Spits, trailing since the beginning of the season, started up those long stairs a couple of weeks ago, and climaxed the struggle with a 4-1 victory Tuesday night over Barrie Flyers. The victory gave them 16 points, two ahead of Kitchener — Waterloo Greenshirts and two behind Oshawa Generals.

And just as heartening was the crowd of 3,500 fans in Windsor, the largest in two seasons. They watched the Spits break a 1-1 second-period deadlock by firing home three goals in the final.

Kitchener-Waterloo fought desperately to avoid the cellar position, but an overtime goal gave Toronto St. Michael's a 6-5 win. St. Mikes now are solidly in second spot.

DOWN TEEPEES

Oshawa strengthened their seventh-place position by downing the fifth-place St. Catharines Teepees 7-6.

Toronto Marlboros opened their tour of the Quebec loop by downing Montreal Canadiens 4-2 and in Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association play the cellar-dwelling Montreal Royals took a 3-2 loss from the third-place Three Rivers Reds.

In Windsor Joe Zorica ended the 1-1 tie with a sizzler past Barrie goalie Gil Boisvert. Ross Graham and Bob Brown added the insurance. Don Cherry scored Barrie's only goal in the second period. Ed Louttit tied it up.

Ted Toppazzini gave St. Mikes their win in overtime. Mike Ratchford, Paul Knox, Jim Logan, Bill Dineen and Bill Lee scored the others.

Orv Tessier paced the Kitchener attack with two goals. Others were tallied by John Ford, Gary Collins and Bud Youngberg.

Oshawa was leading 7-5 in the last two minutes of play at St. Catharines when goalie Marv Edwards was taken out of the Teeps nets. The move paid off with one goal but St. Kitts was denied the tieing marker.

SCORES THREE

Roger Maisonneuve scored three for the Generals, Bob Armstrong two and Bud Hillman and Bob Attersley one each.

Billy Haas accounted for two for the Teeps. The others went to Hugh Barlow, Ken Schinkel, Wimpy Roberts and Ron Murphy.

The Marlboros, trailing 2-1 at the end of the second, rebounded with a three-goal splurge for their win in Montreal.

Ronnie Ingram, Louis Bendo, Bill Harris and Tom McCarthy shared Toronto's goals. Gordie Hollingworth and Claude Provost scored for the Canadiens.

Three Rivers scored their three goals in the first period, then held off a furious Royal attack.

Gerard Bergeron, Jean-Guy Gendron and Louis Desrosiers scored for the Reds. Eddy Swartzack and Bill McGillivray counted for the Royals.

Thick Fog Forces Plane To Land

HAMILTON (CP)—Thick fog Tuesday forced a single-engine RCAF Chipmunk training plane to land at a farm near Kilbride, 10 miles north of here.

The pilot, Nel Stewart, chief instructor at the Wellington-Waterloo Flying club, and his passenger, Milt MacKenzie, both of Kitchener, landed safely in the only field in the area without trees. They had about two gallons of fuel left. Earlier they tried to land at Galt and Toronto.

The two men were flying from Toronto to Kitchener when the fog closed in.

SCENE OF TRAGEDY — Bicycle on roadway, coat on sidewalk, mark death on an east-Toronto street. Standing at right, still dazed by the tragedy , is John Jerow, 25, driver of a tractor-trailer under whose dual rear wheels 24-year-old Lawrence Liberty, the bicycle rider, fell and was killed. It was Toronto's 57th traffic fatality in 1952. The bicycle struck a curb and Liberty was somersaulted sideways under the truck, police said.

Ask Court To Give Witnesses Reigious Freedom

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada has been asked to declare that Jehovah's Witnesses form a religious denomination, entitled to the same freedom as other denominations.

The request was made Tuesday by W. Glen How of Toronto, counsel for the Witnesses, while arguing against the validity of a Quebec City bylaw under which members of the Witnesses have been prosecuted for distributing tracts.

The case deals specifically with Laurier Saumur of Quebec, a Jehovah's Witness evangelist arrested for distributing literature without a permit from the chief of police.

UPHOLD BYLAWS

Lower courts have upheld the validity of the bylaw. But Mr. How said he had been unsuccessful in attempts to get the courts to rule on the point of whether the Witnesses constitute a religious denomination.

Mr. How asked the nine-member Supreme Court, headed by Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret, to declare:

1. Jehovah's Witnesses form a religious denomination.
2. Saumur, as a result of his training, was a minister.
3. His manner of preaching through the distribution of pamphlets was lawful.

The Quebec City attorney-general's department is opposing Mr. How. The case is to continue today.

Mr. How said about 800 other cases hinge on the Supreme Court's interpretation of the validity of the Quebec bylaw, all in Quebec province. Several hundred prosecutions were pending in Montreal.

Under the challenged bylaw, no literature may be distributed in Quebec City without the written permission of the chief of police.

Explains Corkscrews

STRATFORD (CP)—A city council member Tuesday night queried a $14.30 account for corkscrews. He said he did not recall any need for the said pieces of equipment. There have not been any parties or celebrations.

Ald. C. H. Meier, board of works chairman, explained all. He said the corkscrews were used by workmen cleaning plugged sewers.

Reserve Judgment On Lee Appeal

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Supreme Court reserved judgment on the appeal of Harry Lee of Hamilton, sentenced to be hanged Dec. 20 for the murder of Mrs. Mary Rosenblatt, also of Hamilton.

Lee was charged after Mrs. Rosenblatt was found shot near Sheffield June 2.

C. L. Dubin appeared for Lee Tuesday and argued that Mr. Justice W. F. Spence had misdirected the jury through failure to tell the jury of evidence that could have resulted in a verdict of manslaughter.

Wins Confidence Vote

PARIS (AP)—Premier Antoine Pinay's strong personal appeal for a vote of confidence staved off his defeat in Parliament Tuesday by a thin margin of nine votes. With Communists, Socialists and de Gaullists solidly in opposition, Pinay's rightist government emerged victorious on a balanced budget-tax reform test 300-291.

Ex-Mayor Dies

DETROIT (CP) — Richard W. Reading, sent to prison for accepting graft soon after he realized his life-long ambition to become mayor of his native Detroit, died Tuesday. He was 70. Mr. Reading, elected to a two-year term as mayor in 1937, had been in poor health for several years.

Peiping Report "Exaggeration"

OTTAWA (CP)—The army says it figures the Peiping radio was at least 100 per cent off in reporting "staggering" losses to Canadian troops in an October action in Korea.

The Communist radio said the Reds killed and wounded 231 Canadians in 12 minutes in an Oct. 23 action.

The army said Tuesday the losses in the last two weeks of October were "heavy" but not staggering. They came mainly in the Little Gibraltar action involving the 1st battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, which has since left Korea.

Army casualty lists don't pinpoint dates or actions but headquarters said that in the last two weeks of October the 25th brigade had 22 men killed in action, two who died of wounds, 17 missing and 71 wounded, a total of 112 casualties.

U.S. Army Engineers Keep One Lock Open

CHICAGO (AP)—The U.S. Army engineers announce that one lock at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., will be kept open through Dec. 20 at the request of navigation interests.

The announcement was made Tuesday by Col. Wendell P Trower division engineer for the Great Lakes area.

The Canadian government, which also has locks at the Soo, has asked the U.S. to keep the American locks open through Dec. 20 instead of closing them Dec 15 as scheduled.

R. W. Milner, Canadian transport controller, said at Ottawa extension of the closing date would aid movement of Canada's record grain crop.

Heavy Jail Term

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A dope peddler was sentenced Tuesday to serve 14 to 15 years in a state prison. Said County Judge Caiton A. Fisher to Barney Edmunds, 43: "You have been convicted of one of the most despicable crimes we have on the statute books—selling narcotics to young men. I'm going to stop this practice by doing everything I can to punish the guilty ones."

SOUTH END RINK

Parks department plans for the winter include a skating rink for children at the west end of Hawley St. as requested by residents in that section of the city.

CERTIFY ACCOUNTS

City council has authorized Ald T. D. Miller, chariman of the finance committee, to certify accounts for payment when they come to him with the approval of the respective committee chairmen.

CITY HALL IN "ADA"

Rosco Metal and Roofing Products Ltd., Toronto, are using in their advertising a photograph of Peterborough's City Hall taken from the air. Request for permission to use the illustration was received by Mayor Waddell from P. E. Davidson, head of the company.

RE-ELECTED

Mrs. Douglas Holliday, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Donley, 700 Aylmer St., was re-elected to Whitby town council at the annual municipal elections on Monday. In a field of eight candidates, six of whom were to be elected, Mrs. Holliday was in third place.

FALLS ON STAIRS

Brice Jopp, a roomer at 522 Charlotte Street, suffered a weak spell Tuesday afternoon and fell down several steps to a small landing. In the fall Mr Jopp fractured his shoulder. Constables Douglas Farthing and Donald Mackay were called and they applied first aid until Kaye's ambulance took Mr. Jopp to the Civic Hospital. His condition today was "satisfactory."

ADDITION TO HOSPITAL

The Board of Governors of the Brantford General Hospital has placed before the city council details of a complete plan for the renovation of the building and extension to provide 186 beds immediately and 72 more when needed. This can be done at a cost of $1,-250,000 to the city of Brantford; $600,000 to Brant county; $424,000 in government grants and $600,000 in trust funds and public subscriptions. The total cost is $2,824,000.

UNION-MANAGEMENT AGREE

A tentative agreement on a 1953 contract has been reached between Local 230, Outboard Marine Workers Union and management. The OLRB conciliation board under the chairmanship of Prof. Eric Taylor sat till after 4 a.m. Tuesday before a settlement was reached. It is understood that the new contract, not yet signed, includes a substantial wage increase. The union will take the agreement to the membership for ratification at a meeting Thursday night. Other members of the conciliation board were E. Macaulay Dillon, QC, company appointee, and William Mahoney, union appointee.

Banana Belt Weather Due To End Today Upstart Flowers Will Be Squelched

Today's rain may mean the end of the banana weather that Peterborough and the whole of southern Ontario have been inflicted with two months out of season.

If it does we will have an end of reports of pansies and dandelions blooming and youngsters complaining about the lack of snow.

Citizens will be able more easily to catch the Christmas spirit.

This is how the Meteorological office describes what is happening and what is about to happen.

"Very mild air moving northward from the Gulf of Mexico has brought near record temperatures to Ontario for the past day or two. However, cooler air is moving steadily eastward across lower Michigan and will cover all of Ontario by tonight. Along the junction of these two different air masses, a wide band of precipitation formed on Tuesday and will continue across Ontario stopping in the Windsor area about noon today."

City Sells Second Piece Of Property For Warehouse

The property owned by the city on the west side of Erskine Ave. and known as the Johnny Williams sand pit, has been sold to Arnold Steele. This is the second parcel sold from the area which the city bought for industrial sites. Lemery Distributors, on the south side of Lansdowne St., was the first to get a slice of that land.

The Steele purchase is on the west side of Erskine Ave., and south of the C.P.R., a triangular block on which a building will be erected for his use as a contractor, storage of materials and equipment, with space for warehouse accommodation.

Mr. Steele took over the property Tuesday at a cost of $2,000. It is about 2.91 acres in extent.

City Clerk Outram informed the council Monday that the property and manufacturers committee regarded the purchase as a good deal for the city.

SUPPLIED CONTRACTORS

For years the lot was a sandpit from which the late John Williams used to supply contractors in the construction of houses and other buildings. Excavation was to a depth of about six feet over most of the three acres, and Mr. Outram said considerable filling would probably have to be done by Mr. Steele.

Mr. Williams used to grow prize early potatoes in the pit after he had gone out of the business of supplying sand to the building trades. South of the house he had a grand show of delphiniums and other flowers.

The old George May sandpit on High St. vanished this season in the construction of the spacious building for use by the Bell Telephone Company's fleet of motor trucks and their maintenance. That was south of the CPR, and on the north side little remains of the Sandstone Brick Company.

PLAN FOR PROPERTY

City council has been discussing lately the planning of the entire property bought for industrial development. Before anything is done beyond the plan stage, a layout of roads and lots will be considered. One purpose of this design for the future is to try to distribute values over the whole ground, instead of letting it shift to the front, as on Erskine Ave.

Contention within the council since the property was bought by the special industrial commission has been increasingly critical of leaving the property in the state of nature, that the area should be designed for use and improved for sales appeal to any persons interested in locating an industrial plant here.

Load Of Gravel Upset In Ditch Driver Escapes

BETHANY (ENS) — A truck driver and his passenger were uninjured early today when a huge gravel-loaded truck skidded off the road into a ditch, overturned and burst into flames west of Bethany.

Harry Eade, 26, of Mount Albert, owner and driver of the tractor-trailer, was driving west on Highway 7A about 5 a.m. when the accident occurred 1½ miles west of Bethany. He blamed fog, rain, and the slippery condition of the road for the crash.

The passenger, Herbert Rollings, also of Mount Albert, escaped without harm, as did Eade.

FIREMEN CALLED

Volunteer firemen from Bethany brought their pumper to the burning truck and controlled the blaze, but could not save the cab, which is a total loss.

Provincial Constable Bert Howden, of Bowmanville, formerly of Apsley, investigated and said he believed a broken gas line spilled fuel onto the hot muffler, starting the fire. The trailer of the truck is not damaged extensively. Eade and Rollings were bound for Mount Albert from Havelock, where they bought the gravel.

The accident occurred as the truck, loaded with 14 tons of gravel, started down the hairpin turn on "watertrough hill." Just opposite the farm of Lloyd Kennedy, the truck skidded through the guard rail of a small bridge, plowed through a fence, and turned over in Kennedy's field.

The truck was carrying 100 gallons of gasoline and fuel-line leak caused a fire to break out almost immediately. Its interior was gutted by the flames which were brought under control by George Smith and Orloe Wright who manned the Bethany pumper.

BOARD OF WORKS CHAIRMAN

A missing line of type in the report Tuesday of Mayor Waddell's appreciation of the service of the two retiring aldermen, Dr. Herbert Young and James E. Gillespie omitted clear reference to Ald. Gillespie's chairmanships, particularly as present chairman of the Board of Works, and previously its vice-chairman.

Minor Injuries Received In Accidents

Two Peterborough people suffered minor injuries in accidents on city streets Tuesday. Only one required slight hospital treatment.

Stella Lucas, 667 McKellar Street, received a bruised left ankle and a cut foot when hit by a truck at the corner of Monaghan Road and McKellar Street.

She told police that she had stepped out to see if the bus was coming, and did not see a truck, driven by W. Hayes, 469 Howden Avenue, making a turn. The truck was proceeding east on McKellar, had stopped and started to turn north on Monaghan Road when she stepped out.

William DeNoble, 79 Pine Street was knocked off his bicycle at Wolfe and Aylmer Streets about 5 p.m. Tuesday. Scratched on the right ear and on the forehead, he was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital but later released.

Police report that DeNoble was bicycling south on Aylmer Street and was approaching Wolfe Street when he saw a car, driven by Thomas Gracie, 320 George Street, start to pull out across Aylmer Street. DeNoble started to pull around the car but the two collided.

New Company May Finance Big Development

LONDON (Reuters) — Plans were being considered today for a finance corporation to provide capital for the many development schemes approved by Commonwealth statesmen in their economic talks here.

The Commonwealth leaders, aiming to cure the sterling area's economic troubles, have decided on agricultural and industrial projects that will cost hundreds of millions of pounds.

The finance corporation would not be launched by the Commonwealth conference. It might be sponsored by the state-owned Bank of England with the help of big British banks and other financial interests.

A source close to the conference said today the Commonwealth prime ministers had not themselves decided to set up a corporation. But they would welcome any move by business interests in Britain and particularly the City of London to finance large-scale Commonwealth development schemes.

Talks initiated by the Bank of England last week on the formation of the Commonwealth finance corporation are said by banking quarters here to be approaching a successful conclusion.

The capital may be subscribed by leading British banks and also by insurance companies, and other British financial institutions, South African, Australian and other Commonwealth banks here.

Transport Hits Passenger Car

LAPEER, Mich. (AP) — Fred Barrett, 67, of Leonard, was killed Tuesday night and two persons were injured when a large transport truck smashed into a passenger car on a fog-covered highway near here.

The truck smashed into the rear of Barrett's car. Acetylene torches were used to free the body of the victim.

The injured persons were Mr. and Mrs. Emil Huckle, of Thamesville, Ont. Police said the Canadian couple's car piled into the truck which jacknifed across the highway after the collision. Both suffered minor injuries.

William Moller, driver of the truck, told police Barrett's car suddenly stopped in front of his vehicle.

Christmas Trees Should Be Made Safe

The placing of a powerful agent such as electricity in the hands of inexperienced people, old and young, enabling them by the flick of a switch or the touch of a button to set in motion huge industrial machines, flood a Christmas tree with lights or run an electric toy train, is the result of skilful engineering, strict control of its use and manufacturing of equipment which conforms with rigid specifications.

Don't say to yourself: "It could not happen in my home." Beware! Christmas trees will burn—if they are ignited. Don't run any risks with the lighting. Select Christmas tree electrical equipment that has been approved by the Canadian Standards Association, and not candles for illuminating your tree and window decorations. Make sure your Christmas this year will be a safe one.

St. Peter's H.S. Principal Sister Lucretia Ends 36-Year Teaching Career

Principal and teacher at St. Peter's High School for the past 36 years, Sister Lucretia ends her teaching duties today. She has been appointed principal of the new St. Peter's School, a primary school, which opened for classes this fall, and she will continue in a supervisory capacity.

One of the best-loved teachers at St. Peter's, Sister Lucretia has served as unofficial vocational guidance director at the school for many years. Her excellence as a teacher of Latin is known far beyond the boundaries of the city. Lately she has specialized in that subject, and formerly taught English and art.

BORN IN EGANVILLE

Born in Eganville in the Ottawa valley, she was formerly Teresa Foley, one of a family of three boys and six girls. Only four of the nine children survive today.

Her early education was at Sacred Heart Convent in Eganville, and after that she taught for six and a half years in Douglas and Caldwell, both places near her home.

In 1910 she entered Mount St. Joseph in Peterborough and six years later began teaching at St. Peter's High School, starting her 36 years of service then. These years were interrupted only when she took her Bachelor of Arts degree at Queen's University, graduating in 1926.

Before starting at St. Peter's, she taught two years at St. Michael's Convent, Cobourg, and three years at St. Mary's School, Peterborough.

Three years after her graduation from Queen's, she was appointed principal of St. Peter's. Before that she served under Sister Patricia (the former Elizabeth O'Brien of Douro) for 13 years.

As principal of St. Peter's Separate School, she will do no teaching.

This afternoon, Sister Lucretia was presented with a leather suitcase by the students' council at a gathering in the auditorium of the new school.

An address, read by Peter Ferren, recalled how many of the students had spent their entire school lives under her guidance.

"As little boys we would appear before your office desk, proud bearers of an invitation to a primary concert or a demonstration of our artistic efforts. Always we left with a great sense of achievement. You spoke to us as man to man; you praised our work and encouraged us."

For graver reasons, the address continued, students presented themselves at her desk — which they could by then see over—and were given "timely warning and kindly words of advice."

The address wished her happy years in her new duties and pleasant memories of the "boys and girls whom you have striven to make good Christian men and women."

Jack Richardson, president of the student council, indicated there were plans to purchase an original painting by a Canadian artist, which would be dedicated to Sister Lucretia "for her contribution to education in this school."

Carols were sung by a girls' chorus, and a play presented to round out the program.

SAW ONLY ONE GAME

One of four winners of $1,000 schoiarships to study fine arts abroad, offered by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association Paul McIntyre, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. McIntyre of Toronto, has seen only one amateur game. His father is a former resident of Peterborough.

North Monaghan Pays Accounts Of $29,221

The largest item was $12,436.94 listed as county levy, and is the township's contribution to Peterborough county administration. Payments for education facilities total $12,063.56.

One of the smaller accounts was $22 to Walter Bowles for loss of a sheep killed by dogs. It was reported that Mr. Bowles' flock in Cavan was raided and twelve head were worried or killed.

A resolution embodied a note of appreciation to the city of Peterborough for improvement of its dump ground in the township. A copy is to be sent to the city council.

Reeve Waterman and township clerk, Bruce Johnson, were authorized to attend the next meeting of Smith council on a proposal to improve joint boundary roads with a mulch top. Road estimates have to be submitted to the Department of Highways by January 24.

At the request of E. Trueman, manager of the Imperial Bank, whose residence on Middleton Drive is in the township, it was decided to transfer North Monaghan's account from the Bank of Montreal to the Imperial on January 1, 1953.

The following accounts were passed: Expense in collecting dog taxes $3.30; councillors' indemnities, half year, $250; municipal salaries $890; roads and streets $3,180.88; schools $12,063.56; legal fees $158.65; county rates $12,-436.94; constable $50; weed inspector $16; street lighting $22; printing, postage, etc. $56.58; grant $10; miscellaneous sundries $9.50; selecting jurors $18; relief and welfare $56.57; sheep killed by dogs $22; livestock valuator $3; Walter Bowles for evidence and assistance in having two dogs destroyed $20. Total $29,221.08.

Eight residents of Wallis Drive, headed by G. H. Roper and Edward O'Toole, asked the council to improve the Weller St. extension from the city. Council acknowledged the road was in bad condition and promised to keep it graded.

FROM MAYOR LAMPORT

In Mayor Waddell's mail Monday was a letter from Mayor Allan Lamport of Toronto. It said, in part: "I extend my heartiest congratulations on your re-election by acclamation to the office of Mayor of your city, and trust you will have a most successful year in your second term."

Former City Family Lose Home, Belongings In Fire In Newcastle

Louis Corbin, Wife and Four Children Forced To Flee Home
Lose All Possessions, Christmas Presents

A former Peterborough family have been temporarily parted, and their home and possessions destroyed, the result of a fire that broke out in their Newcastle home Tuesday morning. Victims of the blaze that started in the kitchen of their four-room lakeshore cottage are Mr. and Mrs. Louis Corbin and their four children, of pre-school age: Marilyn 5, Marlene 3, Gary 2, and Donna 18 months. Fire Chief Frank Miller of Newcastle is investigating the cause of the blaze that was discovered by Corbin at 3:20 a.m. Tuesday. Firemen believe that it started from an overheated stove in the kitchen. But they are also checking on the possibility of defective electric wiring.

The family of six were forced to flee—all of them, with the exception of Mr. Corbin—in their night attire.

All the furniture, including a new refrigerator and washing machine, was destroyed. So were the Christmas presents that had been bought for the children.

ALARM DELAYED

The phone was located in the kitchen of the one-storey cottage, and as that is where the fire started, Mr. Corbin was unable to phone for immediate assistance. Instead he roused his sleeping wife and children and they were taken to a neighbor's home for the night.

Twenty minutes after the fire was discovered a neighbor drove up to the fire hall and gave the alarm.

Nothing was saved from the Corbin home.

They lived in Peterborough until two years ago; then they moved to Oshawa. Last summer they moved to Newcastle and both Mr. and Mrs. Corbin were employed by the J. A. Smith box company.

They are remaining there at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Graham of Mill Street until they can get accommodation for their children.

Meanwhile Donna is staying at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Arthur Corbin of 956 Western Ave. Marilyn and Marlene are with an aunt, Mrs. Alfred Gardner of 552 Bethune St. and Gary is with another aunt, Mrs. Michael Smith of 850 St. Mary's St.

Frank Cassidy Reeve Monteagle-Herschel

BANCROFT (ENS) — Frank Cassidy, Maynooth, was elected reeve of the townships of Monteagle and Herschel in the election held Saturday. He defeated his opponent, the incumbent Thomas Scott, by 224 votes to 197 in a close contest. Mr. Cassidy is a member of the 1952 council. A comparatively light vote was cast.

Art Nicol, Baptiste, headed the polls in the election for council. He polled 255 votes, a heavy margin over Herbert Woodcox who was elected with 159 votes. The other elected members of the four man council are: Bruce Parks, 144 votes, and J. Musclow, 141.

Other candidates in the seven man contest were Leslie Sutherland, 138 votes, W. McCormack, 113, and G. Musclow, 91.

No election was held for school trustees.

Nurse Residence Gets $11,000 For Addition

The Department of Health and Welfare today announced an $11,-000 grant had been awarded to St. Joseph's Hospital for construction of an addition to the nurses' residence.

Construction, started this summer in anticipation of the grant, is almost complete. This addition, on the unfinished third floor of the residence, will provide accommodation for an additional 22 nurses.

To be completed yet is the installation of an elevator, cost of which was included in the grant. The residence, built in 1948, was left partly unfinished, and hospital authorities have since been pressing health authorities for additional funds to complete the building.

Accommodation at the residence is now available for 85 nurses. Contractor for the addition was the Eastwood Construction Co. The elevator will be completed in January.

GRATEFUL GROUP

Appreciation of the city council's co-operation was expressed in a letter Monday from the women of the Study Group on Civic Affairs. In acknowledging this letter, Mayor Waddell said the council gratefully recognized the interest of the group, and hoped that it would be continued during 1953.

Men Need Guides Too To Compete In Race With Women In Politics And Industry

Men will feel better and be more able to remain in the race with women in politics, industry and medicine if they wear girdles, Dr. Gordon told interviewers Tuesday.

Some of women's success is due to their girdles, he said, because they get support that elevates the abdomen and facilitates the movement of air in and out of the lungs, thus contributing to the entrance of oxygen into the tissues.

There's nothing like a new girdle to give a woman the feeling of wellbeing, Dr. Gordon says, and when the two-way-stretch devices sag their wearers do, too.

Nothing To Fear

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Dave Beck, president of the 1,250-000-member AFL Teamsters Union, said Tuesday night in an interview that bonafide labor unions haven't anything to fear from President-elect Eisenhower. Beck cited Eisenhower's designation of Martin P. Durkin, AFL union official, as secretary of labor, as evidence "the people who have consecrated themselves to the destruction of labor" are not guiding the president-elect's hand.

Church Supporter A. Northey, 89 Dies At Home

Alexander Northey, 89, 619 Aylmer St., died Tuesday at his residence following a short illness.

Mr. Northey was born in Smith Township, son of the late James Northey and Mary Jane Rosborough, and has lived in Peterborough for the past 47 years. Formerly he was a farmer in Smith Township.

A sexton of George St. United Church for 22 years, Mr. Northey retired in 1943. He was a member of the board of stewards of the church for 45 years, an honorary life member of the session and a life member of the Excelsior Class of the Sunday school. He was an active member of the church bowling group and bowled up until two weeks before his death. He was also a member of the Canadian Order of Foresters.

Mr. Northey would have celebrated his 90th birthday on Friday, the day of his funeral.

When he heard the news of Mr. Northey's death, E. L. Sackville, a member of the session and board of stewards of George St. United Church, made the following comments: "Mr. Northey was not only a devoted sexton of our church over a long period of years, but he was also, for an equally long period, a devoted elder. At the time of his retirement, the esteem in which he was held by the congregation was shown in a letter of sincere appreciation and a gift.

"His life in the church was one of rounded service, and it was generally known that he was one of the most generous givers not only of time and energy but of financial support throughout the years."

Mr. Northey leaves one daughter, Mrs. Melville Morrow (Ida) of Peterborough; three granddaughters, Mrs. Carl Hayes (Willa), of Long Beach, Calif., Mrs. Victor Coons (Adelle) and Mrs. Douglas Elcombe (Donna), both of Peterborough; and one grandson, Wayne of Peterborough. His wife, the former Matilda Galvin, predeceased him in 1943.

The funeral will be held Friday at 2 p.m. from his late residence to George St. United Church. The Rev. A. A. Mathews and the Rev. E. W. Rowland of George St. United Church will conduct the service. Burial will be in Lakefield Cemetery.

Sod Shanty

MISSING IN KOREA—Sqdn. Ldr. A. R. (Andy) MacKenzie, 32, of Montreal, an RCAF fighter pilot with the United States Army Air Force in Korea, has been reported missing. In the Second World War he had a record of 8½ enemy planes destroyed. He went to Korea in October on exchange duties with the USAAF. The first RCAF casualty of the Korean war, he is the 13th Canadian pilot on Far East exchange duties.

Organize Sun. School For Centenary Church

ROSENEATH (ENS)—A Sunday school has been organized at Centenary United Church. Centenary church has the smallest congregation of the churches on the Roseneath charge, and it is some years since there has been a Sunday school in connection with the church.

Following are the officers elected: Superintendent and Bible Class teacher, the Rev. J. R. Wheeler; junior class, Mrs. Ernest Burrison; begginers', Mrs. Neil Sherwin; secretary-treasurer, Mr. Archie Sherwin.

Says Officers Chosen For Accents

LONDON (AP) — A Labor member of Parliament says that British Army officers are selected for their accents and not for their competence.

The charge was made in the House of Commons yesterday by George Wigg, a onetime regular army private who rose to the rank of colonel. He quoted an army statement to the effect that 80 per cent of conscripts granted commissions live south of a line drawn across the country through the Midlands industrial centre of Birmingham.

British accents vary according to geographical locations. Wigg, himself, is from Dudley — a mile or two north of the Birmingham line.

War Minister Antony Head agreed that most of the commissions were granted men from south of the Birmingham line. This is "a fact that has been known for years," he said, but gave no explanation.

Average winter temperature in the Virgin Islands, most easterly United States territory, is 78 degrees.

Georgia Gibbs Offers 3-Point Plan For Success

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Our success story for today is narrated by singer Georgia Gibbs.

Georgia, an orphan girl who made good, has some hard words for gals who think they can make a success in show business overnight. It's a matter of tough work, says she, but it can be done.

And if you want to follow her formula, here's all you do:

1. Start singing with a dance band. This pointer worked well for Betty Hutton, Betty Grable, Peggy Lee, Doris Day, Jo Stafford, Rosemary Clooney, June Haver, etc.

"I started when I was 13 years old," said Miss Gibbs. "I had to go to work, so I lied about my age and toured with small bands. It was backbreaking work, travelling 400 miles between one-night stands. I was singing 50 or 60 songs a night.

"It's the best possible training for a singer. You find your range, you find out what songs you can sing and what songs you can't."

2. Work with comedians.

After Miss Gibbs started clicking on radio in New York, she landed a singing spot on the Jimmy Durante-Garry Moore show. After several seasons with them, she appeared with other comedians.

"I learned a lot from them," she remarked. "I learned timing, which all of them possess to an amazing degree. I learned versatility, so I could handle myself in any situation before an audience."

3. Get yourself a hit record.

Although Georgia has been in the singing business for 10 years or more, she didn't start making records until two years ago. Recently she clicked with a platter of "Kiss of Fire," which sold in stratospheric numbers.

4. Sing it straight.

"Look, I'm a career singer," she observed. "I like this business, and I want to last in it. That's why I think it's best to avoid the gimmicks in singing. Sure, the novelty singers can become hits faster. But they can fall from signt just as fast, too."

ABBEY ANNEX—David Eccles, British minister of works, looks at a model of an annex to be built to Westminster Abbey for next June's coronation services. The annex will be used as a hall in which the grand procession can assemble and to provide robing and retiring rooms for those taking part in the ceremonies. The entrance will be surmounted with a large royal coat of arms and will have a transparent canopy. The annex will cost £50,000.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Stuffed Cabbage Rolls On Special-Purpose Menu

Want to save some money while you entertain?

Take your nerve in your hands and use your cooking skill to charm your guests instead of ruining your budget.

For entertain you must and will this month for it is the month of celebration and rejoicing for a very important event occured that changed the course of history and made a better world for you and I to live in.

This meal has flavor plus, but you should heed each step carefully for there is a good epicurean reason for each one.

There is a restaurant in The States where their Stuffed Cabbage Rolls are ordered oftener than any other single item on their menu—including Chicken Mary Land.

STUFFED CABBAGE ROLLS

DIRECTIONS: To serve six buy a medium-sized loose head of cabbage. Cut it in halves and drop into kettle of boiling water, but do not cook. Let it stand until leaves are soft and can be gently separated from stalk—about 10 minutes. Be careful not to break leaves. While the cabbage is softening saute in 2 tablespoons olive oil or butter ½ cup brown rice (you can use white rice but you know what a stickler I am for flavor and health). When the rice has absorbed the fat, add 1 small grated onion and cook gently for 2 minutes. Remove from heat and add 1 pound ground beef or hamburg which contains some fat, ½ teaspoon pepper (or less if you think this is too much for your taste), 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon fresh chopped parsley AND if you can purchase it, a pinch of oregano. Spread each cabbage leaf out and at stem end place a heaping dessertspoon of the meat mix. Fold left side of leaf over meat and roll them up tacking each leaf closed with a whole clove. Slice a large onion in bottom of heavy pot and place cabbage rolls over it, open side down. Pour over 1 or 1½ cups tomato and another small onion sliced. Cover tightly and simmer over very low heat for 1½ hours. Half-hour before time is up make this sauce: Mix together 1 tablespoon each honey and flour, ½ cup lemon juice, 3 tablespoons sour cream, 1 cup water. Pour over cabbage rolls and cook slowly ½ hour longer. This dish improves with standing, so when it is done if you want to keep it hot in warming oven or very low oven it will be better. Serve 2 rolls of cabbage to each plate.

CHEESE FAN TANS (a cheese flavored hot roll)

Make Refrigerator Rolls: Sift before measuring 3½ cups bread flour. Scald 1 cup milk. Stir into it until dissolved 6 tablepsoons shortening and 6 tablespoons sugar and 1½ teaspoons salt. Cool to lukewarm. Dissolve 1 package granular yeast in ½ cup lukewarm water with 1 teaspoon sugar, and let stand 10 minutes, stirring once. Beat 1 egg into it. Add the yeast and egg to the cooled milk mixture, then beat ½ of the flour into it, beating for 2 minutes. Add remaining flour and beat the dough until it bubbles and squeaks. Place in greased bowl, and spread top lightly with butter or lard, cover and store in refrigerator for 24 hours. Cut down to make it ready for the "Fan Tan". (Sounds as if we're dancing!).

CHEESE SPREAD: Combine, stir and heat in double boiler until cheese is melted 1½ cups greated cheese, 3 tablespoons each butter and milk, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ½ teaspoon salt. Roll 24-hour old refrigerator dough out into a thin sheet ⅛-inch thick. Spread half of it with the cheese mixture. Fold over the other half. Fold it over once more. You now have 4 thin layers of dough. Cut it into 1¼-inch strips, then cut the strips into squares—each 1½ x 1½ inches. Place the squares cut side up in greased muffin tins. Let rise in warm place until they have double in bulk. Bake these in hot oven of 400 deg. Fahr. for 20 to 25 minutes. These flaky morsels melt in your mouth.

Peeled and seeded grapes take patience to prepare, but are worth the work for they are delicious with skinned grapefruit sections sweetened with honey.

RESCUE 5 CHILDREN

TORONTO (CP)—Three mothers Tuesday rescued their five small children from a burning home in northwest Toronto. Minutes later six firemen were partly overcome by smoke when they dashed in to rescue the children they thought were still inside. The mothers were Mrs. Hannah Rosen, Mrs. Y. Wajgensberg and Mrs. Theresa Wajgensberg.

Christmas Meeting St. James WMS

Christmas meeting of St. James' WMS was held Tuesday afternoon in Wesley Hall with a good attendance of members and friends. Decorations were in keeping with the season. An impressive worship on the theme, "Christmas the Season of Birth and Re-Birth" was led by Mrs. E. Kent. Bible passages were read by Miss M. Morton, Mrs. N. Brown, Mrs. H. Powers and Mrs. W. Rose. Prayer was offered by Miss M. Collins. Two lovely carols were sung by Mrs. H. D. McCormack, accompanied by Mrs. H. Doig. The service was a rededication to follow God's way of love and service through the year. Mrs. G. Hewitt presided for the business session. The list of officers for the coming year was read by Miss Morton and accepted. Mrs. K. Sloane, supply secretary, read a list of requirements for that department to be in readiness in early spring. Mrs. Hewitt read a Christmas message from the Misses Connie and Marion Wagar of Trinidad. Miss C. Wagar has charge of the girls' high school at St. Augustine and as well conducts classes in art and leather craft at the YWCA. She describes the girls as being very enthusiastic about learing. Mrs. Hewitt closed the meeting with the singing of a carol and prayer.

Golden Mile Club Party Guests Of Soroptimists

Joyous highlight of the Christmas season to the elderly ladies of the Golden Mile Club of Peterborough is the dinner and party given them each year by their sponsors, the Soroptomists. This happy event took place Tuesday evening and was held in the George St. Church parlors with a sumptuous turkey dinner being provided and served by a ladies' group of the church.

Flowers to decorate for this occasion were sent as a gift to the Golden Mile Club by a non-member of either club, Mrs. J. K. Hughes. Entertainment was provided by Soroptomists outstanding in their fields of art, Mrs. Agnes Logan Green, Miss Mignon Mayneord and Mrs. Mae Thompson.

Mrs. Green is an accomplished pianist and played a group of delightful selections and also for a sing-song that included nearly all of the popular Christmas carols. Miss Mayneord is one of the very few concert whistlers in the world. She chose to whistle "In a Monastery Garden" and "Chinese Lullaby," "The Glow Worm" by Lincoln and a bird song. Her accompanist, Mrs. Mildred Hubble, assisted.

Mrs. Thompson is a charming story-teller and she gave a group of stories, titled "Christmas Memories."

A Golden Mile Club member, Mrs. N. Stanger, had selected a lovely reading for the occasion but was unable to be present, so it was read by Mrs. Cunningham.

The president of this latter club, Mrs. E. Chatten, was called upon to receive a box of Christmas wrapped parcels which she was told contained china cups and saucers to be used at the club's semi-monthly afternoon tea parties. The joy of unwrapping them was left until the first meeting in January which will be as usual in the Grafton store recreation hall.

Mrs. Chatten had with her a large collection of coppers which have been given by the Golden Milers to provide Christmas cheer for someone else.

Each member of the guest club received a Christmas corsage to wear for the evening and also a Christmas gift. Thirty-two were present.

The program was introduced by Soroptomist president Miss Gene Clark and was arranged by Misses Myrtle Sargent and Flora Metcalfe.

24 New Members Attend Party At Manse

Twenty-four new members were welcomed to the St. Paul's Married Couples Club at the Christmas party Tuesday evening at the manse. A caricature contest made everyone quickly asquainted and resulted in prizes going to Mrs. H. Lockington and Mr. Ed. Fanjoy. Mr. Christopher Gledhill directed a lively program with the Yuletide flavor, seasoned with Christmas carols.

Other prize winners of the evening were Mr. Tom Kay for "carpet measure," Mrs. H. Locking for minute guessing and also for being the mother of the newest baby, Mrs. John Wells, the newest arrival in town, Mrs. Tom Kay, the newest bride.

A short business meeting was conducted by retiring president Mr. Howard Perry. He outlined plans for the fifth presentation in Peterborough of the Canada Packers Operatic Society, which will give the opera "Iolanthe" on February 28 in the Collegiate auditorium.

A new list of officers brought in names Dennis Crowhurst as new president, John McDonald as vice-president, Walter Dunford as secretary and Ed. Fanjoy as treasurer. The program convener is Harry Lockington; social conveners Mrs. Allan MacQuarrie, Mrs. Eric Toller, Mrs. Don Armstrong and Mrs. Archie Ballantine; card convener, Mrs. Leighton Ross; special committee, John Armstrong, Don Flett, John Morrow and Elwood Gillespie.

Santa Claus distributed gifts to everyone before the serving of lunch by Mrs. Boyd with Mrs. Gordon Pond, Mrs. J. Bell, Mrs. H. Perry, Mrs. G. Coleman and Mrs. Jack McDonald assisting.

A vote of thanks to the host and hostess, the Rev. and Mrs. C. G. Boyd, was extended by Mr. George Coleman.

Home and School Association News

PRINCE OF WALES SCHOOL

The Prince of Wales Home and School Association was privileged to present Dr. C. D. Gaitskill as guest speaker at the monthly meeting Tuesday evening at the school. Dr. Gaitskill is director of art for the province of Ontario, and spoke on art in the schools today. He was introduced by Miss Gertrude Cox, Peterborough Public School art inspector and was thanked by Mr. Charles Huffman.

✧ ✧ ✧

BANCROFT

BANCROFT (ENS)—November meeting of the Bancroft Home and School Association, which was cancelled due to the High School Commencement Exercises on November 28, was held at the public school Friday evening. Mrs. E. Goodkey, the president, was in the chair.

Mrs. G. Wragg and Mr. G. McKelvey addressed the meeting in regard to the recently formed night classes at the high school and the subjects being taught. A great interest is being shown in these classes and nearly all classes are filled.

The report of the school nurse was given by Mrs. T. W. Tryon in the absence of the nurse, Mrs. J. Hattin, who was unable to attend.

Reports were also heard from committees in charge of the rummage sale and the Hallowe'en party. The attendance prize was won by Mrs. D. Breighton's class.

✧ ✧ ✧

GROVE SCHOOL

Parents of the grade 2 class of Grove School won them this month's prize by attendance at the Home and School Association meeting Monday evening. The usual business was presided over by President Mrs. Nels Foster. She announced cancellation of the executive meeting this month.

Mr. Jack Gibson sang two solos, "O Come All Ye Faithful" and "When a Child Prays," with piano accompaniment by Mrs. W. Turner. They also led carol singing during the social hour at the close.

Speaker was the Rev. E. W. Rowland and his subject was "Home Education of the Child." He emphasized that purely academic training is not enough and that home training and discipline are of equal importance. "Education is a process that goes on as long as we live. Discipline in the home makes the man and woman of the future," he said.

Mr. Rowland was introduced by Mrs. F. Sanders and thanked by Mrs. L. Butman.

The Christmas theme was carried out in the lunch-room where there was an illuminated tree and tables were lighted by candles. The refreshments were convened by Mrs. J. Stewart, assisted by Mrs. A. Johnston, Mrs. Sanders, Mrs. Doughty and Mrs. S. Heard.

LAKEFIELD

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—A splendid attendance was present on Monday evening when the Lakefield Home and School Association held the Christmas meeting in the school. The president, Mrs. Stanley Burger was in the chair. Mrs. Wallace Hendren gave the opening prayer. The secretary's report was given by Mrs. William C. Grant and the treasurer, Mrs. Thomas Payton reported a balance of $39.95.

Mrs. C. Kennedy gave a report on a skate exchange held recently which proved to be successful, with 20 pairs of skates sold already.

Attendance was tied between Mrs. G. Wilcox's room and Mr. M. Paterson's and it was decided to award each room a prize.

A report was given by Mrs. Clarence Coons, rural leadership convener for council, of a convention for leaders held recently at Kingston, which she attended.

Bringing into the meeting as a real touch of Christmas was a short pageant by pupils of Mr. Paterson's room. Those taking part were, Barbara Hudson, as Mary; Paul O'Brien, as Joseph; Wendy Nickels, Joanne Rosborough and Dianne Peters as the angels; Gary Spencer, Bob Williams and David Payton as the three kings.

A feature of the evening was the presentation of a gift to Mr. and Mrs. Murray Paterson who were recently married. Mr. Paterson is a member of the public school teaching staff and Mrs. Paterson is high school secretary. The presentation was made by Mrs. J. L. Fraser, on behalf of the Home and School Association. Both expressed their appreciation of the gift and accompanying good wishes.

Mrs. L. J. Delaney, program convener, introduced three films which were shown. All three had the Christmas theme. Christmas carols were then sung with Mrs. Payton as leader and Mrs. Reg. Doubt at the piano.

Mrs. Charles H. Hunter moved a vote of thanks to all those who had assisted with the evening's entertainment and refreshments were served by the mothers' of Mr. Paterson's room.

✧ ✧ ✧

MAY'S SCHOOL

A large crowd attended the Christmas meeting of May's Home and School Association Monday night in the kindergarten room, which had a lighted Christmas tree and appropriate decorations.

President Mrs. A. Downer opened with the singing of "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," and welcome to all the parents and teachers present.

Miss L. Kidd read the scripture which was suited for Christmas. After a short business discussion, Mrs. O. Dantzer, program convener, introduced the guests of the evening.

The Rev. T. G. Pollock, religious instructor at the school, was the speaker. Having been a minister in South Africa for seven years, he gave a vivid description of the country and the life of the people there. He also showed some interesting colored pictures of the country homes and people of South Africa.

The Christmas Story was shown on the screen by Jimmie Neal. This was followed with Christmas carols led by Miss L. Kidd, accompanied at the piano by Miss J. Grills.

The Kawartha Four entertained with several well-known selections which were enjoyed.

Two humorous readings were given by members: "Miss Prim Goes Christmas Shopping," by Mrs. F. Spencely, and "Christmas Beattitudes" by Mrs. P. Dyer. The Kawartha Four then sang "Now the Day Is Over."

Mrs. R. Armour extended a vote of thanks to the speaker and entertainers. Lunch was served by Mrs. O. Weese, Mrs. W. Brigg and their committee.

MILLBROOK

MILLBROOK — (ENS) — The Home and School Association met in the school auditorium on Monday evening for the December meeting. Alex Gilbert, the president, was in the chair for the business period. He gave greeting from Mrs. C. Collins, president of Peterborough Home and School Council, and Mrs. C. Coons of Lakefield, in charge of rural associations, both of whom had planned to be present if heavy fog had not prevented them from driving out.

Mrs. Bruce Dawson, vice president, was in charge of the Christmas program. The whole group joined in the singing of Christmas songs. Elinore Crowley gave a reading and the Rev. A. A. Chote read the scripture story of the first Christmas. Mrs. Dawson told how Christmas carols came to be sung, and the backgrounds of some of the better known one which the group joined in singing. Carol singers, Mrs. G. A. Spicer, Misses Jean Burnham, Helen Fallis and Anne Dawson sang two carols as an introduction to the Nativity play. Those taking part were Joseph, Wilfred Elson; Mary, Mrs. Bruce Ingham; a woman in jewels, Mrs. Herbert Bremner; a maidservant, Mrs. Charles Sanderson; the innkeeper, Harry Williams, and the innkeeper's child, Nancy Powell. As the playlet finished in a tableau around the manger, the carol singers sang "Joy to the World". Miss Ellen Kent was in charge of costuming. Miss Mabel Clarry was at the piano. Dorothy Dawson gave a reading.

Mrs. Dawson, who directed the play, called attention to the fact that representatives of 22 different families had contributed to the Christmas program. The president expressed the thanks of the association to all taking part, particularly to Mrs. Dawson.

Music supervisors of the district, who had been meeting in another room with Inspector Carleton, came in for the social hour at the close of the meeting.

The $2 attendance award for having the most parents present went to the pupils of Miss Burnham's room, Mrs. J. T. Crowley, membership convener, announced.

Supper hostesses assisting the social conveners, Mrs. W. Elson, were Mrs. Allan Wood, Mrs. Allan Earle, Mrs. D. R. Fowler, Mrs. Percy Hamilton, Mrs. Walter Challice.

RIGHT: She says "This is Dorothy Gray."

Eliz. Parker Aux. Installs Officers For 1953

Trinity Hall ladies' parlor was tastefully decorated with greens and lighted candle Monday evening for the Christmas meeting of Elizabeth Parker Auxiliary. President Miss Myrtle Sargent conducted a brief business session at which time Mrs. W. Head gave an item on Christian stewardship. Miss O. Marshall reported on a recent meeting of Local Council of Women.

The retiring president thanked members for splendid support and co-operation during her three years of presidency. Mrs. B. McFadden, president of the Afternoon Auxiliary WMS, then conducted an installation service during which the following members became the officers for 1953:

President is Mrs. F. W. Horton with Mrs. R. F. Downey as honorary president. Second vice president is Miss Olive Armstrong; treasurer, Mrs. Mitchell Hart; recording secretary, Miss Jean Armstrong; corresponding secretary, Mrs. G. Fallen; envelope secretary, Mrs. F. Rappe; temperance secretary, Miss M. Brown; supply secretary, Mrs. C. E. Thackeray; Missionary Monthly, Miss M. Edwards; community friendship, Mrs. F. Leslie and Mrs. W. Derry; Christian stewardship, Mrs. W. Head; press secretary, Miss Clara Seens; flower secretary, Mrs. Gray; pianists, Miss Greta Giles and Miss Margaret Wolstenholme; literature, Miss Helen Moore.

The meeting was in charge of the group under leadership of Miss Wolstenholme and Miss Grace Sargent. Singing of Christmas carols interspersed worship led by the former, and following in the Christmas theme different versions of the Christmas story were told by Miss M. Nelson, Mrs. Fallen, Mrs. C. Taylor and Mrs. C. Richardson. Henry Van Dyke's story "The Sad Story" was read by Miss Greta Giles.

Lunch served by the group in charge concluded the evening.

Sorority News

A meeting of the Alpha Theta and XI Iota Chapters of Beta Sigman Phi Sorority was held Monday evening at the home of Miss Mary Bolton. Walton St. Mrs. Lance Foord presided. The cultural program convener Mrs. Joseph Hiland introduced the speakers, Mrs. J. Taylor whose topic was "friendship" and Mrs. Grant Clark who talked on the Canadian International Trade Fair.

The Sorority pledge ritual banquet was held on Tuesday evening at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club. History of the two local chapters was told by Miss Moira Whalon. Four new pledges were welcomed by Miss Rosemary Parker and Miss Lorraine Barber responded.

A toast to the Queen was proposed by Mrs. Foord, president of Alpha Theta Chapter, and Mrs. K. Strasser said grace. Mrs. Clark proposed a toast to the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority.

In the ritual ceremony, Exemplar pledges were received by Mrs. E. McWilliam, Mrs. L. Foord, Mrs. J. Taylor, Miss Mary Bolton and Miss Muriel Adams.

Pledge pins were received by Miss Lorraine Barber, Miss Barbara Nelson, Miss Sheila Briggs and Mrs. Maybelle Mutton.

A gay Christmas party followed.

Place Jewellery at the Nape Of Neck To Give Hat Point

LONDON (CP)—Gemstone embroidery lends a glitter to London's latest millinery fashions. In the case of formal hats jewelled clips or brooches are used as brighteners.

The newest place for jewelry is at the nape of the neck to give point to the new hat depth at the back. Close head-hugging little caps of velvet or panne have gathers softly grouped to the nape of the neck, where they are adorned with a jewelled bow brooch. Another idea is twin jewelled pins placed side by side on the neck.

Draped bonnets which conceal the ears have jewelled earclips set in the sides in lieu of the clips being worn on the ears themselves. Sometimes a matching jewelled clip is worn in the centre front of the bonnet as well.

London women are also wearing "diadem" hats at the back of the head, leaving the front hair exposed. These are sometimes embroidered in a light design in jet. Others have tiny rhinestones scattered over the surface to give sparkle and interest to cocktail wear.

Small, tight-fitting hats with a deep dip to one side revealing only one ear have led to a fashion for wearing one jewelled earclip in the exposed ear. The other clip is worn attached to the collar of coat or dress.

DOROTHY DIX

Husband Complains of Wife Who Has Cold, Cold Heart

DEAR MISS DIX—I'm a man of 30 with a wife of 25 and two children. In our four years of marriage, here are the things my wife has failed to do:

1. She has never paid me a compliment or offered any encouragement whatsoever.

2. She has never admitted a wrong, or apologized.

3. She has never inquired about my job.

4. She has never shown any open affection whatsoever.

The only time I get a kiss from her is when I kiss her first. In other words, it's always me first. She only says she loves me when I ask her. She is very moody, and has little to say when we are alone. In company, however, she talks a lot. She's a good cook and a very good mother. She's a fine housekeeper and has everything just so around the house.

Do you think a man can be happy with a woman like that? There is no other man or woman involved. I still love my wife, but am sure my feelings won't continue unless she is more responsive. I never go out by myself, seldom drink, and see that she has personal allowance for clothes, etc. What more can I do?

MIKE.

◆ ◆ ◆

ANSWER — This is a switch. Women write bushels of letters about their huband's lack of affection, but rarely does a man have the same complaint about his wife.

BACKGROUND MAY EXPLAIN IT

You mention that your wife has had a poor family background; perhaps her aloofness stems from seeing her own mother rebuffed by a callous husband. Subconsciously, she may have determined that she will not be equally vulnerable.

Your wife's immediate need is for some older and wiser woman to enlighten her as to the risk she is taking with a good marriage. No man likes to come home to a frigid atmosphere, no matter how tidy it is or how well-cooked the dinner. A warm smile, a cheery word is the greeting he wants. Apparently, your spouse feels that her duty as a wife is fulfilled by an adequate dispatch of her domestic chores. 'Tis true, a skillful housewife is the salt of the earth, etc., but that is just one of the many roles a successful wife must fill. Companion, counselor, advisor, confidante, sometimes mother-confessor, friend and admirer—these are just a few of the parts a wife must live almost every day. The success of her home and marriage depends upon her adaptability in using them.

I'm sure, Mike, that your wife is anxious to preserve her marriage; perhaps she just needs someone to bring these vital truths home to her. Can you find among your friends or relations someone in whom the little woman can place her confidence? Your job is to be patient and continue your wooing in hope that it will eventually effect a change. In the meantime, the value of a good mother, cook and housekeeper cannot be entirely deprecated ,either. Be grateful for what you have, but keep hoping and trying for more. Good luck.

◆ ◆ ◆

DEAR MISS DIX—Four months ago I married, and two weeks ago discovered that my husband was not divorced from his first wife. He says a divorce isn't necessary since she remarried two years ago without the formality of divorce. Consequently, she isn't likely to cause him any trouble. I want to know, am I a married woman or not? Can his first wife claim anything from him and will my child, due in the spring, be legitimate?

MRS. R.

◆ ◆ ◆

ANSWER—Your husband has certainly solved the complex problem of divorce and remarriage with amazing facility. However, in spite of his glib explanations, neither his or his "first" wife's second marriage is valid. If you want your baby to be legitimate, your so-called husband had better get a divorce and marry you. His wife certainly can put in a claim for anything she wants; whether she'll get it or not is a different matter.

◆ ◆ ◆

DEAR MISS DIX—What questions should be settled between an engaged couple before they marry?

◆ ◆ ◆

ANSWER—What a vast field you open up; discussion on this topic could go on for pages. However, as concisely as possible, I'd say questions of religion, finance, in-laws, and a reasonable arrangement of mutual duties should be worked out. You are wise to give thought to this matter now rather than after marriage; your common sense augurs well for a good marriage.

Bazaar Draws Many Patrons

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—Gay with Christmas decorations, the Sunday School rooms of Lakefield United Church presented a festive appearance on Friday afternoon, when the Missionary and Service Club held their annual bazaar and tea. Despite the rainy weather a record crowd attended and proceeds amounted to $160.

Receiving the guests were the club's president, Mrs. W. H. Fife, Mrs. W. H. Tonge and Mrs. Clarence Coons.

The tea table, with its cutwork cloth, was centred with a silver bowl containing white baby 'mums flanked by red candles in silver holders. The individual tables were all centred with red candles in similar silver holders. Tea was poured by Mrs. Sherman Northey, Mrs. H. J. Brown, Mrs. J. McKerchar and Mrs. W. W. Leonard. Tea hostesses were Mrs. Wilbert Frankish, Mrs. Sam Henderson, Mrs. John Bell, Mrs. Charles W. Hunter, Mrs. Clare Chittick, Mrs. G. E. Renwick and Mrs. S. E. Richardson.

The handicraft table, containing many articles for Christmas, was very popular and was managed by Mrs. Robert McCracken, Mrs. Eric Anderson, Mrs. J. Keller and Mrs. Raymond Jackman.

Mrs. A. W. Newson and Mrs. Alex Graham sold the many delicious cakes, pies, rolls and other baking on the home cooking table and the apron booth was looked after by Mrs. Allen Graham, Mrs. Ralph Jackman and Mrs. S. A. Grylls.

The Mission Band table had a wealth of home made candy as well as many other articles suitable for gifts. It was under the charge of Mrs. George Carey, Mission Band leader, Mrs. T. Payton, Mrs. L. Poole, Miss Irene Darling and Mrs. Theo. Down.

Always popular with the kiddies, the fish pond left nothing to be desired, and the children, and many adults as well, caught fat little fish from a well containing real water, and were rewarded of course, with a gift. This was managed by Mrs. George Tanner and Miss Margaret Tanner.

In charge of the kitchen were Mrs. Carmen Payne, Mrs. J. R. Hull, Mrs. Douglas Davis, Mrs. G. Staples and Mrs. J. L. Fraser.

General convener for the bazaar was Mrs. George Tanner and her committee was Mrs. G. E. Renwick, Mrs. J. L. Fraser and Mrs. W. W. Leonard.

6—In Memoriam

MARRAN—In loving memory of Mrs. Eva Harran, who passed away December 10, 1951.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender fond and true.
There is not a day dear mother
That we do not think of you.
—Lovingly remembered by son Clarence and daughter-in-law Vera.

HARRAN—In memory of my mother, Mrs. Eva Harran, who passed away a year ago.
A wonderful mother, woman and aid,
One who was better God never made.
A wonderful worker, so loyal and true
One in a million, that, mother, was you.
Just in your judgment, always right,
Honest and liberal, ever upright,
Loved by your friends and all you knew,
A wonderful mother, that, mother, was you.
—Ever remembered by her daughter Hilda and son-in-law Gilbert, two grandchildren.

NORTHEY—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Willie Northey, who passed away Dec. 10, 1950.
Though his smile has gone forever
And his hand we cannot touch,
Still we have so many memories
Of the Dad we loved so much.
His memory is our keepsake,
With which we'll never part,
God has him in His keeping,
We have him in our hearts.
—Always remembered by wife Ethel, son John David and daughter Lenore.

Man Admits Stealing Articles

Lorne Herrgott, Dunsford, was charged in magistrate's court today with stealing clothes, a camera, fountain pens and a brief case from Walter Todd. At first Herrgott pleaded not guilty, but later changed his plea to guilty.

Det.-Sgt. William (Bud) Clarke testified that he was called to Herrgott's boarding house on November 20. After his investigation into the theft charges, a warrant was issued for Herrgott's arrest. He was picked up Tuesday in Ajax.

Sgt. Clarke said that Herrgott showed police where all the articles not returned were. He set the value of all the things stolen at $150.

Crown Attorney John Bradshaw suggested a remand for a week until Herrgott's father is contacted. Magistrate W. R. Philp granted the remand.

Charge Defrauded Housewife Of $90

Joseph Traynor, Bobcaygeon, and Lawrence Young, Young's Point, were charged in police court today with false pretences. The men were alleged to have taken $90 from Mrs. Percy V. Hansman, Sheridan Street, under the pretence that they would purchase shingles for her home.

Traynor pleaded guilty and was remanded until Monday, while Young pleaded not guilty. In Young's case Crown Attorney John Bradshaw offered no evidence, and the case was dismissed.

No Explaining It

KITCHENER (CP) — It doesn't sound right, but that's the way it was. The Kitchener-Waterloo Collegiate board Tuesday approved $2,250 for a piano without batting an eye and then wrangled 20 minutes over $30 to cover expenses for a handicraft show.

Warns Churches Must Make Members Active Workers

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Protestant leaders agreed today their churches must make active workers of their millions of members if Christianity is to continue as an effective force.

People in all walks of life must be drawn into realistic service, they said, because they carry the spirit of their church to everyday living.

That theme was stressed repeatedly in opening sessions of the second general assembly of the National Council of Churches of Christ of the U. S.

The group has more than 33,000,000 members.

Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church and council president, said Tuesday night that "high promise for the future" of the council, formed only two years ago, can be found in the volunteers helping it—both clergy and lay. "We are still too largely . . a group of clerical leaders." The individual church member must share in the work through prayer, financial support and personal service if "we hope to make this a nation under God."

WARNS OF TENSION

Bishop Sherrill warned of tensions arising already from differences in tradition. He said members "must learn to work together in Christian charity and patience." And he said it must realistically face and speak out on social, economic and political problems of America.

Dr. Samuel McCrea Cavert, of New York, general secretary, in a speech prepared for today's session said a source of weakness of the church has been too much dependence on the words of the preacher rather than the everyday deeds of men and women.

"The enlarging partnership of ministers and lay people," Dr. Cavert said, "I regard as potentially one of the most important things that is happening."

The lay man, he added, has "the experience of trying to be a Christian in secular society and to make Christian insights applicable in the places of daily work and struggle."

LEARNED TO CO-OPERATE

The general secretary noted that Protestant denominations formerly fought each other, gradually learned to tolerate each other, and now, in the council, co-operate with each other.

Co-ordinated work has been undertaken by the council in publication of the revised standard version of the Bible, in resettlement of 50,000 displaced persons, in aid to migrant workers and in a program of teaching illiterate people in many parts of the world.

He recommended greater co-ordination among members in carrying the Christian message on radio and television, and increased work with newspapers and magazines.

Deny Woman Officer To Guard Queen

LONDON (Reuters) — Scotland Yard today denied a newspaper report that a woman officer might be appointed special bodyguard to the Queen.

"There is no truth whatever in a report published today that a woman police officer is about to be attached for protection duty with Her Majesty the Queen," Scotland Yard said.

"Nor is there any proposal to make such an appointment in the near future. All reports to this effect are entirely without foundation."

The Daily Express said that Margaret Heald, 44, a police officer with 12 years' experience, had been chosen for the job.

Obituary

WM. DAVID CAVANO

BETHANY —(ENS)— After an illness of several weeks William David Cavano, 87, a lifetime resident in the Manvers township, died at his home in Bethany.

He was born and educated in Manvers, son of the late William Cavano and Sarah McMahon.

Mr. Cavano farmed all his life and was prominent in forming the Manvers Potato Club. He was a member of the Bethany United Church and was at one time a trustee of the Fallis School.

Left are his widow, the former Emma Gillespie; two sons, Ernest of RR 1, Pontypool, and Leonard at home; two granddaughters, Mrs. Ronald Pomeroy (Marilyn) of Peterborough, and Mrs. John Stubbins (Joyce) of Montreal.

The funeral will be 1.30 p.m. Thursday at his home in Bethany, under Rev. James Hampson of Bethany United Church. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

Expect Ruling To Delay Peace Treaties

KARLSRUHE, (Reuters) — West Germany's constitutional court handed down a ruling likely to delay the government's ratification of the peace treaties with the West.

A full sitting of the two-chambered court announced Tuesday that any decision it makes on the legality of the treaties will be binding. Government sources make no secret of their belief that the full court will rule against the treaties.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's representatives at the hearing asked for and got a 24-hour adjournment and left for Bonn to attend a hastily-summoned cabinet meeting to decide the next step.

The government claims that the decision of the full court, requested by President Theodor Heuss, is not legally binding and can be overruled by one of its own chambers. The second chamber is specifically assigned by the constitution to deal with such problems.

Place Of Art In School Told By C. D. Gaitskill

Art as it is being taught today in Ontario schools was fully explained Tuesday night in Peterborough by Dr. C. D. Gaitskill, director of art education for the province of Ontario.

Dr. Gaitskill was the guest speaker at an open meeting held by the Prince of Wales Home and School Association.

By means of slides, films and commentary, the guest speaker clearly presented the various aspects that are being developed and emphasized in the field of art education in this province.

The slides were of art work done by average children ranging in age from three to the teens. The work started with the scribble or "messing around" stage through crude picture writing, the development of the symbol, the series picture showing thought sequence, and on to the highly proficient work of teen-agers.

WATCH DEVELOPMENT

"In this work you can see how children develop through an art program," Dr. Gaitskill said. "A child tells all in art. He paints what he thinks as well as what he sees. Art is his means of expression of his experience and activities."

He explained that a great deal of money and effort is being spent in the province to further the use of art as an integral part of general education and development of children. Through art a child is helped to harness and direct his emotion. Through teamwork in his art, the child also becomes acquainted with democratic ways which helps his adjustment as he grows older.

The child is given freedom to interpret his life as he understands it through art. In this way the child is encouraged to think about his experience and as a result is better equipped to adjust himself to his environment.

"The child is given freedom of ideas and methods in this interpretation. The teacher merely acts as counsellor who helps the child say what he wants to say."

Following the slides, Dr. Gaitskill showed two short films of children, "Making Pictures."

The art director was introduced by Miss Gertrude Cox, supervisor of art in Peterborough schools, and was thanked by Charles Huffman.

Grain Exchange Closed

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Winnipeg grain exchange will be closed for trading on Christmas Day, Boxing Day and New Year's Day, exchange officials said today. The usual Saturday closing also will be observed in the holiday weeks but there are no present plans for earlier closing Dec. 24 or Dec. 31.

Won't Take Allegiance Oath To Queen Nehru Declares

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Prime Minister Nehru today angrily denounced as "fantastic nonsense" a report that he would take the oath of allegiance to the Queen at her Coronation in London next June.

He told opposition members of the legislature who had tried to force a debate on the report that they were guilty of "amazing irresponsibility." Before taking formal steps for a debate they should first have asked him if there were any truth in the rumor, he said.

The opposition shouted back: "It's you who are irresponsible," and "don't lose your temper." Nehru's supporters added their shouts to the din.

The opposition motion for a debate was refused before the legislature met, and the matter would not have been aired if a New Delhi newspaper had not published an account of the motion. That touched off the discussion.

ACCEPTS SYMBOL

India became a sovereign republic in January, 1950. She remained a full member of the British Commonwealth, however, accepting the Sovereign as "the symbol of the free association of its indpendent member nations and, as such, the head of the Commonwealth."

The report referred to by the opposition appeared Dec. 4 in the German-language newspaper Neue Zeitung published in Frankfurt under sponsorship of the U.S. high commission. It described India's role in the Commonwealth, and then said:

"Not six years have passed since India achieved her independence, and the man who is to swear allegiance at the Coronation as India's representative is the man who has spent many years in a British prison for his leading part in the struggle for that independence. . . ."

WINTER SET—Midnight on the streets of Montreal, after the city's first snowfall, looks like curtain time for a winter stage play. Peel Street, looking down from Pine, is ready for Santa Claus's reindeer, due shortly.

Author Of 9 Books Canfield Cook Dies

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canfield Cook, 52, author of nine books on aviation adventure for boys and for many years a lecturer in the United States, died at Shaugnessy Military Hospital here Monday.

Born in Wallaceburg, Ont., Mr. Cook was a First World War veteran and at the age of 18 was a pilot with the Royal Flying Corps.

Convicted of Holdup

HAMILTON (CP)—A jury Tuesday convicted Franklin Brewer, 23, of Hamilton of robbing the Freelton branch of the Bank of Toronto of $1,500 Oct. 24. Judge Theo L. McCombs remanded Brewer until Thursday for sentence. Police charged that Brewer and two other men threatened the manager of the bank and escaped with the money in bills, one of which was traced to money Brewer paid to a car dealer.

Allow Peers To Cut Down On Many Dress Frills For Coronation

By JOHN DUDMAN

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's lesser noblemen, trying to figure out how to achieve traditional elegance for the Coronation next June 2 and still balance the castle budget, have got another break.

The court announced Tuesday that their wives may attend in a simpler garb, less expensive by about $600, than was required for previous functio

The first break for their pocketbooks came a week ago. The government announced the peers themselves, if under the rank of earl, could cut down on many of the imperial frills in their Coronation costumes.

Tuesday's announcement suggests that peeresses may wear a tasseled velvet headpiece instead of the customary coronet. Prices: Cap of state $10; coronet $100 and up.

Published in the London Gazette, the official court circular, the announcement brought relief to many noblemen who are no longer able to keep up their stately homes or ride to hounds.

Elizabeth herself approved the decree, which presents the noblewomen with a choice. They may wear the old-style formal rich robe of state, at a cost of more than $1,000, or they may invest about $400 in the new fashion—"a sleeveless crimson velvet robe, trimmed with miniver pure two inches wide."

Any viscountess or baroness—the two lower orders of nobility—talented with a sewing machine can save another $100 or so by obtaining one of the official patterns to be issued and running up her own outfit.

But a countess, a marchioness or a duchess will have to attend in the full regalia, which many already possess.

The Duke of Norfolk, the Earl Marshal, also made another regulation for commoners—wives of commonwealth ministers attending the coronation. "They must all wear some form of head covering. This must not cover the face but should be in the form of a veil falling from the crown or the back of the head as far as the shoulders but not lower than the waist."

How To Save Money and Get Fast Cough Relief

Here's an old, tested, home mixture your mother knew . . . still a most dependable remedy for distressing coughs. Fast and effective, children like its pleasant taste.

Make a syrup by stirring two cups of sugar into one cup of water until dissolved . . . no cooking needed (or you can use maple syrup or honey instead). Now pour 2½ ounces of PINEX CONCENTRATE into a 16 ounce bottle, and add the syrup you've made. You'll have 16 ounces of fast acting, pleasant tasting cough medicine, more than you could buy for four times the money, with effective relief for the whole family.

PINEX IS EASY TO MIX—FAST ACTING—EFFECTIVE

'Dozer Knocker From Truck

Damage of $10,000 is the estimate after an accident Monday between a car and a transport near Norwood. Major damage was to a bulldozer that toppled off the transport float onto the highway.

The driver of the car, Thomas W. Sherwin, 39, of Reiner Road, North York, received a broken left leg. He was treated by Dr. A. R. Atkinson, of Norwood, and taken to Civic Hospital.

Sherwin was driving east along Highway 7 in the fog and turned his car out to pass a bread truck. He failed to see the oncoming transport.

The transport driver, L. William Boyle, 38, of 916 Dovercourt Road, Toronto, swung the truck to the right to avoid a collision but the car smashed into the left side of the transport causing $50 damage to the car and $600 to the truck.

A bulldozer, carried on the float of the transport, was jarred off by the impact and reportedly received $9,000 loss. The bulldozer and transport are owned by the Beach Construction Co.

OPP Constable George Rose, of Campbellford, investigated.

Change Color Hospital Wards

SYDNEY, Australia (CP) — An occupational therapist told Australian hospital administrators at a recent conference that they should get away from the traditional white or cream or even pink of hospital wards.

The therapist, Madelaine Drayton, said that women's wards should be painted mauve, blue or violet; men's, green or blue; nerve wards, yellow; and other wards in bright tones to relieve monotony.

But doctors did not agree. One superintendent said yellow would be "perfectly nauseating" for nerve cases and for doctors too. Another said mauve or purple wards would make his women patients ill.

Many children's wards in New South Wales are already painted in far from conventional colours. Pixie O'Harris, a children's author and illustrator, has decorated 31 in out-of-the-ordinary color schemes.

At Bathurst Hospital the children's ward has one wall of yellow ("for energy to encourage the children back to health"), another in pale blue ("for quiet"), another in green ("to relax the eyes") and the fourth in lilac.

On That Coronation Day

Queen's Every Movement Timed With Stop-Watch Precision

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—From the thousands of words written about the character and personality of Queen Elizabeth, there emerges one consistent theme: She is a serious, almost dedicated person.

This was not always apparent. She used to be called the "nation's darling." She had a happy childhood, and British crowds warmed to her youthful gaiety. They liked the way she waved insouciantly as she drove about London in an open carriage, in the days before anyone thought she would be Queen.

But as she grew older her basic seriousness became apparent. Like her father, she possessed a strong sense of duty. Marion Crawford, the Scots woman who was her governess for 17 years, says Elizabeth was always a more serious child than her younger sister Margaret.

"Elizabeth," writes Miss Crawford, "seemed to have an inborn desire to do what was expected of her."

AT PUBLIC FUNCTIONS

Some who watch the Queen at public functions say they detect a restraint bordering sometimes on uncertainty. Others insist that she carries through her duties in a natural and charming manner, without self-consciousness.

Unquestionably she is more at home in public than her father, George VI, who was brought up in stricter tradition. The King often marvelled at the ease with which Elizabeth performed duties he found extremely difficult.

Whatever Elizabeth now feels, hardened as she is to the thought that thousands may note a crooked stocking seam or shiny nose, she certainly had to learn composure. She prepared for her first public ceremony at 17 by chewing barley sugar to calm her nerves.

Every day has to strike royalty's happy medium between chilly reserve and over-familiarity. In an age of high-pressure publicity, she must strive for a note of humanity while remaining faithful to the dignity demanded of the high office which she calls a "sacred trust."

STICKS TO RULES

Although her courtiers stress her lively sense of humor, she has little temperamental inclination to spontaneous acts in public. She tends to stick more closely to the rules than Margaret, who once plucked a rose from a bouquet and handed it to the blushing young sailor who gave her the flowers.

On the other hand, few who heard her will forget Elizabeth's first broadcast. In an unrehearsed gesture which brought dozens of fan letters, she ended her address by saying "Come along, Margaret, and say goodnight" to her little sister.

The streak of seriousness was there even as a child. Elizabeth often refused to join Margaret and their young friends in pranks. She tut-tutted her dismay, for instance, on occasions when Margaret went about stuffing acorns in the shoes of court officials.

She is a determined person, with a will of her own. During the war when she succeeded in joining the Auxiliary Territorial Service, despite her father's ruling a year earlier that she should not. As a girl, she was capable of temper but did not nurse a grudge.

LIKES THE THEATRE

She enjoys dancing, riding and the theatre. She is a film fan and had a movie theatre installed at her former home, Clarence House. Gary Cooper and David Niven were once among her favorites. She has recently expressed admiration for tap-dancing Gene Kelly.

She reads widely, has an excellent memory, and often surprises ambassadors with her knowledge of foreign affairs. She has never been good at needlework. She speaks good German and almost perfect French, which she used to polish in conversations with her father.

She uses light make-up. Sometimes she has dieted and—though no measurements are given—it is evident that, perhaps on the Duke of Edinburgh's suggestion, she has become more willowy of figure. At 26 she is a poised young woman of considerable beauty, with a radiant smile.

Britons feel young Elizabeth has taken to heart the advice of her grandmother, Queen Mary:

"Remember that life is made up of loyalty—loyalty to your friends; loyalty to things beautiful and good; loyalty to the country in which you live; and, above all, for this holds all other loyalties together, loyalty to God."

BUCKINGHAM PALACE — Purchased by George III in 1762 from the Duke of Buckingham, Buckingham Palace has been the London home of the Sovereign since Queen Victoria's accession in 1837. This photo looks from The Mall with the memorial of Queen Victoria in the foreground, from which the procession for the coronation of Queen Elizabeth will start.

AT GUIDES' RALLY—Queen Elizabeth is a determined person, with a will of her own. During the war she succeeded in joining the Auxiliary Territorial Service despite her father's ruling a year earlier that she should not. More at home in public than her father, she has, however, little temperamental inclination to spontaneous acts. She tends to stick more closely to the rules than sister Margaret who once plucked a rose from a bouquet and handed it to the blushing young sailor who gave her flowers. She is shown with Margaret (left) at a rally of Girl Guides and Rangers in Hyde Park.

HAPPY CHILDHOOD—Queen Elizabeth as a child was known as the "Nation's Darling." She had a happy childhood and British crowds warmed to her youthful gaiety. But as she grew older her basic seriousness became apparent. Like her father, George VI, she possessed a strong sense of duty. She is said always to have been a more serious child than her younger sister Margaret (right). This photo is of them leaving Westminster Abbey after the rehearsal for the coronation of their father in 1937.

Seven Babies Baptized In Ceremony At Lakefield United Church On Sunday

LAKEFIELD — (ENS) — The sacrament of baptism was given seven babies at the Sunday morning service of the Lakefield United Church by the Rev. W. H. Tonge. The children baptized were Wanda Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Carveth; Sandra Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Wood; Vedra Anne and Vaila Ellen, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Millage; Bryce Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Andrews; William Stanley, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Stewart and Ronald Darius Edgar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moore.

Following the baptismal service Mr. Tonge spoke briefly on the "Sacraments of Our Church" and this was followed by Holy Communion.

In the evening, The Rev. Frank Keys, a representative of the British and Foreign Bible Society was guest speaker and presented the cause of this worthy organization to the congregation.

Outlining the work of the society, Mr. Keys mentioned one specific project as the publication of a children's edition of the Bible. This edition will have a good type, which does not put a strain on young eyes, sturdy binding and it will contain illustrations of two kinds-factual drawing of implements, dress and types of buildings used in Bible times and modern photographs of Palestine.

He also mentioned the increasing demand for Bibles in Korea, Japan, India and Africa, which, if met now, will foster better inter-racial understanding and lay the foundation for lasting peace. Bibles in Braille, which are a great comfort to sightless people have been printed in 25 different languages.

Following the service, a fellowship hour was held at which a film, 'The Book For The World of Tomorow' was shown by Mr. Keys. This hour was attended by members from all the Protestant churches in the village. John Harrison led in prayer.

Mrs. T. W. Chaplin, president of the Lakefield branch of the Bible Society presided for a brief business period and the report of the secretary-treasurer was given by Mrs. Harry T. Hill. Both these ladies and the other officers were returned to office for another year.

Refreshments were served by a comittee of ladies from the various churches and Mr. George Spence moved a vote of appreciation to Mr. Keys.

She Was Laid Up With RHEUMATIC PAIN

"I had been afflicted with rheumatic attacks ever since I was a girl," writes Mrs. F. Rose, Selkirk, Man. "Four years ago I was in bed tormented by rheumatic pain and unable to work. Then I heard about Templeton's T-R-C's. Soon after I started taking T-R-C's I was able to get out of bed, and walk about and do my work. I only wish I had learned about T-R-C's years ago, for I feel they would have saved me a great deal of suffering."

SUSPECTED MEMBERS of Kenya Colony's Mau Mau terrorist society cringe before the upraised clubs of police and the pointed rifles of the Fifth King's African Rifles. They were run to earth during one of the largest raids against Mau Mau since the murder of tribal chief Nderi. A new feature was the employment of some 350 members of Kikuyu "resistance groups." These local "Home Guards" were armed with spears and bows and arrows and wore red armbands to distinguish them from the terrorists.

Snappy Turtle Cookies Win High Award For Cop's Wife

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Peter S. Harlib, young brunette wife of a Chicago policeman, Tuesday won $25,000 and the title of Cook-of-the-year, 1952, for a "snappy turtle cookie" with a chocolate shell.

Mrs. Richard Nixon, wife of the vice-president-elect, handed out the national annual home - making awards at the Waldrof Astoria Hotel. The contest is sponsored by the Pillsbury Flour Co.

Mrs. Harlib got the idea for the cookie from one of her twin 10-year-old sons who rolled her cookie dough onto turtle legs improvised of pecans when she was talking on the phone one day.

Second prize of $7,500 and a food freezer went to a new version of an old favorite — lemon pie — baked by Mrs. Charles M. Reppert of Port Washington, N Y. Mrs. Reppert put a cinnamon-egg white-sugar crust on top of a lemon filling laced with paper-thin slices of lemon, upsetting the traditional lemon pie method.

Mrs. Stephen A. Hornung of New York received $2,500 and an automatic clothe swasher for her "baked-on" frosting cake.

Empire Trade Plan Out For Canadian Government

LONDON (CP) — Britons were told tonight that they can count Canada out of any attempt to create a costy little Commonwealth built on an exclusive system of preferential tariffs.

George Ferguson, editor of The Montreal Star, made the assertion in a BBC broadcast. He said he hears there are still people in Britain who seek salvation in a system of Empire trade based on extended preferences.

"If this is a widespread idea," Ferguson said, "then it becomes a Canadian's duty to tell you that it is an idea which excludes Canada from the Commonwealth; we cannot play that game."

Ferguson explained Canada's special role in the Commonwealth: "There can be, in our domestic politics, no policy which ignores the rights or the feelings of either English-or-French speaking Canadians. Externally we can embrace no policy which excludes either the Americans or the British. The strictly preferential Empire is therefore as impossible and distasteful to us as the idea of annexation by the United States."

Ferguson has been visiting London to obtain background information on the current Commonwealth conference.

Thomas Warren Marmora Pioneer

MARMORA—(ENS)— The funeral of the late Royal Thomas Warren took place on Monday afternoon under the auspices of Marmora AF and AM 222. Rev. K. J. Crawford BA BD who officiated at St. Andrew's United Church gave an impressive address on "Lord, Thou hast been our dwelling place." The hymns were "Unto the hills" and "There is a green hill far away." Last rites of the Masonic Order were taken at the graveside in Marmora Protestant cemetery by Right Wor Bro C. H. Buskard, Wor Bro Canon J. M. Brownlie and Wor Bro H. C. Barlow.

the pall bearers were Ralph E. Neal, William Barlow, Jesse Reid, Sidney Sandham, Harry Johnston and Edward Warren.

Mr. Warren, one of Marmora's oldest and widest known residents, died in Belleville General Hospital on Saturday where he had been a patient for some days. He was born in Marmora eighty-four years ago, son of the late Mr. and Mrs Thomas Warren who were among Marmora's early residents until overtaken with ill health about two years ago, Tom Warren, as he was known lived an industrious life following the painting profession. In addition to taking local contracts, he also worked at his trade for a few summers at Deloro for the Smelting and Refining Company. His late residence was but a few feet away from that wherein he was born, on Forsyth Street and he was one of the best informed authorities on village history. His interest in its welfare was shown in him serving several terms on the Public School Board and later the village council. He was a member of St. Andrew's United Church and the former Marmora Methodist Church.

Fraternally, he was the oldest member of Marmora AF and AM 222. For a number of years he was secretary of the now dormant Marmora Lodge of the Canadian Order of Oddfellows. He also showed interest in the progress of the Marmora District Chamber of Commerce and welcomed the advent of the Bethlehem Steel industry in the district. He was married to Annie Pressley, member of another old Marmora family who predeceased him 19 years ago. He is survived by one daughter Grace at home.

At the First Sign of a COLD

and feel better FAST!

Here's sound and effective advice about colds.

No matter how you try to stop or shorten a cold, the first thing to do—before you do anything else—is to take Aspirin.

You should do this because a cold is almost invariably accompanied by muscular aches and pains—and a headachy, feverish feeling. And for your own good, you need a medication that will relieve these distressing symptoms—relieve them quickly.

One reason Aspirin tablets bring this relief is that they're ready to go to work with amazing speed . . . actually start disintegrating almost instantly.

So don't experiment with a cold. Use Aspirin. And for sore throats due to colds, gargle 3 times daily with 3 Aspirin tablets dissolved in ½ of a glass of water.

Tomorrow Is Weihnachten

By VAUGHAN JONES

The streets empty as the cold winter sun sinks over the Fatherland and a hush falls on the city's pavements. A few buses and trams course half empty along the snowy roads, a few cars speed past the closed doors of shops and cinemas, theatres and restaurants and bomb-wrecked buildings. It is only the lonely wayfarer who is out and abroad.

Inside each home the traditional tannenbaum — the fir tree — has been hung with gleaming silver threads. Rosy candles and tiny colored lanterns light up its branches. Little packets, wrapped in fancy, coloured paper are heaped round its base. All afternoon the bustling hausfrau has been arranging her tree. On high she has hung a gilded angel and below a motley group of little figures from the fairy tales. She has fixed the shining tinsel decorations and silver wrapped chocolates to catch the lighting's rainbow glints.

It is Christmas Eve, Heiligenacht. The night of the Family; the night when German brothers and sisters, uncles and aunts gather together with the children and their parents to re-live the marvel of Christmas.

It is the moment of the year when all but the closest friends are excluded from the home.

For days past, firms and factories—even police barracks—have given their parties. The children of those who work and serve there have already been lined up at long tables. Father Christmas, in his traditional robes, and bearing his rod (to reprove those children who have been naughty during the year) has hovered around them. Bolsterously he has handed them out little presents, urged them to stuff themselves with cakes. Factory managers, office chiefs and kindly matrons have patted their heads. They have sung the traditional German children's songs. And they have gone happily away hugging a toy, a teddy bear, or a piece of chocolate before being packed into car and truck to be dropped home again.

But tonight, the night of the family, the doors are closed and the world locked out. The bright lights are quenched, a few candles on wall and table are lit and the tree is starred with colour. Around, under paper streamers and decorations, sits the family talking together, perhaps a little nostalgically, a little sentimentally for a people so heavily endowed with memories of jackboots and brutality. But it is Christmas Eve, Holy Night. And the children are ushered in to gaze and marvel at the shining tree, and each is handed his gift.

As they tear off the fancy paper in anxious joy, uncles and aunts embrace them, and one or two old friends of the family hover near, happy not to be alone.

Then from the cupboard, father draws a bottle of German champagne or a bottle of Schnapps, and mother, from the kitchen brings in a bowl of wine cup or a fruit-filled drink so that the children too can join in the toasts.

They drink to the memory of sons lost in the wars, to absent relatives and friends, and the glow of family and friendship warms the circle.

The desolate war ruins in the streets around seem far away, so also for a night are any thoughts of marching and revenge. The bitter post-war years, with their cold and hunger, their misery and despair, seem far distant, and their memory is dim.

The traditional carp is waiting to be eaten, and the roast goose too. Dishes of little cakes lie on the sideboard, with fruit and nuts beside them.

So the young children are packed off to bed, while all the others walk to the heavily-laden candle-lit dining table, and recall to each other the adventures of the family, the anecdotes of each and all.

And later, when the wine has been solemnly drunk, perhaps a few of the family's eldest rise discreetly, and, for one of the few times in the year, make their way to the nearby crowded church, where the pastor is holding midnight service. "Silent Night, Holy Night," they will join in the singing, and will wish well to all men.

Tomorrow is a new day. Tomorrow is Weihnachten, Christmas Day, and they will be back again in the boisterous spirit of German holiday making. Tomorrow they will go to exuberant parties and all night revels and drink bottles of wine and litres of beer, bellow with laughter and think perhaps again of the days when Germany calculated to conquer the world. But tonight, in their hour of nostalgia and sentiment, they all believe that there need never be war again.

POST-WAR GERMANY CELEBRATES WEIHNACHTEN: Young victims of Nazi oppression receive Christmas gifts in Berlin. One hundred refugee children whose parents lost their lives in Nazi concentration camps receive special Christmas gifts of toys.

Nativity Date

WESTERN Churches considered December 25 as the Nativity date, although the Eastern churches claimed January * as the proper date. Other factions of belief hold that Christ's birth date should be served as variously as April 20 . . . May 20 . . . March 29 and even September 29!

FLEW IN KOREA — Sqdn. Ldr. J. D. Lindsay, of Arnprior, has returned to Canada after 4½ months in Korea. His record there includes two enemy MiG's destroyed and three damaged. Sqdn. Ldr. Lindsay was one of four Canadians flying with the United States Air Force in Korea. Following leave, he will return to his old squadron at Bagotville, Que.

Ontario Sets Sights On Best Highways

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Ontario's department of highways is aiming at the best highway system in North America, Highways Minister Doucett said.

The first step in that direction is the new super-highway into which every known safety device will be put, the minister said.

Mr. Doucett was an impromptu speaker Tuesday at a luncheon by the Bell Telephone Company here. The function marked inauguration of a two-way mobile telephone system linking the vehicles and offices of the highways department across southern Ontario.

Drew Raises Question Of TV Supervision

OTTAWA (CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, says immediate attention should be given to the question of supervision of television programs.

Speaking on television in the Commons Tuesday night, Mr. Drew raised the question of whether films should be subject to provincial supervision.

He made no direct reference to legislation recently passed by the Quebec legislature, giving the provincial censorship board power to censor television programs.

Mr. Drew said the question of supervision could not be dismissed simply by saying that radio comes within federal jurisdiction. Television raised new problems.

It would be strange if a provincial body could ban a movie from theatres but could not prevent it from being shown in the homes of anyone who owned a television set.

If there wasn't to be an immediate demand for strict supervision, a high measure of responsibility for programs must be accepted by the CBC.

Mr. Drew criticized the "Hilda Morgan" show carried by the CBC Nov. 29 on its Toronto television

The government had said the program was not its responsibility. Either the government or the CBC should take responsibility for the "abominable broadcast."

Mr. Drew said he had received many complaints from parents about the program.

The broadcast, a play, dealt with the problem of a Toronto school teacher who becomes pregnant and whose fiancee was killed before the scheduled wedding day. She decided to have the baby and face whatever gossip and loss of reputation her action might bring.

New Woman Signed For Films

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Film producer Al Rosen says he has signed up Christina Jorgenson, the girl who underwent sex conversion from man to woman in Copenhagen, for the movies.

Rosen said Tuesday night the 26-year - old girl, who served in the U. S. army as a man, would star in a new version of the comedy, "Mary Had a Little," and make stage appearances with the picture.

Rosen claims that Miss Jorgenson, as a man, tried to crash Hollywood three years ago but did not succeed.

Miss Jorgenson has undergone operations and treatments and is still under medical care in Copenhagen.

Rosen is an independent producer and former actor's agent.

Latin America Big Market For Canada In World Trade

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Just how encouraging it is was stated by C. A. Cathers of Toronto in an address to the recent plenary conference of the Inter-American Council of Commerce and Production, held at Lima, Peru.

Addressing an audience largely from South America, he said:

"In 1938 Canada's tota' trade with Latin America amounted to $36,000,000. This year, Canada's total trade with this area will be $500,000,000. Of this, Canada will sell here goods worth $240,000,000, and will buy here goods worth $260,000,000.

WIDE MARKET

"Today, probably there is not a single item of Canada's industry that does not have a market somewhere in Latin America. from cargo ships to knitting needles, from millions of tons of wheat to new-born chicks, from airplanes to beekeepers' equipment.

"Similarly, there are few, if any, products of Latin America which do not find a market in Canada—from petroleum to carnauba wax, from millions of pounds of coffee to tons of Brazil nuts."

More than 500 Canadian manufacturers are represented in South America, and Mr. Cathers, who is a director of Canadian Vickers, Ltd., Montreal, attended the conference as spokesman for the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, only Canadian member of the Inter-American Council.

TRAINS EXPENSIVE

Those long passenger trains that travel across Canada cost a lot of money.

Donald Gordon, president of the Canadian National Railways, said recently that each one costs about $1,000,000, and that the CNR alone requires eight daily to keep the cross-country service going. On any day, four are moving east and four west.

Mr. Gordon says, too, that passenger trains are not nearly so busy as we might suppose.

To meet direct costs associated with operation of a day coach, he said, the car should have an average occupancy per mile of at least 50 per cent. Last year, passenger cars showed an average occupancy of only 13 passengers per mile.

Canada, he noted, has more miles of rail per capita than any country in the world.

World Free Gold Market Advocated By Adamson

OTTAWA (CP)—A world free market for gold is advocated by Rodney Adamson (PC-York West).

Mr. Adamson said in the Commons Tuesday it would benefit Canadian gold producers and be of some help, though not the final answer, in solving the problem of sterling convertibility.

Gold now is sold at a fixed price of $35 an ounce in U.S. funds under the international monetary fund, to which Canada subscribes.

From the standpoint of the Canadian gold industry, Mr. Adamson—a mining engineer and his party's spokesman on gold matters—said Canadian mines need a free world price on gold. Federal emergency aid to the mines was doing no real good.

There should be no restrictions he said, on the holding, storing or export of gold.

Discussing what he described as the "fiction" of a shortage of dollars as between the sterling and dollar blocs, he said it amounts only to a shortage of U. S. dollars.

The way to get U. S. dollars, he said, is to "allow gold to be brought into the open so that the owners of any currencies, the owners of any goods, may be paid in the open in terms of gold."

"I do not say this will cure the impasse," he said, "but it is one of the steps which should be taken so that the impasse between the sterling bloc and the dollar bloc can have a common denominator in terms of the one thing that all currencies are equated in—gold."

Misleading Mask

OXFORD, England (CP)—Police rushed to a local bank after a citizen reported he had seen a "masked bandit" on the premises. They found a worker sandpapering the floor, wearing handkerchief tied over his face to keep the dust out.

Outbreak of Fever

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—An outbreak of a mild type of scarlet fever in the John Campbell school district has affected 20 children since mid-October, Dr. John Howie, medical officer of health, said Tuesday. He said it is not an epidemic although there has been a higher concentration of illness in the John Campbell school district than in any other area.

Quebec Extends Rent Controls Until 1954

QUEBEC (CP) — Extension of provincial rent controls until May 1, 1954, and approval in principle of a bill aimed at incompetent and careless drivers marked Tuesday's sitting of the Quebec legislative assembly.

Discussion of amendments to the Motor Vehicles Act which proposes to establish compulsory drivers' tests is to continue today

Liberal opposition charges of political interference in administration of rent controls and of the Motor Vehicles Act were denied by government speakers.

FEW EXAMPLES

Premier Duplessis countered by saying "hundreds of thousands" of cases have been dealt with by the administrators and the five-man rent control board but the opposition could only bring "seven or eight" examples of "abuses."

Solicitor-General Rivard replied to Liberal charges of political favoritism in administration of the Motor Vehicles Act. He said Opposition members could not cite a single case where he had shown partiality in applying the law.

Go Ancestor Hunting

Family Traditions Being Blown To Bits

LONDON (AP)—Tourists are helping swell a boom in ancestor hunting which is stirring up the dust on thousands of yellowed British files.

The trouble is many cherished family traditions are blown to bits in the process.

Most families pass on their history orally from one generation to the next—and the facts often get garbled on the way. Now trained investigators are available to sort out fact and fancy from exhaustive records gathered in the last 40 years.

Hence many families who fondly believe they were descended from some highland chieftain who wielded a claymore 1,000 years ago now are finding to their chagrin that their earliest recorded ancestor merely guarded the village pigs a scant three or four centuries back.

The heaviest of such shocks were dealt recently to some 50 of Britain's bluest-blood families, some of whom claimed descent from Norman kings or even earlier Saxon monarchs.

MOST CLAIMS HOOEY

Most such claims are just hooey, according to L. G. Pine, editor of Burke's Peerage, the recognized chronicle of British nobility.

He and 17 researchers have ... their blue pencils though some of Britain's most cherished fam... trees. Only pedigrees substantiated by a study of documentary evidence will be included in the 1953 issue of Burke now being prepared.

But one documentary check worked the other way. It added 500-year-old roots to the family tree of the Queen.

Old geneaiogical files show the Queen is descended from a fourth century Teutonic tribal king, Pine says. Previously the British royal line had been followed back only as far as the ninth century Saxon King Egbert, often called the first king of England. Since then, the line of descent has wandered considerably. The royal family now reigning came to Britain from Germany in 1714.

HAVE BIG INDEX

At the society of genealogists headquarters there is a card index of 5,500,000 items—records of old families and centuries-old births.

Other equipment in the search for a family tree includes the records of more than 6,000,000 English marriages, copies of old parish registers and thousands of manuscript and printed family histories.

Lady Harriet Thompson, who believed she was descended from a sister of William the Conqueror, was told her family dates back only to a member of Parliament for Tipperary, Ireland, in 1559.

Viscount St. Davids, a young socialist nobleman, was shown in previous editions of Burke as being descended from Maximus, king of Britain and Roman emperor who died in the year 338. Some 700 years of that pedigree will be rubbed out in the next edition—the researchers can trace it back only to 1089.

Grant $19,049 Crash Damages

WELLAND (CP)—Damages of $19,049 were granted six Buffalo plaintiffs by Mr. Justice R. I. Ferguson in a Supreme Court action arising out of a two-car collision March 18.

The cars collided on Homer bridge crossing the Welland Canal east of St. Catharines. The plaintiffs claimed more than $40,000. Judgments were against Helen Cooper, owner and driver respectively of the car which struck the United States automobile.

The largest awards were $3,508 to Harry Howe and $4,263 to Delores Decarlo, 18.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

BY G. E. GROOMBRIDGE

CHURCH PARADE

Sunday morning many cars left Peterborough conveying Cubs, Scouts and Leaders to Buckhorn to join the Buckhorn Scout Troop in their annual Church Parade under the leadership of District Commissioner Dr. G. R. Langley. The units met outside of the Scout Headquarters and paraded to St. Matthews Anglican Church. Many flags were carried ahead of the parade and all stood in silence as the colors and totem pole were placed in the Sanctuary by Mr. Monk, the Divinity Student at present in charge of this parish. The church itself was filled to capacity with many chairs being brought into use.

Commissioner Langley read the lesson for the morning. In his sermon Mr. Monk revealed that he was a former Scout having advanced up to King's Scout and then on to Assistant Scoutmaster. Setting the Scout Laws and Promise as the centre of his sermon, Mr. Monk set a challenge to all present in first our Duty to God—by the Good Turn daily. The units present were 1st Buckhorn under Scouter J. Milligan, Lakefield Sea Scouts and Akela Tom Payton, St. Johns 1st Peterborough officers Scouter Fred C. Ford and Akela Stan Purser, Mark St. 13th Peterborough with Akela Chas Munro Trinity 16th Peterborough Scouter Gordon Thompson and Akela Gordon Hunt. St. Alban's 17th Peterborough Scouter Walter Wood and his assistant Max Hill. Also present was Assistant District Commissioner Earl Westman and many fathers who provided transportation.

SICK BAY REPORT

Skipper Ken Jakens is missing from the Bridge and is confined to Sick Bay (St. Joseph's Hospital) for at least a week. So local scouters may find time to visit him.

ST. JOHN'S

Another evening of advancement was witnessed in the Jungle as first before the Totem Pole Dennis Walton of the Blue Six and Ian Young of the Brown Six were invested into the world wide Brotherhood of Scouting as Wolf Cubs. We were very pleased to have as our guests Mr. and Mrs. Young and Mr. Walton, giving them the opportunity of seeing their lads take this step. But an added feature was in the fact that Mr. Walton and Mrs. Young assisted the Pack Officers during the inspection. Gerald Dalliday was accepted into the Pack as a New Chum and decorated with his Coat of White.

Bob Dawson and Tommy Lewis can now see a little better as they had one eye opened when they received their First Star. Then came the game of Penny Hop, some of the boys putting so much force behind their tops that pennies were flying hither and yon.

Tests passed during the evening were, Knots and ball throwing, Bob Cunningham; Cleanliness, Bill Davidson; Growing things, Don Sehrk; Bob Wagster; Skipping, Ken Collins; Message, Jim Welsh, Brian Dunford; thrift and fire-fighting, Brian Dunford; Model, George Boucher.

SACRED HEART

The Troop under the leadership of Scouter Morris visited the farm of former Scouter MacDougall. The group divided with one section laying a trail for the others to follow. One aim of the hike was to secure Scout Staves, the boys returning home after an exciting afternoon in the open .Two members of the Pack attended the regular meeting on Tuesday getting an introduction to Scouting in readiness for their Coming Up ceremony to take place shortly. After a game of Floor Hockey won by the Fox Patrol the invested boys started studying 2nd Class tests while new recruits were given instruction of Tenderfoot work. Akela Hatton who brought the Cubs on this visit, also led the Troop in a new game.

ALL SAINTS'

George Williams of the Crow Patrol was officer in charge of Flag at the opening of the Troop meeting as we started off along the Scout Trail. Games, fun and instruction retated throughout the program with the Crow patrol coming through to capture the Honour Pennant from the Bulldog Patrol. Peter Hall of the Crow Patrol completed tests in Scout Laws.

ST. PAULS

As the Pack gathered around the Council Rock we gave welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Endicott, special visitors for the evening for it was the time for investiture of their son into Cubs, Clifford Endicott took his promise as a Wolf Cub and received his insignia of rank. Some tests were passed with Bob Ward, M. Philp, Bob LeRoy, Daird Minty, Tommy Caldwell and H. Dunfield passing First Aid. The games played during the trip along the Jungle "My ship is sailing down the Thames", "Over and Under Relay,, and "Message Relay". The Pack is reminded that the Christmas Party is on Friday Dec. 19th.

Bill Watters is leaving as Cub Reporter. We understand he will be going up to the Troop this coming week. We understand that M. Philp son of Magistrate W. R. Philp will be Cub Reporter from now on.

MARK STREET

A special meeting of the Sixers and Seconders was held in the home of Akela on Wednesday. On Thursday evening the Pack held its regular meeting in the basement of the church. A short instruction period was carried out then a game under the leadership of Sixer Don Munro assisted by his seconder Bobby Orr and Senior Sixer Arnold Allen. Don Innis passed his firelighting and telephone; Max Pomeroy, knots; Terry Bell and Bruce Collins, Skipping. Then an investiture ceremony was conducted in which Akela took the promise of Ronald Pinch and Peter Rainard as Wolf Cubs and their names were added to the Roster of Scouting. The Brown Six came through to win the monthly competition award.

The opening ceremonies this week were conducted by the Wolf Patrol but it was the Beaver Patrol that came through to win highest points. Mr. Ferguson continued his instruction on the St. John Ambulance course, other instruction was conducted by Messrs. Blane Till, Al Thompson, Bill Donaldson and Ken Kempt. Donations for food for a Christmas hamper are brought in on Wednesday. This is to be given to some needy family. Also Scouter Gordon Thompson announced that a toboggan party will be held in January—we may have some snow by then.

SCOUTERS CLUB

Some 30 officers attended the meeting of the Scouters' Club held last week in Trinity Scout hall to hear the various reports of activities.

Cub Leader Gordon Hunt gave a very descriptive paper on Cubbing, pointing out the advantage of charts. Akela Hunt suggested that letters be sent out to every Cub father seeking their support in test work.

Commissioner Mrs. Epping of the Guides reported a steady progress in this branch of the Scout movement in this district, touching on the leaders' trip to Trenton, a well-attended rally in Nicholls Oval and of her trip to Cleveland where she was invited to attend a Girl Guide convention.

Dr. J. N. Perry of the local association reported that a new slate of officers were now ready to assist every group where possible.

District Commissioner Dr. Gordon R. Langley said Mr. McKeefer had accepted the post of assistant district commissioner in charge of the Seneca group of the city, also that he was in possession of all data for the field day being held on May 16 requesting all leaders to put their shoulder to the wheel toward the success of this event. President Walter Wood suggested that a Bronze Arrow course be held for the patrol leaders, this matter to be taken up with Field Commissioner Art Jackson.

With reference to conducting the Scouters' Club meetings it was agreed that each group should alternate in this work and that the Guide section be in charge of the next meeting in February. At the conclusion of the business President Walter turned the meeting over to Dave Hatton who with Gord Touxel led the group in singing and fun.

KIBBLEWHITE ROVER SCOUTS

The crew, like the City of Peterborough, held their elections last Monday; but unlike the City of Peterborough, we had 87.5 per cent of our voters vote. The only member of the crew who did not vote was Squire Danny Barclay, who is attending school in Toronto. Results of the elections:

Mate, Dave Hatton; assistant mate, Kelvin Johnson; scribe, Darrell Lipsett; treasurer, Kelvin Johnson; quartermaster, Ken White; librarian, Ken White; historian, Ron Hatton; log keeper, Ron Hatton; keeper of the door, Len Foskett; social convener, Roland Brier.

PERILOUS JOB MADE SAFER — The job of laying barbed wire under combat conditions in Korea is just as dangerous and necessary as it was in World War I. To meet the problem, the 120th Engineer Combat Battalion has improvised an M-4 tank with a triple belt concertina of barbed wire for rapid and protected laying. This technique gives our Korean GI's the advantage of greater speed and safety while doing this hazardous job.

From Santa's workshop to the under-the-tree excitement of Christmas morning, come a host of wonderful toys for boys and girls of all ages!

There are toys, games and wearables for young cowboys and inter-planetary adventurers!

Chaps, guns, hats, "real" Western shirts and ride 'em cowboy-hobby horses to thrill all the "Hop-along-Tagalongs."

Influenced by Space Patrol, Buck Rogers and all the other outer-space heroes and tales of T.V. and comic books, come a host of space helmets, "ray-guns," "official" uniforms, "gravity belts" and others.

Entire Western villages, interplanetary communities, gas stations, farms, ranches and others — can be set up on a table top, complete with buildings and all!

Young craftsmen, can experiment with chemistry . . . build workable airplane, auto and boat models . . . enjoy woodcraft . . . leather tooling . . . plastics making, and others.

There are plastic and metal model toys that are tractors, dump trucks, road scrapers, tow cars and racers These 'can be towed or pushed by hand . . . operated by battery . . . powered by fuel and are guaranteed to give any action-minded youngster hours of fun!

The newest trains blow authentic whistles . . . and are powered for real action. They can be accesorized with everything from a road game to animated station (complete with waiting passengers).

Of course, no boys' list of toys would be complete without a round-up of wheel toys: bikes, trikes and others . . . sporting goods: bats, balls, basketballs, footballs, archery sets, and so on down the line — something for every young athlete.

The girls are not forgotten this year for there's everything to make "little women" as happy as can be.

DOLLS .. DOLLS .. DOLLS They walk, they talk, they drink milk and water; they wet their didies, they cry real tears. Their outfits are as gay and lovely as the world's finest designers can make them. Their hair can be curled, tinted and some every carry their own chignon!

Little ladies will be enthralled with real electric irons, miniature replicas of all the kitchenwares; laundry equipment, toy cutlery, cook and bake sets and other domestic toys!

Boys and girls, both — no matter what their age — will find enjoyment in a gay book — picture puzzles — games — musical toys — and the many other gift items to be found in all the toylands 'round town.

CHARGE D'AFFAIRES — Arthur J. Andrew, 37-year-old wartime infantry officer and former newspaper man, has been apointed by the External Affairs Department as Canada's charge d'affaires at Vienna. A Native of Pictou, N.S., he worked for The Canadian Press at Halifax before the Second World War. He will be resident officer for Victor Dore, Canadian minister to Switzerland, who also is minister to Austria.

TRADITIONAL POEM

The traditional Christmas poem, "The Night Before Christmas," was written by Clement Clarke Moore in 1822 and published anonymously the following year. He finally acknowledged authorship in 1844.

Christmas Pageant Takes On Color, Symbols of Old

The story of Christmas is one of the world's greatest and most fascinating!

Much of the Christmas story is still unknown, though Christmas as we observe it today is indeed the celebration of the birth of Jesus.

However, Christendom did not begin to date its years from the birth of Christ until almost 550 A.D.!

The people of Christ's era did not consider Him as the Messiah of God at the time of His birth, but rather at the time when the Holy Spirit descended upon Him at the baptism in the Jordan when He was thirty years of age.

Not until the third century did the western countries accept Christ as a God from birth, and each of the four Gospel narratives testify to this school of thought.

✣ ✣ ✣

To the early church, Christmas from its very beginning carried the earmarks of Roman creation.

From the world's most primitive beginnings, there was the belief that the period of time when the winter solstice ended and the sun took on new strength to give a bright, new fertility to the world, should be observed with celebration.

In every epoch of history — from the old, old Babylonian festivals . . . to the Druid mysteries . . . from the Roman Saturnalia . . . to the Egyptian Mid-winter Festival of Foods . . . to the Christ story—lies the romantic, rich beginnings of the Christmas Story.

✣ ✣ ✣

The "twelve days of Christmas" . . . the bright lights and fires, the Yule log . . . the giving of gifts . . . the carnivals and fiestas . . . mummers' parades . . . the carols . . . the church processions, now, all part of the twentieth century Christmas obervances 'round the world — were begun long years and centuries before the birth of Christ.

Many schools of thought have it that the Christian 'invented' it to compete against the early pagan festivities of December twenty-fifth —for this day was sacred to the Romans, to Persians, and to the Germanic tribes.

✣ ✣ ✣

Out of the Yule of Jul of the Northern Europeans . . . the Noel of the French . . . the Noche Buena of the Spanish . . . the Weinachten of the Germans, and the Christ Mass of the early Roman Catholic Church — comes the gay, glorious, deeply deligious holiday that is Christmas, today.

Free Handwriting Analysis

(Slightly reduced)

This writer is energetic, imaginative and enthusiastic. These traits, combined with his keen intelligence, will make him quick-thinking and vital.

The writing seems to dart across the page in an effort to keep up with the mind, showing that he will be impatient to carry out his ideas. Despite his haste, all the 'i's' are dotted and 't's' crossed, and there is clear spacing between the words and lines of writing, reflecting the writer's clarity of thought and accurate judgment.

The long dashes to the 't's' show his ardor and enterprise. He has a great deal of wit and humor, but it will be salted with irony.

Items From Christmas Saga

✧ ✧ ✧

A group of archaeologists recently discovered the name of Jesus carved before 70 A.D. among inscriptions on 11 early Christian burial urns found in a cave on the Bethlehem-Jerusalem road.

✧ ✧ ✧

Kris Kringle is not a German term for Santa Claus. The name is a modification of "Kristkind," who according to German legend, is a white-robed angel—a messenger of the Infant Jesus, bringing gifts to children.

✧ ✧ ✧

That America gave the world its most beloved Christmas plant—the poinsettia. The plant is a native of tropical America.

✧ ✧ ✧

The number of mince pies you taste at Christmas indicates the number of happy months you'll have during the coming year, according to an old English belief.

✧ ✧ ✧

For three centuries following His birth, Christ's nativity was celebrated at various times in January, March, April, May, September and October, by Christian groups.

✧ ✧ ✧

December 25th was set as the day for the observance of Christmas in the sixth century.

The custom of giving gifts at Christmas is traced to the Roman feast of Saturn which was celebrated during the 17th, 18th, and 19th of December.

✧ ✧ ✧

The Puritan Government banned the celebration of Christmas in England in 1643 in an attempt to do away with all forms of frivolity.

✧ ✧ ✧

A churchman, John Pierpont, composed the gay Christmas song "Jingle Bells," which has been popular for over a century.

✧ ✧ ✧

Bayberry candles, which are said to foretell good luck for the coming year if they burn bright at Christmas, were first made by early settlers in America. They dipped bayberry branches in wax and burned them during the holidays.

✧ ✧ ✧

The story is told that over a hundred years ago a parish priest in Salsburg, Austria, returning late one night from administering last rites to a dying woman, was awed by the particular majesty of the still, sparkled-with-stars night, went home to write the lovely, haunting words of "Silent Night, Holy Night." With his organist, Franz Gruber, playing the great music on his guitar, the Father Joseph Mohr, first introduced the hallowed strains of this most popular hymn to a small congregation in Austria.

Deplores Tipping

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — Tipping is "unworthy of labor in the 20th century," state industrial commissioner Edward Corsi said Tuesday. "Tipping makes a servant out of the worker. It is a disgraceful thing that the worker has to depend on tipping for a living." Corsi testified at a public hearing on a proposed minimum wage order for the 230,000 persons in the state's restaurant industry.

Trio Robs Bank

YORK, Pa. (AP) — A 13-state police alarm went out early today for three youths who held up a bank branch and got away with $11,820 in cash. The bandits walked into a branch of the York Trust Company just before closing time Tuesday and while one pushed two employees into a closet the others stuffed the money into a paper bag.

CAROLS POPULAR

The National Bureau for the Advancement of Music has indicated that there are more than 2,000 communities in the United States where carol singing is performed as a regular part of the community Christmas observances.

17 Little Girls Initiated In Explorer Group

Initiation of the first group of Explorers at George St. United Church was an impressive candlelight service Monday evening. The 17 little Explorers were wearing the new uniforms for the first time and made a pleasing picture. They are among the first children in Canada to wear the new uniform which was adopted in September.

Parents were guests at this expedition. The ceremony was conducted by Mrs. J. R. Foster. Each counsellor and Explorer lighted a candle from the central taper representing the light spreading around the world through those who know Jesus and try to do His will. Pins were presented to each.

The star ceremony was conducted by Mrs. Walker Jones. Pictures for the Explorer note book were presented by Mrs. J. M. Hales. The girls were led in their songs by Miss Marilyn Walker.

Christmas was the theme of the attractively decorated Explorer room. A beautiful nativity scene in paper sculpture was arranged for the occasion by Mrs. Jones. The tea table was decorated with a Christmas centrepiece and tall red and white candles in silver candalbra by Mrs. Charles Allen.

Scripture lesson for the meeting was the Christmas story from Luke, read by Donna Mason. An earnest prayer was given by Mrs. Arnold Mathews entreating guidance and blessing. She brought to attention of the group that they are now part of a family of 15,000 Explorers in Canada.

In the period usually reserved for crafts and story time the Explorers presented a program for their parents' entertainment. A carol number directed by Mrs. Allen was by Pamela Jarvis, Diana Sue Delahaye, Kathryn Partridge, Catherine Tetlock and Carolyn Race. A vocal selection, "Four in our Family" was by Marion Armstrong, accompanied by Mrs. J. W. Robinson at the piano. Betty Northey gave a recitation, "A Trick on Santa." A piano solo was by Mary Hucks and a recitation "Long, Long Ago" was by Rosemary Mathews.

Mrs. J. M. Beatty representing the WMS and Mrs. Arthur Black from the Women's Federation, brought greetings from their organizations and presided at the tea table. Following a social half hour, a vote of thanks on behalf of the parents was extended by Mrs. F. A. Hucks.

Agricultural societies devoted to improvement of farming were founded in both Upper and Lower Canada before 1800.

Charges PCs Inconsistent In Arguments

OTTAWA (CP)—Transport Minister Chevrier says the Progressive Conservatives are inconsistent in their arguments and there is evidence that their policies "have no other inspiration than political expediency."

The Progressive Conservatives had reversed their arguments about rearmament, about provincial autonomy and about price controls.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, had given "a classical example of a party leader's failure to adopt well defined and consistent policies," said Mr. Chevrier Tuesday night.

The minister's speech was prepared for a free-time political broadcast over the CBC's Trans-Canada network.

The Progressive Conservatives wanted tax reductions." Yet in the next breath they called for pensions to disabled workers which would cost $72,000,000 a year and old age pensions payable at 65 instead of 70 which would cost another $194,000,000 a year.

Prevented Blast

STRATFORD (CP)—Gerald Nickles, 23, of Mitchell prevented a possible explosion in a Mitchell plant Tuesday but suffered a fractured left foot. Nickles leaped into the path of a falling oxygen tank at the Mitchell bottling plant to prevent it crashing to the floor. He said that if the 250-pound tank had crashed it could have set off explosions in other tanks.

296 GEORGE ST BET KING & CHARLOTTE STS TWO DOORS FROM THE ODEON THEATRE

CHRISTMAS BUFFET (left) has simplicity as its keynote, uses a miniature tree as sole decoration. Silver rope radiates from the base of the tree; china is white banded with silver. Informal holiday dinner table (right) has traditional Christmas china, centre piece of mirrored Dutch shoes filled with greens and arranged with fat white candle. Silver pattern for buffet is modern; for dinner table, traditional. Either setting is easy to do.

Table Decorations Devoid Of Fuss

In the modern, servantless home, hospitality at Christmastime must often be simple out of sheer necessity.

This does not mean that it's a hospitality lacking a warmth or that the traditional touches are missing. But it does mean that back-breaking preparations and great fuss are out of the question.

Fortunately, this is a year of a new look in table decorations, one that's devoid of fuss and feathers. The clutter has vanished and in its place, there are table decorations any woman can create herself in a minimum of time.

If you own the traditional Christmas china, you'll probably want to cue your centrepiece to it. But if you don't possess such china, you'll get a gay holiday effect by using an inexpensive green cloth and pairing it with red linen napkins.

Whether it's a buffet or a sit-down dinner, there are lovely effects to be goten from easily-concocted centrepieces. Try thick branches of pine encircling three fat white candles of different heights. Nestle shiny red ornaments among the boughs and you'll have a handsome centrepiece.

Or, you might try trimming a miniature green tree with red carnations and gold ornaments. Another effective combination pairs red carnations and white roses in a low bowl surrounding a thick candle in dark green.

Christmas greens and holly berries can go into containers, such as a pair of Dutch shoes, and form an effective centrepiece with little effort or cost. Every woman has the essential makings of such centrepieces about her house. Combined with the traditional Christmas flowers and colors, they give any table a festive air.

For our Christmas buffet, we used a new, handsome, modern sterling pattern called silver wheat in combination with simple, silver banded china. A miniature tree makes a centrepiece, roped off by radiating silver rope.

The informal dinner table has a centrepiece of mirrored Dutch shoes filled with greens and used with a tall, thick white candle. The traditional Christmas china is on the table, in company with a sterling pattern called Francis First. This is silver that's French Renaissance in feeling, a traditional pattern for hospitality at Christmas.

Ancient Carols Come Out Of Great Minstrel Past

According to the Bible story of Christmas, the first carol was sung by a chorus of angels from Heaven —the "Gloria in Excelsis"—"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

There is no fact as to why the Christmas songs are called "carols." The Latin origin of the word means "to dance in a ring," and the earliest songs were usually accompanied by some sort of dance movements. Others seem to think the word stems from the same derivation as "chorus."

FIRST CAROL

St. Francis of Assisi is reputed to have conducted a Christmas service singing the Gospel and giving the sermon, and is credited for the first significant carol.

The ballad type of carol, now considered by musical writers as the true carol, is the folk song type, handed down from generation to generation, as an authentic creation of the people.

The more elaborate type of Christmas song, by known composers and of musical complexities, are generally referred to as Christmas hymns, by these same musical authorities.

From the days of Richard the Lion-Hearted, when folk songs and minstrelsy swept the land, carols were kept alive and fostered from community to community, and reached their peak magnificence in the fifteenth century when they at long last broke away from the somber chants of the church.

In the 17th Century, the Puritanism of the day severely repressed the joyous celebrations attendant to Christmas, and expressly forbade the public singing of carols.

The texts and music of the carols were kept alive during this sombre period until the Nineteenth Century through the illicit singing and printing of these carols by the common folk who sang them in the hidden privacy of their own homes.

For many years, "Silent Night" was considered a folk song, and it did not appear in print until 1840. Today, it's stirring beauty resounds the world over at Christmas time.

"Hark, the Herald Angels Sing" was written by Charles Wesley, younger brother of John Wesley, who founded the Methodist denomination. He was the author of 6,000 poems and wrote "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing" in 1730 when inspired by the musical tolling of bells on Christmas morning.

"Oh, Come All Ye Faithful," translated from the Latin "Adeste Fideles" has long been controversial as to its origin. Some say it was written as early as 1221, and changed through the years by many musical writers.

The first Christmas carols that play such an important part in enriching our holiday season were brought to America from many countries of Europe.

The early settlers brought with them such favorites as "Away in a Manger" from Germany; "God Rest Ye, Merry Gentlemen" from England, and the lovely "Cantique de Noel" or "O, Holy Night" from France.

Through the years, Canada and United States have added their own carols to the roster of well-loved favorites. In 1849, Edmund H. Sears, a Unitarian minister, composed "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear."

No lovelier expression of Christmas prevails than the singing of the many hymns and carols that so beautifully express the friendly, joyful spirit of the day.

Terrorists Kill Prominent Man

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters)—Mau Mau terrorists murdered a prominent Moslem and injured his wife and three of his children in the Thika district of Kenya.

A gang of 30 Africans Tuesday attacked the family of Hussein Kenji Madhani, 42, in his general store with shouts of: "We don't want you here. Go back to India."

Mrs. Madhani, in hospital with head wounds and slashes on both arms, said some of the Africans began to beat her husband "Others went for me while the rest began taking goods from the shelves."

Her husband died from heavy knife slashes.

Two other murders were reported Tuesday — a shopkeeper at Punda Milia, near Thika, and an African. Both were attributed to the Mau Mau—"The Hidden Ones."

Take Up Oil Leases On 20 Paris Farms

PARIS, Ont. (CP)—During the last five days, leases on oil and gas rights have been taken up on approximately 20 farms in an area about six square miles just east of here.

The entire deal has been so quickly and quietly handled that the informaton only started to circulate in town Tuesday night.

The area is between the second and third concessions on the Glen Morris road, extending from the Grand river to No. 24 Highway.

DON'T FORGET MISTLETOE

According to custom, when there's mistletoe hanging in the doorway, each lad may claim a kiss from a maid who chances beneath it. But he must remove a berry each time and when the berries are all gone, no more kisses are available.

Barbed Wire Pushed Aside In Holy City For One Day

By MONICA DEHN

Just for one day in the year, the high barbed wire that cuts the Holy City in two is pushed aside and Jew and Arab forget their hatred, and the two sectors of Jerusalem, modern and Jewish in the one side, ancient and Arab on the other, are joined.

The year round, Arab Legion guards, in their gay red and white checked headdresses, and Israel soldiers, wearing British battle-dress, have stared sullenly at each other across the few yards of no man's land and kept a tensed finger on the trigger.

But from Christmas Eve until the end of Christmas Day, the barriers are pushed aside, the rifles held a little absentmindedly. For across the lines are streaming Christian worshippers from Israel on their annual pilgrimage to Bethlehem.

From mid-November onwards, Jerusalem's Jews and Arabs have worked closely together to make possible this brief demonstration of Christmas peace and goodwill.

The names of Christians eager to travel to Christ's birthplace along the winding road carved out of the hillside by Palestine Arabs during the Arab-Jewish war, are first scrutinized by the Israelis. Then they are passed to Jordan through the good offices of the Israel - Jordan Mixed Armistice Commission and finally returned to the Governor of modern Jerusalem, Dr. Abraham Biran, for a final check.

And at seven p.m. on Christmas Eve, as the star which guided the three wise men begins to twinkle in the Eastern sky, the first group of pilgrims assembles outside the revolving doors of the luxurious King David Hotel.

They are all members of Jerusalem's Consular Corps or UN agencies working in Israel and they line up formally in order of precedence. First comes the Dean of the Consular Corps in Jerusalem, the Greek Consul General. Amongst them, Britain's Consul General in the Holy City, Mr. H. R. D. Gibbon Money Penny, is the only diplomat stationed on the Arab side of the lines who crosses into Israel to join the pilgrimage.

All the members of the Consular Corps are in diplomatic dress. Their cocked hats glitter with braid, their silver swords gleam through the blackness of the cold Jerusalem midwinter night.

As the convoy moves off, the sweet notes of "Come all ye faithful" peal from the bells in the tower of the pale pink stone YMCA opposite.

Ten minutes later the diplomats' sleek limousines draw up at the border, a stone's throw from the palatial home of Palestine's High Commissioners, now a UN Palestine headquarters. And by the light of roaring bonfires, Arab Legionaires and Israelis together give the pilgrims their last check-over.

In chorus, Jew and Arab call out "Merry Christmas, Merry Christmas" and give each other the one smile of the year. Then, with a flourish, they wave the pilgrims onwards towards the field of the shepherds and to the midnight Mass at the Stable site.

Next morning, as the weary diplomats return, a second group of about 1,000 pilgrims sets out from Israel to Bethlehem. These include the priests and nuns who live in the quiet monasteries and convents of Nazareth and Tiberias and the Mount of Transfiguration; orphan children in the care of religious orders; the elderly, barriers are rolled back itno place. maimed and weak of the Christian maimed and weak of the Christian charitable institutions in Jerusalem. With them are hundreds of Israel's Christian Arabs living in the villages of Galillee for whom Christmas is the one occasion on which they can meet members of their families "on the other side."

But in twenty-four hours the make - believe peace comes abruptly to an end. The straggler is pushed unceremoniously into Israel and the high barbed wire barriers are rolled back into place. Once again Arab Legion guards and Israel soldiers stare sullenly at each other across the few yards of no man's land.

Queen To Leave Life Peerages Up To Commons

LONDON (AP)—The Queen has told Parliament she is willing to defer to its judgment in a proposal to create a new type of peer whose title would die with him.

Her message Tuesday, necessary to clear the decks before Parliament can debate an issue involving the royal prerogative, said she leaves the whole matter to the "wisdom of my Parliament."

Technically, all new peers are created by the Queen, so the House of Lords sought the Queen's permission before raising the topic.

Behind the proposal for this new one-generation-only aristocrat lies an old dispute about the House of Lords.

WOULD CHANGE SYSTEM

Conservative and Labor members long have said the system needs changing, but they never have been able to agree just what changes to make.

The trouble about the new creations is that each time a man with a son gets into the House of Lords for political, military or other services, there is an addition to Britain's privileged families. Normally the eldest son takes his place after he is dead.

In a private member's bill, Viscount Simon, former attorney-general and foreign secretary, proposes the government should be allowed to name 10 new peers each year whose titles would die with them.

This, he reckons, would allow distinguished new blood to mingle with old families in the House of Lords without increasing the total number of privileged British families.

Wins Acquittal

TORONTO (CP)—Garry Evans, 17, of Claremont, appealing against his conviction on a charge of arson, won an acquittal Tuesday before the Ontario Supreme Court. Evans was sentenced by Magistrate F. S. Ebbs at Oshawa last September to six months definite and six months indeterminate after a $7,000 barn was destroyed in Uxbridge township. "All the evidence of the crown witnesses showed that the fire was caused accidentally," Chief Justice J. W. Pickup said.

War Nursing Course Concludes At Cobourg

COBOURG (ENS)—The course in nursing aspects of atomic, biological and chemical warfare, given under the direction of Miss Rosella Cunningham, senior nurse of the Northumberland and Durham Counties Health Unit, concluded with a group discussion, with all nurses taking part in the discussion and demonstrations.

Keen interest was shown in these lectures with an average attendance of 56 nurses. The lectures included an outline of civil defence organization, atomic bomb phenomena, nursing care of burns, thauma and radiation sickness. Guest speakers included Dr. C. W. MacCharles of the Health Unit; Dr. Braaten and Mr. Symbalisty, physicists of the Eldorado Mining and Refining Co. Each lecture was supplemented with related films and pamphlets.

Certain municipalities are beginning to formulate plans for civil defence, and these lectures have given valuable information to nurses, who play such an important part in any disaster, it is pointed out by the Health Unit.

Distinguished Citizen, J. H. Sherin, Grocer, Agent, Athlete Dies At 86

LAKEFIELD (ENS) — One of Lakefield's most distinguished citizens, J. Harry Sherin, 86, Regent St., died in Peterborough hospital Tuesday following an illness of three weeks.

Mr. Sherin was born in Lakefield, son of the late John Christopher Sherin and Elizabeth Fee and has lived there all his life. He received his education in Lakefield and at Pickering College. A noted athlete in his youth, he was particularly expert in boxing, fencing and soccer.

He operated a retail grocery business in Lakefield for 35 years which was established by his father in 1855 and he was also Lakefield CPR agent for 48 years.

He was a member of Lakefield United Church and was superintendent of the Sunday School of that church for many years and was an honorary steward of the church. A member and past master of the Masonic Order, Clementi Lodge AF and AM 313, Lakefield, he received his 50-year jewel recently and he was a member of the Rameses Shrine, Toronto, for 45 years. He was also a member of the Canadian Order of Foresters and a member of the Lakefield Cemetery Board for 51 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherin celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in October.

Mr. Sherin leaves his wife, the former Mary Mabelle Rathbone; four sons, Playter, Toronto; George, Woodbridge; John, Ashburn, and Harry, at home; and four grandchildren.

The funeral will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. from the Hendren funeral home to Lakefield United Church. The Rev. W. H. Tonge of Lakefield United Church will conduct the service assisted by the Rev. George F. Kelly of Woodbridge and formerly of Lakefield. Burial will be in Lakefield cemetery.

Transplant Tooth

VIENNA (Reuters) — A human tooth has been successfully transplanted. Dr. Kalman Keresztesi, lecturer at a university dental clinic, described the operation Tuesday. He said three years ago he removed an abscessed tooth from a boy of 10. He transplanted it to the jaw of a 30-year-old woman in a corresponding position. The tooth grew normally.

Florence Plans Honor Boccaccio

FLORENCE, Italy (Reuters)—Florence is at long last planning to meet an appeal by Lord Byron—by erecting a suitable monument over the grave of Giovanni Boccaccio, Italian Renaissance writer.

The 19th century British poet was shocked, when he visited the little church of Sts. James and Michael at Certaldo in Florence, to discover that all trace of Boccaccio's grave had been lost.

As a result of his embittered appeal in 1818, but many years later, prominent Italian writers set up a "search committee."

But it was only in 1921 that the survivors of the original committee definitely found the grave, the inscription dictated by Boccaccio himself almost entirely obliterated. Further researches led in 1949 to the discovery of Boccaccio's remains.

Now the Florence city council has commissioned Italian sculptor Mario Moschi to make a marble covering for the grave, showing Boccaccio in his 14th century robes, holding a sheaf of his writings before him. Boccaccio died in 1375.

Lakefield Soldier Back After Year In Korea

LAKEFIELD (ENS) — Pte. Eugene Payne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Payne, arrived home on Monday evening after a year in Korea.

Enlisting in August, 1950, with the 1st Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry, he trained as a parachutist at Rivers, Manitoba, going to Korea in October, 1951.

Pte. Payne says he is glad to be back home, but Korea is a nice looking country, quite rugged and rough, a bit inclined to be muddy in rainy weather and dusty when it's dry. He considers, however, that he had a pretty fair year all around.

The Japanese cities are wonderful and quite comparable to any of our Canadian cities, he thinks. His plans for the future are not too definite as yet.

Norwood Women Hold Dec. Bazaar

NORWOOD (ENS)—The Ladies Aid of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held a bazaar in the dining hall of the King's Hotel on Saturday. Conveners were Mrs. Harry Morgan, the president, Mrs. Cecil Cuthbertson, Mrs. Gordon Rothwell, Mrs. Roderick Webb.

Those in the receiving line were Mrs. Harry Morgan and Mrs. William Robb. The tea tables were in charge of Mrs. R. D. Duncanson, Mrs. Harry Kavanagh, Mrs. Ronald Rothwell, Mrs. Duncan Sinclair. The plates were replenished by Mrs. John Rogers, Mrs. Cecil Cuthbertson, Mrs. Gordon Rothwell and Mrs. Roderick Webb. The home baking table was conducted by Mrs. Roy Baker and Mrs. George Aitchison, and fancy work by Mrs. John Gilmour and Mrs. Thomas Lumsden.

Mrs. Richard Parnall

The funeral for Mrs. Richard Parnall, the former Eva Jane Bennett, 789 Water St., who died Saturday, was largely attended Tuesday at the Comstock funeral home.

The Women's Missionary Society of George St. United Church attended in a body.

Mrs. Parnall, who has lived in Peterborough for 56 years, was born in Harvey Township, daughter of the late W. R. Bennett and Eliza Jane Welch. Well-known for her work in the WMS and the Home and School Council, Mrs. Parnall was a member of the Board of Education in 1946 and 1947.

She leaves one daughter, Mrs. Rod Nicholls (Ruth) of Peterborough; three sons, F/O Robert Parnall of Trenton, Lloyd of Havelock and Max of Toronto; three sisters, Miss Elsie Bennett and Mrs. Wallace Harris, both of Peterborough, and Mrs. Edna Stewart of Montreal. Her husband, Richard Parnall, predeceased her in 1944.

The Rev. A. A. Mathews and the Rev. E. W. Rowland of George St. United Church conducted the funeral service.

Pallbearers were Willis Garrow, Charles Cookson, Jack Thompson, Barney Heaslip, Arthur Holden and Roy Parnell. Burial was in Little Lake Cemetery.

New Envoy Arrives

TOKYO (AP) — Peiping radio said today that A. S. Panyushkin, new Soviet ambassador to Red China, arrived by plane from Moscow Tuesday.

JAMES STEWART, PRESIDENT, addressing the Annual Meeting of The Canadian Bank of Commerce in Toronto, said in part:

THIS YEAR may well be marked by the widespread and favourable attention from many sources that has been directed to our industrial and commercial progress. Evidence of interest in our economic development by people outside the country is reflected not only in the relative strength of our currency but also in the increasing volume of foreign capital that is being invested in Canadian enterprises. Domestic confidence continues to be shown, for example, in the volume of investment in industry, in resource development and in research activities.

In the aggregate, the general business position continues to be favourable; yet the buoyancy that we have been experiencing is not uniformly reflected in all forms of industry and commerce nor in all the economic regions that make up this country. For exporters, the rise in exchange rates has made selling somewhat more difficult and credit is due them for their efforts in maintaining the high levels of export activity. The rise in exchange rates also has intensified competition for the domestic markets.

In noting some of the vulnerable points in currently prosperous conditions, I wish to place due emphasis on the view that we are entering a period of increasing risk in business. Nevertheless there is no need for pessimism provided the utmost efficiency is exercised in the conduct of our affairs in this fast changing business world.

External Trade

The high level of Canadian incomes and our rapid rate of investment and development, accompanied by limited overseas markets for our products, have resulted since the war in an expansion of markets in the United States. The similarity of the two economies, however, limits the expansion of that market for many of our products; consequently, while we may in future find a ready demand for our natural resources, it could be that the marketability of the greater product of our industry will not expand at the rate established in recent years. Our attention, therefore, must be directed towards the widening and the diversification of our markets, perhaps initially at some cost to ourselves. The longer run advantages are of course obvious.

The balance of payments problems have been the most chronic and aggravating of our time. What seems essential is a strong and widely acceptable sterling currency. What seems equally necessary is that Britain should clarify the sterling position, for it is from that source that trade revival can most effectively spring. On our part, we need diverse markets. Hence it is in our interest that the British position be clarified as quickly as possible.

Capital Investment

One of the chief ingredients of the continued high level of economic activity has been the relatively heavy volume of capital investment. We have had a longer period of sustained activity in this field than during any other period in our history.

Capital outlays have a tendency to generate a chain of expenditures and this makes investment an attractive factor both in the achievement and in the maintenance of high employment. In the long run, continued expansion of national production is essential and a steady flow of capital is a prerequisite. Steadiness of investment, rather than intensity, might well govern our future views.

Income cannot be redistributed for consumption and at the same time invested to expand productivity without some serious strains developing. If domestic capital investment is to form a considerable part of total capital formation in Canada, deterrents to such investment must be examined and, where consistent with domestic policies, be removed.

Fiscal Policy

Since the war years we have been giving increasing attention to social security and welfare measures. Much of this activity, while perhaps justified in its social and economic effects, has been based upon or has been aided by means of redistribution of income through the taxing power. There are, of course, obvious limits to this procedure. Onerous taxes can dampen incentive, can deter production, and can restrict consumption. To those who envisage a further widening of welfare services it cannot be too often emphasized that the possibilities of increasing welfare by the expansion of output far exceed the possibilities of increasing it by redistribution.

The Outlook

It is probable that the increased tempo of resource development will be maintained. The present high level of purchasing power is also likely to be maintained for the months ahead and on the basis of past performance we may assume a buoyant consumer market. The ability of overseas markets to maintain, let alone expand, their purchases continues to present difficulties and the vital interest we have in foreign trade prompts us to follow closely the results of conferences now taking place.

The aim of every responsible Western nation must be the securing of the peace which is preliminary to the maintenance of stable economies. Through our membership in international organizations, our country has endeavoured to play its part towards this achievement. Our decision to support jointly-sponsored policies may require the postponement in Canada of some of the measures for which we otherwise might press.

We are in a period of increasing complexity both at home and abroad. We can no longer rely on the continuation of previously established economic patterns to support decisions for future business. Yet in spite of this condition of affairs, I hold the view that the essential soundness of our growth up to the present time, if reinforced by prudent management, both by government and business, can lead to further and favourable expansion.

●

NEIL J. McKINNON, GENERAL MANAGER, after reviewing the balance sheet, highlights of which are given below, said in part:

A YEAR AGO you were informed that for the previous nine months the banking system had been co-operating with the Government in a programme of credit restriction designed to counteract inflationary forces then prevailing. The programme as a whole exercised a moderating effect, but the influence on some lines was quite pronounced; consumer credit restraints, for example, contributed noticeably to a decline in sales of consumer durable goods. Beginning in the latter part of 1951 price levels and the cost-of-living index showed a declining tendency and in May of this year the credit restrictions were withdrawn.

While it was natural to expect an upward surge in consumer credit because of a hungry market created by the period of restraint, the volume in the short period of time since elapsed has increased rapidly indeed and this has had quite a stimulating effect on retail sales. It has, of course, long been recognized that this form of credit is an integral part of a mass production economy. Experience in the past, however, has indicated that under less buoyant conditions of employment or confidence the servicing of consumer credit becomes more burdensome and business not only loses the stimulus of a rising credit volume but also, during the period during which people are preoccupied with reducing debts, may well suffer a temporary lessening in current business. It is perhaps appropriate at the present juncture to draw attention to this necessary although somewhat mercurial element in the credit structure.

Staff

While one may comment objectively on the balance sheet, the relationship between the management and staff is a personal one and I cannot speak with detachment in paying tribute to members of the staff. I can say from first-hand knowledge that the Bank is represented through the branches and departments by a splendid body of men and women who work loyally and efficiently and with a fine spirit of co-operation in the interests of the institution. The enhancement in size and strength of the Bank during the past year could not have been achieved without the concerted efforts of our staff who, to customers and the public at large, are, in fact, the Bank. The shareholders would I am sure wish to join with me when I express to the members of the staff sincere appreciation and thanks for a job well done.

TABLE TENNIS SHOTS

1 The Smash: Usually taken on the forehand, close to the table. Intercept ball at top of its bounce and hit forward and downward with hard, flat swing. Follow-through brings arm across body. Always keep eyes on the ball.

2 Backhand Drive: Ball is taken close to table, intercepted near the top of its bounce. Right side faces net; right foot in front of left foot. As ball is hit, shift weight from left to right leg. Stroke forward and upward, bringing bat above head level on follow-through.

3 The Drop Shot: Played close to the table. Intercept ball forehand or backhand, just after it bounces on table, taking it with blade of bat slightly laid back. Stroke ball easily, laying it just over net in opponent's court. This shot must be controlled for effectiveness.

Yes, it's "know-how" that counts in table tennis as in every sport — "know-how" that sets one performer above another. Learn the correct form — the "know-how" — then practise until you have mastered it and you'll get more fun and enjoyment out of your sports and game.

Make Your Home Bright With Smart Decorations

The home that's gaily decorated for the holidays is the home that truly expresses the Christmas spirit! Imaginative decorations will heighten your holiday mood and lend a festive air to your Yuletide entertaining.

It is extra fun when the Christmas decorating becomes a family project. Many, many clever things can be made at home and pride in the decorations will soar!

Collecting evergreen boughs and red Christmas berries for your home decorating can be a gay expedition that will become a traditional holiday occasion for the family.

There are dozens and dozens of decorating ideas that you can adapt for your home. They may be simple and dignified or gay and elaborate, depending upon your taste.

Of course the focal point of your decorations for the holiday season will be the daily-decked Christmas tree! The trimming of the tree differs with every family and usually is handed down as one of the cherished traditions of the family. So let your memories and your preference determine how you shall trim your tree.

Decorating your front door is a wonderful way of giving your guests and passers-by a gay holiday greeting. You can let your imagination run riot in this phase of your Christmas decor. But be sure your decoration is in keeping with the style of your entrance.

Or, outline your front door with Christmas green and trim with colorful tree lights. To do this, tack chicken wire about 12 inches wide all around the door and tuck the evergreen boughs into the wire. A Christmas wreath hung on your door completes this decoration effectively.

Fashion a huge Christmas card out of cardboard that bears the message "Merry Christmas" in large letters. Tack it on your front door for a cheery holiday greeting to all.

A bough of evergreens accented with red Christmas berries and tied with a huge red bow adds a striking note to your front door.

It's fun to make your own Christmas wreath. Use an ordinary wire coat hanger as the frame and wire greens and berries to it. Finish it with a perky red bow.

There are innumerable merry ideas for Merry Christmas decorating inside your house!

Dramatize your mantel with holiday-bright red candles, either huge round ones or tall and graceful tapers, amidst a mass of Christmas greenery. Or create a base for your candles with a group of colorful ornaments placed around each candle.

Try hanging a swag of greens above the mantel. Accent the festoon with either ornaments or bright berries. Holly or mistletoe tucked into greens always adss a cherry note.

Create a beautiful effect in the spirit of the season with ceramic Christmas figurines. Choose a lovely Madonna or angels and highlight the grouping with white candles.

Gather the family together for decorations. You'll find that you'll come up with some unusual and distinctive ideas that will be yours alone — and your home will glow with Christmas spirit this year!

Namao Airport Supply Depot Covers 17 Acres

EDMONTON (CP)—Ideal construction weather has allowed rapid progress on the Namao airport project seven miles north of Edmonton which is being developed into one of the largest and most modern in Canada.

Described by federal officials as the future "Trenton of the west," the airport when finished will have cost nearly $30,000,000.

The United States spent $10,000,000 to start the airport during the Second World War. It was almost completely abandoned until the present development costing an estimated $17,800,000 was started three years ago. Cost of land for the nine-square-mile area was estimated at $2,000,000.

CURRENT CONSTRUCTION

Completed or being constructed under the present development are a $6,000,000 supply depot; $5,000,000 worth of family dwellings; single men's quarters and mess hall costing $2,000,000; water, sewer and natural gas extensions costing $1,000,000; two steel and reinforced-concrete hangars each valued at $1,500,000; a 19-room school which cost about $300,000; and a $500,000 central steam plant.

When work began three years ago, it was estimated the project would be finished in five years, but ideal weather for construction has resulted in rapid progress by the more than 1,500 workers who have been employed.

One of the more spectacular buildings is the supply depot. It will cover 17 acres and will have what is believed to be the second largest floor area of any building in Canada.

Marksmen To Compete For Brand New Prize

LONDON (CP) — Canadian marksmen chosen to represent their country on next year's Bisley team will qualify to compete for a brand new prize when firing starts over the famous ranges on July 8.

The special event, open to riflemen from every part of the Commonwealth, will be known as the Coronation aggregate competition, with prizes for the 200 top scorers.

First prize will be a silver gilt Coronation medal and a monetary award of £25. The runner-up will get a silver medal and £15, while a bronze medal and £10 goes to the third best score. For other competitors there will be 97 additional bronze Coronation medals plus cash prizes graded from £5 to £1 as well as 100 consolation awards of £1 only.

Obituary

THOMAS JAMES MOFFATT

MARMORA (ENS). — A well-known resident of Marmora and a former employee of the CGE in Peterborough, Thomas James Moffatt, 66, died suddenly Monday at the home of his sister, Mrs. James Jones.

Although a cripple, he was an energetic supporter of sports and a keen worker for the Progressive Conservative party. After returning to Marmora he managed a number of hockey teams and acted as umpire for many baseball matches.

After leaving Peterborough he engaged in light farming near Marmora, raising hogs. He was one of the busy supporters of the Marmora Agricultural Society. In religion he was an Anglican.

Mr. Moffatt was born and educated in Marmora, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Moffatt. He attended Marmora Public School, and one of his teachers was the late Hon. Robert Weir. He worked with the CGE after attending the University of Toronto.

Surviving are two brothers and two sisters, Arthur of Peterborough, John of Marmora Township, Mrs. James Jones and Mrs. Gordon Bell, Walkerton.

Funeral service was held today at Zion United Church, Canon J. M. Brownlie officiating. Burial was in the family plot in Zion Cemetery.

GLOBE-GIRDLERS—Doug (left) and Warren Wilkins, who circled the world in an automobile, have returned to Toronto after visiting 60 countries on a 16-month tour. The brothers, University of Toronto graduates, made their trip on less than $1,500 each and came home with more than 10,000 feet of color film, a diary, beards and wearing sheepskin coats obtained in Jerusalem. They plan to write a book and give travelogues.

Police Arrest 2 In TV Gang

TORONTO (CP)—Police arrested two men following investigation of an organized gang specializing in the theft of television sets.

Charged with breaking and entering a nearby Pickering township home were Leonard Borley, 34, and Elmer Martin, 36, of Toronto. They were arrested Tuesday night in suburban East York.

Police said the investigation started when two men were interrupted removing a $950 television set from a Pickering home by a woman neighbor. They told her they were repair men, but she ordered them to take the set back into the house.

". . . A NICE NEW HOME," the little pup at the left is supposedly whispering in the ear of Humane Officer William Schraffen, of St. Paul, Minn. The whisperer and his canine companions are among those waiting in an animal shelter for what they hope will be holiday adoption.

Mrs. Allan Gribble New President Bethany Association

BETHANY (ENS)—The members of St. Paul's Anglican Women's Auxiliary were entertained at the home of Mrs. Roy Jarvis for their December meeting, with Mrs. Allan Gribble presiding in the absence of Mrs. J. J. Hamilton, who has been ill for some time.

The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. T. S. Gault and Mrs. Roy Jarvis read the minutes of the previous meeting and the correspondence. The treasurer, Miss Winnifred Nesbitt, reported a very successful year financially; the recent bazaar totalling $484.

A chapter from the study book of the year, "Thine is the Glory," was read by Mrs. Gault. A letter was read from Mrs. J. J. Hamilton, tendering her resignation as president. She thanked all the members for their splendid co-operation in the past and requesting their continued support to the new president.

Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Allan Gribble; honorary president, Mrs. J. J. Hamilton; first vice-president, Mrs. T. S. Gault; second vice-president, Mrs. H. Rayson; secretary, Mrs. Roy Jarvis; treasurer, Miss Winnifred Nesbitt; Junior Auxiliary leader, Mrs. H. Rayson.

Mrs. Gribble, the new president, expressed the regret of the members in the continued illness of Mrs. Hamilton, and moved a vote of sincere thanks for her leadership during the past six years.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Jarvis and her assistants during the social hour which followed, and Mrs. T. S. Gault invited the ladies to meet at her home in January.

Canada Swings To Airpower As Core Of National Defence

By DOUGLAS HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer,

OTTAWA (CP)—The unusual extent of Canada's swing to airpower as the core of national defence became fully apparent in 1952.

Under a policy probably without parallel among world powers, she is building an air force about as large as the army, spending as much on it as on the other two forces combined, and counting on a jet fighter force as the main weapon of defence both at home and in commitments abroad.

By 1948, it was starting to be evident that the fighter arm of the RCAF was to be the dominant factor in post-war defence policy. By 1952, the full impact of this trend, accentuated by the Korean war, was there for all to see.

BIG CONTRIBUTION

The air division Canada is pledged to establish in Europe by 1954 was largely in being by the end of the year and half its 12 squadrons already were overseas with another three set to go in early spring. It will represent an investment of hundreds of millions of dollars, a force of more than 300 modern jets, the air equivalent of a small, two-corps army.

Its 8,000 men will actually outnumber the 27th brigade's 5,500 to 6,000, giving the air force superiority even in manpower in Canada's European commitments.

By the end of 1953, the air force says, it will have nearly 50,000 men or just about the strength of the army under the three-year rearmament program. This represents an historic realignment in manpower policy.

IN-BETWEEN YEAR

The year 1952 was predominantly an in-between year for all three forces. It saw the three-year rearmament program through its second year, gave the drive its second breath, set the stage for the climax in the fiscal year 1953-54 that is supposed to see Canada equipped with 41 air squadrons, a 100-ship fleet, an army of roughly two divisions, a manpower of 120,000.

There were both progress and delays. Production of many important items of equipment—the CF-100 Canuck jet fighter, the navy's anti-submarine escort vessels, radar—were behind schedule. The total strength of the three forces increased slowly, from 95,000 in January to about 100,000, largely due to the army's discharge of Korean veterans which offset recruiting of thousands of men.

The army stood pat on its existing formations. The navy was still waiting for the new ships that will spearhead the fleet. The marked advances were made by the air force.

AIR TRAINING SCHEME

It got the radar station program well on its way, brought the air training scheme for Canadian and Atlantic Pact fliers to a peak, raised the total number of squadrons roughly to 30, or 75 per cent of the 1954 objective.

In 1952, Korea became an accepted part of the military scene. The army settled into the routine of maintaining a brigade there, keeping reinforcements flowing over and having another brigade training to go after the present brigade has been there a year. The navy kept three destroyers off Korea. The air force worked at the trans-Pacific airlift part time

In Parliament, the political parties largely left the questions of broad military policy alone and quarrelled about details of defence buying. The Progressive Conservatives charged waste and extravagance. The Liberals said there might be a few errors but neither waste nor extravagance.

Man Fined $115 On Two Charges After Accident

Terrance McGee, 186 Huron Street, Oshawa, was fined a total of $115 Tuesday on two charges driving without a licence and possession of liquor without a permit, in magistrate's court.

Two other charges, dangerous driving and careless driving, were dismissed when Magistrate W. R. Philp ruled insufficient evidence for a conviction.

The four charges were laid following an accident on October 31 when a motorcycle, driven by McGee, and a car, driven by Neil Thompson, Park Street, collided on Highway 7A (continuation of Lansdowne Street West).

Pleading not guilty to the dangerous driving charge, McGee told the magistrate that he didn't have enough money to employ a lawyer and would act in his own defence.

FLYING THROUGH AIR

Mr. Thompson said that he was driving west on Highway 7A at 25 miles per hour, and just outside the city limits applied his brakes. At that instant he "heard an impact at the side of the car" and "saw people flying through the air." He went into his service station and then went back to "see what happened."

He said that he found McGee standing up in the ditch and a girl in a shocked condition lying in the ditch.

Mr. Thompson told the court that McGee charged him with attempting to turn and said that McGee admitted travelling "52 mph in a 30 mph zone."

"He (McGee) didn't want to call the police, but we decided we'd better," said Thompson.

He added that he saw McGee take a parcel out of the motorcycle saddlebag and place it near the guard rail near the entrance to the motel across the road. Later OPP Constable Thomas Armstrong found a parcel and its contents, a quart bottle of beer.

OPP Constable Tom Armitage testified that there was a skid mark 154 feet long, running on an angle into the south side of the ditch. The first part, measuring 69 feet, was about eight inches south of the centre line; the rest was a "roll mark" along the shoulder and ditch.

Armitage said that the first thing McGee said was that the accident was his fault and that he was going 50 miles per hour in a 30 miles per hour zone.

SAID NO SIGNAL

McGee said that he was passing the car and when on the south side passing, the car suddenly made a left hand turn into the garage, without making any signals.

The only indication, said McGee, that he knew the car was about to turn was when "I saw the brake light flick on." Then his hand was caught between the car and the handle bar when "Mr. Thompson cut right into me."

"I tried to hold the bike up, but I was jammed there. We were down twice before Jean and I were thrown off and rolled ahead," said McGee.

McGee denied that the skid marks were from his motorcycle, claiming that the "marks were Mr. Thompson's; I had no intention to stop; I was passing, and never touched a brake."

Magistrate Philp dismissed the dangerous driving during the morning session and then in the afternoon on similar evidence dismissed the careless driving charge.

McGee told the court that he had his test papers, received three days earlier when he tried his driver's test, and that he was told it would be all right to drive with those until he obtained his licence. But he was fined $10, and $2.50 costs, in default 10 days in jail.

In his own defence on the possession of liquor without a permit, McGee said that the parcel was given him earlier downtown to place in the saddlebag and he didn't know what was in it until after the accident.

Magistrate Philp read the section from the Liquor Control Act which placed the onus on McGee and gave McGee the minimum fine, $100, and $2.50 costs, in default three months in jail.

Arrested For Theft

TORONTO (CP)—Two men were arrested Tuesday on charges of stealing a $5,000 truckload of rugs and other goods from the Canadian National Railways bonding house in downtown Toronto. Police said the men were arrested after a CNR investigator reported to them the licence number of a speeding truck. Charged with the theft were Albert Mastromatteo, 30, and Norman Woodstock, 31.

Ex-Stampede Manager Ernest Richardson Dies

VANCOUVER (CP)—Ernest Lamont Richardson, manager of the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede for many years, died Tuesday at 76.

Mr. Richardson, associated with the exhibition and stampede for 38 years, until he retired to the Pacific coast in 1940, travelled west in 1897 after attending the Ontario Agricultural College.

Fear Drug Law Revision Curbs Individual Freedom

OTTAWA (CP)—Two Liberal senators suggest that a revision of the food and drugs laws interferes with individual freedom and places powers rightly belonging to Parliament in an executive branch of the government.

Senators Arthur Roebuck and Salter Hayden, both Ontario lawyers, in a Senate committee Tuesday objected to a prohibition against advertising a treatment, preventative or cure for certain diseases, including cancer, heart disease, ruptures, tuberculosis and diabetes.

They also objected to a section which would allow the government by order-in-council to define adulteration of foods and drugs.

LEFT TO WHIM

Senator Hayden said the advertising clause leaves "to the whim of a government official" the decision on prosecution for advertising such things as trusses.

Dr. C. A. Morrell, director of the health department's food and drugs division, said the advertising prohibition was meant to prevent exploitation of the public by falsely representing a food, drug or device as a treatment or cure for the diseases.

Senator Roebuck said the right to advertise is a common law right which should not be interfered with unless the law clearly states the reason.

The committee voted to confirm a previous decision to approve the section on advertising.

Apple Market In Britain Hard To Regain

OTTAWA (CP)—A federal trade official says that even if Britain throws her import doors wide open, Canadian producers will have a tough time recapturing their traditional apple market overseas.

D. A. Bruce Marshall, Canadian commercial secretary at London, says there will be many complications, but among the most serious will be "increasing competition" from the United States.

His views on Canada's chances of again sharing in the British apple market are contained in the current issue of "Foreign Trade," official weekly publication of the federal trade department.

DIDN'T BUY

Britain, for a number of years, made large purchases of apples in both Canada and the U.S., but late this year halted imports from the dollar countries because of a dollar shortage. She has made no purchases from Canada's 1952 apple crop.

Mr. Marshall noted that before Britain closed her doors, the U.S. got a bigger share of the U.K. apple market than did Canada. U.K. imports from the U.S. for the 12 months ended last June totalled 1,234,700 bushels. Imports from Canada totalled 1,011,800.

Pearson Lists Some Problems

QUEBEC (CP)—The United Nations' top problems are the Korean war and a conflict between Arab and Asian countries and Western democracies, External Affairs Minister Pearson says.

The largest single factor holding up the Korean armistice was a dispute over prisoner-of-war exchanges, he told a luncheon meeting of the Canadian Women's Club Tuesday.

But when the dispute was handed to India and other Asian countries to find a solution, their proposal helped close the gap between them and the west.

India's proposal, accepted by a 54 to 5 (Soviet bloc) vote, ought to be acceptable to all, the president of the UN general assembly said.

Unless the division between the Arab and Asian countries and the Western democracies was closed "the results might be disastrous for the United Nations and peace," he said.

Predicts New Horizons For Dairy Industry

TORONTO (CP)—New horizons for Canada's dairy industry, if it keeps pace with the country's rapid industrial expansion, are predicted by George P. Gundlach of Cincinnati, prominent dairy industry consultant.

Addressing the annual meeting of the Ontario Association of Ice Cream manufacturers Tuesday, Mr. Gundlach urged a gearing of the Canadian dairy industry "to meet demands of a potentially mushrooming market."

Seek Co-operation To Help Boost Sterling Recovery

LONDON (Reuters)—Commonwealth prime ministers today wound up their economic conference with a statement saying that they will seek United States and European co-operation in the sterling recovery plan they have drafted. Such co-operation is essential to the plan, the statement said.

It stressed the desirability of building up an effective system of trade among all countries. An integral part of such trade was the convertibility of sterling, the statement said, but that could only be achieved by progressive stages.

The statement listed three conditions for bringing the pound into a healthier exchange relationship with the dollar:

1. Continuing success of remedial acion already taken by sterling countries.
2. The prospect that trading countries will adopt trade policies conducive to the expansion of world trade.
3. The availability of adequate financial support through the international monetary fund or otherwise.

The statement said the conference welcomed a proposal by a group of financial, industrial and commercial concerns in Britain to form a company to further development in other countries of the Commonwealth and Empire.

Freighter Sinks After Frisco Collision

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Norwegian freighter Fernstream sank inside San Francisco Bay shortly after colliding with the freighter Hawaiian Rancher. The Fernstream's crew escaped in lifeboats.

The crash occurred just west of Alcatraz island in a murky fog and drizzle. The Hawaiian Rancher flashed an SOS and three rescue boats raced to the scene.

The Coast Guard later reported that the Fernstream's crew of 42 men had taken to lifeboats when their ship began to go under.

The Coast Guard said there was only one minor injury reported. A Fernstream crew member suffered a wrist injury.

TIME OF ACCIDENT

The accident happened about 7:30 a.m. PST (10:30 a.m. EST), the Coast Guard said. The Norwegian vessel sank at 8:06 a. m.

The tide was going out at the time and the Coast Guard said the sunken ship possibly might block the shipping channel.

Captain A. Kristensen commanded the Fernstream, a 416-foot ship of 4,980 gross tons.

It was not learned immediately what damage, if any, the Hawaiian Rancher suffered.

Canada May Appear In Queen's Title

LONDON (CP) — The word "Canada" may appear in the Queen's official title as a result of discussions among Commonprime ministers.

It is understood delegates to the Commonwealth economic conference have tentatively and informally agreed that different Commonwealth countries might adapt the Queen's title as it now stands to their own individual needs.

Thus, while in the United Kingdom the Queen would be referred to as "Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland and of all her other realms and territories, head of the Commonwealth, defender of the faith," in Canada she might be "Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, and of Canada," and so on.

Chinese Take Little Nori

SEOUL (AP) — Chinese Communists stabbed through withering Allied artillery fire today to hurl South Korean defenders from Little Nori Hill on the western front for the second time in 17 hours.

Front-line officers said the Reds hurled 3,000 men into the attacks their biggest in a month.

South Korean troops withdrew at dusk in the face of a two-company Communist attack. The Chinese advanced through a thundering 1,000-round artillery barrage from their own guns.

AP correspondent Milo Farneti reported from the front that Communist big guns were stepping up the savage bombardment that began just before the Reds opened the see-saw battle shortly after midnight.

Atom-Smasher Uses Bullets

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—An atom-smasher using bullets which travel almost at the speed of light has gone to work at Stanford University. The machine offers new ways to learn the nature of matter.

It will be used to measure the incredibly-small distances between particles which make up the nucleus of an atom. It will seek to discover new particles within the nucleus. It will serve as an instrument for further clarifying the nature of electricity.

Most spectacular feature of the instrument is the speed and weight of its ultra-tiny bullets. The bullets are electrons, the smallest known particles of matter. They streak through a copper tube 200 feet long at about 186,000 miles a second. Light travels only a few feet a second faster than that.

The speed of the bullets is so great that the electrons increase their weight or mass 2,000 times during the trip. This gives them terrific striking power—the ability to smash atoms in possibly new ways.

The Stanford machine, shown for the first time to reporters Tuesday, hasn't been turned on full force yet. Its bullets now have a striking power of about 350,000,000 electron volts. Its builders said, however, that it soon will be operating at 1,000,000,000 volts.

Plan To Question Canadian Ship Crews

WASHINGTON (CP) — Crew members of Canadian, British and other foreign ships must be checked for political security before they may step ashore in United States ports, a spokesmen for the U. S. justice department said today.

The U. S. government has started work on a new immigration policy under which foreign sailors docking here must answer questions about their political leanings before they may go ashore.

Crew members of all foreign vessels come under the new law.

A department spokesman said in reply to an inquiry that crew members of Canadian vessels must also be cleared. He said, though, that there is no intention of sending special investigators to quiz Canadian sailors during voyages — a system which will be used with some transatlantic sailors.

Thinks Change Needed

Chisholm Will Resign As World Health Director

GENEVA, Switzerland (Reuters) — Dr. Brock Chisholm of Canada today announced his resignation from the post of director-general of the World Health Organization, to take effect when his contract expires July 21, 1953.

DR. BROCK CHISHOLM

In a letter to the president of the fifth world health assembly, Dr. Juan Salcedo, dated Nov. 4, Dr. Chisholm said:

"The major reasons for my decisions are that I believe that a permanent organization should not have the same head for too long, particularly at the beginning of its history."

Salcedo has informed the WHO executive board of the director-general's decision. The board will consider a new nomination when it meets here next month, to be submitted to the sixth world health assembly in Geneva in May next year.

Chisholm, 56, took over the world's top health job in 1948. A native of Oakville, Ont., he was a small-town doctor who became one of Canada's leading psychiatrists. During the Second World War he rose to director-general of medical services of the Canadian Army. Leaving the army in 1944, he became deputy minister of health.

U.S. President Rejects Conference

Blasts 2 Generals For Statements On War In Korea

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Truman today rejected suggestions that he hold a White House conference with Generals Eisenhower and MacArthur—and he blasted both of them.

Truman called President - elect Eisenhower's campaign announcement that he would go to Korea a piece of demagoguery.

And he told his press conference Gen. Douglas MacArthur should have reported to him after he returned from Japan following MacArthur's ouster last year. Truman said that is what any decent man would have done.

REFERENCE TO SPEECH

Truman spoke up in response to questions arising from MacArthur's speech to the National Association of Manufacturers in New York last Friday, when he said that "there is a clear and definite solution" to the Korean conflict.

Earlier this week, Eisenhower sent a message to MacArthur that he would be happy to meet with him to discuss any plans the former Far Eastern commander might have for ending the Korean war.

Eisenhower sent his telegram to MacArthur from the cruiser on which he is returning from the Korean trip he undertook to carry out his campaign pledge.

Truman then challenged MacArthur to tell him any ideas he may have for ending the war. He said it was MacArthur's duty.

And some congressmen suggested that Truman meet with both the president-elect and MacArthur to try to achieve a program for peace.

Truman came to his press conference obviously ready to do battle with the two generals.

NOT MUCH HELP

Truman said he travelled more than 14,000 miles to see MacArthur at Wake Island. About all he got for that was a lot of misinformation.

Asked what this misinformation was, Truman said MacArthur told him at their historic meeting at Wake Island, Oct. 14, 1950.

1. The Chinese would not move into Korea.
2. It would be possible to send a division of the regular United States Army from Korea to Germany for occupation purposes to relieve another division by January 1951.
3. MacArthur was sure the war was over.

Town Braced For Bad Fire

TRUCKEE, Calif. (AP) — The menace of a conflagration kept this mountain town in fearful suspense for two hours early today after 7,000 gallons of gasoline spilled down a quarter mile of the main street.

All traffic was stopped for fear a match or cigarette from a car might touch off a terrible fire.

A large tanker truck overturned and spilled its inflammable cargo. The driver had swerved to avoid a collision with another tanker.

The U. S. forest service, California highway patrol and Truckee fire department teamed to wash the gasoline off the main street.

Truckee — population 1,225 — is at the foot of Donner pass, about 35 miles west of Reno.

Plane Hits Mountain 31 Killed In Formosa

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — A Nationalist Chinese Air Force transport has crashed into a mountainside near Taipeh and killed 31 persons, including two women and three children, it was reported today.

The victims included 26 members of the air force. The women and children were dependents of air force personnel.

Air force headquarters said the plane was en route Monday to Taipeh from Pingtung, a Second World War Japanese air base in southern Formosa.

The pilot ran into bad weather and the plane smashed into a mountainside.

Sentence Youth To Be Hanged As Accomplice

LONDON (Reuters) — Derek Bentley, 19, accomplice of a 16-year-old boy who shot and killed a policeman in a rooftop gun battle was sentenced today to be hanged for his part in the murder

Christopher Craig, the boy who fired the shot, was ordered to be detained indefinitely "during the Queen's pleasure." He was saved from the gallows by British law which sets the minimum age for hanging at 18.

The two-day trial centred largely around Craig, described by his defence lawyer as "a symbol of wayward youth." He and Bentley were surprised by police as they clambered over a factory roof.

Craig pulled a .45-calibre revolver and blazed away at the unarmed police. "Just like the films" he told the court.

SHOT CONSTABLE

Police finally sent for a gun. After a few shots were exchanged Craig shot a constable between the eyes and leaped off the roof. Bentley already had been captured.

The judge, Lord Justice Goddard, told baby-faced Craig, "You are one of the most dangerous young criminals that has ever stood in that dock."

"It is quite obvious that people in this country will not be safe if you are out of prison.

"Your heart was full of hate when you murdered that policeman, without thought for his wife and his family or himself. And never once have you expressed a word of sorrow for what you have done."

Will Consider Report

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost and Reforms Minister Foote today issued a joint statement saying the royal commission report on the inquiry into the administration of Toronto's Don jail will receive the most thorough consideration.

The statement was issued after a cabinet meeting in which the report was formally presented to the premier by Attorney-General Porter.

Ask National Policy For Older Workers

OTTAWA (CP)—A declaration of national policy for the employment of older workers was urged before the national advisory council on manpower. The proposal was made Wednesday as the council—the 32-member body that advises the government on manpower problems—grappled with the question of overcoming long-rooted feelings against older workers on jobs. T. D. Anderson, general secretary of the Canadian Legion, endorsed the idea of a government policy as suggested by information director George Blackburn of the labor department in a report on the problem.

The council, in the opening day of a periodic two-day meeting, eventually decided to set up a subcommittee to deal with the question of the older worker and bring in specific recommendations.

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS:

1. A labor department report said Canada's employment outlook for this winter is better than a year ago.
2. Arthur MacNamara, deputy minister of labor and council co-chairman, said that if defence industry eventually finds it cannot pick up enough workers locally, the labor department will work out a system of advancing transportation fares to workers in other areas. However, a national employment service report said there have been no serious labor bottlenecks and none are anticipated in the foreseeable future.
3. Ian Campbell, recently appointed co-ordinator for rehabilitating disabled persons in industry, said progress is being made towards a federal-provincial program to get the disabled into jobs. He suggested more funds be made available for medical facilities and that disabled persons be given quicker access to vocational training programs.

The employment report said the only significant weak spot in the national employment picture is logging. Big lumber stocks and stiff world competition contributed to this condition.

As a result, the report said, labor surpluses probably will be larger than a year ago in logging areas on both coasts and in northern Ontario and Quebec.

Plan To Meet At Coronation

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime ministers of the Commonwealth made arrangements today to meet again in London at the time of the Coronation next June.

Prime Minister Churchill is extending formal invitations to the Commonwealth statesmen to attend this conference. They have finished 10-day discussions on the sterling areas' economic problems and are putting finishing touches to a public statement on their work.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden will discuss the statement at a press conference tonight.

Sir Chintaman Deshmukh, India's finance minister, who represented Prime Minister Nehru at the talks, left London by air for New Delhi today.

He described the conference as "most successful."

Fire And Explosions Destroy Storage Shed

TORONTO (CP) — Fire and exploding paint drums today destroyed the two-storey frame storage shed of the Ontario Paint and Varnish company on Pape avenue in east-end Toronto.

More than a score of persons including children and an invalid woman escaped flames menacing nearby dwellings. A fireproof door and the efforts of 75 firemen were credited with saving the adjoining factory where 1,000 gallons of paint and varnish were stored.

Several district residents said they were knocked out of bed by a series of explosions.

The $16,000 fire was blamed by company employees on hobos using the shed as sleeping quarters.

Vote Saves Clerk Wife Wins Election

BELLEVILLE (CP). — Clayton Price, clerk of Dungannon Township, won't have to choose between his wife and a neighbor after all.

As clerk of the township, Mr. Price is required to cast the deciding vote in municipal election ties.

At an election December 3 the clerk's wife and Donald Littleproud tied for a school board position with 108 votes each.

But Wednesday County Judge J. C. Anderson held a recount and a ballot previously declared spoiled was counted.

Mrs. Price won the seat.

Two Boys Decide To Try Millionaire's Life Spending Spree Ended By Oklahoma Police

OKLAHOMA CITY AP — Everyone has a yen to live like a millionaire. No one had the desire more than two young brothers.

The boys, age 11 and 12, found temptation too much as they sat near a woman with a bulging purse Monday night. Later, when they looked inside the purse, they found what appeared to be a million dollars—or, $160 cold cash.

The next day they skipped to school loaded. Police, recapping their adventure, said they threw dollar bills in the air and watched their school mates scramble for the money.

One of them tipped a playmate $1.25 for a shoe shine.

As the day wore on, the spending money became dull, the 12-year-old found a way to liven things up. He gave a girl $2 for four kisses.

The brothers handed a school mate a $20 bill and ordered: "Here son. Get me some change." When the friend returned he was tipped $5 for his trouble.

Hot dog stands in the neighborhood suddenly found they were doing a banner business.

When the boys ran out of cash —they also ran out of friends. By that time police had been informed of the spending spree and collared them.

An angry father promised full restitution.

Tear Gas, Bullets Used By Police To Quell Rioters

LOUISEVILLE, Que. (CP)—At least five persons were injured, one seriously, when striking textile workers and police clashed today in battles marked by tear gas and bullets and reading of the Riot Act. Twenty-five persons were reported arrested, all whisked away to undisclosed destinations in provincial police cars. Two outbreaks occurred. The first came when 300 strikers and sympathizers, including 50 who came from Granby, marched to the plant of the Associated Textiles of Canada, where a strike has been in effect 10 months.

The second, during which the more serious injuries were reported, broke out at the headquarters of the union, the Louiseville Textile Syndicate (CCCL). The headquarters are in the same building as the provincial police station.

Police cleaned out the union headquarters, and strikers were told the Riot Act had been proclaimed by civic authorities.

Scores of provincial police from Montreal and Quebec swarmed about this town of 3,500, and the situation several hours after the outbreaks still appeared tense. Most residents remained inside their homes.

Those injured at union headquarters were taken to St. Joseph hospital in nearby Three Rivers. They are:

Adrien Dumas, 35, reported seriously wounded by two bullets fired into his jaw. He is the father of nine children.

Roland Belanger, 30, reported unconscious from a bullet wound.

Lucien Fortin, 40, head injuries.

Jean-Paul Lemay, 30, contusions.

Sylvio Carpentier, 38, eye injury.

All five were said to be members of the Louiseville syndicate.

Others were reported to have been slightly injured in scuffling with police.

FIRST OUTBREAK

The first outbreak came early this morning when the 300 marched to the company's plant. Among them were the 50 reported to have come in from Granby by bus.

Strikers said police were on the plant roof and on the ground and that those on the roof began firing and throwing tear gas bombs. Police on the ground rushed the marchers and dispersed them.

The strikers and sympathizers then headed back into town and went to union headquarters.

They said a police car drew up in front, with five officers in it. The strikers said they threw snowballs at the policemen, who then moved in. Fighting broke out. Shots were fired and clubs wielded.

$170,000 Fire Razes 2 Huntsville Stores

HUNTSVILLE (CP) — An auto parts store and barber shop were destroyed with damage estimated at $170,000 in a fire here Wednesday night Huntsville is about 110 miles north of Toronto.

The building housing the parts store and barber shop was valued at $90,000. Two adjoining clothing damage.

Mrs. L. Ruby, asleep in an apartment above one of the clothing stores, was awakened by a telephone call from a neighbor who saw the flames. She was ready to leave when passers-by broke into her apartment minutes later.

Pass Proposal For Talks On Israeli Peace

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) The UN's special political committee today approved an eight-power proposal calling on Israel and the Arab countries to begin direct talks aimed at a final peace in Palestine.

The proposal was approved by a vote of 32-13, with 13 countries abstaining.

The plan also called for the UN Palestine conciliation commission to continue its efforts to aid in bringing the bitter controversy to a peaceful settlement.

Israel agreed to support the eight-nation proposal, but the Arab countries told the committee it was completely unacceptable.

SPONSOR PLAN

Sponsors of the plan were Canada, Cuba, Denmark, Ecuador, The Netherlands, Norway, Panama and Uruguay. It was supported by the United States and Britain.

The Arabs favor a proposa, introduced by Pakistan, Indonesia, Iran and Afghanistan, calling for enlargement of the three-man UN Palestine mediation commission to five members and location of its headquarters in Jerusalem. The commission now is made up of the U. S., Turkey and France.

The Arab states also have complained that Israel has ignored past UN resolutions calling for the internationalization of Jerusalem, the right of some 900,000 Arab refugees to return to their homes in Palestine and final settlement of Israeli frontiers.

They claim that the Western-backed resolution waters down this issue by merely calling attention to those resolutions and urging the two parties to agree on a final settlement.

Syria's resolution, introduced in a surprise move Wednesday by its delegate, Ahmed Shukairi, asks the international court of justice to decide whether Arab refugees are entitled to repatriation to the homes they fled during the 1948 Palestine war. The Arab countries demand this as a prerequisite to any peace settlement.

Says 4 Deputy Reeves Hold Office Illegally

WHITBY (CP) — Ontario county council will conduct an investigation into charges made by Mayor Harry Jermyn of Whitby that four or five of the county's deputy reeves are holding office illegally.

Mayor Jermyn claimed that the township assessors in some instances have listed many married women as owners of property when in fact they are not property owners.

Under the present system a deputy reeve is appointed only if there is a high enough assessment in the township.

Contest Extradition

Arrest 2 Men In Hamilton In Buffalo Murder Case

HAMILTON (CP) — Two men were under arrest here today charged with murder in the holdup of a Buffalo, N. Y. jeweller.

Police identified them as Maurice O'Dell, 27, of Hamilton, and Walter Griffins, 26, formerly of Toronto. A third man is sought in the case.

O'Dell and Griffins will be held for extradition to the United States. O'Dell has indicated he will fight extradition.

The two men were remanded one week by Magistrate Beamer W. Hopkins this morning.

The arrests followed the arrival here of Police Commissioner Michael C. Noeppel of Buffalo. He was accompanied by Lieut. Harry Klenk, chief of Buffalo's homicide squad and Detective William T. Fitzgibbon.

Noeppel was quoted earlier as saying "We've got two of the three men positively connected with the murder and robbery" of Donald F. Hurd, 45, in Buffalo Tuesday.

Hamilton police accompanied the three United States officers in a raid last night on a residence where they found O'Dell in bed. The man surrendered without resistance. Another raid early today on the Griffins' home also led to a surrender without a fight.

Police here said they believed O'Dell and Griffins returned to Hamilton last night with another man in a car.

Estimates of diamonds stolen from Hurd's shop after he was killed by a revolver bullet ranged from $10,000 to more than $40,000.

It was not known immediately whether any of the loot was recovered.

The slain jeweller was born in Gananoque, Ont., and lived there and in nearby Kingston until he was about 15 years old. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Hurd, now live in Buffalo.

Skipper Threatens To Sink Ship; Smuggled Ashore

HALIFAX (CP) — A young Israeli skipper brought to shore from the ship he threatened to scuttle was hidden under strict secrecy wraps today by port officials who termed him "mentally ill." Capt. Adam Graetz, 24-year-old skipper of the Abraham Graetz, was landed here from a tug which picked him off the freighter outside Halifax harbor at the request of the ship's owners and her agents here. The landing ended one phase of the strange sea story but left another still unanswered: What happened aboard the 5,686-ton ship from the time Graetz threatened to sink her until he was put aboard the tug?

Whereabouts of the freighter, named after the skipper's grandfather, were unknown today but she was believed headed for Saint John, N. B.

Details of the entire story were skimpy and reporters trying to piece together an accurate account were hampered by refusal of everyone connected with it to talk.

Still unanswered were such questions as how Graetz was overpowered or otherwise convinced to abandon his plans to scuttle the ship, outward bound from New York to Israel with scheduled stops at Saint John and Halifax.

Officials in Tel Aviv confirmed radio messages in which Graetz said he would sink the ship unless his father was named to the Israeli cabinet.

"Either you appoint my father minister of communications or else I sink the ship," the newspaper Maariv quoted him as saying in his first message last week-end.

A communications ministry reply to the ship's radio officer said: "Disobey captain, follow orders first officer."

HELD AT GUNPOINT

Hours later the operator replied: "Unable follow your orders as captain holding me at pistol point."

Later messages from the master demanded the arrest of all high officials of the ministry and another complained of an attempted mutiny by the crew.

Then there was silence and the situation aboard the ship remained a mystery until the skipper was landed here yesterday.

Graetz's father, H. R. Graetz, is one of the owners of M. Dizengoff and Co., the line to which the ship belongs.

He flew to New York from Israel following receipt of the first messages and early today arrived in Montreal en route to Halifax to see his son.

The tug Foundation Vera met the freighter 16 miles out of Halifax and Capt. Fred Turner said Graetz came aboard without incident and appeared "quite normal" during conversations on the return trip.

Crew members of the tug did not know the nature of their trip and were under the impression that there was some sort of illness aboard the freighter.

TREATED AS PATIENT

Immigration officers here said Graetz will be treated as a "sick mariner" under international regulations which provide him with the best available treatment and accommodation until he is returned to his native land.

At first it was reported that he had been admitted to a hospital but later it was discovered that he had gone to a hotel

Hotel officials said he hadn't registered but declined to say whether someone had done so for him.

Graetz, described as a tense and nervous type, learned his seamanship as skipper of ships running the British blockade of Israel when the new state was fighting for recognition.

NO QUORUM

For the first time in at least 12 years, there were too few members present at the Board of Health meeting Wednesday afternoon to make a quorum. City Clerk E. A. Outram said today that Wednesday's meeting was the first time such a situation has occurred during the 12 years he has been secretary of the board.

Western Oils Continue Gains On Market

TORONTO (CP) — Western oils continued to gain in early afternoon stock market trading today but most other sections were weak.

Volume for the first three hours totalled 827,000 shares.

Western oil gains outnumbered losses more than three to one as Cal. and Ed., Canadian Atlantic, Home, Calmont and Kroy traded higher. Canada Southern Central Explorers and Pacific slipped.

Ascot led the decline in base metals, trading 34,000 shares for a loss of four cents. Nesbitt-Labine also slipped in active trading. Western Tungsten added pennies and Ankeno gained 29 cents at the end of the third hour.

Senior golds held firm but junior producers continued weak as East Malartic and Hallnor slipped. Prospects slipped although Gunnar added pennies in active trading. Holding companies weakened.

Papers and utilities led the industrials advance and foods also showed strength. Refining oils and banks slipped.

Released On Bail Re-arrested At Once

BELLEVILLE — Walter Johnston, 36, of Toronto, was released on bail here Wednesday, but arrested again before he could reach the street.

Johnston faces charges here of breaking, entering and theft, possession of stolen money and having a counterfeit $10 bill in his possession. He was released on bail of $20,000 here Wednesday, then arrested for Toronto police. He had been on bail of $5,000 from Toronto when he was arrested here.

He faces the first two charges jointly with Mickey Metrunitz, 40, of Sutton, and William Knutson, 28, of Toronto. Knutson has been released on $10,000 bail, but Metrunitz is still in jail.

Ottawa Loses $3,500,000 On Surplus Pork

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government lost $3,500,000 on the sale of 16,500,000 pounds of surplus canned pork, the Commons has been informed.

In a reply tabled Wednesday for A.E. Catherwood (PC—Haldimand) Robert McCubbin, parliamentary assistant to Agriculture Minister Gardiner, said:

1. Until Oct. 31, the government sold 16,500,000 pounds of the canned product and still held another 49,000,000.

2. The government didn't know where the canned pork that was sold ended up, but estimated that 16,000,000 pounds was distributed in the domestic market and the remainder exported.

3. The government invested almost $39,000,000 in canned pork until Oct. 31. For the amount sold it received $5,700,000 and estimated its loss at $3,500,000.

The government offered price support for canned pork when the American market was closed as a result of foot-and-mouth disease in south Saskatchewan.

Cavan WI Exchanges Christmas Gifts

CAVAN—The monthly institute meeting of Cavan Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. William Howden on Tuesday evening. Mrs. George Clark, vice-president, presided at the meeting in the absence of president Mrs. D. Nill, who is ill.

The roll call was exchange of Christmas gifts. As each name was called each member placed her gift under a Christmas tree. Numbers were placed on each gift and a corresponding number given to each member.

Business was discussed and plans made to send baskets of fruit and candy to shut-ins. Also plans for help for a needy family. Mrs. N. Braithwaite brought a quilt pieced by her group and recently quilted by institute members. This is to be donated to a needy family. Mrs. Roy Ferrin was appointed to visit said family and give report on what was most needed.

Mrs. N. Braithwaite's group then took charge for a program. Mrs. A. A. Chote from Millbrook gave a very beautiful Flannelgraph story of Christmas, which was thoroughly enjoyed. Mrs. Robinson gave out a Bible contest, Mrs. H. Snider winning first prize. Booby prize went to Mrs. Newall.

The opening of Christmas gifts then took place, after which Mrs. Clarke closed the meeting.

Mrs. N. Braithwaite's group served lunch and a social time was spent.

MORE ABOUT—
U.S. President

The press conference came after Senator Arthur V. Watkins (Rep. Utah) had urged that Truman "set aside rancor" and invite Eisenhower and MacArthur to a strategy meeting in Korea.

The President said he could not see that any good purpose would be served by such a conference, but he said either man would be welcome if he had something he wanted to discuss.

Then, referring to a statement Eisenhower made after completing his visit to Korea last week that he had no panacea or trick solution for ending the Korean war, Truman said that was a quotation from one of his own (Truman's) campaign speeches.

Asked about a report that the attorney-general of Massachusetts had said Truman was urged to say during the recent campaign that he himself would go to Korea, the President said such a step was suggested.

But, he said, he rejected the suggestion, deciding it would serve no good purpose and would be just a piece of demagoguery.

And, he added with a touch of acid in his voice, that is just what it turned out to be.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Flax was strong in early trade today on the Winnipeg grain exchange. Local buying sent flax prices higher.

Buying in barley was attributed to American interests and exporters but the demand was light. Oats were quiet, with only small routine demand. Rye was local.

11 a.m. prices:

Oats: Dec. ½ lower 81⅜A; May ¼ lower 82⅛B; July ⅛ lower 78¾B.

Barley: Dec. ⅝ lower 1.24¾A; May ⅜ lower 1.23⅞B; July ⅛ lower 1.18⅛A.

Rye: Dec. ¼ higher 1.76½; May ½ lower 1.82⅝A; July, not open.

Flax: Dec. 1¼ higher 3.29; May 2-1½ higher 3.37; July 2⅛ higher 3.38¾.

Liberals Win Confidence Vote In House

Defeat CCF Motion By Vote of 185 to 21; First Break In Debate

OTTAWA —(CP)—The Liberal government has won its first vote of confidence in the new session of Parliament. The issue: national health insurance.

The Commons, in the first vote of the session which began Nov. 20, Wednesday defeated by a vote of 185 to 21 a CCF motion of non-confidence in the government.

The motion censured the Liberals for "failure" to establish health insurance or to implement proposals for fiscal and financial reform set out at the federal-provincial conference of 1945. Only the CCF and Social Credit parties voted for the motion.

The vote was the first break in the 14-day-old debate on the government's policy-setting speech from the throne. But the debate may go on for some time yet.

INTRODUCE SECOND

Following the division, the Social Credit party introduced another want-of-confidence motion. Moved by John Blackmore (SC—Lethbridge), it charged the government had "failed" to sponsor a realistic financial policy guaranteeing adequate markets and a just share of the country's wealth to every Canadian.

The Social Credit motion opened a new opportunity for speakers from any part of the House to talk on any subject they wish.

Also still to be decided is a Progressive Conservative motion of non-confidence. This criticizes the government for alleged waste and extravagance, overtaxation and for "failure" to take steps for a new federal-provincial conference on health insurance.

The Commons will vote later on these motions.

ASK RECONSIDERATION

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, again urged the government to reconsider its policy on television by which private stations will not be considered for major points serviced by the CBC.

Mr. Drew said his party wants health insurance, but it should be given more study. The provinces and the municipalities at present were in no position to handle the financial obligations a national health plan would involve. He appealed for CCF support for his party's motion for a new health insurance conference to include the medical profession.

Government spokesmen have said they favor national health insurance but don't think the country has enough facilities to handle it.

Highlight of the day's debate was an exchange between James Sinclair, new minister of fisheries, and Ross Thatcher, outspoken CCF member for Moose Jaw who has been criticized by the CCF for not always adhering to the party line.

WOULD SLASH TAXES

Mr. Thatcher said the government could cut $375,000,000 off the "dangerous" tax load Canadians now carry by slashing sales, personal income and corporation taxes. He said high taxes are bleeding business white and blunting its initiative.

The latter assertion brought from Mr. Sinclair the observation that Mr. Thatcher's argument was unusual for one of his party and he wondered if it was party policy. He said Mr. Thatcher could be termed a "business tycoon" because since the end of the war he had expanded his lone Moose Jaw hardware store into a chain of stores.

Mr. Sinclair, formerly parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, said only about $700,000,000 of the present $4,500,000,000 federal budget corresponded to 1939 government expenditures. Defence, social security, payments to the provinces and the national debt took up the rest.

Therefore, he argued, government spending was about equal to 1939.

SYNTHETIC EFFORT

C. E. Johnston (SC—Bow River) said Canada's economy is founded on the synthetic floor of the defence effort. If "peace was declared" tomorrow there would be trouble. He saw dangerous signs already in the fact that 100,000 Canadians were out of work and farm prices were dropping.

Mr. Blackmore, moving the Social Credit amendment, said the world's main problems today are monetary. Money should be the servant of man, not the master. This could be done by the simple expedient of balancing the flow of money with the flow of goods. This would halt the overbalances that cause inflations and depressions.

Canadian Senator Helping To Shape Budget For UN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (CP) A Canadian senator-business man is helping shape the United Nations budget for 1953.

He favors a paring-knife rather than an ax.

Senator Gordon B. Isnor of Nova Scotia has many suggestions for tightening UN expenditures that will amount to about $48,000,000 next year.

But he believes drastic economies cannot be made on a strictly business basis across the board because of the international complications involved.

While Isnor is new to international diplomacy, he was a Liberal member of the Nova Scotia legislature for seven years. During his 15 years in the Commons at Ottawa he served on finance committees and was chairman of the war expenditures board.

Isnor was appointed to the Senate in 1950. He owns a small chain of men's-wear stores in the Maritime provinces.

PRESSING POLICY

As Canada's representative on the budgetary committee of the general assembly, Isnor is pressing the Canadian policy of continuing examination of the UN budget to eliminate "waste, extravagance, overlaps and duplication."

In next year's budget, Canada's bill is cut from 3.35 to 3.30 per cent of the total. Last year Canada paid $1,438,490. Isnor noted this with favor in committee but expressed concern that Canada might some day be called on to pay more per capita than the United States, which will pay 35.1 per cent of next year's budget, or about $16,000,000. Both Canada and the U.S. now contribute about 10 cents per capita.

Isnor took on a diplomatic role in helping persuade Senator Alexander Wiley, Republican from Wisconsin, to accept the committee's recommendations for the U.S. share. Wiley wanted the U.S. bill cut to 33.3 per cent this year, but the committee said it should be 35.12 per cent until 1954.

Later Isnor and Wiley ganged up on the Russian delegation by expressing surprise at the contrast between Russian claims of vast economic development, and fierce Soviet objection to any boost in its contributions. Russia's bill was raised from 9.85 to 12.28 per cent.

EVEN THE BIRDS WERE WALKING— The worst fog in modern times recently enveloped London, turning Trafalgar Square, above, into a night-time scene at mid-day. More than 160 lives were lost in accidents or by aggravation of respiratory diseases because of the smoke-laden pall, and an estimated $28,000,000 damage was suffered by trade and transport, disrupted by the poisonous shroud. So thick was the fog that people were killed by unwittingly walking over the banks of the Thames River, and one man was injured when a mallard duck, "flying blind," crashed into him in the pea-souper.

There were 17 cargoes of wheat sold for export overnight, but the wheat market failed to respond to this large business. The United Kingdom, Austria, and Italy were buyers.

Soybeans were weaker than the major cereals. Deferred deliveries of oats also were under some pressure. Trading was slow in all pits.

Wheat started ⅛ cent lower to ⅜ higher, December $2.33¼-⅓; corn was unchanged to ¼ higher, December $1.65¾-⅞, and oats were unchanged to ⅜ lower, December 84¾-½. Soybeans were ¼-1¼ cents lower, January $3.03-3.03¼.

98 Divisions Accepted As Target

Committee Demands Time Limit Stretched To 1956

PARIS (CP)—The military committee of the 14-power Atlantic Alliance agreed to set up as a target the raising of 98 divisions to defend Western Europe.

This was the goal proposed by the American military representatives. But the Americans' proposed target date, the end of 1954, was not accepted by the committee Wednesday night.

Britain proposed that the raising of the 98 divisions be stretched out to 1956. In the end the question was left for settlement by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization council of ministers which meets here Dec. 15.

Last year NATO set the goal of 98 divisions by the end of 1954. But since then most of the members have expressed doubts that they could meet their commitments within the time limit because of the strain on their finances.

Gen. Matthew Ridgway, supreme allied commander in Europe, told the Atlantic Pact chiefs of staff he is "thoroughly satisfied" with the build-up of his forces this year.

"Nevertheless," he warned, "the forces available to me are still not sufficient to give the necessary security to the member nations of the alliance."

Ridgway's statements were released in an official announcement.

Reliable sources said the top military leaders in their secret session Wednesday studied preliminary estimates that Allied armies in Western Europe will number about 60 divisions at the end of next year.

The military committee approved a recommendation to appoint Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten of Britain to a new naval sea-command in the Mediterranean, it was reported. He is the present commander of the Royal Navy Mediterranean Fleet. His new job will give him control of through east-west communications in the sea.

Plowmen Plan Match For 1953

COBOURG (ENS)—Plans for the International Plowing Match, to be held here next year, were discussed at the annual meeting of the plowmen's association. Delegates were present from a large number of local plowmen's association groups and considerable discussion took place in regard to the desirable assessment of each for prize money, and other details. The Victoria county delegation urged that the first day be considered the local match event and that the prize money be donated by each match for that day. It was felt that coachings would be desirable but that local matches would somewhat detract from the international.

Four counties were invited to participate with the suggestion that each association put $400 into the prizes offered, with the understanding that any money not taken up would be returned to the associations on an equal refund basis. Ontario county, with two matches, wished to consider this and it was understood that if their share were not on this basis, some adjustment should be made as they would take a larger share of the prizes. Out of the meeting came the understanding that the only plowmen's associations convenient who would be expected to participate would be Peterborough, Victoria, South Ontario, North Ontario and Northumberland and Durham. Some felt that the total of $2,000 was too much, while others thought more plowmen should be encouraged to participate and at least offer a large possibility of prizes.

Since many good agricultural counties have no plowmen's organization active, it was suggested that counties donating $100 to the prize money be allowed to send contestants, and an invitation would be sent out to Hastings, Prince Edward and Lennox and Addington. The agricultural representatives in these counties will be asked to forward this participation and to make some arrangement for this prize money.

On motion of Wesley Down and Clair Winslow it was resolved that the president and secretary of each of the five plowmen's associations and one representative of the counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox & Addington, be named by the agricultural representative of those counties to be a committee to plan the first or local day of the international.

L. H. Winslow, vice chairman of the International Match, was appointed to co-relate the Northumberland and Durham Counties Council with the progress of the International and the financing necessary. On motion of Mayor J. Burnet of Cobourg and I. W. Larmer, the following international executive comprise the committee in charge of the delegation to the Ontario Plowmen's Association meeting in Toronto on Feb. 5 of next year — Harry Campbell, Bailieboro; L. H. Winslow, Millbrook; Edwin Wilson, Garden Hill; Wesley Down, Hilton; Ken Symons, Cobourg and agricultural representatives E. A. Summers of Durham and R. C. Banbury of Northumberland.

MOROCCO RIOTERS reach for the sky under the menace of rifles held by helmeted Makhazni police guards as they are taken into custody, following savage anti-French rioting in Carrieres Centrales, a Casablanca suburb. The Moroccans were seized in Monday's fighting which brought the toll of death to at least 50. Police now are conducting a large-scale evacuation of European residents from the native quarter and more than 10,000 troops are patrolling the streets to prevent further outbreaks.

Why Waste Money On Royal Commissions?

At the same time that news was made public of the report of the Royal Commission headed by Judge I. M. MacDonell, on conditions at the Don Jail, a statement was made by the Rev. John W. Foote, Minister of Reform Institutions, disagreeing with a vital clause in it. The Macdonell Report said that the governor of the Don, Thomas W. Brand, should be dismissed; Mr. Foote defends Mr. Brand, and wants to lay the blame on his second-in-command, Alexander Noble. We may expect, therefore, to see Mr. Brand moved to some other good job in Mr. Foote's department. We shall watch with interest to see what happens to the other important recommendations made in the Report. The haste with which Mr. Foote has contradicted the findings of the Commission suggests that his department will do what it pleases, when it pleases, without regard to what has been suggested after twenty days of expensive investigation.

* * *

May we suggest that in future the Government of Ontario would do well to think before it sets in motion the costly and impressive machinery of a Royal Commission? The Hope Report on Education was a long time in preparation, and some good men and women gave their best efforts to preparing it. But the Government has killed it as dead as a doornail, and much that was intelligently progressive in the realm of education has been dismissed with what looks very much like contempt. The Kennedy Report on Forestry was, so far as we are capable of judging, a document full of interest, and conceived on a scale which would have made its recommendations effective in Ontario woodlands for fifty years to come. But the Kennedy Report is as dead as the Hope Report.

* * *

We think that Ontario is tired of this governmental trick of setting up a Royal Commission as a means of getting an important matter out of the way, and knifing the Commission's report when it is made available. It is expensive; it brings the institution of the Royal Commission into disrepute; it is essentially dishonest.

Remodelling The Coronation

The prospect of a Coronation has aroused the reforming spirit in many breasts. All kinds of people want to make changes in the old ceremony; there are those who want to revise the Coronation Oath, those who want to push privileged persons out of the best seats, those who want to take the proceeding out of the hands of the Church of England. Some of the suggestions for improvement are good; others are merely silly. And of course there are many people, drunk with the spirit of pageantry, who want to revive ancient customs which would give them a small but showy part in the proceedings.

One of the few suggestions which impress us as having real merit comes from a peer, Lord Altrincham, who expresses himself thus:

> Surely next year's Coronation should be so organized as to provide place in the Abbey for representatives of the whole Commonwealth in proper measure, without undue preponderance to those of the United Kingdom. As a peer who has perhaps had some opportunity of serving the Commonwealth in all its countries, I should myself be quite willing to surrender my place in the Abbey if I could thereby assist in making the Coronation a truly Commonwealth occasion. I cannot believe that other peers would be less willing. Our robes and coronets are of very little account compared with the magnificence of a Crown which rings the globe and symbolizes the greatest political experiment in human history.

Unquestionably the Coronation is a Commonwealth occasion, and representatives of the Commonwealth should have places from which they can watch and take part in the whole ceremony. For a majority of the people who will be in Westminster Abbey for the great occasion will not do so; the Queen is crowned before the High Altar, and only those nearby, and seated in the transepts, will see what happens; those who are in the nave of the great church will see her only as she enters and leaves. The seats in the transepts are usually kept for the peers, who must personally take their oath of allegiance as soon as the Queen is crowned.

There has been some liberalizing of the Coronation ceremonies in this century. It is now usual for dignitaries of other churches than the Church of England to be present, and near the throne. The press get very good seats, directly above the chancel, in the triforium. We should not like to think that the peers, who have a traditional right to be near the throne, and whose handsome robes add so much to the grandeur of the ceremony, had been pushed aside in favour of Commonwealth statesmen; after all, the ancestors of those peers were men who made the present Commonwealth. But the statesmen ought to be there, even if it means some crowding. After all, they are making the Commonwealth work today.

The Coronation is a living thing, and its symbolism is vital; it is not play-acting. Therefore the people chiefly concerned ought to have places of importance not only for their own sakes, but to make it clear to the world that the British Commonwealth is very much alive, and can breathe new life into an old ceremony, just as it has breathed new life into the old concept of an empire.

Stores Stay Open

Last Monday was Conception Day, a holy day by the Roman Catholic church calendar. By Montreal city bylaw imposed last year, stores must close for such holy days, as they do on Sundays, Christmas and other days proclaimed holidays by the laws of the land. Last Monday 410 Montreal stores stayed open, despite the ban, and did one of their best day of business of the Christmas season.

The police were busy during the day on main shopping streets with two oddly-paired jobs. One was to go to open stores and buy nylon stockings, jewelry, clothing and assorted household items to prove in court that the stores actually were open. The other police job was to control the shopping crowds and traffic, unusually heavy because suburban shops closed, leaving the field open to the bigger departmental stores and distinguished shops of the central commercial area, who are willing to risk fines and have put up money to fight conviction and the bylaw.

A year ago exactly the new bylaw first hit the merchants. Many stores then remained open, as they did on the three other special holy days since. Summonses were issued (as they will be again this year) and fines levied. Seven large stores appealed, contesting the constitutionality of the bylaw in Superior Court. That Court found it ultra vires. The city appealed the verdict. No final judgement has yet been delivered. The issue is one in which Cardinal-designate Leger, the Archbishop of Montreal, has a personal interest.

The Tax On Cigarettes

The tobacco growers of Southern Ontario have made a bold statement about the tax on cigarettes: they say that if the Government will cut the tax so that cigarettes may be sold for thirty cents a package, there will be no loss of revenue, for more cigarettes will be sold. Just how they know that this would be the case they have not revealed. But they say that if the tax were cut as they desire, the tobacco crop could be doubled, and growers, workers and consumers would all be happier.

There is much to be said on the growers' side. The taxes on tobacco are punitive; the Government, luckily for it, never has to justify the system whereby it lays rapacious taxes on some luxuries and treats others with comparative leniency. Thirty-nine cents for a packet of ordinary cigarettes is a ridiculous price, and in protest and from necessity many thousands of people have reduced their smoking or stopped it altogether. And the growers have at least a theory on their side when they say that reduced taxation would not mean reduced revenue. Very high taxes tend to dry up revenue. There is hardly a deal of any sort made nowadays in Canada which is not made with one eye fixed firmly on taxation; if the results of the deal will not bring a satisfactory sum of money after taxes have been paid, the deal is off, however attractive it may seem in other ways. Certainly it can be argued, and with force, that high taxes in all fields dampen enterprise and inhibit business. Certainly the smoker would take out his packet of cigarettes with a lighter heart if it cost him thirty cents than he does now.

In order to make the change the tobacco growers desire the Government would have to do two things. First, it would have to admit that it had made a mistake about taxing tobacco, and no Government ever does that with a good grace. Second, it would have to admit that taxes can be reduced on a luxury without reducing revenue, and this would bring a flood of requests and arguments from other heavily-taxed luxury trades. No Government likes arguments with taxpayers.

The public, which would be an interested party in any deal between the public and the tobacco growers, would also like to have some reassurance that all the benefit of tax reduction would be handed on to them. If growers or manufacturers of tobacco were to take the opportunity afforded by reduced taxes to increase their own profit, the public would feel that it had been unfairly used, and the expected increase in the consumption of tobacco would be most unlikely.

Do you remember when a dollar burned a hole in your pocket? It couldn't raise a spark, now.

THE AMERICAN SCENE

Telebirth And Toilet Seat

By KENNETH HARRIS

MASTER GORDON CAMBELL KERR, who seems to have something of the Scottish about him, was recently the star of a television show—and a coast-to-coast hook-up at that—at the age of one. Not one year, but one minute.

The scene was laid in the University of Colorado's medical school. Master Kerr's mother, something of a gift to medical students, had in the past been delivered of two children via Caesarean operation and, as it was certain that young Gordon would make his debut in circumstances requiring a third such operation upon Mrs. Kerr, it was decided, with his mother's permission, to have the third phase of this remarkable obstetrical hat-trick televised.

Though the televising was for the benefit of thousands of medical students who could telestudy the telebirth all over the country simultaneously, the telepublic were allowed to look on. Everything went off splendidly, including the "commercial" at the beginning and the end of the performance, in which a well-known pharmaceutical firm made its presence known.

MILLIONS of televiewers were brought into the operating theatre a few seconds before Master Kerr made his entrance. The cameras, discreetly turned away at the precise moment of his appearance, were swept back within sixty seconds of it, to reveal the precocious little starlet, looking like a skinned rabbit, being lifted, rear view on, by one of the crowd of doctors who had somehow managed to get into the act.

We then saw Gordon being transported to a nearby table, being wrapped in blankets, being filled medicine, and having his mouth and nose cleaned up with suction pumps. In a second or two, he had come up with a quite prepossessing yell. He weighed in at five pounds seven ounces, and is doing fine.

READERS WHO ARE familiar with black magic will already know what a "hex" is. But since familiarity with black magic is not as common as it used to be, let it be explained that "hex" is a word which the German-descended Americans of the State of Pennsylvania use for the spell which from time to time witches are inclined to put upon people.

For very many decades, not centuries, the German-descended Americans of Pennsylvania and the other States of the Union, have been trying to make out that "hexes" are to be laughed off or ignored as out-of-date superstitions.

Now, at the annual meeting of the medical associations of twelve Southern States in North Carolina, up comes the celebrated Dr. Vernon Kinross-Wright, neuro-psychiatrist of the even more celebrated Duke University, to point out that persons who complain that they have been "hexed" should be taken very seriously, and not laughed at since, in nine cases out of ten, they probably have.

✧ ✧ ✧

AMONG THE MANY HEXUAL CASES which Dr. Kinross-Wright described, the most typical was that of Mr. X., a thirty-two-year-old man from the deepest of the deep and most hexable South who came to Duke Hospital complaining that he had gnawing pains in his stomach, could not eat and could not drink, though his hunger and thirst were excessive.

His symptoms, Mr. X stated, were the result of a spell put upon him by a local magician who had been hired for the job by Mr. X's late business-partner, who, Mr. X said, believed that Mr. X had cheated him over a business deal.

Dr. Kinross-Wright explained that this patient had got himself into his undoubtedly pathological condition as a result of self-hypnosis—which may or may not have been inspired by a self-styled "hex-doctor"—caused by a combination of his own "highly suggestible" personality and his "feeling of guilt" at having committed some act of which he was ashamed. As a result of these two possible causes having been brought to his attention he was cured in three weeks.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHAT IS GOING to happen to Governor Adlai Stevenson, defeated Democratic candidate in the recent election and present titular leader of the Democratic Party? The Governor has now had a good rest, and his immediate jobs are to finish off the remainder of his four-year term as Governor of the State of Illinois. The Republican who won the Illinois' election will take over from him in January.

Stevenson will then finish reading and dealing with the seventy thousand congratulatory letters he received after he had been defeated on November 4. Then, his present plans are to make an extensive world tour likely to last for several months. After that, if he finds himself seeing eye to eye with the leading lieutenants of the party, he will set up as prospective Presidential candidate for the 1956 elections.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHILE GENERAL EISENHOWER and Governor Stevenson stormed up and down the country, each thundering out warnings that if the other were elected President, the American Republic would be in mortal danger, Mr. Junior S. Ryland, an inventor, of Santa Barbara, California, was working quietly away in his workshop with his mind on the things that endure.

Now he has announced the fruit of his labour, a non-partisan project if ever there was one, a self-heated toilet seat, a hollow thin walled frame which fits over the conventional fixture and can be filled with hot water, and, given no more than normal usage, need never wear out in the course of the average lifetime.

DURING THE NEXT few months, as a Republican President and a Republican Secretary of State start formulating new policies for the United States, we shall almost certainly read several newspaper stories about the tremendous changes which may be made in the American foreign policy. There will be the usual crop of crises in the United Nations and the usual flurry of fears about American isolationism, and the newspapers will carry a certain amount—yes, certain; if you read them often enough the amount is so nearly certain that you can almost predict it—of stories about the American people being "outraged", and the American people being "on fire", and the American people being "roused as never before on this issue", and so on.

During such periods, when Asian and European and African readers may be wondering just what awful atomic—sorry, I'm a little passe; I mean hydrogenic—explosion the American people are about to go up in, perhaps they may suddenly conjure up a vision of Junior S. Ryland, working away quietly in his Santa Barbara workshop, determined that whatever the statesmen of his or any other country do in the meantime, he is shortly going to come up with an even better self-heated toilet seat than the one he has already produced.
